Mr. Reid recalls that in the early days, barrels were made for holding potash, salt pork, and fish. Churns with wooden dashers and butter firkins on boxes were also in demand. Later, apple barrels, crates, and fish boxes were manufactured. In 1930, when they bought the Mcllveny and Cole cooperage, 40,000 barrels were manufactured, but such business gradually dropped off. The Reids cut and hauled logs from their own or leased property and as well bought quantities from farmers. Mr. Reid retired a number of years ago.

Mr. Reid recalls the time when it was possible for yawl boats from schooners, as well as other boats, to go up a deep channel, 20 feet wide, into the present marsh where fishing was good. Today, it is mostly taken up by the town dump.

The Reids have long been highly esteemed by their fellow citizens and both today are able to enjoy the twilight of life together.

The members of the Foxboro Women's Institute recently held their annual pot-luck supper for the members and their families.

Following a musical selection by Larry Lattue and Earl Shorey, the president introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Mrs. Hilda Hollingworth, who spoke on the "Moira River Water-shed."

She gave a short history of the "Water-shed" from its inception to the present time, stating the benefits of such an undertaking from the conservation standpoint. The past president thanked Colonel Vanderwater on behalf of the members of the Institute, for his fine address.

Two musical numbers and a presentation to Mrs. B. Hollinger of a china cup and saucer by Mrs. Simmons ended the half of the members in appreciation of her fine leadership during the past two years, completed the program. Mrs. Hollinger though surprised, thanked everyone and spoke of her enjoyment of having been president.

Girl Guides, Brownies Hold Blue and Gold Spring Tea

The Girl Guides and Brownies held a dainty blue and gold spring tea yesterday afternoon in Christ Church parish hall with a fine attendance of friends and patrons.

Receiving at the door were the Division Commissioner, Mrs. Richard Arnott, assisted by Mrs. Jack Rosevear and Mrs. A. Tooth.

Mrs. A. Lewis welcomed the guests to the tea room with its attractive arrangement of little guest tables, each covered with a white cloth, and centred by an alluring plate of tempting sandwiches and little cakes of several varieties. Dividing the sandwiches from the cakes was a tiny spray of blue tinted narcissi and a golden daffodil, placed at each place was a white serviette bearing replicas of the girl guides and brownies, a most pleasing sentiment.

Pretty Tea Table

The tea table with its lace cloth was also centred with a pretty placed arrangement of golden daffodils, blue narcissi, and asparagus fern with tall, long, cream colored candles. Presiding at the silver urns were Mrs. A. Haig and Mrs. J. B. Creeggan, Mrs. Everett Smith and Mrs. W. Fenton, Mrs. H. Amos and Mrs. James Forrester.

Those who served included the Guiders: Winnifred Mound, Mrs. Mulcahy, Mrs. Annand, Mrs. Townsend, Mrs. Whaites, Mrs. Ballenger, Mrs. Stewart, Joan Atkinson, Dorothy Stewart, Senior Guides: Eleanor Clarke, Chiela Shier, Barbara Brown, Lorna Donaldson; Girl Guide Brownies: Mrs. Bowman, Mrs. Purchase, Mrs. Colvin, Mrs. Rawson, Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Baldwin, Mrs. Keller, Mrs. Ashbers, Mrs. Linton, Mrs. Wrenshall and Mrs. Bush.

Delicious Pastries

The homecooking table, convened by Mrs. Shier, Mrs. Durno and Mrs. O'Neil had the usual fine showing of delicious pies, cakes, tarts of various kinds. There were jelly tarts, chocolate cakes with luscious icings, white cakes with deep mounds of boiled icings, a lovely cherry-almond cake quite rich in maraschino cherries-and interspersed with little ornamental crowns and sprinkled over with silver balls, raisin buns, nut-filled hermits, and butter cookies, tiny pink cup cakes, salad dressing, homemade strawberry jam, mustard and plain pickles.

The candy table had an attractive array of candy cups in blue with colored floral petals decorating the rims, in shades of yellow, and pink, made by Guides Carol Fuzzen, Rosalee McDonald, Lynn Fuzzen and Joan Colwill, which were tempting with their contents of marie creams, chocolate fudge and other varieties. Cellophane bags of popcorn and candies were also displayed.

Presiding at this table were Mrs. G. Colwill; Mrs. G. McDonald and Mrs. W. McDonald.

Some interesting exhibits of handwork were shown, and included stocking dolls with matching berets having rosettes in yellow, rose, green and red; two lovely dressed dolls in Brownie uniforms, one with yellow curls, the other a dark-haired beauty. There were samples of knot tying; first and first aid knot; bandages of sorts; first aid kits and books on first aid work; scrapbook of the Coronation and Royal

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She's Married To A Man Who "Just Won't Grow Up"

A young wife of barely a year finds herself in the very unhappy position of being married to a man who, she says, "just won't grow up."

One of the chief ways in which this husband shows his immaturity is that, while they have only a very small income, he spends freely and carelessly, buying whatever takes his fancy, with no thought of how he is going to pay for it.

"If I try to talk to him about saving," his wife says, "he gets mad and goes to his mother's, staying there until he feels ready to come home again."

Another sore point is that, as she puts it, "his ideas are so old-fashioned. For example, he doesn't think I should have anything to say about anything, but simply should do as he says."

She concludes: "All I am in the wrong. I wish you would tell me so that I can correct any mistakes I am making, and tell me how I can help my husband and myself to have a happy marriage."

There seems no doubt that this wife has read the situation correctly when she says her husband has never grown up. Any man or wife, either, of course who runs home to mother when things don't suit him is not ready for home ties of a child, no matter how many years he may have lived.

Over-Indulged

I wonder if there is any possibility that this young man's mother is the kind who spoils him and the wife might talk the problem over? It hardly seems likely, or she would have thought her son up to be self-reliant and stand on his own feet. Yet perhaps, on the other hand, she may be the good-natured, easy-going type of mother who over-indulged her children freely because she didn't realize what it would do to them.

The wife might think this over a little, and if she feels her mother-in-law might be able to her get it across to her husband that, at his age, he should be solving his own problems, she might take the matter up with her some time when they have an hour alone together.

On the other hand, if she feels there is no help to be gained from her husband's mother then she will have to tackle the job alone.

Because she seems so ready to believe that her own attitude might need some adjusting, she sounds to me as though she, at least, has the intelligent open-mindedness that goes with real maturity. So if she faces her problem realistically, accepting the fact that her husband needs wise and understanding guidance as much as a child does, she may be able, little by little, to develop in him a more adult sort of view.

Heart Income

Could she, for instance, draw up a family budget, setting down in actual figures the amount of money now and then for him to have the amount which must go out for each individual item entering into their orbit of living, then show his budget to her husband and ask him if they can't get together on it? She should tell him that she will do her best to save what she can, and that if he will agree to do the same, there should be extra money now and then for him to buy something he wants very much. If she can put it to him in such a way that she can make it seem like an interesting game for two of them are going to play, it may appeal to his immature mind as something it would be fun to try.

The point that she should remember is that, since she has at this time a quite childish point of view with which to deal she will have to figure out the kind of approach to any of her marital problems that would be most likely to connect with her husband's type of mind. For if she puts anything to him on an adult basis, expecting him to react in adult fashion she is inevitably going to be disappointed and frustrated. But if she can, as patiently as she would deal with a child, make what she wants her husband to do seem interesting and appealing, she may find this approach works, and that gradually her husband will fall into the habit of co-operating with her. If she does succeed in bringing such a pleasant result, she will no doubt also find that his whole attitude toward her gradually changes, and instead of expecting her always to conform to his wishes, he may come to consult hers as a matter of course.

None of this, I know is going to be easy for her, but I believe it is her best chance of working out the problem on her own. If such a program fails to achieve its purpose, then she might consult some family advisory service, or some marriage counselor.

Any attempt to get her husband to develop greater maturity is going to require much time, and infinite patience. No decisive improvement will come overnight; it does come, it will come slowly. So she shouldn't expect too much too soon, or give up too quickly.

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

Question:

Have been enjoying your column for some time and have tried many recipes. . . . I wonder if you could send me some I have mislaid. "Zoe is for canned peppers not in vinegar, but in water and salt. Another is for crisp oatmeal cookies. Also do you know a recipe for Lonzia. I think I have spelled it correctly. It's a macaroni dish. The macaroni is about 2 inches long by 1 inch wide. It is done in a casserole in the oven. . . . It has a sauce of tomatoes and cheese in it.—Mrs. J. C. R.

Answer:

I have two methods for canning green sweet peppers but neither calls for the use of salt. I will give you them and you can use your judgment.

Sweet Peppers Canned With Water

This is the common method used for canning vegetables, seeds and stems. Plunge into boiling water, and simmer about 3 or 4 minutes—just long enough to soften the skins. Remove carefully, longer. Immediately pack them into hot sterile, small half-pint jars preferably, quite tightly, pressing down with back of stirrup spoon. Fill with boiling water, add no salt, partially seal jars leaving top 1/8 inch open, tighten to within 1-4 turn of tight. Sterilize in hot water bath 30 minutes. Tighten seal and cool.

Sweet Peppers Canned Without Water

Wash and remove seeds and stems from sweet peppers. Pack very tightly in 1-2 pint canning jars to within 1-8 turn of tight. Sterilize in hot water bath 2 hours. This processing brings out a thick liquor like you see in commercially canned pimentoes. Tighten seal and cool as quickly as practical.

Crisp Oatmeal Cookies

Mix together in a large bowl 2 cups rolled oats, 2 cups sifted flour and 1-2 teaspoon salt, and cut into this 1 cup shortening—if preferably half butter. Cut it in with pastry blender until it is as fine as ground cereal. Dissolve 1 teaspoon baking soda in 1-3 cup sweet or sour milk and add that with 1-2 cup brown sugar. Stir until just mixed. Chill dough thoroughly. Roll out on sparsely floured board to 1-2-inch thickness. Cut out with cookie cutter. Bake on unbuttered cookie sheet at 375 deg. Fahr. for 10 to 12 minutes.

I thinkf the Italian dish you are referring to is the Lasagna because it has all the ingredients you refer to and is baked, and besides it is the only Italian dish I know that has a name similar to the one you give.

Baked Lasagna

One lb. of lasagna macaroni (2 inch-wide 1-inch long macaroni), 3-4 lb. ricotta (this is Italian cream cheese—you could substitute process cheddar cheese), 2 eggs, 4 cups Italian Tom-to Sauce, 1 lb mozzarella cheese (no substitute that I know of), 1-4 cup Parmesan cheese, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 to 1-2 teaspoon pepper. Boil the lasagna 15 minutes in plenty of water and drain well. Mix eggs and ricotta (you might use white cream cheese here I know Scots don't use ricotta.) Season with the salt and pepper. Cover bottom of buttered baking dish with lasagna, add layer of tomato sauce, then ricotta mixture and thin slices of mozzarella cheese. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Repeat with these alternating layers till all are used up. Bake about 30 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr. or until bubbling and golden.

Letter:

. . . am giving dandelion wine recipe. Have made it and found it to be good.

Dandelion Wine

(Contributed by Mrs. K. F.)

Fresh dandelion petals are required for the wine. Pick the petals from the flowers to make a gallon. Place them in a vessel and pour over 3 gallons of boiling water. Cover, let stand 12 days, stirring occasionally. Strain off the liquid, pour it into a preserving kettle, add 3 1-2 lbs. white sugar and the thinly shaved peel of 1 orange and 1 lemon. If desired add a little whole ginger root. Boil gently for 20 minutes. Let stand until lukewarm. Spread 1-4 oz. yeast on a piece of toast and lay this on top of the liquid, cover and let stand for 2 days. Strain and put wine into large crock and leave for 2 months. Then bottle and keep for at least 6 months before using.— Mrs. K. F.

Answer:

I hope the reader who asked for dandelion wine sees this and I want to thank you.

GOOD MANNERS

By CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

It's Spring . . . Put Spring Color In Your Words!

They "come in all colors," the words you use every day. "How do you do."—"Please."—"I beg your pardon."—"Good morning."—"Good-by" (or even "Good-by now!"—"How very kind of you."—"Hello" (and the high-hearted "Hi!").

It's your way of saying them, these everyday words . . . your tone of voice, your smile . . . that can give them the extra, added attraction" of bright color, a shining personality.

"So be it. Why be glum?

Enough, the Spring has come!..

Finger Bowls Placed With Some Foods

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I had always thought that finger bowls were for a party after the meal. But last evening my husband and I went to a small, informal dinner at the house of some new friends of ours. Finger bowls (in the broiler (which was the main course). finger bowls were placed beside the dinner plates. Is this correct?

C.L.

Yes, ma'am. . . . this is perfect service A knowing hostess plans to have finger bowls with fruit (or beside) the plates when such courses are served. Fresh fruit, steamed clams, artichoke, often grapefruit halves, and corn on the cob. Neat service, and a comfort to the guest.

How to Sign Birth-Announcements

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When we send out the birth-announcement cards for our first baby, what name or names should we sign our names to everyone? Should we sign "Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Smith," or "Edith and Alex Smith" or just "Edith and Alex"?

2. Should we send an announcement to the grandparents on both sides? "Lady-in-Waiting"

1. Beware of signing "Mr. and Mrs." to announcement card or any kind that you are sending to anyone; if you know a person well enough to send her or him an announcement of the birth of your baby, it would certainly be inappropriate to sign the formal name "Mr. and Mrs." to the card. The absolutely definite rule is that the name you write at the end of an informal card is your signature . . . and you signature is your formal name. Visit cards you send to relatives and intimate friends should be signed by your first names only. Add the last name when more name-identification is called for.

2. Yes. Of course the grandparents won't see the announcement, at least not to such an extent as the girl with the Union map, who must never choose a shade of lipstick or rouge that starts a color fight.

If her cocks carry an orange or copper tint, she must not use vivid red on lips or cheeks, but must must find those items that incline toward orange-red. The blue reds are definitely wrong.

If she wants to achieve an exquisite effect upon that precious complexion of hers - and of course she does - she should apply a powder slightly darker than the natural tone, preferably a pink rachelle. It will give more body to that delicate translucent skin.

In the matter of dress, she must use descretion, as she has not a model figure. Black, of course is her best bet: it brings out her cameo-like loveliness. And green offers a pleasing contrast. Browns are no help, and grey is an unfortunate selection unless it is a soft dove grey: the deeper shades are cold, will make her skin look pale.

Beauty

Problems of the red-headed girl

Besides its lovely color, red hair has a secondary charm in the fascinating lights and shadows that it carries. If you will take a close look at any flaming thatch you will find that the shades are of varied shades - some gold, some copper, some of darker tints. It is particularly beautiful when the sun is shining on it. The old masters preferred redheads for models, and they had a fine eye for beauty.

Blood tresses usually darken with the years, but red seems to be a fast color in nearly all cases. The virgin hue remains until time frosts the shafts and turns them white. According to surveys, the redheads usually have fairly abundant hair. Why that is cannot be explained, since the pigment of the shafts can't have anything to do with the health or vitality of the scalp.

With red hair, nature produces a delicate, almost transparent skin. That is due to the gold, except that it is more likely to freckle than the heavier skin of dark haired women.

Because of its fine texture, it does not take kindly to make-up, which must be faint and subtle if it is to glamorize.

Blonds and brunettes do not have to consider their hair when selecting foundations for the complexion, at least not to such an extent as the girl with the Union map, who must never choose a shade of lipstick or rouge that starts a col-

Mr. E. Jones and Mr. L. Carleton were appointed auditors. Several other items of business were transacted.

It was decided to fence the side of the cemetery where the church shed had previously stood. A lengthy discussion was held on ways of raising the cemetery rates and funds to meet increasing expenses.

Mr. T. Ball was commended on the neat appearance of the cemetery and appointed to be caretaker for another year.

ST. LAURENT

"That is why we in Canada, like the other free countries, so greatly hope that over the next few months your country will avoid taking any backward steps and will move rapidly as possible towards the kind of commercial policy which is required in your own interest and in that of the whole free world.

"Both the U.S. and Canada badly need strong friends and allies. To have them and to hold them requires trade policies that are those of good neighbors."

The free countries had been made militarily strong, but military strength alone could not deter aggression.

". . . We must also find the means to maintain and develop the measure of social justice and economic opportunity we have achieved in our own countries, and we must work for the extension beyond our countries of human well-being and of that basic human equality which is the hallmark a genuinely free society.

"If we are not willing to do that, how can we expect to convince others that our way of life has more to offer than communism?

"While we are strengthening the free nations of Western Europe and halting aggression in Korea, we cannot afford to overlook those vast areas and populations in Asia and Africa and even in this hemisphere where mass poverty prevails. It is not very helpful to preach the abstract advantages of freedom to men and women who are suffering from misery and starvation."

ELECTION BATTLE

Mr. Howe, an old hand at the game, seemed to enjoy the odd whiff of political winds, but frequently expressed annoyance at the lack of progress with his estimates. At another point Works Minister Fournier, government House leader, appealed to members to curtail their remarks and urged the chair to enforce the rules of debate.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, accused the Liberal majority on the defence committee of whitewashing what he called "sordid details" of defence construction. He suggested preferred treatment on defence contracts had been given the Alexander construction firm, formerly owned by Mines Minister Prudham.

Mr. Low suggested the firm had "friends at court" when it failed to complete a contract for an RCAF base at Penhold, Alta., on time, yet got another big contract elsewhere while still "stumbling around" at Penhold.

Denies Allegation

Mr. Prudham denied that the Alexander firm had ever received preferred treatment through him or anyone else. He said he had no connection with the firm since he sold it before the Korean fighting began.

Howard Green (PC—Vancouver-Quadra) questioned Mr. Howe's suggestion that the government might help keep key defence production facilities at the ready by giving their products to European allies. He suggested Canadians should not have to keep on paying for gifts indefinitely.

The minister said experience showed that plants, such as explosives factories, should be kept going at a minimum even if the products had to be given away. There were limitations on stockpiling because some items didn't stockpile well.

H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) said there had been waste and inefficiency in defence construction, but they were largely beyond official control. He suggested Watson Sellar, the auditor general, should be recruited to keep an eyeon armed forces stockpiling, records and condition of stores.

Mr. Howe said he'd like to see Mr. Sellar make the best possible check. If the CCF way was the best way he was for it.

Much of the debate turned on the report of the Liberal majority of the defence committee which found that defence construction money had been well spent and that weaknesses pointed out in the Currie report are being attended to.

The Progressive Conservatives argued that there had been gross waste and carelessness and that the Liberals had used their majority to cover it up. The Liberals accused the opposition of making the defence department a political football and quoted chapter and verse of the Currie report intended to show there was nothing wrong with the construction program.

Mr. Fleming initiated an outburst of protests when he began to read into the record the dissenting report of his party's members on the defence expenditure committee. It charged waste, inefficiency and extravagance and urged a full inquiry all around.

Mr. Fleming finally got it all into the record, but only over repeated interruptions by the Liberals, including Mr. Howe and Mr. Fournier, and numerous appeals to the chair.

Ride Guides

It took months of tough training to prepare the Mounties for the intricate movements of the RCMP Musical Ride, to be performed at the Royal Tournament in London after the Coronation June 2. The training took place under the watchful eye of Staff Sgt. C. W. (Andy) Anderson (right) of Winnipeg who has moulded numerous other Musical Rides into perfection. Heading the RCMP contingent to London is Assistant Commissioner D. L. McGibbon of Regina.—(CP Photo.)

Training Horses and Riders For 'Ride No Easy Task'

Training horses and riders for the RCMP's musical ride is no easy task. It's necessary to find the right men and horses. In this story Harold Morrison, Canadian Press staff writer, describes some of the problems in organizing the troops to perform in London after the Coronation.

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—"In a lot of ways, a horse is like a woman. It must be petted and treated with kindness before it will respond."

So believes Staff Sergeant C. W. (Andy) Anderson of Winnipeg, six-foot RCMP trainer of the musical ride to be presented before the Queen after the Coronation in June.

The 47-year-old veteran horseman instructor—a rare specimen in this age of machines—faced a tough task. All the mounties chosen had been on horses at one time or another, but a lot of them had been away from horses for some years.

All were chosen for good conduct and good service and represent all parts of Canada. All had at least five years of service.

Veteran Mountie

Andy knows a lot about horses—and men, too. He has served 24 years with the RCMP and before that was a member of the Strathcona Horse Dragoons.

The ride was trained at RCMP barracks at Rockcliffe, on the outskirts of the capital. Andy knows all the Coronation-ride horses by name. He can pick them out as they trot by on limbering-up exercises. And he knows the men—and their capabilities.

Andy has trained scores of musical rides in his time. Other countries seek his services and demands for the ride are terrific.

To meet requests he took musical rides across Canada and the United States. Last year the troop rode in 83 Canadian and American shows, including Hollywood. Still the demand grows.

In London the RCMP will perform before the Queen at the Royal Tournament June 10-19, inclusive. Then they will go to Scotland before returning to Canada July 7.

Colorful Troop

The horses will be attired in shiny leather, blue shadracks under saddles, with white headropes and maple leaves stencilled on both sides of the hind quarters.

The men will dress in full review order—red serge coats, stetson hats, Sam Browne belts, gauntlets. They will carry rifles during the Coronation procession and lances with blue-and-gold pennants during the musical rides.

Tartar is king of all the musical ride horses and he's got a DFC winner as master. The black gelding is the lead horse in the famed equestrian show, setting the pace for the 31 other animals as they go through the dome, bridal arch, Shanghai cross and other intricate manoeuvres.

Tartar is too good a soldier to stumble. He's drilled to precision. His rider is the same, a lean, hard man who chose the RCMP after world experience as a merchant seaman and wartime air-gunner in the RCAF.

Native of Glasgow

Cpl. Eddie Hill is a relative newcomer to the RCMP. The 28-year-old Glasgow-born mountie with a Scottish burr still on his tongue won the DFC in two tours of duty over Germany.

The corporal, a bachelor, was attached to the RCMP riding school in suburban Rockcliffe four years ago. He showed such riding talent that he was kept there. Now he will ride the lead horse in the 32-member RCMP contingent in London on Coronation Day.

The RCMP decided to pick only those who truly deserved the trip. There are veterans with years of rugged Arctic service. There are some such as Cpl. E. V. Carter of Vancouver and Cpl. R. W. Paige of Big River, Sask., who served with the army and RCMP provost corps in Italy and Germany.

Another is Cpl. L. F. M. Strong of Saskatoon and Souris, P.E.I., who dived into icy waters at Charlottetown in 1942 to save a seven-year-old boy from drowning. He won the King's police and fire service medal.

Heroes in Mounties' Ride

The RCMP Musical Ride —to be performed at the Royal Tournament in London after the Coronation June 2 — includes some of the best men in the force, men who have won awards for heroism and devotion to duty. On the left wearing the DFC is Cpl. Ernie Hill, Glasgow-born wartime flying officer with the RCAF who now prefers a horse to a plane. Cpl. L. F. M. Strong (right) of Souris, P.E.I., won the King's Police Medal for saving a drowning boy. Riding Master C. W. (Andy) Anderson stands in front.—(CP Photo.)

Mrs. R. G. Purcell, Fort William, president, paid tribute to his loyal service as minister. He and his wife were presented with a rug and carving set.

Awards won in the Tweedsmuir competition conducted by the institute were presented by Mrs. Purcell at the officers' conference.

Quilt awards were presented to Villa Nova branch, North Norfolk; South Tarentorus branch, Algoma Centre; Agincourt branch, York East.

Arnprior Ace Will Lead Flight Over Palace

LONDON (CP) — Wing Cmdr. James D. Lindsay of Arnprior, Ont., will lead 24 RCAF Sabres as part of a screaming jet salute over Buckingham Palace on Coronation Day, June 2.

The Canadian contingent will be part of a massed formation of 168 jets taking part in the salute, air ministry announced Thursday.

Flying at between 1,100 and 1,500 feet, the jets will form two broad Vs linked by a central flight.

May Tax Motors

TORONTO (CP)—A proposal to tax the estimated 200,000 motorists in the Toronto area to help pay for at least four express highways may be placed before the metropolitan road committee.

The tax on automobiles would be $5 to $10. A levy on trucks, transports and other vehicles would depend on their carrying capacity.

It is believed the tax, combined with federal grants, would provide a quick means of financing an estimated $30,000,000 in road construction.

BEAUTY HINT

REGINA (CP)—Women who talk to themselves while applying lipstick get a more beautiful finish, says Ardelle Saunders, travelling expert for a cosmetic firm. "Too often, women forget they are applying lipstick to a living pair of lips," she says.

Children in Act

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles and his kid sister, Princess Anne, got into the act from a Buckingham Palace balcony on Thursday when their mother, the Queen, presented new colors to two battalions of her Grenadier Guards.

As the guards marched past, the Queen and her children raised their right hands in military salute.

SPORTING INTERLUDE

Explosion Rocks Windsor as Fire Sweeps Through Paint Plant

Fed by inflammable material, flames shoot skyward as fire raced through a paint and varnish plant in Windsor, Ont., after a violent explosion rocked the city as it preceded the fire which gutted the building despite the attempts of every available fireman on hand to fight the flames. The men were successful, however, in stopping it from reaching tanks of inflammable paint solvents and varnish. There were no fatalities, but two watchmen caught by the blast, suffered undetermined injuries.—Central Press Canadian.

U.N. Command for Korea Will Likely Submit Counter Proposals to Latest Red Plan

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United Nations command for Korea will probably submit shortly counter proposals to the latest Communist plan for handling war prisoners unwilling to go home.

Gen. Mark Clark, its chief at Tokyo, is reported to have been asked for his reaction and advice to the eight-point plan—some provisions of which are regarded by Washington as unacceptable.

Firm decisions on the instructions to be given Clark will not be made until his opinions have been received and the Communist proposals have undergone further study.

President Eisenhower discussed the proposals at the White House for 30 minutes late Thursday with top officials, including State Secretary John Foster Dulles and Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

No Announcement Made

No announcement was made. However, it was understood the consensus was that some provisions in the Red plan were unacceptable, but that further negotiations could be carried on with counter proposals.

Strong objection was apparent to a provision under which two European Communist countries, Czechoslovakia and Poland, would introduce troops into South Korea.

Those two, along with Switzerland, Sweden and India, would be members of a "neutral nations repatriation commission," each of which would provide armed forces to insure "effective execution" of the duties of the commission.

Not Desirable

Also considered undesirable is a provision to submit to a political conference on a permanent Korean settlement the fate of prisoners of war who remained determined not to return to their homelands.

The U.S. has been seeking an arrangement to assure such prisoners of release from any detention in a reasonable time. If their futures had to be decided by political conference, they might conceivably be held for a long period.

The United Nations holds about 48,500 North Koreans and Red Chinese POWs who have been reported unwilling to return home. The Communists have about 13,000 Allies captive, but there has been no claim that any of the 13,000 are unwilling to go home.

Under the Communist plan put forward at Panmunjom Thursday, all prisoners refusing repatriation would be exchanged within two months after an armistice became effective, and the five-country repatriation body would be set up to take charge of those not desiring repatriation.

PREMIER ON CBC TONIGHT

TORONTO (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent's address to the National Press Club in Washington today will be carried by the CBC's Trans-Canada network at 9 p.m. EDT. Mr. St. Laurent will discuss Canadian-United States relations.

Chef Building 850-Room Hotel In Icing Sugar

TORONTO (CP)—Claude Chanonat is building an 850-room hotel in a month—in sugar.

He's using 200 pounds of sugar. When he's finished the pastry chef will have a replica of Toronto's King Edward Hotel in celebration of its 50th anniversary May 11.

Working from photographs, Claude made a paper plan of the hotel. Then he cut the whole thing out in cardboard.

The building mixture is much like ordinary icing sugar, but it has a gum in it for pliability.

The sugar structure is 64 inches high, 58 inches long and 47 inches wide. The height was determined by that of the elevator in which it will be taken to the hotel ballroom.

Claude Chanonat was born in Burgundy, France, and has worked in pastry kitchens since he was 12 years old. He learned to do fancy work in spun sugar at the Winter Palace, a posh hotel near Monte Carlo.

Fire Situation In Manitoba Growing Worse

Winnipeg (CP) — The forest fire situation in Manitoba is growing steadily worse as a sizzling prairie sun turns forest areas into tinder boxes.

Of two fires reported in southwestern Manitoba Thursday, only one remained under control—in the Whitemouth-Bonnie area. It destroyed 3,000 acres of timber, mostly jackpine and spruce.

The second fire, which forced the evacuation of the village of Badger 75 miles southeast of Winnipeg, jumped a full quarter of a mile over the fire lines during the afternoon and raged out of control in the evening.

A. W. Braine, chief of forest protection, reported several new fires. The worst are at Point du Bois, in the Great Falls area, and at Sio Genevieve between 40 and 50 miles southeast of Winnipeg.

RAF PLANE LOST

LONDON (Reuters)—The air ministry Thursday night abandoned hope for 10 men who disappeared aboard a "flying schoolroom" earlier in the day over the English Channel. It said they were "missing presumed killed" after wreckage was sighted near the Scilly Isles, off Britain's southwest coast. The plane was carrying a crew of four and six young officers being taught navigation.

Suggestion Made By Congress Said To be Unworkable

OTTAWA (CP)—A suggestion by the Canadian Congress of Labor that Canada accept sterling as payment for part of her exports to the United Kingdom was criticized as unworkable by members of the Senate trade relations committee Thursday.

The Congress suggested in a brief to the committee, studying economic co-operation among North Atlantic Treaty countries, that the government establish a "counterpart" fund with sterling exchanged for Canadian exports.

The Canadian exporter would be paid in dollars by the government which would use the sterling in the counterpart fund to pay for its purchases from Britain or for materials purchased under the Colombo Plan for economic development of southeast Asia.

Senators Peter Campbell (L—Ontario), J. J. Kinley (L—Nova Scotia) and C. P. Burchill (L—New Brunswick) expressed doubt that the fund would serve any useful purpose.

Senator Burchill said the weakness of the suggestion is that it would decrease dollar purchases in the United Kingdom which badly needed dollars.

Heavy Damage

MONTREAL (CP) — Fire destroyed 13 flats in a tenement in central Montreal Thursday night, causing heavy damage. No one was seriously injured, although several firemen suffered minor cuts and bruises.

Firemen were hampered by a shortage of 10,000 pressure. Several times small hoses were turned on the crowd to keep people away from firefighting equipment.

71 Casualties Reported So Far In Recent Action

OTTAWA (CP)—A Korean casualty list Thursday included one man killed, one missing, three wounded, one missing, believed killed and three missing, believed captured.

All were casualties in the May 3 battle in which a heavy force of Chinese stormed Canadian positions. Together with three previous lists, this brought to 71 total casualties so far reported from that battle, one of the heaviest Canadian troops have faced in Korea.

The latest list brought to 1,393 total casualties so far suffered by Canadian troops in Korea, including 271 dead, 996 wounded, 24 missing, 87 injured and 17 captured.

In addition, the navy has reported three dead and three injured in action and the air force has reported one missing.

Husband Held When Wife Beaten Up After Party

ARNPRIOR (CP)—Mrs. 'Lois Adella Wilson, beaten and kicked in the aftermath to a party last Saturday night, died in hospital here Thursday.

Her husband, Kenneth Wilson, 31-year-old steamshovel operator, was arrested Wednesday and charged with assault and causing grievous bodily harm.

Police said an autopsy will be performed on the 29-year-old mother of five children, and its findings will determine whether a further charge will be laid against her husband.

The party was held in the Wilson home at Sandy Pond, four miles north of this town 35 miles west of Ottawa.

Over-Emphasis On Sex in Movies Says Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Health Minister Phillips of Ontario urged Thursday that individuals and organizations "do something" about what he described as over-emphasis on sex in movies, books, magazines and newspapers.

"I'm in favor of frankness and fearlessness,-but I'm not in favor of over-emphasis of sex until coerced," he said. Due to the emphasis that placed on the sex it was impossible not to be influenced. He did not elaborate.

Mr. Phillips was addressing the 55th annual meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses for Canada.

Officers Plant Trout, Pickerel

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Continuing a restocking program which has been in progress for the last four years, conservation officer Roy Muma today planted 1,250,000 yellow pickerel in the Welland river. He also planted 8,000 yearling brown trout in the Effingham and St. John's trout streams.

General Nam Il, chief Communist delegate to the Korean truce conference now under way at Panmunjom, Korea, is shown, at left, leaving conference buildings after agreeing to leave in Korea those prisoners of war who do not want to go home after an armistice is signed. This was an unshakable Allied demand which has tied up the revived truce talks for days. The Reds in turn submitted an eight-point proposal that called for a five-nation neutral commission to supervise prisoners refusing repatriation. All those prisoners wanting to go would be returned to their homelands within two months after an armistice is signed. The others would be placed in custody of the neutral commission in Korea. — Central Press Canadian.

Ford's New Plant at Oakville Could House Three-Quarter Mile Track

By FORREST RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Ford Motor Company of Canada supplies some striking figures to illustrate the size of its new plant at Oakville which will start turning out cars on Monday.

Says Ford:

"You could lay out a three-quarter-mile race track inside this building, and still have plenty of room for thousands of spectators."

"It is the largest building in Canada under one roof—32½ acres. Eight thousand tons of steel went into it. Above the trusses alone is enough steel of varying widths to stretch from Oakville (near Toronto) to Montreal, and most of the way back.

"The building is one-third of a mile long, 800 feet wide and has 1,220,000 square feet of floor space in full production it will employ 4,000 people."

It is part of a $65,000,000 expansion program under which, ultimately, Ford of Canada will assemble all its passenger cars and trucks in Oakville, starting with cars.

Half the sum, or $32,500,000, will be spent on modernization of manufacturing facilities at Windsor, which will feed the Oakville assembly.

Monday's first car will roll off the line with relatively little ceremony—but a number of civic officials, and members of the Ontario legislature and federal Parliament will be there.

The Dominion Bank, announcing today the opening of two new branches, one in Toronto and one in Montreal, says that this brings its total number of branches to 180.

Monsanto Chemical Company of St. Louis, Mo., recently came up with a novel advertising gimmick. It sent to a list of customers and prospects a recording of two specially-composed pieces of music.

At first glance one had the horrid thought that one was being handed a singing commercial "on a platter." But the music is instrumental, without a word or suggestion of advertising, except on the record's jacket and in the titles of the pieces—Monsanto March and ONB (for ortho nitro biphenyl) Samba. Good, too.

Three Brothers Thought to Be In Ottawa Area

OTTAWA (CP)—Three young brothers missing from their Toronto home for a week are thought to be in the Ottawa district.

The brothers are Henry Quigley, 18, Howard, 7, and Paul, 5.

Allan Burton of Manotick, some 15 miles southwest of Ottawa, told provincial police late Thursday night that he gave three boys a ride in his car last Monday. He said he recognized them from news stories he read later.

OFFF FOR CORONATION

QUEBEC (CP)—The last draft of Canadian armed forces personnel taking part in the June 2 Coronation sailed Thursday aboard the 21,000-ton liner Atlantic. The draft included 25 RCAF auxiliary personnel, and 90 army officers and men.

Extreme Fire Hazard Exists In Northern Ont.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An extreme fire hazard exists throughout most of northern Ontario, says the lands and forests department.

High temperatures and low humidity have produced from the Pembroke district in the east, through North Bay, Sudbury and Geraldton to the Fort Frances region near the Manitoba border what veteran lumbermen describe as an explosive situation. No fewer than 19 fires are burning in the north, but all are said to be under control.

Thermometers have hovered in the mid-70s most of the week while the humidity dropped to the low 20s. A humidity reading below 30 is rated as dangerous.

The hot, dry weather retarded spring green growth throughout the north and increased the fire hazard. Only the absence of high winds has prevented fires from spreading.

In the area south of Parry Sound where two fires are burning, spring green growth has had a chance to get started. The fire hazard is considerably less dangerous in these southern Ontario districts.

The biggest fire has levelled more than 100 acres of young pine and slash in the Marten river district, 38 miles north of North Bay. However, lands department firefighters checked the blaze Wednesday night by dropping water bombs.

All bush-burning permits were cancelled Thursday in the Sudbury district where eight fires are reported burning. Forestry officials blamed all eight on carelessness of lumbermen and fishermen in the tinder-dry bush.

Some 190 acres of jackpine seedlings and second growth trees in Merritt and Balsam Township near Espanola were burned by a fire which crews from Sudburn extinguished Thursday.

Work Resumed

OTTAWA (CP)—E. P. Murphy, deputy minister of public works, said work on the $166,000 post office at Southampton, Ont., was resumed Thursday after an interruption since May 1.

He said in an interview operations had been discontinued previously because of illness of contractor D. Trumbler of Hanover. Mr. Murphy said Mr. Trumbler's contract never had been cancelled.

Flow of U.S. Guns, Tanks, Planes To Be Stepped Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—The flow of U.S. guns, tanks, planes and other military equipment to Allied countries around the world will be stepped up sharply during the coming months, Defence Secretary Charles Wilson said Thursday.

Wilson gave this report to a closed-door meeting of Senators as Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, told a group of members of the House, also in closed session, that Russia's "atomic capability is rapidly improving."

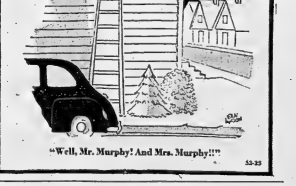
"I know of no intelligence," Bradley said, "which reveals any change of attitude on the part of the Soviet Union or which would give us any reason to slackish, or slow down, or stretch out our preparedness effort."

Wilson told the Senate foreign relations committee that the Eisenhower administration hopes to deliver $5,000,000,000 worth of military supplies to Allied countries during the year starting July 1.

Will Tighten Restrictions

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Deaths of eight children in a disastrous fire here April 26 has led two neighboring townships to tighten building restrictions to eliminate fire hazards.

Following an investigation of the fire that took the lives of the five children of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Derry and three of their cousins, Tarentorus township ordered a tightening of building by-laws to ensure dual entrances to all homes. A planning board body made of further safeguards. Where homeowners can't pay to have the work done, the township plans to do it for them, and add the cost to taxes.



Korah Township Thursday night took similar action to eliminate hazards in areas without hydrants and where other fire-fighting facilities are poor.

FISHING NATIONALIZED

LONDON (Reuters) — Premier Mohammed Mossadegh of Iran Thursday signed a law nationalizing the fishing industry and granting to the Iranian National Fishing Company monopoly rights in the Caspian sea, Tehran Radio announced. All fish caught by individuals must be handed over to the company.

1st Regt. RCHA Homeward Bound After Notable Effort In Support of Korean Units

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—After a year of good shooting in Korea, the 1st Regiment, the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, is home or nearly homeward bound.

The 500-odd returning officers and other ranks reach Shilo, Man., in mid-May. They have been told they will train at Shilo until Oct. 15, then move to Fort Osborne barracks, Winnipeg.

During their year here they have supported Canadian, United States, Korean, French, Netherlands, Thai and Puerto Rican troops. The DSO worn by their 34-year-old commanding officer, Lt.-Col. E. M. D. McNaughton of Ottawa, is symbolic of the RCHA's work.

(Col. McNaughton recently exchanged his name to Leslie to conform to the will of an aunt.)

The unit fired a one-year Korea record of 308,336 rounds. The last one was taken hot out of the breach April 22 and presented to Brig. M. P. Bogert, retiring brigade commander. The 2nd Regiment, RCHA, fired 299,076 rounds while here.

Four Big Engagements

Most rounds were bunker busters, but much shooting supported patrols or discouraged enemy activity close to Canadian lines.

RCHA shooting, however, is known here mostly for four major engagements. The most notable was the battle of Little Gibraltar spur last Oct. 23. Others were in support of United States and RoK troops earlier in October, with the Black Watch in November, and the Dutch in March.

The Little Gibraltar battle occurred when the 1st battalion, the Royal Canadian Regiment, briefly lost and then recaptured a company position.

RCHA fire boxed off the battle, prevented the Chinese from reinforcing their troops and then supported the Canadians' counter-attack. The regiment fired 4,000 of the 17,000 rounds fired that night by the division's artillery.

Its support of the U.S. and RoK troops was during the luckless October battles for Hill Kelly. The unit recorded: "The 1st RoK division appears to be getting as much, if not more, support from our artillery than their own supporting United States artillery."

Its entry for the night of Oct. 28 read: "The RoKs tonight had attacked on "the Hook." Nov. 18.

Eighty Chinese bodies were in the positions after the battle, killed by the gunners and the Highlanders. The RCHA fired 2,000 rounds that night.

Besides supporting British and Australian troops in the 1st Commonwealth division whenever the Canadian brigade was in reserve, the RCHA during February and March, when the whole division "rested," supported the 2nd U.S. infantry division.

Besides Americans, the division embraced Netherlands and French battalions, and the regiment had a battery supporting each of the European units.

The night of March 28 the Chinese counter-attacked after ambushing a Dutch patrol.

Notable Feats

Highlights during the last two months before withdrawn were a patrol by Lieut. Tony Somkowski of Argentenil, Que., and a cool rescue from a minefield by 40-year-old Sgt. A. E. Thompson of Toronto.

Somkowski "laid up" with 12 U.S. infantrymen behind Chinese positions for 24 hours and from his hide-away directed fire onto enemy soldiers wherever he saw them.

A British signaller laying a telephone line to RCHA headquarters March 25 walked in the dark through a minefield, tripped over a detonator wire and was severely wounded.

Thompson, taking a bayonet and some wire, prodded a path through to the man, marking it with the wire, and neutralizing mines on the way. Discipline enabled him to ignore the man's agony and to concentrate on reaching him properly —otherwise both might have been killed.

Then Thompson returned to the barbed wire barricade and led a medical officer to the man, and helped to carry him out.

The unit has received many tributes from commanders whose troops it has supported. Its record for concentrating all its guns on one target is 10 seconds.

Maj.-Gen. J. G. Fry, commander of the 2nd U.S. division, wrote: "Every Canadian soldier not only looks like a soldier, but he behaves like one. Cool is fortunate indeed in having soldiers of this type."

The RCHA is the first regiment to leave Korea without having had a single casualtrial while here.

Soldier Returns With Odd Story Of Part in War

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Winnipeg man, who spent 27 months with the United States army in Korea has returned with an odd story of his part in the war.

Technical Sergeant Rodolphe Prefontaine, 26, spent his time turning out colored comics designed to undermine the morale of Communist soldiers.

Prefontaine became a practical student of Oriental psychology, social habits, living conditions, geography, history and religion effectively to carry out his duties as an amateur cartoonist.

The four-color comics are a recent development, he said. A more generally used technique is that of the silent cartoon, designed to make its point in pantomime for the 80 per cent of the Chinese Communist army that can't read.

He told of one cartoon that went astray. It showed two cold, shivering soldiers on one side of the paper and on the other side, two more warm and comfortable in front of a fire. The caption, in Korean, indicated that the Communists should come over to the Allied side and warm up.

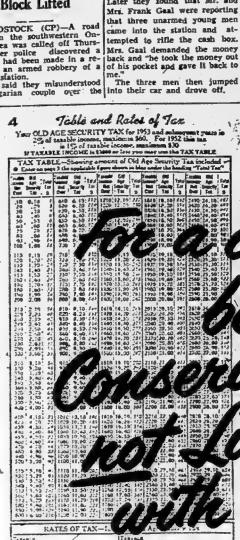
When the leaflet was dropped, one fluttered out of the target area and into the hands of a Chinese soldier who couldn't read Korean. He thought the warm soldiers were Chinese officers and since this didn't seem right in a people's republic, he surrendered.

Road Block Lifted

WOODSTOCK (CP)—A road block in the southwestern Ontario area was called off Thursday after police discovered a mistake had been made in a report of an armed robbery of a service station.

They said they misunderstood a Hungarian couple over the phone and set up the road block. Later they found that Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gaal were reporting that three unarmed young men came into the station and attempted to stifle the cash box. Mrs. Gaal demanded the money back and "he took the money out of his pocket and gave it back to me."

The three men then jumped into their car and drove off.



Appeal Dismissed

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario court of appeal dismissed Thursday an appeal by National News Co. Ltd. of Ottawa against a conviction of "having in possession for distribution obscene written and picture matter." It upheld the ruling of Judge A. C. McDougall of Ottawa who fined the company a total of $1,100 on 11 charges.

AGREE ON AIR CORRIDOR

BONN, Germany (Reuters)—The Western powers have accepted a Russian proposal for a single wide air corridor in place of the existing three between West Germany and West Berlin, western sources said here Thursday night. The Western powers stipulated that this single corridor be wide enough to permit direct Berlin-Hamburg and Berlin-Frankfurt flights.

Because F-T-E is slowly-soluble, the mineral elements it provides — iron, manganese, copper, zinc, boron and molybdenum — stay in the root area of plants for a full growing season or longer. F-T-E provides a steady source of the elements necessary for full plant growth in a form that keeps them ready for assimilation as the plants require them.

F-T-E IS BENEFICIAL TO ALL CROPS

- Fruit
- Vegetables
- Field Crops
- Forage Crops
- Flowers.

F-T-E has produced beneficial effects on vegetables, field crops, fruit, shrubbery and flowers. Used with standard fertilizers, F-T-E has helped to prevent crop abnormalities that are due to certain soil deficiencies.

Easy Application

F-T-E can be broadcast over area to be treated or it may be mixed with standard fertilizers, then worked into the soil. Apply 1 lb. F-T-E per 400 sq. ft. of surface area or 50 lbs. to 100 lbs. per acre.

For complete information on F-T-E ask your fertilizer supplier for description booklet or write nearest C-I-L Agricultural Chemicals Department District Office.

Veteran's Leap is Foiled by Police

In full view of several hundred horrified spectators on the street below, this young navy veteran, identified as James D. Witschek, 23, of Riverside, California, is shown poised on a ledge of the Flood building in San Francisco, eleven stories up, as he threatened to leap if anyone came near him. Someone did, however, manage to sneak up on him — a police sergeant, seen right, crawled on to the ledge and with the aid of two other officers pulled him to safety. He was later taken to San Francisco hospital for psychiatric examination after he refused to explain his actions. — Central Press Canadian.

Sunday School Lesson:

You Cannot Jail an Idea

By ROY L. SMITH

Let there be no confusion in the matter. The threat of communism is very real, for if the communist philosophy is accepted by the world the end of all liberty, personal freedom, and individual progress is in sight.

But it is quite possible however that we may make a fatal mistake in warring on communism by adopting the communist techniques. We are also in danger of adopting the tactics of the enemy we fight. It is one of the accepted methods of communism, this jailing of dissenters. Note: If you please, the imprisonment of prominent and respected churchmen in the world today, jailed for no better reason than that they have run afoul of communist designs. But in spite of their imprisonment, they continue to wield an influence greater than they exercised in the day of their freedom. The reason is simple; you cannot jail an idea.

Rome's Most Famous Prisoner

The most famous prisoner ever to arrive in the ancient city of Rome was a little Jew (some say he was Jewish-backed) almost penniless, who arrived chained to a Roman soldier like a common felon. Even the government who sent him in for trial charged him with no crime.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 10: "Paul Under Guard in Rome", Acts 25—28: Philippians 1: 12-14.

He was a member of a minority group, and the leader of an infinitesimal sect even among the members of this minority. One of the reasons for his long imprisonment was the fact that neither he nor his followers were able to gather any war-chest for his defense, they were all too poor. Yet out from his prison house there went a stream of letters which have had the effect, along with some other pamphlets, of setting an entire new stream flowing through the life of all the world. In every continent, among the people of every race on earth, there will be those—tens of thousands of them—who will stand before great congregations next Sunday morning to quote lines, sentences, whole paragraphs from the little Jew's letters, for the purpose of inspiring their hearers and promoting righteousness throughout the earth.

Audience Could Not Get Away

It was a custom of the Romans to chain a prisoner to a soldier, to make sure the prisoner could not escape. But this also insured that the soldier could not get away, and in the case of the little Jew this was a very important matter. Day by day as the soldiers were changed—his guards were related—he took advantage of the fact that they could not get away to tell them the story of the Nazarene who was crucified for the sin of the world, of his own conversion on the Damascus way, and of the new life that had come upon him. It was not long until all the barracks were talking about the little Jew, and his strange story.

No one knows how many converts he may have made, but in writing to some friends he said he had been able to preach to all the praetorian guard. The infection began to spread.

Leaky Jails

The prison which contains the body of Cardinal Mindszenty today cannot contain his spirit, for the soul of the great priest goes marching across the earth with banners and trumpets, winning victories that are the despair of Soviet arms.

The brave priest Stepanac languishing behind prison walls, after all, had his pride at all. He is abroad in the world, challenging the souls of free men everywhere to come to the defense of the righteousness against unrighteousness, and literally millions are more devoted to the cause of Christ than they would have been except for his incarceration. Even in liberty he could not have worked the miracle he has worked in the hearts of men from behind prison walls.

And from scores of jails, prisons, labor camps, slave concentrations, there comes the news of Christian testimonies—Protestant, Orthodox, Catholic—which would never have been heard except for the stupidity of the jailers.

Communists Once Had Specialist Lined Up for Job

NEW YORK (AP)—Congressional investigators have turned up testimony that the Communist party once had a military specialist lined up for the job of defence secretary in event of Red revolution in the United States.

Robert Gladnick, an ex-Communist and party organizer, said Wednesday he was part of a pre-war Red campaign to build up the party's military resources.

He told the House of Representatives committee on un-American activities that Irving Charles Velson, a New York iron worker, headed the party's military program, and "was to become secretary of defence, come the revolution."

Velson took the stand later and called Gladnick's story "kind of fantastic." Velson wouldn't answer questions about any Communist connections past or present.

Asked to Enter Forces

Gladnick, organizer for the International Ladies Garment Workers Union (AFL), said Communists in the 1930s were encouraged to enter the U. S. armed forces to learn to handle weapons in anticipation of revolt.

His own job, Gladnick said, was to distribute Communist literature among men and officers of U. S. Navy. He said pretty girls were used on both coasts for hand out material when the fleet was in.

Members of the Young Communist League, he said, infiltrated the pre-war citizens military training corps to prepare for eventual entry into the National Guard or the U. S. armed forces.

The House committee came out of its third day of New York hearings with a armload of names given by co-operative ex-Communists as people they had known in the party.

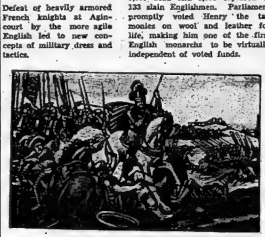
Henry as a youth. His signature is reproduced beside the portrait. Right: His personal standard.



Born: 1387, son of Henry IV by his first wife, Mary Bohun. The wild character he is given in Shakespeare's plays appears unjustified. Henry applied himself diligently to acquiring proficiency in the military art, and before he was 17, he commanded armies in the field. During the last years of Henry IV's reign, Henry was allowed by his father to take active part in state councils. Consequently, when he became Henry V in 1413, it was with training and a sense of responsibility unusual in a newcomer to the throne. Henry's conciliatory measures healed the breach with political opponents. With a united England behind him, Henry reasserted an old claim of English kings to the French crown and invaded France in 1415. He won a celebrated victory at Agincourt. Though outnumbered 5 to 1, Henry's bowmen and infantry annihilated the flower of the French knighthood. French casualties were 5,000 dead and 1,100 captured to 133 slain Englishmen. Parliament promptly voted Henry the tax monies on wool and leather for life, making him one of the first English monarchs to be virtually independent of voted funds.

Defeat of heavily armored French knights at Agincourt by the more agile English led to new concepts of military dress and tactics.

Paint and Varnish Company Will Re-Build Plant

"WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Officials of Standard Paint and Varnish Company have announced immediate plans to re-build their plant destroyed early Thursday by an explosion and fire which caused loss estimated at $1,000,000.

Two men, alone in the plant at the time of the initial explosion which rocked the city and shattered wigdows for a distance of four blocks, are recovering in hospital.

Engineer William Buchan, 55, and watchman Edward Welch, 60, said the explosion occurred when a pipeline, containing lacquer under pressure, broke and sprayed the paint grinder room with its explosive fumes.

Firemen found flames gushing from all windows of the two-storey, brick building. Every piece of fire equipment in the city was dispatched to the scene as successful attempts were made to keep the blaze from spreading to several nearby storage tanks containing varnish and explosive oils and paint thinners.

Cause of the fire was not known.

Frederick C. Weed, president of Rinshed-Mason Company of Detroit, which purchased Standard Paint last August, said plans are under way for erection of a "new and modern plant with the most modern production and laboratory equipment obtainable."

Winter 'Ruckus' Threatens To Blow Sky-High At CAHA Annual Meeting

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

THE ROCKET!

Maurice "The Rocket" Richard may be the world's best hockey player, or one of them, but from our observation of the Canadiens' star during the Bata show, he can be nominated the Beau Brummel of the colorful Habitant squad.

"THE ROCKET" RICHARD

The Rocket was a picture of tonsorial elegance as the big Cadillac pulled into the city with the party, consisting of the right wing star, Mrs. Richard, brilliant Kenny Mosdell and Mrs. Mosdell, Wednesday night. The party was immediately whisked to Campbellford, where the hockey stars were guests at the banquet tendered Campbellford Greenshirts, champions of the Trent Valley Hockey League.

Sleekly tailored in blue blazer with a Canadien's Club crest in gold adorning the left breast pocket, and light-colored trousers, the "Rocket" stole the spectatorial thunder when he appeared with Mosdell at the opening of the new Bata Shoe Store Thursday morning. A beautiful yellow rose pinned on his lapel by a pretty girl, rounded out the picture.

And you wouldn't think from the Rocket's modest, almost shy bearing, that he was one of the most aggressive players in professional hockey today—one who will fight at the drop of a hat and can smoke blazing pucks past a goalie almost before that worthy is aware of the fact.

And contrary to a lot of reports, the "Rocket" has a sense of humour. It was reported that he would shatter a brief address at the Campbellford party whether there were any Maple Leaf fans present. Not an answer.

"Then," quipped the Rocket, "there must be a lot of liars here."

He didn't think "Papa" Dick Irvin, who piloted the Habs to the Stanley Cup last season, would make many changes in the team next year. He almost laughed aloud when this department hinted that his centre ice buddy Elmer Lach might hang up his gear next year.

We mentioned "Le Gros Bill" Jean Marc Belliveau, the sensation of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, and one who is said to be headed for the hockey paths of glory.

"Do you think Belliveau will sign with the Canadiens for next season?"

A smile crept slowly over the Rocket's face.

"It all depends on my friend," he said with a chuckle. "You know, the girl he's going to marry. She will tell him what to do."

Kenny Mosdell interposed here with the remark, "As far as money is concerned, Jean is better off where he is. I'm making more down there than we do in the National League. Everything is 'on the house' for Jean in Quebec, from gasoline to haircuts,

The question of player change in the ranks of the Canadiens popped up again and this time the Rocket said: "No. I don't think there will be any changes." His eyes twinkled for a moment. Then he said: "But you can bet your boots there will be plenty of changes in the Leafs' line-up."

"It's funny," he went on, "how the Leaf players who are traded generally manage to come up with extra good efforts. Take Fleming Mackell, who was traded for Jimmy Morrison. All he did was make the centre spot in the league all-star team."

Both players said they agreed with the selection of goalie "Gump" Worsley, of the Boston Bruins, who played sensationally against the Canadiens. "He was good, all right," they said of Worsley, as the number of shots he stopped as against those that went past him."

The "Rocket" spends the summers playing softball, baseball and for relaxation referees professional wrestling matches in and around Montreal. "The pay is good, the hours are short, and it is a lot of fun," was his terse remark.

A gleam of pride crept into his eyes when his seventeen-year-old brother, dubbed the "Pocket Rocket," was mentioned. He smiled when asked if his small brother would be as good as the small brother's big brother. "I don't know anything about that, but I think the boy will make a good hockey player, if he puts on the weight. He weighs now about 145-150 but he has three or four years to stretch out. He plays centre and right wing, and we think he has the makings of a star."

Kenny Mosdell, who fractured a leg and ankle last year, said the limb didn't bother him. He spends the off-season fishing and swimming at the family cottage where Mrs. Mosdell and the three young Mosdells put in the summer.

The players brought their good ladies with them on the junkets to "Maple Leaf Ontario." "They don't travel too much with us during the winter months," laughed Kenny, "so when spring comes we take them along with us on such trips as this one."

Mosdell met one former buddy while in Belleville in the person of Dave Brophy, district representative of the Curtis Publishing Company. Dave and Kenny were "in the service" together and the two held a brief "buddy" reunion yesterday morning.

STOX RACING!

Dick Burrows will send his stock car hellions roaring over his Shannonville Speedway tomorrow afternoon providing Ole Jupe Fluvius is in an amiable mood. Burrows had planned an elaborate opening card for last week when the rains came and spoiled the show. But, he says, the card including drivers from Toronto, Oshawa, Kingston, Picton, Orillia, Trenton, some twenty all told, will be on hand tomorrow to inaugurate the season. The meet will be divided into two classes and some highly exciting racing should be forthcoming.

The track, Burrows said today, is in excellent condition, and he is looking forward to a meet crammed full of thrills, chills and probably some spills. The first race gets under way at 2.30.

Quebec Loop May Turn 'Pro', NHL Agreement May End; Junior Solution Is Vague

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association bedevilled and beset by squawks over referees and player replacements during hot-weather playoffs, now faces once more a winter-born ruckus that threatens to blow sky-high again.

Because of the still suspended and bitterly resentful Quebec branch, the CAHA's annual meeting opening at Nassau Falls Monday takes on tremendous importance for hockey generally.

Ramifications from the suspension itself have spread far. A surprise set of events in Quebec, relating to the hockey picture generally, shows these possibilities:

Many Possibilities

1. A jump to professional status by the Quebec Senior Hockey League—powerful member of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association. The league will meet Monday night to decide on this point.

2. Termination of the pro-CAHA agreement.

3. Some change in status of the restless top-ranking junior circuits in Quebec and Ontario.

If the QSHL goes pro, the CAHA will have only one major circles league left, the Maritime. The CAHA would lose whatever revenue accrues from the Alexander Trophy series, played between the two major series winners.

If the pro-CAHA agreement is terminated, all mutual relations regarding jurisdiction, player lists, sponsored clubs and other important pro-amateur links would be wiped out.

It would also mean heavy loss of revenue that goes to support amateur hockey. Since 1947, when the agreement began operating, the pro leagues have handed over $200,000 to the CAHA for that purpose. This figure is over and above untold amounts spent by pro clubs in sponsoring amateur teams.

The possibility of intermission of this agreement arises because the CAHA resented the action of the pros on the National Hockey League an minor circuits—in extending to the QSHL the protection of players' lists.

But the protection was not extended until the QSHL had resigned with no hard feelings, from the CAHA, its governing body. The league's action came suddenly before suspension of the Quebec ban applied generally to all leagues, clubs and players within the branch.

Following the resignation, the QSHL, went ahead unconcernedly with its schedule, lengthened the playoffs and, with revenue from them, distributed $135,000 among its clubs.

Wants Many Assurances

Now QSHL president George Slater says he must have many assurances before the league can even consider returning to the CAHA. He wants more money for drafted players. As pros his drafted players bring $10,000 each. Now they bring $5000 from the NHL plus $2000 from minor pro leagues.

He would want assurance that the QSHL playoff winner would "profit financially" in the major series playoffs. He would want a negotiation list two players for each team, and he said bluntly, "we can't agree that all the power of the CAHA be in one man's hands."

The junior situation is vague. An authoritative informant said St. Michael's College of Toronto is the stumbling block in the way of a Quebec-Ontario junior pro circuit because the college can't approve its team as professional, "although the players are subsidized by the Toronto Maple Leafs of the NHL."

Opinion in Montreal is that the JAHA, the strong junior league of the QAHA, could operate profitably as a pro league. It's no secret that several clubs in the Ontario junior circuit, which plays an interlocking schedule with the JAHA, have shown interest in the junior pro talk.

Whatever results from the CAHA-QAHA situation, the name of Ed Atwell will figure in it. The big dispute began over the playing status of this junior player, and the QAHA was suspended for flouting the CAHA's ruling.

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Allen Knight's Solunar Tables. Play your game so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration. Daylight Saving May 9 through May 17. All times are on Daylight Saving Time.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Barrie Flyers won the Memorial Cup and Winnipeg sports writers agreed they deserved it.

But the kind of hockey that was served up to the customers met with criticism almost as rough as Wednesday's final game itself. The game was described as a "back-alley brawl" and a "disgrace."

The Flyers won three straight in the best-of-seven series before St. Boniface Canadiens came up with a win, and the Easterners made no mistake about it with a 6-1 lacing in the final game.

Tempers were as hot as the 85-degree weather.

Describing the game, Maurice Smith of the Winnipeg Free Press wrote:

"It certainly wasn't hockey. It was a roughhouse, no-holds-barred brawl."

Smith also blasted referees Lou Lecompte and Ching McDonald of Ottawa. He said they lost complete control of the game in the second period.

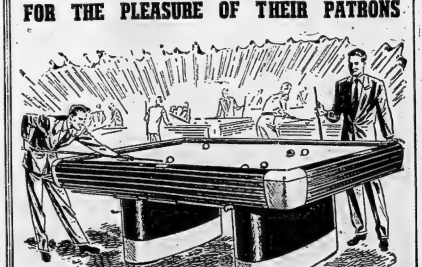
Leah also levelled a volley at the spectators, whose conduct was almost as bad as that of the players. Many of the audience didn't wait for the presentation of the trophy and some who did remain booed.

Set Age Limit For Peewees

Upwards of 160 peewee baseballers attended the get-together at Kiwanis Centre this week, according to Recreation Director "Red" Doran.

In order to facilitate organization of teams the age limit for this class was set at ten years by May 1st. Some of the little fellows who turned up were not more than seven years of age.



Doran said that a number of boys have not turned in their certificates in the midget and bantam divisions, and if these are not forthcoming within the next three or four days, the boys will not be included on team rosters.

Organization of juvenile teams will be made at a later date.

Brooklyn, Philadelphia Tilt, Yankees, Red Sox Clash Mark Major League 'Lights' Openers

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Major league baseball, which has seen little sunlight this spring, goes completely under the lights tonight for the first time this season.

That's what the schedules say, but the weatherman may have other ideas. He has put the damper on so many times since the baseball season opened almost four weeks ago that club owners are beginning to suspect the weather bureau has been taken over exclusively by rainmakers.

First place in the National League will be at stake with Philadelphia Phillies moving into Ebbets Field for a three-game set with the Dodgers.

Milwaukee will attempt to play its third home game of the year—the Braves have been rained out of their new home four times in six tries—with Chicago Cubs. St. Louis will be at Cincinnati and Pittsburgh at New York.

New York Yankees put their 14-game American League lead on the line in Boston after a two-day layoff. Cleveland Indians, the Yanks' nearest pursuers, invade Busch Stadium in St. Louis. The Athletics are at home to Washington and Detroit visits Chicago.

The Phillies, nursing a half-game edge over the second-place Dodgers, will fire their three biggest guns—Curt Simmons, Karl Drews and Robin Roberts. These guys shot Brooklyn full of holes in their previous three meetings in Philadelphia. Charlie Dressen of the Dodgers says he plans to counter with Billy Loes tonight, Preacher Roe Saturday and possibly Joe Black Sunday.

After waiting six of eight while travelling, the Red Sox will go against New York with Hector Brown, a rookie who is even after two games. Johnny Sain probably will work for the Yankees.

Kramer Denies 'Quit' Rumor

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Jack Kramer, tennis player-promoter, says that reports he will quit playing at the end of his current professional series with Australia's Frank Sedgman are wrong.

The 31-year-old Los Angeles star said in a press release Thursday: "I intend to promote pro tennis for a long time to come. I have absolutely no intention of retiring as a player so long as I am physically able to play top-flight tennis."

Jockey Wins Five Straight

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (AP)—Wee Willie Shoemaker won five straight races at Tanforan Thursday and the fifth was the big one of the day—the $7,500 Solano county fair purse.

In the third race he came home on Fat Jack and paid $7.80. In the fourth it was Rockomne, paying $6.40, in the fifth Dark Diana, paying $16.40 and in the sixth Ja Reward, paying $4.40.

War Admiral won the 63rd Kentucky Derby 16 years ago today, piloted by Charley Kurtsinger to victory over the 1¼ mile American classic in fast time of 2.03 1-5. The Man O'War colt, owned by Samuel Riddle, went on to win the turf's triple crown with victories in the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes.

Sport in Brief

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario women golfers officially open a new season a month from today. It promises to be an active one.

The championship season gets under way June 8 and 9 at the York Downs Club when the 27th annual Toronto and District championship will be decided over the 36-hole route.

Before that, however, the Canadian women's team will leave for Britain May 28. An invitation tournament will take place at Weston Golf and Tennis Club is scheduled for May 29.

The 38th annual Ontario ladies' championship will be held at the Thornhill Club on June 15 to 18.

The next tournament will be the 21st annual two-ball tournament of the Toronto permanent committee of the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union to be staged at Scarboro Weston July 2.

Then will come a five-week lapse before the big 10 days of women's golf in Canada. The Canadian ladies' open will be played at the London Hunt Club Aug. 10-15, the Canadian medal choice is set for London Sunnidale Aug. 6-8 and the interprovincial team match, also at Sunningdale, will be Aug. 6-7 in conjunction with the first qualifying round of the open.

The Canadian team visiting the British Isles will play international matches against England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales and individual members will compete in several tournaments. Last year's Ontario champion, Mary Cay of Kitchener-Westmount, is a member of the team, along with Ada Mackenzie of Toronto and Marlene Stewart of Forthill, both former winners.

NORTHAMPTON, England (AP) —Stirling Moss, Britain's 25-year-old racing ace, crashed at 90 miles an hour in a sports car Thursday and suffered concussion and arm injuries. His car overturned as he whipped round a curve at 90.6 miles an hour.

DUBLIN (AP)—An Irish government spokesman said Thursday Tulyar's retirement to stud was "business—not gallantry."

Agriculture Minister Walsh made this plain in the Dail (parliament) after one member suggested with tongue-in-cheek that the wonder horse was being kept out of the English Coronation Cup to ensure that the Queen's colt would win the race.

The Irish National Stud bought Tulyar from the Aga Khan for $700,000 a few months ago.

Walsh said Tulyar was purchased for breeding purposes and the question of his racing again never arose.

GLASGOW (Reuters)—Glasgow Rangers won the Scottish soccer league championship Thursday night when they drew 1-1 with Queen of the South in the final match of the season. Rangers took the title on goal average, since they finished with the same number of points as Hibernian, the runners-up.

Rangers also won the Scottish Cup this season and this is the seventh time they have accomplished the "double." The last time was in 1930.

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP)—Henry Cotton, 46-year-old captain of Britain's Ryder Cup team, took a three-stroke lead at the end of the third round of the 90-hole, 2,000 guineas golf tournament Thursday.

He shot a two-under-par 70 on the 6,589-yard West course at Wentworth for a three round total of 207. Cotton is three shots ahead of James Adams of Great Britain and four in front of Bobby Locke of South Africa, the defending champion.

Purse Increase Of 23 Per Cent At Yonkers Track

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Bill Cane, president of Yonkers Raceway, Thursday announced a purse increase of approximately 23 per cent shortly before representatives of the 700 owners demanded a boost of 30 per cent and threatened a strike if their demands are not met by Monday.

Effective Monday Cane's increase will bring about a sizable boost in all events, including the jumping of purses for free-for-all races from $6,000 to $7,500.

Ed Dougherty, president of the Standardbred Owners Association, sent a letter to Cane and the United States Trotting Association asking for a 28-per-cent increase in overnight events and cancellation of the two-per-cent starting fee.

On hearing of the owners' demands, Cane said he is confident there will be no interruption of racing in view of the general acceptance of his plan.

Thinks Yankees Phils Will Battle In World Series

CHICAGO (AP)—Having had a look at every team in the American League, Ted Lane figures there are only two clubs—New York and Philadelphia—that can stand up as World Series opponents.

Every other club, with the possible exception of Boston, must help itself with trades or other sources of new material, the White Sox general manager says.

Lane mentioned Boston because he believes the Red Sox are assembling a young team for the future and probably will go along with it.

But the White Sox, Cleveland and other American league clubs all have put out help-wanted signs —or should, Lane said Thursday.

Fielder Named Star Rookie American League

NEW YORK (AP)—Cuyle Fielder, 23-year-old Los Angeles Flyer centre who already was picked for the all-star team, was named today the outstanding rookie of the 1952-53 American Hockey League.

Fielder is the first freshman ever to be named to the all-star team. In winning the rookie award, he garnered 26 of a possible 35 votes. The votes were cast by the league's seven coaches.

Willie Marshall of Pittsburgh, also a centre, was second with 23 points.

'Good As He Thinks He Is'

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"He proved to me that he's just about as good as he thought he is."

That's Manager Marty Marion of St. Louis Browns talking. Once skeptical about rookie Alva (Bobo) Holloman after unimpressive relief appearances, Marion has changed his mind about the eager, 27-year-old right hander.

Instead of pestering for a starting job, Bobo finally got his chance and curved his way into baseball fame by pitching a no-hit, no-run game against Philadelphia Athletics Wednesday night.

Only a weather-thinned crowd of 2,473 saw Holloman's 5-0 victory. And they saw the show for free. Browns' owner Bill Veeck announced their rain checks would be honored any time in the future to show his appreciation for their attendance on a rain-threatened night.

Apathy Over Heavyweight Fight Apparent in Gotham, Says Talbot

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—A week from tonight the heavyweight championship of the world is to be contested in Chicago Stadium, barring another postponement and you would hardly know it around this ghost town of the fight game.

The once bustling offices of the International Boxing Club are deserted except for a few older employees who have nowhere else to go. Now and then a couple of ancient managers, left behind at the ebb of the tide, drop in and recall the old days of last June when New York saw a title fight between Ray Robinson and Joey Maxim.

Could Be TV

For some reason—and we might as well blame this on television, too—there is a great apathy here about the return meeting of Rocky Marciano and Jersey Joe Walcott. There has been no ticket sale here worth mentioning, whereas $30,000 was taken in at the local IBC box office for their first fight at Philadelphia last summer.

Up to now exactly one fan, trying hard to get an awkward pose in the small talk, has asked me how I thought it would come out. He didn't wait for an answer, but said he thought, personally, that the young guy, Marciano, would "do it quick this time." He said that was what Rocky's manager, Al Weill, had told him, and that Al was plenty smart.

Joe Picks Rocky

Probably it is this attitude, a widespread belief that the powerful young champion will chill his fellow challenger in a hurry, that has dampened interest locally. Joe Louis, who experienced first hand the opiate in Marciano's fists, said between his tap dancing turns at a local theatre that he believes Walcott's legs finally have gone and that Rocky will bag him much sooner than the 13th round this time. People still listen to Joe, even after catching his act.

According to word brought east this week by Truman Gibson, the IBC's Chicago manager, things are looking better out there than they did before Rocky's bleeding nose caused the bout to be postponed from its original date, April 10. More than $300,000 is in the till and it is estimated now that the gate will go over $500,000, not counting radio and TV. This is a long way from the $850,000 figure which was kicked around when the bout was originally assigned to Chicago, but it is better than starving to death, too.

Six Colleges In Track Meet

LONDON (AP)—A track and field team combining the best athletes from Oxford and Cambridge will meet combination teams from Yale-Cornell and Army-Penn at New Haven, Conn., June 13. It will be a triangular meet. The meet, first of a series among the six universities, replaces the 33-year-old competition among Oxford-Cambridge, Princeto - Harvard, Yale-Cornell.

The American universities will send athletes to White City Stadium for the meet, held in 1954 and 1955.

A disagreement over finances helped bring down the old series. Under the new set-up the visitors each year will pay their own travel expenses and become guests of the home universities after arrival. Home universities will keep gate receipts.

Under old arrangements American colleges "banked" the entire deal. The Americans took gate receipts back from meets in London and the United States and paid all expenses. After the 1951 games in London, American college officials received nearly $8,000.

CHILD SEES FIRE, DIES

WELLAND (CP)—Marcel Brousseau, 5, died Thursday when a fire, which his parents said they believe was set by the child himself, swept his bedroom. A few hours earlier, the youngster set fire to the back of the Brousseau house. He was punished by his mother and sent to his room.

Leafs Defeat Montreal 3-2 To Regain Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs are atop the International Baseball League ladder again by a full game and Buffalo baseman Ed Stevens can take a bow.

The big Texan belted a long 10th-inning clobber Thursday night that gave the locals their first victory over Montreal Royals 3-2. The Royals won 4-1 in their first meeting of the season Wednesday.

In an Ottawa encounter, Rochester Red Wings, who held the league leadership before Toronto, fell short with a three-run ninthinning rally as the Athletics defeated them 8-6.

Both Toronto and Montreal got 12 hits. Gerry Fahr, who came in to pitch for Toronto in the 10th, was credited with the win, his second against no losses. Ronnie Lee, who relieved starter Tom Casagrande in the seventh, took his third loss in as many starts.

At Ottawa the Wings jumped pitcher Bill Harrington for five of the eight hits he allowed in his stinging the game. He struck out six and walked three in making his record 1-2.

Hired Help Too High For Quebec League

VAL D'OR, Que. (CP)—Baseball salaries have proved too much for the Northwestern Quebec senior A baseball league, which will not operate this season.

Officials said the main problem confronting the league was the need for importing 90 per cent of the players' wages, the payment of high salaries.

The league had teams in Val d'Or, Malartic, Amos and Rouyn-Noranda.

Bratton Defeats Italy's Minelli

CLEVELAND (AP) — Johnny Bratton, gunning for a welterweight title bout, won a unanimous decision over elusive Livio Minelli of Italy in a 10-round bout in Cleveland Arena Thursday night.

The hard-punching Bratton, who has had considerable difficulty in finding his target, weighed 135½ to 152 for Minelli.

'Silver Seven' Member Dies

OTTAWA (CP)—Harry Smith, a member of Ottawa's famous "Silver Seven" hockey team of the early 1900s, died in hospital Wednesday after a two-weeks illness. He was 69.

In the 1905-06 National Hockey Association Smith played on the forward line with Harry Westwick, Alf Smith and the late Frank McGee. On defence were Harvey Pulford and Arthur Moore, both deceased, and Billy Hague played in the nets.

Old-timers talk of Smith as one of hockey's greatest shots, recalling a 1906 Stanley Cup series final which Ottawa lost. Ottawa was trying against Montreal Wanderers for its fourth straight Stanley Cup and lost the first game of a home-and-home total-point series 9-1.

When the series returned to Ottawa, Harry Smith scored six goals to help tie the series, but Lester Patrick broke the deadlock and then clinched the cup with another.

'Nod As Good As a Wink'

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP)—The old question in baseball—what does the catcher say to the pitcher out on the mound?—has taken a new twist here this year.

Jose Bastida, a Cuban, is the first-string catcher for Oshkosh of the class D Wisconsin State League. He trots out frequently to confer with his pitcher—but is unable to speak English.

Communication is by sign language most of the time. At critical moments, though, Bastida summons Manager Dave Garcia to interpret. Both speak Spanish.

Your insurance policies should "Match Up"

To prevent "holes" or expensive overlaps in your insurance coverage, your policies should all be written by one agent (us, we hope, naturally.)

The reason is, policies can be made to supplement each other wisely and economically. Often, several policies can be combined in one at considerable saving.

And an over-all knowledge of your insurance coverage, may reveal to us that you are omitting some important protection that you should have.

Carry matched insurance—not "patched" insurance.

Soon after Miss Crain left 20th Century-Fox, I called on her at the Hollywood Hilltop estate she shares with her four young sons and her husband, manufacturer Paul Brinkman.

"I've never been more excited," she remarked. "Within two hours after the news of my leaving Fox, I had offers for two plays and trying to shake MGM for three pictures." Her first assignment will be with Gentlemen Marry Brunettes" in Europe in July.

Her break with the studio does not follow the usual pattern. Her option had just been picked up for another year at a salary estimated around $1,500 weekly. But she said she talked the studio into letting her go.

"I loved being at the studio," she said. "After all, I started at 15 and grew up there. But there comes a time when an actress stays too long at one place. People get used to having you around, and they can't think of you in a different light. I was happy with some of the pictures I had been doing. I'm not at all worried about the future."

Neither is June Allyson. When I visited her 32-acre Islandeville Canyon estate, she was as happy as a starlet with a new contract.

"I cried for two days after I left MGM," she remarked cheerily. "At first I felt lost. When I first went there, I wasn't even wearing lipstick or high heels except on stage—that's how young I was.

"But after the shock wore off, I have never been more elated. I've already lined up four pictures, all of them with wonderful scripts. And I can hardly wait to go to work for Richard." That's her husband Dick Powell, now a producer-director at RKO.

Miss Allyson said she had been trying to shake MGM for three years. She made no secret of her unhappiness over assignments.

"They would buy stories or write them especially for Greer or Lana or Ava," she remarked, "but they never did that for me. Because I did a little of everything—dramas, comedies or musicals—they figured I could be put into anything. When ever they were stuck for a casting, they said, 'let's ask good old June; she'll do it.'"

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, MAY 9, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Less stimulating for new matters on the experimental side. You are talented, can make much out of little if you try earnestly.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Some cloudy conditions in business, personal affairs. Think twice before acting; avoid unpleasant situations, words. Sunny prospects soon.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Thoughtlessness is one of the world's greatest trouble-makers. Don't try to top others' say-so by exploding yours; strive for harmony. Hold temper.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—Varying aspects, good for some things, not for others. You must think carefully; act accordingly. Chances are you can come out with some profit.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Keep thoughts and action within reasonable control. Encourage others; help where you can. Curtail emotions and you will have a fair day.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Excellent opportunities today. Cut non-essentials, any false attitude. Be upright and the right people will help you.

September 24 to October 22 (Libra)—You will have to solve matters by patience, intelligence. Day may show unexpected change for the better; be alert to such alteration.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Aspects now indicate some quick changes, sudden moves. Aim at stability of plans, actions. Strengthen romance, friendships.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Dull, uncertain influences; some setbacks likely. But you can overcome these and in the end reap benefits if you try hard.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — You can crown your day with fresh laurels by just giving your level best during working hours. Your good practicality should stand you well indeed.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Look to yourself for the answers to present problems. Hard, consistent effort never goes to waste. You can advance.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Eliminate fuzzy, substitute calm type, and half the battle's won. Heart interests may upset plant, but you can manage that situation well.

YOU BORN TODAY: On the intellectual side when properly reared. You have stubbornness of purpose and much vitality. May worry over misfortunes, though seldom show it. Can reach great heights in business or profession. Holy to your religion; be honest, consistent and you will make a high mark. Birthdate of Sir James Matthew Barrie, noted author, dramatist.

Mr. Alfreda Zeee Forester, for the district explained the proper method of planting and also showed a planter in operation. This machine will plant 5,000 lines, each day — if the soil is free of stones.

Canadian Jet Wing Warmly Welcomed by Allied Air Forces

ZWEIBRUECKEN, Germany (AP)—When the commander of the new Canadian air base here, Group Capt. A. C. Hull, made a speech at the opening ceremony, he spoke in French, then German and finally English.

The tall RCAF officer from Manotic, near Ottawa, thus underlined the international role of Canada's airmen in Europe.

This magnificent base was built by French Air Force engineers out of funds provided by German taxpayers for use by Canadians under the over-all command of American General Lauris Norstad.

The first Canadian squadrons to be stationed in Germany are in the third fighter wing, equipped with F86-E Sabre jet fighters. Their arrival was warmly welcomed by the Allied air forces in West Germany, which had until then had the handful of American Sabres to match the formidable Russian MIG 15 jets in the Soviet zone and Czechoslovakia.

Now Canada has 132 Sabre squadrons just west of the Rhine. Three are here and there are three more at the French airfield at Gros Tenquin, only a few minutes jet flying time away.

Number one fighter wing, now at North Luffenham, England, is due to move to the continent as soon as there is a base available.

Canada's Defence Minister Brooke Claxton has promised that the fourth fighter wing will take post at Soellingen, near here, before the end of the year. Like those already here, the jets of the fourth will make a series of hops across the Atlantic called "Operation Leap-Frog." These long-distance flights are major operations for jets and call for split-second timing because of their fuel limitations.

Lovely Site

Canadian air division headquarters is just outside the French garrison town of Metz.

Zweibruecken is a small German town near the Saar frontier, situated among rolling hills covered with beautiful farms. The super-modern base is an extraordinary sight in the local landscape. Set right on top of a ridge, it looks like an aircraft carrier ploughing through a green sea.

Veterans of the Second World War whistled with envy when they saw the comfortable living quarters, spacious and light mess-halls, clubs, cinema, 50-bed hospital and sleepied churches. No Nissen huts here, no drafty tents, flyved roads instead of mud-tracks. Luxury!

The squadrons on the base are 413 from Bagotville, Que., commanded by Sqdn. Ldr. W. L. (Rocky) Gordon of Vancouver; 427 from St. Hubert, Que., commanded by Sqdn. Ldr. C. L. V. Gervais, of Waubaushene, Ont., and 434 from Uplands, commanded by Flt. Lt. H. S. Telleck, of Mazenod, Sask.

Melchoir Making Tour of Night Clubs in Ontario

By MEL SUFRIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP) — Laurie Melchior, who hasn't high regard for most of modern swing music, is trying to fight it on its own level—the night club.

The Danish-born heroic tenor, currently on a North American night club tour that will take him into three Canadian cities, explores the fact that such novelty tunes as "Open the Door Richard" make a millionaire while great serious music struggles along with little financial encouragement.

Melchior, who opens the Canadian section of his tour in Montreal May 8, then moves on to Ottawa and Cornwall, Ont., poured out his musical laments in an interview during a New York stopover.

Melchior emphasized that he doesn't dislike all swing. His offerings include everything from grand opera (La Boheme, Wagner and Pagliacci in costume) to what he considers the best of modern music —such things as "La Vie el Rose." The light classics are included as well.

"A musical dinner," is the way he describes it. One of his aims is to "get youth to realize that crooning isn't all the music there is."

Melchior claims a degree of success to date. In Las Vegas, Nev., where his press agent says he outdrew such attractions as Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, a large part of his audience was made up of younger persons. Melchior said he was encouraged by their reaction.

The present tour is something rather unique, not only because it brings opera in costume to night clubs but also by its staging. Melchior insists that his audience be seated only in front or beside him, no one behind him. This necessitates a night club set up in the concert hall style rather than having a dance floor surrounded by the audience serve as the stage.

On tour with him is a cast of nine including baritones, tenors, sopranos and a dual piano team. Melchior is particularly proud of the tenor who sings in 16 languages and will offer some French songs in Canada. Melchior says "my French is appalling."

Melchior has some other strong ideas on musical education. He complains that while musical appreciation is taught in schools, students are led up a dead-end street, then they leave school they're on their own as far as music is concerned.

"The government should subsidize music," he says. The days when wealthy Europeans paid to have operas and symphonies written have gone and there has been no reliable source of money to replace those 19th century angels.

Crewless Street Car Runs Wild

TORONTO (CP) — Minus its motorman and conductor, a street car sped more than 20 blocks down Yonge Street today before crashing into the rear of a car stopped for a red light. No one was hurt.

The two employees had closed up the car and gone into a restaurant to eat. When they came out the tram was gone.

Police said they believe some youths pried open a window on the motorman's side and started the tram on its way.

Relaxing in Tokyo Following Red Repatriation

The only two Canadian prisoners-of-war released by Reds in exchange program at Panmunjom, Korea, are seen recuperating at Tokyo army hospital where they were flown following repatriation. The first to be released, Cpl. Paul Dugal, right, of Quebec City, P.Q., had on his person a little black book in which were listed 16 Canadians believed to have been dead but were in reality prisoners of Reds. Missing in action since December, 1951, Pte. Arthur J. Baker, at left, of Montreal, was among 16 believed to have been killed. A stretcher case with the Royal 22nd Regiment when he was taken prisoner 16 months ago, Baker was wounded in both feet and legs from Mortar bombs and shrapnel. — Central Press Canadian.

ALLIES ASK REDS TO CLARIFY POW PROPOSAL

Must Know Answers Before Considering

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Allied truce negotiators today asked question after question aimed at forcing the Communists to spell out in detail their compromise prisoner exchange plan and said "we must know the answers" before the proposal could be considered further.

Lt.-Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr. told newsprint men after the 32-minute session that his barrage of questions did not mean the United Nations command had accepted the Red plan as a basis for negotiations.

"We have nothing fixed on this matter at all. I'm just probing for facts," the senior Allied delegate said.

He said, "of course" there would be other questions to the Communists on their new plan.

Harrison's detailed questioning was centred on the Reds' proposal to have a five-country neutral repatriation commission custody some of the 48,500 Red prisoners who refuse to return to communism. Asked about this:

"How would decisions be reached? Majority vote? Is there a veto?" Harrison asked the Communist negotiators.

In that vital point proposal to settle the prisoner deadlock, the last major issue in the truce negotiations, the Reds proposed that the commission consist of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, India and Switzerland.

Harrison indicated the UN command will not accept the Reds' proposal that eventual disposition of prisoners who refuse to go home after "explanations" by their own side in neutral camps be left to a post-war political conference.

He said that how the new Red proposal overcomes Allied objections to the Communists' April 26 plan "by which prisoners could be detained indefinitely if your side so desires."

"We showed that, being denied any alternative to repatriation or continued captivity, the prisoners would, under that proposal be coerced into accepting repatriation," Harrison said. "We showed that the proposal did not constitute a final solution of this problem, in that it did not provide for the disposition of those prisoners who do not avail themselves of their right to return home."

Harrison Asks Questions

Harrison asked if the new proposal was "any more than an agreement to defer the final solution of the question of war question until some later date?"

"Will you explain how the current proposal cures these defects?" Harrison also asked how the commission would supervise it and which languages would be used in interviews.

The meeting was adjourned until Sunday after the Reds asked for it recess.

Harrison cautioned newspaper men that "we are not playing anything" by the fact that the questions had been advanced by him.

"We are just trying to analyze the situation," Harrison remarked. "Before this thing is over, we questions have got to be answered in some way or other."

Two Officers, Two Soldiers Receive Decorations After Battle With Reds on May 2

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP) — Immediate award of the Military Cross to two Canadian officers and of the Military Medal to two soldiers was announced today by Maj.-Gen. Michael West, commander of the Commonwealth division.

The awards followed the battle of May 2 when Canadian gunners helped in a great victory over Chinese troops attacking United Nations positions in strength.

The awards:

Military Cross:

Lieut. Lorne Cote of Winnipeg and Aylmer, Que.;

2nd Lieut. Edgar Hollyer of Toronto.

Military Medal:

Cpl. J. C. McNeil, Reserve Mine, N. S.; Pte. George Julien, Halifax.

Cote is the signals subaltern of the Royal Canadian Regiment's 3rd battalion which combined with the 1st Field Regiment of the Royal Canadian Artillery to throw back the enemy in the battle. Hollyer commanded the platoon that was the specific objective of the Chinese.

Hollyer's presence of mind in calling artillery fire on his own position when it was overrun was credited with contributing to the enemy defeat.

Cpl. McNeil assumed command of a raiding party which foiled the enemy attack by bumping into the enemy assembly area. McNeil, taking over after his officer was wounded, led his men in a co-ordinated withdrawal through a mine field and uphill back to the RCR's main positions.

Pte. Julien rounded up eight men, including wounded, posted them defensively, and held a forward corner of the RCR bunkers fire which beat off the Chinese.

TRADE AGREEMENT

TOKYO (AP) — Peiping radio said today that Red China and Czechoslovakia have signed a "goods exchange and payment agreement" for 1953. The broadcast, heard here by The Associated Press, said the two countries agreed to increase the volume of trade by 39 per cent over 1952 but gave no amount or value.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: This morning's weather map shows most of the eastern United States and neighbouring parts of Canada under the influence of a slowly moving high pressure area of warm air which should bring fine week-end weather to most of Ontario. In the west cooler air from the Pacific Ocean has pushed across the Rockies into the Prairies checking the unseasonable heat wave of the past few days. This cooler weather is moving slowly eastward.

Rickey Orton, 3, Eats Solid Foods For First Time

KINGSTON (CP)—Rickey Orton, 3, is eating solid foods now—for the first time in his life.

Rickey, who only weighs 28½ pounds, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Orton of Lombardy, 40 miles northeast of here.

He was born with a short oesophagus (gullet) which caused his stomach to be placed above the diaphragm in the chest cavity. Normally the oesophagus is about nine inches long for a youngster. Rickey's was only six and measured considerably at the point closest to the stomach.

The result was a strict liquid diet for Rickey.

Two months ago he underwent surgery. A doctor, who asked that his name be withheld, widened the portion of the tube which had narrowed due to growth failure. The oesophagus then raised higher in the chest because the gullet was further shortened by the operation.

It was the first time such oesophagitis surgery was done in Kingston, not as a child as young as Rickey.

PLUGS WIRE-TAPPING

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney-General Herbert Brownell asked Congress Friday to enact a law which would permit use of wiretap evidence in the prosecution of cases involving the national security or defence. "Such legislation is vital for the adequate safeguarding of our country and its way of life," he said in letters to Vice-President Richard Nixon and Joseph Martin, speaker of the House of Representatives.

Canada, U.S. May Set Up Joint Board to Consider Trade Problems

by HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—Washington Sat. Laurent said today in Washington and the United States will investigate the possibility of setting up a joint board to consider problems of Canada-U. S. trade relations.

The decision was reached Friday at a meeting between St. Laurent and President Eisenhower. It was disclosed by St. Laurent this morning at a press conference before his departure for Ottawa at conclusion of a 48-hour visit to Washington.

The two leaders agreed that the establishment of the board should be considered by L. B. Pearson, Canada's external affairs minister, and John Foster Dulles, the U. S. state secretary.

It would be similar to the joint defence board in that it would investigate mutual trade problems and make recommendations to both governments on how to deal with them.

The Canadian government has indicated on a number of occasions that it is concerned with restrictions on import of some goods from Canada, particularly dairy products and fish. The U. S. contends that these are a violation of the trade and tariff treaty signed by the U. S. government.

On the other side, U. S. agricultural representatives have indicated they would like Canada to take action to reduce the export of oats to the United States, claiming that the heavy flow of this product has forced American prices below government support levels.

Possibly Slain

Police say three young Toronto brothers, who vanished May 1 while on their way to buy some candy, may have been slain: Known shady characters in the area of the boys' home have been questioned. Railway employees have been ordered to check all boxcars between Halifax and Vancouver in case the youngsters have been locked in a car. Missing are Howard Quigley, 7, (left), Paul, 5 (inset, as sketched by artist) and Henry, 10, — (CP Photo).

Expect Orders for Six More Minesweepers to Be Placed Shortly in Canadian Yards

OTTAWA (CP)—Orders for six more navy minesweepers are expected to be placed shortly with Canadian shipyards.

The ships will replace vessels now being built that are to be turned over to other North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries.

The sweepers will cost roughly $2,300,000 apiece, the current price of late-ordered units in the 14-minesweeper program now under construction.

Deliveries of the new ships to the navy likely will take considerably more than a year. Eight of the 14 vessels in the present program are still on the stocks and six have been launched.

They are being built on the East and West Coasts, the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence river. The allocation of the new order to different yards will be made during Canadian maritime commission, as the marine program does not operate by tender.

The order likely will be placed within the next couple of months, according to information here.

The ships will be added to a navy-building program that now consists of 32 new vessels including the revolutionary destroyer escorts, harbor craft, patrol ships, diving vessels, a northern patrol ship and auxiliary craft.

Six of the minesweepers have been launched. The remainder are due to be launched this year.

Besides this work, several destroyers, minesweepers and frigates are being modernized in Canada and a new aircraft carrier—the Bonaventure—is under construction at Dartmouth.

Major item of the construction program in Canada is made up of the destroyer escorts, 14 of which have been ordered. The $11,000,000 vessels, embodying the latest in submarine-killing equipment, are expected to be all delivered during 1954 or 1955.

They are the first major warships the U. S. has ever designed and built in Canada. The destroyers built in Halifax during and after the Second World War were designed in the United Kingdom.

Limited U.S. Participation With Canada in Building Seaway Approved by Cabinet

By JAMES C. MUNN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Limited U.S. participation with Canada in building the much-discussed St. Lawrence seaway has the approval of President Eisenhower and his cabinet.

The Eisenhower administration stands on the perennially controversial waterway was announced Friday by the White House.

The action came after Eisenhower and the cabinet unanimously approved recommendations of a special committee named by the president to study the project.

The White House said the committee proposed, and the cabinet agreed, that participation should be "highly desirable" providing the U.S. share in the undertaking was limited to the International Rapids section of the river.

Hearing Ended

It is in this section that New York state and a private firm have asked the federal power commission for a license to join with the province of Ontario in construction of a 2,200,000-horsepower hydro-electric generating plant. The commission's decision is still awaited although hearings ended in February.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, after a two-day official visit to Washington, indicated to reporters that the seaway as a joint undertaking by the two countries would hardly be feasible unless Canadian participation in the power project is authorized.

"We would like to see the power end approved and started," St. Laurent said, "and we are anxious to discuss the seaway project in the International Rapids section with the United States."

Experts Must--Decide

He said it was "for the experts to decide" which side of the river was best for building the International Rapids canal.

The cabinet committee had this to say:

"Construction. . . on the United States side would be more economical than construction on the Canadian side would result in lower tolls, and, because of its design, the American project would constitute in certain aspects a superior navigation facility."

The cabinet-appointed committee recommendations said U.S. participation in the seaway should be "expressly conditioned" on:

1. Satisfactory assurance that the underlying power project will go ahead, pursuant to appropriate authorization.

"Satisfactory assurance that Canada will also already have started of the navigation project, in cooperation with the United States.

Kicked Around

"Predication of the project on a satisfactory traffic study."

The seaway proposal, as far as participation by the United States is concerned, has been kicked around by congress for decades. Opponents, generally representing rival transportation and port interests, have always prevailed.

Adoption by congress of the committee's limited recommendations means that work would start westward only to Lake Erie under the committee suggestion of limited participation.

But St. Laurent, in his talk with reporters, said:

"If we get it built this far (Lake Erie) I feel sure there'll be pressure to extend it."

ELDERLY MAN KILLED

BEXTON, Ont., (CP)—Thomas McFadden, 80-year-old resident of the Simcoe county home for the aged, was killed Friday night when struck by an automobile police said was driven by Leslie McDonald, 33, of Weston. The accident occurred in front of the home. McDonald was not held. Beaton is 25 miles southwest of Barrie.

HEALTH PLAN WOULD WIN FOR LIBERALS—GILLIS

Minister Says Time Not Ripe for Move

OTTAWA (CP)—A CCF member, Cape Breton South's long-time coal miner Clarie Gillis, kindly told the Liberal party Friday night how to win the forthcoming election—by bringing in a general system of national health insurance.

But Health Minister Martin, mucking down some speculation about Liberal election plans, said he can't accept the tip because the time is not yet ripe, not when defence bills are increasing and health facilities are inadequate to support such a plan.

He put it this way as the Commons discussed estimates for his departmental activities:

"The most dishonest thing that can be done in this particular field in the absence of the preparatory stages, including the building of hospitals, the personnel required, would be to impose a system of this kind which both defeats the purpose and not be really in keeping with responsible governments in Canada."

New Committee

"This country is committed now to a tremendous expenditure for defence. I have been confronted with a proposal now which would cost me in the neighborhood of $600,000,000 a year, I should like to know what is the judgment of the people of Canada about that.

"I think most people, . . . recognize that there are matters which must be approached as an objective if it is going to be soundly dealt with ultimately. It may be slow. We may be cautious. But in today's world we consolidate our gains as we go along than ultimately to have an objective which we may suddenly have so created and which is impossible to maintain.

To Study Issues

"I for one would not make such an offer unless the Parliament or to my colleagues in the government. That stand I think will commend itself to most people in Canada."

Martin said the issue will be studied further after the tabulation of results of a current sickness survey aimed at working out cost of the plan. His $600,000,000 estimate was only a rough guess.

Fpr spoke as Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) and Mr. Gillis chided the Liberal party for doing "long-term" studies on the Canadian economy. "It will be said nothing should prevent its immediate implementation."

Mr. Gillis said the actual cost would be about the same as Canada-wide hospital insurance by the navy. The money would simply be differently used.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said Mr. Martin was now faced with what would be provided under such a program and how it would be financed. "The whole question of sensitive program is possible until reasonably much more data is improved. Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC—609 Washington) said he thought the government should ask the public its views and should tell each Canadian what his contribution would add about $50 to his taxes.

Canada And U.S. In Agreement To Bolster Defences

Believe Malenkov Regime Cannot be Trusted

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada and the United States have agreed to bolster the defences of the free world after concluding that the new Malenkov regime in Russia cannot be trusted.

In a joint communique issued late Friday at the end of the top-level talks, Prime Minister St. Laurent and President Eisenhower declared:

"Though recent developments in Korea . . . have seemed more hopeful, nevertheless, in Laos a new act of aggression has been committed which might have serious consequences for Thailand and the whole of Southeast Asia. These developments in Southeast Asia must cast doubt on Communist intentions."

The two leaders gave particular emphasis to the Russian peace offensive and concluded that "acts, not words, would be proof of Communist sincerity." The invasion of the Indo-China state of Laos by Communist Vietminh forces disputes the honesty of the Red campaign for peace.

New Canadian

"While every effort should be made to bring about a relaxation of current tensions, the free nations could not afford to diminish their efforts toward the achievement of united strength in order to meet aggression," the communique said.

Other Agreements

St. Laurent and Eisenhower also agreed:

1. North American defence is important to the free world. Joint defences erected in Canada—presumably a preference to Canada's radar screen — under Canada-U.S.- arrangements strengthened defences for both countries.

2. There is a need for maintaining the momentum of vigorous defence the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Both countries will continue to do their "full share" to further NATO objectives.

3. Both countries will concentrate on the development of defensive trade.

During the two-day talks particular attention was focussed on the St. Lawrence seaway and power project and U.S. trade restrictions like the ban on certain dairy products which have angered Canadian business men.

The government assured St. Laurent the U.S. is fully aware of Canada's urgent need of St. Lawrence power. The president said he favored development of the U.S. share of the power project in the State of New York state and that he hoped for an early favorable decision by the federal power commission on New York state's application to build with Ontario its share of the phase of the St. Lawrence project.

Tariff Issue

St. Laurent spoke of Canada's position on the seaway problem in a National Press Club luncheon address, as well as in the joint communique and interviews.

In the press club speech before 600 Washington correspondents St. Laurent emphasized also that the high-level of Canada-U.S. trade is of utmost value to the two countries.

"Mad Major" of War Fame Lives Up to Name

Major Christopher Draper who won the nickname the "Mad Major" for his aviation exploits in World War I, appears pleased with himself as he and friends demonstrated that "there is life in the old dog yet" by flying a light plane under 19 of London's famous Tower bridges, past the House of Parliament, and then out into the suburbs. Now 61, Major Draper said he wanted the flight to be his swan song in aviation and hoped the stunt might get him a job. The bobbies who saw the spectacle opined it would probably get him a term in jail. — Central Press Canadian.

Report that a man had been lying in the bushes in the Canniffon Road district "for two days" sent police on an investigation last night with fingers crossed. Result: Nobody was found in the bushes.

Further investigation revealed that two transients had been hanging around the area for a couple of days and had apparently been sleeping in the bushes.

Northern Electric Plant Rejects U.E.W. Union

Workers at the Northern Electric plant in Belleville yesterday turned down the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers Union as a bargaining agency for plant employees. The vote was 274 for the Northern Electric Employee Association and 188 for the U.E.

The above vote has still to be confirmed by the registrar of the Ontario Labor Relations Board.

Reports were that the vote at the plant was conducted very orderly.

Another election was asked by the same union until after six months have elapsed, it was stated.

At least five of some of nature's loveliest creations are blooming in Belleville today.

These trees are known locally as magnolias and are also called tulip trees. It has been explained, however, that they are the true magnolias, of the Japanese or Chinese varieties. They thrive quite well in this district if planted in reasonably good soil and is not too exposed position.

The tulip tree thrives best in the Ontario region from the Niagara Peninsula westward to Detroit along the northern shore of Lake Erie.

Mrs. Aman told the Ontario Intelligencer today that interested motorists have stopped to admire and take pictures of her tree while it is in bloom.

Elsewhere in Belleville at the home of J. M. Barnhart, 348 Coleman street, a peach tree is loaded with blossoms in a picturesque protest, no doubt, to the Niagara Peninsula's claim to being the garden spot of Ontario.

Junior and Int. Certificates Given at Banquet

Junior leadership certificates were presented to 10 boys under 14 years of age and two intermediate leadership diplomas were also awarded at the Y's Men's Father and Son Banquet held at the Y.M.C.A. building Friday evening.

The presentations were made the boys, who had exhibited leadership qualities in their regular weekly meetings at the Y.M.C.A. fourths of the classes or better and who had attended three. The certificates bear the endorsement of the Association of Leaders Corps of the National Council of Y.M.C.A.'s in Canada. The awards were made by Diamanides Diamantides, director of physical education at the Y.M.C.A., and Bryson Leslie, chairman of the physical education committee.

Welcomes to the boys and their fathers were extended by the chairman, Jack Hall, president of the Y's Men's Club, and W. L. Anderson, president of the board of directors of Belleville Y.M.C.A.

Lloyd Skeaff, general secretary, addressed the gathering, awarding three hypothetical stars to three men he felt had done a great deal for the betterment of humanity. Mr. Skeaff's choices were, Jesus of Nazareth, Lou Gehrig and Abraham Lincoln.

Entertainment for the evening was under the direction of Vern Flindall, who conducted games for the boys and Danny Smith who strummed his guitar.

WILL BE DEEDED

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Forty-two acres of land, on which historic monument at Fort Erie and Niagara-on-the-Lake are located, are to be deeded to the Niagara parks commission by the federal government, it was announced Friday. Up to now the land had been held by the commission.

STUDY NEW LIGHT SYSTEM

TORONTO (CP) — Mounting of street lights on the walls of buildings lining downtown Yonge street is to be considered by the city' works committee next week. Sponsors of the plan say it would eliminate hydro poles and would serve to dress up the citys' main thoroughfare.

The Bakhra dam under construction on the Sutlej river in India will irrigate about 4,000,000 acres of new farmland.

Film Depicting Careless Driving Habits Shown

A humorous but thought-provoking film, "A Day in Court" illustrating the careless and driving habits of the average motorist which result in a terrific toll of dead and injured each year, was viewed by a representative gathering of about 80 professional drivers at the Coca Cola plant Friday afternoon.

Viewing the film were drivers from Coca Cola, Brewers Warehousing, National Grocers, Weston Bakery, Burkholders Bakery, Lloyd's Cleaners, Belle Cleaners, Truck and Tractor Supply, B. A. Oil, Shell Oil, Trinidad Leaseholds and Imperial Oil. The International Harvester Company film was also shown through the courtesy of Truck and Farm Supply of Belleville.

Setting the stage for film was in a traffic court where traffic violators appeared before the presiding but understanding judge. As offenders received the sentences they were urged by the judge to show courtesy in their driving habits. His courtesy in giving courtesy was contagious and would result in a sharp reduction of traffic accidents.

Door prizes were drawn for and refreshments, cokes and sandwiches were served.

France Given $60,000,000 In 'Special Aid'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has given France $60,000,000 in "special aid" to bolster French and native forces opposing the Vietminh rebels in Indo-China it was announced Friday.

Mutual security director Harold Stassen told a press conference the money has been transferred to the French government out of foreign aid funds.

Stassen said the program was "developed carefully" during the 14-country North Atlantic Pact meeting in Paris several weeks ago after the Communist-led Vietminh launched their invasion of Laos.

"The transfer now has been effected," he said.

Stassen also said there has been a speedup in deliveries of American military shipments to Indo-China in recent weeks. He did not elaborate on the point.

MauMau Launches Full-Scale War Against Forces

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—Senior army and, police officers said Friday night Mau Mau terrorists have launched "full-scale war" against security forces in the Aberdare mountains and Nyeri reserve north of here.

They said the Mau Mau has started a new phase of open warfare which, if continued, will give troops a better chance of eliminating the terrorism. Hitherto, Mau Mau gangs have used night-time hit-and-run tactics.

One officer said: "The once-secret society of witchcraft and superstition has come into the open and thrown down the gauntlet of battle."

Since Thursday morning, in attacks on Kikuyu home guard posts and police and military patrols, the Mau Mau have lost more than 60 men killed or wounded.

Eighteen terrorists were killed when a band of 120 attacked Gilbarys police camp in Nyeri reserve Friday. Many others were wounded.

"The same gang later attacked a Kikuyu home guard post five miles away, killing six defenders. They lost another four killed, including their leader, Njau Wakwaru, and two wounded.

Another 30 Mau Mau were killed or wounded Thursday night when a band of 250 ambushed a 13-man military patrol, but was driven off by the African Askaris.

Eighteen Killed In Plane Crash Near New Delhi

NEW DELHI (AP)—An Air India passenger plane crashed in a hail storm and killed 14 of 21 persons near Calcutta last Saturday, the two-engine Air India plane plunged just after takeoff.

The Comet broke to bits in a summer monsoon storm. The twoengine plane today apparently caught fire soon after leaving here on a routine five-hour flight to Bombay.

Airport officials said it crashed less than three miles from the field.

It was a complete loss by the time emergency crews from Palam airfield could get to the scene.

Air line officials said the plane was a Douglas Dakota (C-47) on the overnight mail run.

The pilot apparently tried an emergency landing with fire enveloping the plane from an engine where it first broke out, officials said. The blazing wreck plowed along the earth nearly three-quarters of a mile to the edge of Manauloor village.

P.M. Invites Boy 'to Come And See Me'

WASHINGTON (CP)—Canada's prime minister toured the Capitol yesterday and surprised officials when he noticed a small schoolboy on the head and told him to "come and see me next time you come to Canada."

The incident occurred as 71-year-old Louis St. Laurent was led through the historic halls of the U. S. Senate and House of Representatives on his first visit to the scene of American political battles and the hot fight for higher tariffs.

School-children safety patrols from various states were golag through the capitol at the same time. As the children made way for the prime minister, he paused, looked over the yellow workers from across Canada and accepted $500-prize awarded by the Toronto Men's Press Club.

The dinner and off a week-end gathering of newspaper men from many parts of Canada who will also attend the Press Club's Byline Ball tonight.

Bruce Hutchison of the Victoria Times, who recently wrote a best-selling biography of Mackenzie King, "The Incredible Canadian," was awarded the prize for editorial writing. His entry of a selection of editorials was mailed before the deadline for issues, of which particular aspects were pertinent during the year in British Columbia.

Don Delaplaine of the Toronto Globe and Mail, was "Rookie" the fact of thirsery at the Petawawa military camp, leading to a sensational Currie report, accepted the spot news reporting award.

Wilfred List, Globe and Mail labor reporter, won the feature writing award with a series of stories on labor and sociological developments in Quebec, tied into the coverage of the Asbestos strike last October.

Graphic Account

The Toronto Daily Star's William Stevenson won the staff corresponding prize for his graphic reporting last June of the Kojo Thompson battle with armed United States troops and Communist prisoners.

Others who won $400 prizes were: Spot news photography: Russell K. Cooper, Toronto Telegram; feature news photography: Harry Bellas, Calgary Herald; cartooning: Robert LaPalme, Montreal La Presse.

T. E. Nichols of the Hamilton Spectator, won a citation for editorial writing at Rooker Chambers, Halifax Chronicle-Herald, for cartooning.

The prizes, designed to reward and signalize excellence in Canadian newspaper writing, were originated in 1949 by the Toronto Men's Press Club. The contest was first supported by the late George Ferguson, publisher of the Toronto Telegram and the Globe and Mail. It now has been broadened to include the Toronto Daily Star, Montreal Star, the Thomson newspapers, the Winnipeg Star, the London Free Press and the Vancouver Sun.

10 Killed in Gold Coast Rioting

ACCRA, Gold Coast, (Reuters) —Ten persons were killed in an exchange of gunfire when a milling crowd of Africans rioted at Kimlna today in protest against local taxes.

Maj. Edgar Brookes, 53, a British police superintendent, stepped before the crowd to ask for non-demonstration by force. He was killed by a bullet fired from among the crowd.

Police opened fire and in the ensuing melee eight rioters and a constable were killed.

CCF Leader Wants Stronger Links With Britain

KILLALOE, Ont. (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, Friday night expressed his party's view that Canadian trade policy should strengthen the country's links with Britain and other sterling area countries and end its economic dependence on United States.

He told a CCF nomination meeting for Renfrew South constituency that Canada's economy could be gravely damaged if the U.S. Congress passed certain measures to alter import tariffs.

The United States had violated "the spirit and the letter" of the Geneva trade agreements, of which it was the chief promoter, Mr. Coldwell said in a prepared speech.

It had restricted imports of Canadian cheese, butter and dried milk products and "we can never be certain from day to day that other commodities such as feed grains will not be prohibited from entering the U.S."

Newsmen Honored For Contributions During 1952

TORONTO (CP) Seven Canadian newspapermen were honored Friday night for distinguished contributions to their profession in 1952.

Origin of Several Hastings County Names Closely Associated With British History

By Lavonia Stockelbach

The Name of Huntingdon

It would be pleasant for those going over to the Coronation to take time for a visit to Huntingdon, which is but a short distance from London, 50 miles, and not far from Cambridge; it is situated on the Roman Ermine Street running north through Huntingdon. There is a good hotel, The Old Bridge Hotel, where I found good service, good food and a delightful atmosphere. There are also many other good inns. It is situated on the bank of the Ouse River close to the ancient stone bridge from which the hotel takes its name. There are, of course, beautiful gardens.

The bridge was built in 1332 and it and the surroundings are enticing to the artist's eye. There are several rivers of the same name but the one at Huntingdon is called the Great Ouse. In winter time the skating on the Ouse — the entrance to the Fen Country — "That land of dykes and sluices and endless waterways, of great churches, of vast horizons, of wide skies and all the winds of heaven" — is something remarkable. I have never heard of more astonishing skating. But it was summer when I was there.

I noticed that the arches which carry the roadways are of different spans and heights. The fourth arch from the bridge is clearly decorations below the parapet. As one sketches these bridges in England one yearns to see as beautiful ones built in our own country. Though one should not like to have copied the mistakes for the roadway is not in a straight line and it is not easy to negotiate the southern entrance. It was completed six hundred and twenty years ago when the necessity for straight lines for speeding motor cars was not foreseen.

Huntingdon is a town for sensible people; one could not wish to rush past the house of the poet Cowper, who, you remember, wrote the diverting history of John Gilpin, and the verses beginning "I am research of all I survey"

My right there is none to dispute" — the nonsensical "Poplar Field" and "The Nightingale and the Halibut." Also he wrote the beautifully consoling Olney hymns.

The original name was Huntandun, then Huntesfun, Huntes's Hill. The old ending was "dune" then "don." It has been known to Saxon, Dane and Norman. In 1016 the Danes destroyed the town, and before the Black Death it was considered a great town but the plague carried here as elsewhere awful havoc. A quarter of the town was left uninhabited and the burden distribute. The closing of the religious houses cast the burden of relieving the poor on the town burgesses. By 1538 there were fourteen churches, two of the three hospitals and all the monasteries had disappeared — only two of the original sixteen churches remain. It is difficult to understand why there should be so many in so small a space but very few traces remain of them.

Soon after the borough was established the inhabitants formed themselves into an association. They gave themselves the right to hand down the government of the town, and the ownership of the common lands. Their sons were admitted when they were 21 and they could enjoy the privileges of the town only so long as they lived there. Such people at first were known as "freemen." Ordinary men were admitted on the price of a fee; but at present there are only about twenty descendants.

The Common, 165 acres, surrounding the town are little absolute property handed down from the original owners but they are now let to local farmers, for grazing purposes.

It must always have been a beautiful place and is so yet, with its narrow streets and historic buildings. There are earthworks to mark the castle built just after the Norman Conquest. Cromwell House, where Oliver Cromwell was born in 1599, has traces of an old Friary. But his ancestor lived in Hinchingbrooke outside the town, half a mile from Huntingdon. The name Hinchingbrooke comes from the ancient Danish family, the "ing of the Hyrsas", that is the brook. We come across a similar derivation in the word Hastings — from "Hasta" and "ing."

Hinchingbrooke was originally a convent of Benedictine nuns known as the Priory of St. James-and-the-Maidens-Hundred, at the dissolution of the monasteries. The site was granted to a Sir Henry Cromwell. It finally became the property of Oliver Cromwell's uncle, and is now owned by the present Earl of Sandwich, whose ancestor originated the modern ever-present sandwich. It is said that he was such a perpetual gamester that when he had not time from dice and cards to sit down to a good square meal he had a slice of meat placed between two slices of bread for quick handling. His friends however say it was invented because he was so busy at the Admiralty. I could not find out — though I asked — the relative thickness of the bread and the meat.

It is a superb palace and the park of the nunnery is preserved in the present building. The dining room has the long, old oak table from the nunnery but the chairs are Cromwellian, though it is claimed that the ancient nunnery was always small and poor.

The Cromwells, however, had a habit of marrying very rich heiresses thus accounting for the grandeur of Hinchingbrooke. The place is open to the public several days a week. It is a curious thing to remember that during the Civil War Oliver's uncle remained a staunch loyalist. It is impossible for me to describe the place — the combination of great beauty and homeliness.

There are various portraits of Cromwell. The manslon is indeed so full of historic memories that several visits must be made to take them all in. Most of all one likes to picture the sons to life out of our school books to greet us.

The library, where one could so happily spend hours and still more hours, was probably on the site of the Priory Chapel, and in the thickness of the wall, between the library and the billiard room, is a space which is thought to be the site of the night stairs from the nun's dormitory above. The large drawing room was the nun's sitting room — or as it was called, (and I should think sensibly), the "warming" room.

Loveliest of all the beauties of this house is the huge bay window, most beautiful in itself and, of course, looking out on the usual beautiful English gardens, ancient trees, that with characteristic gratitude give thanks to the loving care bestowed on them. It took time to sit and worship and enjoy the vistas and the Lombardy poplar avenue leading down to the lake. The lawns are the English lawns and the whole plan of the garden beds are as designed by the first Earl.

At one time the renowned Samuel Pepys had a suit of stewardship over the house. His own home was a half mile away.

Bedspring Centennial

One hundred years ago, James E. Liddy, of Watertown, N.Y., rode into town in a jolting buggy to do some shopping. He was thankful, comments the Detroit Free Press, that the seat was equipped with coil-springs which absorbed some of the discomfort.

The thought struck Liddy that if buggy springs were that comfortable, they should be used in beds — in place of ropes, to support the mattress.

Liddy was a blacksmith, so he turned out the first bed-spring by hand in 1853. He neglected to obtain a patent which probably has disconforted some of his heirs.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. POWELL

Banks I Stand On Jordan's Storny

On Jordan's stormy banks I stand
And cast a wishful eye
To Canaan's fair and happy land
Where my possessions lie.

O'er all those wide extended plains
Shines one eternal day;
Where God the Son forever reigns
And scatters night away.

No chilling winds, or poisonous breath
Can reach that healthful shore;
Sickness and sorrow, pain and death,
Are felt and feared no more.

When shall I reach that happy place,
And be forever blest?
When shall I see my Father's face,
And in His bosom rest?

"Another six days' work is done,
Another Sabbath is begun,
Return, my soul, enjoy thy rest
Improve the day thy Lord hath blest."

Samuel Stennett was born in Exeter, England in 1727. He was 21 years old when he became assistant to his father in the Wild Street Church in London. Ten years later he took over the pastorate and began a ministry which was to last for nearly four decades. He wrote 38 hymns in addition to some important sacred poems. His hymn of Heaven, which appears above, was turned out for a special collection of religious songs in 1787 and was published under the title, "The Promised Land."

Ira D. Sankey, famous writer and singer of gospel songs, loved to use "On Jordan's Banks" in his religious meetings and in one of his books of reminiscences he said: "While visiting in the Holy Land on one occasion, I sang this hymn on the banks of the Jordan, opposite Mount Pisgah, where God showed Moses the promised land of Canaan."

There is another hymn in Stennett's list which all Christians have come to love. It is his hymn entitled

"Majestic sweetness sits enthroned
Upon the Saviour's brow;
His head with radiant glories crowned,
His lips with grace o'erflow.

To Heaven, the place of His abode,
He brings my weary feet;
Shows me the glories of my God,
And makes my joys complete."

The Christian church is indebted to Baptists for many of its most glorious songs.

Such gems as "Come, Thou Fount of Every Blessing," "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," "He Leadeth Me," "Awake My Soul, to Joyful Lays," "The Morning Light is Breaking," the "Name of Jesus With You" were all produced by Baptist hymnists.

Dr. Samuel Stennett, English clergyman and author of the hymn "On Jordan's Stormy Banks I Stand," also was a Baptist. He came from an illustrious line of Baptist preachers; his great grandfather, Edward Stennett, and his father and grandfather, both of whom bore the name of Joseph, were eminent church leaders before him. The great-father wrote a hymn which is still being used in twentieth century churches:

PREOCCUPIED POLITICIANS

Anyone who has not made it a point to keep a close eye on the House of Commons in months past could well be forgiven a good deal that is being heard in cross-the-floor sallies in these dying days of the session.

Most members are so busy acting like thorough-going politicians in order to be ready for the lists in August that if any question or reply these days bears resemblance to the genuine give-and-take in normal debate it is purely coincidental.

Howard Green, Vancouver Progressive Conservative, fired ever a champion of Canada's interests in the Pacific, had two quite reasonable suggestions to make to External Affairs Minister Pearson on Wednesday. In respect to the Indo-Chinese situation he proposed that Canada might at least offer transport planes to embattled French and native forces standing up to Communist Vietminh. He also called for a realistic approach to the Far Eastern situation with Canada taking steps which would lead to a general pacific alliance along the lines of NATO.

Mr. Green emphasized that it might be already too late because the Western powers had looked too long upon the scattered wars in that area as isolated and incidental conflicts instead of recognizing them for what they were —parts of a general Communist pattern of aggression in Asia.

To this Mr. Pearson replied that Canada has not been asked to help the French in Indo-China and he had no reason to believe that Canada would be asked until Indo-China becomes a member of the United Nations. He also stated that the Government felt it would be unwise to take the initiative in trying to form a pacific pact along the lines of NATO because the United States thinks such a move would be premature."

There ended the discussion. Had Mr. Green left the chamber for some other place before the External Affairs Minister dealt with his question? We do not know. But surely there were some members of Her Majesty's loyal Opposition in their seats, and there before them stood the External Affairs Minister as vulnerable as he is ever likely to be. They obviously had their minds on more promising election material than the fate of southeast Asia.

Was it entirely overlooked that Mr. Pearson had made the astonishing admission that the Canadian Government's policy in the Far East is whatever Washington happens to think is wise or unwise? And this from the Government of Canada, with a good deal of right to be initiated and taken the first steps which led to the establishment of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, now acknowledged as the bulwark of western defence against Communism!

Did it not occur to someone to suggest to Mr. Pearson that at the very moment the crisis was such that within a matter of hours the fate of Indo-China might have been sealed without ever having a chance of being submitted to the United Nations? That is why the case today but that was an imminent threat last Wednesday and Mr. Pearson was certainly aware of it. But surely someone could have put to him the timely rhetorical and politically tactical question: "Is this the stated policy of the Government on the Far Eastern situation as this time, or did the External Affairs Minister speak on his own account that in view of the imminence of an election this was no time to discuss any likelihood of further military entanglements in the Far East?"

Such a question, of course, would have provoked loud appeals and protests to Mr. Speaker—but no answer. Nor would one have been expected.

Our point, however, is that none of these things was heard in the House on Wednesday. And in the absence of them members on both sides of the House have demonstrated that they, and from now until the 27th of June are counted in August, they are going to be too pre-occupied with jockeying for political advantage on the hustings to pay much serious attention to anything else.

But for the coming of the monsoons in Indo-China this week, enforcing a withdrawal of the Vietminh push in India, it might have been a different story by today. Perhaps Mr. Pearson had been briefed by the weatherman.

This is not a singular instance of the preoccupation of members this week in the Commons. In the last days of a session before an election members are meticulous in any matter which might have a bearing on their own will form the next government. The Liberals invariably refer to the return of the government and the Conservatives invariably refer to the next different things will be when they form the next government.

Early this week E. Davie Fulton, Progressive Conservative of Kamloops, slipped away from the confined in debate that Finance Minister Abbott do something or other "on behalf of the government at the beginning of the next session." Mr. Fulton, it developed, is the author of a broad smile but not so kind were some CCF-ers who drew attention out loud to the awful thing that Mr. Fulton had said.

The Kamloops member was quick to put the record straight, explaining: "those words . . . do not reflect what I really had in mind." Nevertheless that Mr. Fulton's mouth has since been washed out with soap or that he has been subjected to appropriate brain-washing by the party anti-contamination squad.

But these are symptoms of political thinking of the day and then hour when voting approaches. It is well that these things be kept in mind, for what might appear to be a little bit confusing now, will probably become confusion worse confounded three months hence.

TOMORROW

If tomorrow did not hold
Some small bit worth pain of gaining,
Then man's story had been told;
All still over, dullness reigning.

If to stay the way they are,
Things established were the best;

There would be no goal afar
Worth its cost in hard endeavor.

If there were no more to learn,
No mental fact for pause and waiting,
Nothing left from fame to earn,
All for death would here be awaiting.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

May 8th, 1923

Merchants report that they are doing much greater business now than they have done in several years and that a large amount of the business is being done for cash. Many customers in the stores on Front street were playing merrily on Saturday.

Mr. Jasper Nelson, a well-known resident of Belleville boy, has returned to Detroit. Mich., after visiting friends here.

Mr. Harry Pocton of Grimsby is spending a few days here with his brother, Mr. Thomas N. Penton, at Sidney College, Trenton.

One hundred and five dollars was realized by the Rose Day campaign on Saturday which was conducted by the St. Julien Chapter I.O.D.E. The members are very grateful to the ladies who for the generous response to the appeal.

Mr. Bruce Lattimer spent the week-end in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Abrams of Bancroft spent the week-end here with friends.

Miss Grace Gillard, Miss Frances Reid and Miss Leah Harper spent the week-end in Montreal.

30 YEARS AGO

May 9th, 1923

At a meeting of the Parks Board the following members were present: T. P. J. Power, C. J. Symons, Chairman Dafoe, Charles Panter, W. Rogers and Ald. Harry Greenleaf, the secretary. It was decided to place 300 portable seats around the ball diamond at the Agricultural Park. The members of the Athletic Association guaranteed to sell 200 season tickets at $2 each for the chairs.

Mrs. J. D. Ketcheson and Mrs. W. E. Baird, who have been visiting their mother, Mrs. C. A. Fralick, Foster Avenue, have left for their homes in Moose Jaw, Sask.

Mr. W. C. Springer of this city was appointed to two committees at a meeting of the Ontario branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in Toronto.

Mr. James H. Clare, reeve of Hungerford township, has been appointed Sheriff of the County of Hastings to fill the vacancy caused by the death of M. F. Morrison.

30 YEARS AGO

May 8th, 1913

Mr. P. J. Wims has returned to his home here after an extended visit through the West and south.

Mr. Fred Burrows is home from Toronto on a short visit. Mr. Burrows, who is a dentist, is spending a few days here with friends.

Mrs. Arthur Bird is home from Toronto to spend a few days.

Mrs. N. McGilvray of Swift Current, Sask., is the guest of Mrs. Ashley, Coleman Street.

To-day the Public Works department will run 30 feet of service pipe free of charge until May 1st.

Miss Christie Urquhart of Toronto, formerly of this city, is visiting friends here.

50 YEARS AGO

May 9th, 1903

The residence of Mrs. L. W. Yeomans at the north east corner of Bridge and John streets, is undergoing a fine coat of roughcast.

Mr. W. B. Northrup, K.C., of this city, addressed the Young Liberal Conservative Association in Montreal last evening.

Mr. Fred J. Thorpe of Sydney, B.C., is spending a few days in town.

The school board is considering organizing a cadet corps here in connection with the city schools.

Complaints are made that bicycles are exceed the speed limit in this city. They go at a rate of about 15 miles an hour and someone is going to be hit sooner or later. The by-law provides for fines which will train let them go with the town to do their speeding.

Mr. William Taylor has leased the hotel in Massassaga and assured they'll think nothing of his heavy coach; they are used to hauling that kind of load and bear at one time!

So Mr. Speaker will be at the Abbey in due course, to maintain the dignity and honor of the Commons.

Curiously enough, Mr. Speaker is not attending the Queen's ceremony, but the Queen may not attend the opening of the session over the House of Commons. She may not enter the House of Commons. She has been permitted to do so for more than 100 years, and curiosity has been tempted to influence the course of debate in threatening to arrest several members.

He Misses Navy Show

(Christian Science Monitor)

We read with interest of the eyewitness who wrote in the Navy's catalog for new recipes—because he misses the old Navy chow.

This will confirm those Army men who complain bitterly that it's the same old mess as in the days of fat of the land. It will confirm those ancient warriors of World War I who say that the Navy's service has become a veritable floating Y.W.C.A. restaurant and whippersnapper of today. And it will confirm the impression of landlubbers in general that a sailor's life is a jolly one, yo-ho-ho and a bottle of chili sauce.

"Home is the sailor, home from the sea," wrote Robert Louis Stevenson elegiacally and might have added "—home from chow at the Y." The old salt must stick to his hard tack, but it's a safe bet that he'd rather be a thirsty who has once had a taste of the sea.

Ancient Art of Heraldry

(In the Edmonton Journal Writing From London)

In Queen Victoria Street, almost within the shadow of the dome of St. Paul's, stands a seventeenth century building in the chambers of which a small and select group of men practise one of the world's most unusual professions—heraldry.

This function of the College of Arms has often been ridiculed as outmoded, snobbish and has been attacked as commercial exploitation on the ground that privileges granted by the heralds have to be paid for. But the supporters of heraldry defend it as contributing largely to the remarkable continuity which has given stability to English social life.

The term herald is now spoilt habitually to all Officers of Arms, although it properly applied only to the three Kings of Arms and the six heralds and not to the four junior assistants, the pursuivants. They take an important part in all state ceremonials, of which the coronation is the most complex. As members of the Royal Household they have a big share in the pre-arrangements for the ceremonies and maintain busy offices in Belgrave Square.

Their main function, however, is the granting of coats-of-arms, standing for the grant of arms, the grees which usually go with them and the proper recording of genealogical research.

Despite the popular understanding, the College of Arms is in no sense a government department. It is a private corporation of thirteen members bound by authority of a charter granted in 1555 by Mary Tudor. The Duke of Norfolk, Earl Marshal or Marshal of England, is usually regarded as chief of the heralds, although he has nothing to do with the college.

All the officers are paid a salary from the Privy Purse, but it is so nominal that the total of all their salaries is probably not more than $700 a year. Now do their earnings from fees greatly exceed that figure. The earnings of a general practitioner in medicine, the fees for tracing pedigrees and presenting them in richly illuminated manuscript books, and for practising arms.

Despite the meagre monetary rewards which members of high educational standards and men of special ability, appointment to the college is keenly sought. There were 180 applicants for one recent vacancy in the pursuivants. Vacancies are rare. The present Clarenceux is 81 and started as a pursuivant when he was 29; Norroy is 78 and began when he was 26.

Heraldry in England is not just an archaic function revived on the occasion of each new reign. In fact it is more active today than in the Middle Ages, when the lives of the nobility and the gentry could not be conducted without the help of the heralds' applications for a grant of arms go through the College of Arms.

England has never had an exclusive noble caste, such as exists in Continental countries. In these countries almost anybody may acquire a grant of arms, only in England have arms been regarded as a token of gentility. Which tokens have constantly been acquired by new men coming up from the lower classes. And never, it appear that the dignity of arms has been reduced. The heralds have always been ready to confer this distinction on the successive upsurge caused by social changes, and so have helped to maintain the structure of society.

Mr. Speaker Will be There

(Edmonton Journal)

Mr. Speaker—of "the mother of parliaments" will attend the Queen's crowning in Westminster Abbey—but he will be without overcoming difficulties and hazards. A series of dispatches has recorded some of them, and with they add their slight amusing side, they also are a reminder of the high status of the Speaker of Her Majesty's Parliament of the Commonwealth, all of which is based on that of the United Kingdom.

The cause of searchings and scrambling has been the Speaker's 250-year-old coach, an ornate vehicle that is the pride of his office. The present Speaker of the British House of Commons, on the face of the great occasion, be found himself without a coat-of-arms—and even on that of the horses which could haul the two-and-a-half ton carriage with dignity. It was probably a bit of aplomb, too. It has been said that the Speaker is fastidiously, are named Sovereign and Majesty. But he has been assured they'll think nothing of his heavy coach; they are used to hauling stuff that is a lot heavier at one time!

So Mr. Speaker will be at the Abbey in due course, to maintain the dignity and honor of the Commons.

Curiously enough, Mr. Speaker is not attending the Queen's crowning, but the Queen may not attend the opening of the session over the House of Commons. She may not enter the House of Commons. She has been permitted to do so for more than 100 years, and curiosity has been tempted to influence the course of debate in threatening to arrest several members.

Dalmation Mystery

(Windsor Star)

Many breeds or animals take their names from the area in which they originated. Thus we have Newfoundland dogs, Alsation horses, Suffolk sheep, and Yorkshire hogs. And in the always the case, Yorkshire hogs is bred bearing the name of any other breed from there.

Dalmatian dogs appear to be the exception. Dalmatia is a district or Yugoslavia along the Adriatic Sea. Nobody has come to reference works do assert the Dalmatian originated there. This is disputed, however.

Recently there was a show put on by the Windsor Kennel Club. Some thought this a group of Dalmatians should be called Dalmatians. That's the way it has been and Communism. But it is not the way it is now. Dalmatians are owning the big handsome spotted dogs. It is a fine state of affairs when a dog can be accused of being fellow-travellers just because they own a white dog with spots.

To make it clear the club had not the remotest association with Dalmatia's experts at the show admitted the dogs had come there by way the name Dalmatian had never been known. The Dalmatia dog but they couldn't explain how the breed got its name.

COMMON GARDEN TYPE OF ANEMIA

In most instances anemia is of ordinary garden type which doctors call "secondary" anemia to distinguish it from "primary" anemia of the pernicious variety (the green, which formerly occurred in young women, but particularly immigrants from Southern Europe, but has become so rare in this country that many doctors with large practices never see a case at all, or the type called pernicious anemia, which might be called the "lemon-yellow sickness," for persons who have it have a lemon-yellow complexion and the so-called patients had a greenish-yellow complexion.

Dr. Brady

Doctors called chlorosis, pernicious anemia and leukemia primary or essential anemia because they assumed it was a deficiency of the blood and caused by blood disease. They called the more common type secondary anemia because it was a symptom or "watery" blood secondary anemia because it was a symptom of some ailment such as Bright's disease, pulmonary tuberculosis, cancer, etc.

Dr. Paul Rhoads, of the University of Pennsylvania, has now reported no less than four cases they had seen in two years. From the study of the four cases conclusion that "chlorosis is the exclusive disease of the young" toward anemia in adolescent girls, created by the increased demand for iron made by growth and by menstrual or other blood loss, by diet deficient in iron-containing foods."

Diet deficient in iron-containing foods is, in the opinion of the writer, responsible for the anemia who conducts this column, an important factor of both chlorosis and pernicious anemia.

All of the iron in egg yolk, cabbage, celery, lettuce and peanuts is "available" — that is, can be absorbed and used in the body, and most of the iron in potatoes, but only half of the iron in bread and meat. A sixth of the iron in cereals, is available.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON BORROWING

I wonder who first initiated the idea of borrowing? I think there are several different kinds of borrowing. Sometimes a man often has to borrow, but he does not have the full knowledge that it will be paid on a definite day. It becomes the life of commerce. But a petty borrowing has no proper purpose behind it. People borrow a book, an umbrella, footstools and other things, with no intention of ever returning.

There is a certain thing that we have to deal with in this life that is very frequently called by that honor. If we become obligated to another by petty borrowing, we subtract so much honor and there is an immediate weakening of the will. We are not as free as we should be or any other way. We may have to pay later through the loss of a friend!

I like this line—Pay as you go. Give, if it's a worthy thing to do, but don't loan or borrow. Becoming obligated to a friend adds weight to the world. You aren't a free person any more.

In a very broad sense we are all borrowers. We borrow from nature, from books in the ideas that we have implanted, and from the good acts on our own part. We are debtors to scores of people whom we have never met and whom we probably never shall meet. But I am not speaking here so to thank many an author for the inspiration and pleasure that I have borrowed from his example of creative skill. And I wish I could express adequately to him what they unthinkingly loan to me from their store of common sense, kindliness, and character.

Borrowing is one of the things things our only obligation is to pass them on to others. Only in that way will we pay the obligation we owe. The love we get from others can only be repaid by what we borrow love, it's only so that we can pay it back in full!

Probably Not Cricket

(Montreal Gazette)

An intriguing story of cricket, wedding and divorce comes out of Chicago. The Cook County clerk discovered that 675 of the 30,340 marriages performed there last year had not been used. He canvassed the couples for their reasons. The answers were confusing.

"Could not find a place to live." "Couldn't get together." "Ex-fiancees' mother destroyed it on sight—perhaps some other reason."

The most intriguing reply said "It's not cricket."

It was not what? The Chicago story puts it as delicately as it can, but it can be doubted whether the writer actually put one there. It was not cricket to marry? The complete statement.

If there was no period at the end of this cryptic line, then the writer had begun to write more. What caused him to stop there? Embarrassment? Remembrance? A great city may jump to the conclusion that the writer was shot by gangsters. But that is not necessarily correct. He might have been seized with a fit of fond sweet memories that he fainted.

He might have been swept by such a flood of relief that he fainted.

And what more did he intend to say? It was not what? Wise? Tolerant? Fair?

Cricket will have to do.

They called the more common type secondary anemia because it was a symptom or "watery" blood secondary anemia because it was a symptom of some ailment such as Bright's disease, pulmonary tuberculosis, cancer, etc.

Dr. Paul Rhoads, of the University of Pennsylvania, has now reported no less than four cases they had seen in two years. From the study of the four cases conclusion that "chlorosis is the exclusive disease of the young" toward anemia in adolescent girls, created by the increased demand for iron made by growth and by menstrual or other blood loss, by diet deficient in iron-containing foods."

Diet deficient in iron-containing foods is, in the opinion of the writer, responsible for the anemia who conducts this column, an important factor of both chlorosis and pernicious anemia.

All of the iron in egg yolk, cabbage, celery, lettuce and peanuts is "available" — that is, can be absorbed and used in the body, and most of the iron in potatoes, but only half of the iron in bread and meat. A sixth of the iron in cereals, is available.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON BORROWING

I wonder who first initiated the idea of borrowing? I think there are several different kinds of borrowing. Sometimes a man often has to borrow, but he does not have the full knowledge that it will be paid on a definite day. It becomes the life of commerce. But a petty borrowing has no proper purpose behind it. People borrow a book, an umbrella, footstools and other things, with no intention of ever returning.

There is a certain thing that we have to deal with in this life that is very frequently called by that honor. If we become obligated to another by petty borrowing, we subtract so much honor and there is an immediate weakening of the will. We are not as free as we should be or any other way. We may have to pay later through the loss of a friend!

I like this line—Pay as you go. Give, if it's a worthy thing to do, but don't loan or borrow. Becoming obligated to a friend adds weight to the world. You aren't a free person any more.

In a very broad sense we are all borrowers. We borrow from nature, from books in the ideas that we have implanted, and from the good acts on our own part. We are debtors to scores of people whom we have never met and whom we probably never shall meet. But I am not speaking here so to thank many an author for the inspiration and pleasure that I have borrowed from his example of creative skill. And I wish I could express adequately to him what they unthinkingly loan to me from their store of common sense, kindliness, and character.

Borrowing is one of the things things our only obligation is to pass them on to others. Only in that way will we pay the obligation we owe. The love we get from others can only be repaid by what we borrow love, it's only so that we can pay it back in full!

Strength for the Day

SOME REALLY CARE

Walter Reuschenbach, the great theological reformer, dedicated his life to the alleviation of human suffering. He particularly interested in the passage of legislation which would forbid child labor.

On the morning that Reuschenbach read in the newspaper that the Senate committee had killed the child labor law, he burst into his study. His mother found him sobbing at his desk and repeating over and over, "Somebody must be no classes that day. Here was a man who had in him the spirit of that Jesus who looked over Jerusalem, crying out, "If thou hadst known in this thy day, even these, the things which belong unto peace! but now they are hid from thine eyes," and who at another time said of Jerusalem, "How often would I have gathered your children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not!"

The child of Abraham Lincoln that he was seated on the side of the bed and told him about when he learned of the Dred Scott Decision made by the United States Supreme Court. The next morning a companion who was sleeping in the same room awoke to find Lincoln still sitting on the side of the bed with his head in his hand.

There are some noble souls in the world who care, Jesus Christ was one, and those, but a gallant few, are in the world in this, to the glory of God and the emancipation of man.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Roderick Haig-Brown, the Canadian novelist who writes on the out-of-doors and country life, has one of the finest libraries in the book "Fisherman's Spring," by Michael Traherne, and "Bird Watching and Bird Behaviour," by Crompton Birds." This is a far better name for the hobby than "ornithology" which is used to follow the sport of walking in the woods and along the country roads looking for birds do not really "watch" birds. There is something highly absurd in the notion of a man or woman going about with binoculars staring at birds.

The sport really consists of recognising birds. The hobbyist goes out into fields and woods with the idea of seeing, that day, as many different species of wild birds as possible, and definitely recognizing them or else going about the job of stalking an unknown species until, with the aid of his pocket field guide, he establishes its identity. And a big moment it is for the hobbyist when he adds a new bird to the two or three hundred species he can already recognize on sight.

It is true that a keen bird watcher should do really watch birds. That is, the highest skills, the advanced members of the craft, who are intent upon studying the behaviour of birds, will spend them hour by hour, day after day, in the numerous activities of courtship, nesting and feeding and rearing of wild birds. Here endless variety among the different species, whether bittern, hoot owl or humming-bird, warbler. Most wild life is extremely difficult to watch. The mammals are secretive, hidden, sly, and capable of high speed. Birds, however, are comparatively easy to observe. And they offer to people of naturally busy country ity the opportunity to delight in ways of life different from their ourselves, only more honest.

Bird watching already is a hobby involving the process of instant recognition. Really skilled bird people do collections of stamps, fine china, etchings, Chopin, book plates, and all the other inconsidered trifles.

Dog Receives Two Wolf Cubs Into "Family Fold"

A pair of young wolf cubs taken from their den by a farmer after their mother was fought off with an axe, have been "adopted" by a dachshund dog owned by Newt Kincaid of Maple, Ont. Showing little interest in the two timber wolf cubs when they were first brought to her door to be "mothered," the dachshund, which recently lost her own litter of pups, did a right about face and now accepts the cubs as her own much to the approval of John Rankin, left, and Ross Empey. — Central Press Canadian.

In and Around Middleton Park

RCAF Women's Auxiliary Doing Grand Work in Park

During the past eight months, congenial members of the RCAF Women's Auxiliary have welcomed newcomers and visited old-timers in more than 1,100 homes in and around Middleton Park. Added to this, more than 150 letters of welcome have been sent to wives beyond the borders of Trenton and Middleton Park.

In September and October, 1952 more than 950 service wives were called upon in their homes by committee members under Mrs. W. Welzer, arts and crafts; Mrs. R. F. Murray, public relations, and Mrs. M. Wright, membership. The mass calling program had a three-fold purpose; 1. To interest wives in the work of the Women's Auxiliary. 2. To enlist their services as instructors and to obtain membership in the arts and crafts classes, adopted in October, 1952. 3. To increase membership in the RCAF Women's Auxiliary.

In all respects the program was successful. Today, more wives are attending W.A. meetings and taking part in auxiliary activities. The first meeting had a record attendance of 400 members — unequalled in its 12-year history — and more than 300 wives have participated in the arts and crafts program.

The work of calling upon wives did not cease with the original drive. Since November, more than 150 newcomers to the Middleton Park district have been called upon by a committee under the supervision of Mrs. R. F. Murray. The one-year-old public relations committee was enlarged and included in the 1952-53 executive. This voluntary group of workers has been well received by newcomers, so that it will start its second year of operation in June with a new and more fitting title, the Welcoming Committee.

Given Sheet

When a caller greets a new wife, she gives her a mimeographed sheet of information on the RCAF Women's Auxiliary — the hub of women's activities in and around Middleton Park.

Newcomers are informed of the date, time, place, fee and program of the next auxiliary meeting. They are given a brief resume of the organizations activities, such as the Opportunity Shop, the Welfare Committee, the Trenton Memorial Hospital Nursery, the RCAF Station Hospital, the Well Baby Clinic, the Arts and Crafts classes and other short term seasonal projects.

The purpose of the large organization may be summed up by a quotation from the pamphlet "The Women's Auxiliary affords a wonderful opportunity for service wives to get acquainted with new and old members — to enjoy and to participate in the many functions of the auxiliary."

An invitation is extended by the caller to attend current station activities. Callers today are inviting newcomers to come and enjoy two one-act plays on June 3 and 4; an exhibition of Bake Sale on June 6, and a Home and School Ballet recital on May 29.

An incoming wife can ask about anything and the caller is generally able to supply the answer. Mothers express great interest in the work of the Well Baby clinic and several have offered their services as instructors for the Arts and Crafts classes. "They are always glad that they have been called upon," reported Mrs. Murray.

Mrs. G. M. Mathieson, Mrs. F. Woldnick, Mrs. D. J. Fisher and Mrs. R. D. Barton are members of the committee which keeps a record of members' phone numbers, addresses, and their interests.

Ideally Situated

Mrs. Murray's sparkling personality and her accommodating nature are ideally suited to her task of welcoming all types of people to strange surroundings. Although she has had some 40 wives assisting here in her work, a great deal of time has been spent by herself in calling. This is her second tour of duty as a caller. Mrs. Murray was a member of the visiting committee of the RCAF Centralia Women's Auxiliary.

Aside from her auxiliary duties, she is a Sunday School teacher and has a part in a play to be produced on June 3 and 4 in Air Marshal Breadner school. She organized canvassers for advertising in the "S.S. Soirie" Coronation Cruise program and in 1952 appeared in the Hotel Astra as a fashion model.

The following is a list of regular callers for the Public Relations committee: Mrs. W. H. Ingram, Mrs. A. Chorneyny, Mrs. A. E. Evans, Mrs. R. Gourley, Mrs. L. W. Schunk, Mrs. R. Thorne, Mrs. J. Neff, Mrs J. O. Sandbach, Mrs. W. A. Hockney, Mrs. M. Scott and many others.

Welcome Mat

In order that readers may acquaint themselves with new arrivals in their neighborhood, the "Welcome Mat" is run as a regular feature of this column. They are the newcomers whom the public relations committee calls upon.

A warm welcome is extended to the following, who have arrived to take up residence in and around Middleton Park: LAC and Mrs. C. E. Ricketts, Apt. 2B, Bld. 38, No. 6 Repair Depot; Cpl. and Mrs. H. F. Creamer, Apt. 27, Bldg. 38, No. 6 Repair Depot; Sgt. and Mrs. C. A. Rowe, 71 McGill Ave. F.O. and Mrs. M. J. Muntean, 7 McEwen Drive; LAC and Mrs. J. W. N.Z. High Commissioner Gives Talk on Native Land At Wellington Trade Banquet

WELLINGTON (Special) — Basically, apart from area and population, things are so different in Canada and New Zealand. Both spurred from people who went overseas to help keep alive the spirit of freedom, courage of their hearts and determination of ideals, His Excellency, T. C. J. Hislop, New Zealand high commissioner for Canada said here last night.

Speaking at a Board of Trade banquet, the distinguished visitor said if Dominion ideals remain true to their basic ideals and be part of the common whole they can face what's ahead with hope and sure confidence.

Mr. Hislop reviewed in descriptive detail the rise of New Zealand from a colonist as a "settlement" founded in 1840 to its present proud position as a member of the British Commonwealth of nations.

"Previous to its discovery and settlement by Captain Cook, a Dutchman, one Abel Tasman landed there looked it over, and sailed away," he said.

Relates Anecdote

His forefathers, helped create the Dominion settlement of Dunedin to the south of New Zealand, relating a humorous anecdote, Mr. Hislop said a Scotsman named James Anderson promised to sail for Dunedin to assist the speaker's forebears with the settlement. He never showed up. Months later he wrote a letter explaining he was with an English settlement in the north where he figured he could make more money than if he remained with his Scots kinsmen on Dunedin.

The Maori tribes, aborigines of New Zealand, which number 125,000 of the country's two million population, live on terms of equality. Many are of outstanding ability and occupy prominent positions in all walks of life.

One prominent Maori, an outstanding speaker, addressed a St. Andrew's night celebration and claimed he had Scottish blood in his veins since one of his ancestors once "ate a Presbyterian missionary". Mr. Hislop related amid laughter.

Colorful Description

In colorful description of his country, Mr. Hislop said the temperature ranges from 40 degrees in the winter to 75-80 in the summer. Snow-capped mountain peaks guard grass-covered lowlands. Fruits are grown the year-round. Due to the weather and the country's agricultural scientists, New Zealand bones be able to build extraordinary farming communities. The majority of its people depend almost entirely on farming for their living and economic existence.

"New Zealand," he said, "is the greatest exporter of dairy products in the world. It has over 2,000,000 cows and sells cattle to world markets. Thirty-five million sheep graze on its ranges contributing to the largest wool export business extant. With regard to meat, the country has sold more of this product to the United Kingdom markets than Argentina and Australia combined."

He said New Zealand had had the "pleasant experience" of having all types of social welfare experiments since 1890. Old age pensions have survived despite protests. The country has not socialized medicine but has a scheme with various phases through which the people have two-thirds of medical costs paid and free hospitalization. Free drugs are available."

Costs Lot of Money

"The scheme costs a lot of money, but as long as the country is prosperous and can pay, all political parties agree it is the proper thing to be added.

The railways in New Zealand belong to the state. "Of course," Mr. Hislop smiled, "they don't pay, but we get good service."

The country had a Socialist government from 1935-39 and "it did a lot of good things. It was defeated and the present party is endeavoring to put more responsibility on the individual than the state.

Proudly Flayed Part

"New Zealand," Mr. Hislop said, "proudly tried to play its part in three wars. In World War I over 100,000 of her sons served overseas. A greater proportion saw service in the second great conflict and today many of her soldiers are in Korea."

He paid exceptional tribute to Canada and Canadians for the part they played in establishing New Zealand airmen while training here under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

"I would like to convey a message to those fine people in Canada who gave freely of their homes to our boys. They were the greatest sense, taken away from home. Please accept our heartfelt thanks."

Mr. Hislop was introduced by George Tustin, M.P., Prince Edward-Lennox, while Board of Trade appreciation was expressed by Reeve James Dennison, who later presented the speaker with two large cartons of Prince Edward County farm produce.

Upwards of seventy members and guests attended the meeting, which was chaired by president Dr. R. A. Thompson. During the evening nearly sixty dollars was raised for the Prince Edward Hospital Building Fund. The banquet was held at Graham Manor.

Included in the guests were: Charles W. Cawker, president Belleville Chamber of Commerce; Don Kingdon, secretary-manager of that organization; John de Arnaud, Picton, president Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce, and his secretary, Barry Anderson; Norris Whitney, M.L.A. Prince Edward - Lennox; Warden Clinton Green, of Prince Edward; Ed Williams, president Prince Edward Hospital Board, Picton; Lyn Greer, Board of Trade past president, and Jack Ogilvy, president Canadian Legion, Branch 160, Wellington.

During the afternoon Mr. Hislop spoke to the students of the consolidated school. At 5.30 he was guest of honor at a reception held in the Legion Hall.

Weddings

ENRIGHT—COVINGTON

Lilies, carnations and daffodils interspersed with ferns, formed a lovely setting in Christ Church, Bedford, on Saturday, April 25, at high noon, when Miss Ann J. B. Creegan, rector of the church, united in marriage, Pauline Ruth Covington, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Covington, of Essex, England, to Edward Arthur Enright, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Enright.

Mr. John Croyden Wilbers, church organist, furnished the traditional wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Harry Goslin, of Belleville, was charming in her floor-length bridal gown of white Chantilly lace and net over satin, fashioned with molded, strapless portice with matching lace bolero, having a Peter Pan collar and long, sheath-like sleeves. The full skirt fell in graceful folds. Her fingertip, lace-edged veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet encrusted with seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of Bellerine red roses, and a silver good-luck horseshoe.

Mrs. Harry Goslin, of Belleville, was matron of honor, gowned in light blue sheer over taffeta, featuring a fitted bodice with matching cape. The skirt was full and of floor-length. She wore a matching floral headdress of blue roses, and carried a nosegay of yellow roses, pink carnations and rose-colored sweetpeas.

Miss Anne Marie Enright, of Belleville, was bridesmaid, wearing yellow taffeta, lace and net, fashioned with bouffant skirt in floor-length with tight-fitting bodice. Her headdress was of matching yellow rosebuds, and she carried a nosegay similar to that of the matron of honor.

Blue skies and sunshine made an ideal day for the "Maycole" tea sponsored by the Albert College Women's Guild at the Manor House, yesterday afternoon. The spacious, lovely rooms were made attractive with their vases of daffodils, fragrant, white narcissi, rose tulips and purple Africian violets.

Opening the door for the many guests were Miss Ivy Dickerson and Mrs. Charles Hyde, who welcomed each comer with a cheery smile, while the receptionists, Mrs. Arthur May, president of the Guild, and Mrs. A. MacCrae, wife of the principal, added their gracious greeting.

Lovely Tea Table

The tea room, with its lofty ceiling, stately fireplace, and large windows giving a view of the tree-dotted grounds, was resplendent with its beautifully appointed tea table. Centring the dainty, hand-crocheted cloth was an antique silver bowl filled with white and pink sprays of hyacinth bells, interwined white narcissi, and colorful purple grape hyacinths. Rising from the midst of these sweet-smelling flowers was a silver candelabra bearing silver-dotted satin ribbon in shades of pale yellow rose, green and pink, suspended in a long inverted arch to the cloth beneath the silver, ending in a cluster of little, blue forget-me-nots backed by a gold rim of an embossed doily, while at the top of a maypole was a bow of the various ribbons secured with a double, yellow narcissi. Four tall, pink candles in antique silver holders and silver services completed the setting.

Tea Hostesses

The tea room hostesses were: Mrs. C. Morgan, Mrs. F. S. Deacon, Mrs. D. McTavish, Mrs. T. C. McMullen.

Mrs. A. W. Watson, of Belleville, maid of the bridegroom; groomsman; Mr. Gerald Rouse, and Mr. John Luscombe, of Belleville, ushers.

At the reception, which was held at the New Queen's Hotel, Belleville, the bridegroom's mother received, wearing grey crepe with pale mauve accessories and corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by Mrs. Covington.

For the wedding trip to New York state and Vermont, the bride chose a pink wool suit, with black accessories and corsage of red roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Enright will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. and Mrs. W. A. Watson, Victoria Avenue.

A BIG TROUT

COBOURG (CP)—One of the biggest trout of the year was hauled in from the Ganaraska River by Billy Perry Friday. The fish, one of the largest ever caught in the stream, was a six-pound rainbow and measured 28½ inches in length. Perry took 45 minutes to land the trout with worm bait.

Night Art Class Shows Varied Paintings at McCarthy Theatre

A pleasing array of oil sketches by the art night class conducted by Mrs. H. Robbins, is on exhibition in the alcove at the McCarthy Theatre, and includes floral and still life, water and pastoral scenes, portrait and fine draftmanship, as well as a pencil drawing of merit.

"Daffodils", showing a jar of these flowers in attractive arrangement; softly colored; "After the Rain", depicts a brick house of ancient vintage, dimly visible through the mist, giving a sense of haze and dampness; and "Flowers and Fruit", showing luscious purple grapes, deep covered, and tall, graceful stems of glacioli blooms in shades of reds and yellow. These three paintings are by Mrs. H. Robbins, as well as a dainty piece of trees and water, "Gunter Lake".

Monochromes

"Gnarled Trunks", a monochrome in gray and black, depicts an interesting study of tree trunks, background made by heavy black mountains. This is a copy of a famous painting by the well known artist, Lawren Harris; "Lengthening Shadows" by Miss Hall Hinchey, with blue lake in background, edged by undulating hills, with long shadows cast by the setting sun upon the snow; pretty and colorful, "Angry Waves", also a copy, depicted a windswept bit of water, with boiling, white-topped waves, a thunderbird with wind-bent limber pine, and distant hills. Strong strength, and color appreciation.

Flying Scotsman

The "Scottish Street Scene" was well executed, with careful observation and strength of buildings; the portrait showed a study of a girl's head; fine character study, a fine pencil drawing of an English cottage, with garden, was exceptionally well done, showing depth, and attention to detail; "The Rose Arch", in oils depicted a garden with trees and house, half hidden in the background. Nice composition. "Flying Scotsman" showed a train approaching tunnel, most realistic, a piece of fine draftsmanship, restrained in color.

Quietness and Peace

"Snow-laden Trees", portrayed a street scene with evergreen trees heavily laden with snow and a realistic white church. A picture of quietness and peace, bringing to mind the words of the poet, in "St. Agnes' Eve", "The streets were dumb with snow". "Silver Sails" was another carefull piece of work showing detail and appreciation of the subject at hand.

Another snow scene was that of a rail fence with beech trees and distant evergreens, which was both restful and pleasing; "The Sheltered House", depicted a wharf, a sprawling tree, with island in the distance, nicely colored, and well drawn.

All in all, a praiseworthy exhibit, bringing credit both to teacher and to pupil.

Extensive Line Of Ladies' Wear Carried by Shop

The new ladies' wear shop, "Lorene's Ladies' Apparel" located at 8 Bridge Street west, has been described as the "handy shop," by its manager, M. J. Stier. The store opened its doors officially last week.

Mr. Stier explained that he and his wife, the former Lorene Ross daughter of Wilfred 'Wicky' Ross, C.N.R. yardmaster in this city, operate the store with the assistance of Mr. Stier's mother. The store also employs four local salesgirls.

Featuring an extensive line of women's garments and accessories Mr. and Mrs. Stier are offering clothes for the teen-agers, misses and women. Included among the stock are wedding gowns, lingerie and sportswear. All lines are exclusive to Lorene's and at popular prices.

The young couple, who are members of Bridge Street United Church, are extending an invitation to anyone who wishes to look the new store over to feel free to enter and browse around without obligation to buy.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

We spent an evening with an army padre and his wife this week when they showed us colored slides of churches the padre had visited in England during World War II. All of the churches photographed were very old. Each had many points of historical interest . . . One photo showed an old desk in a Baptist church. On the desk lay the original parchment book which had been used to take the first collection for foreign missions back about 1790.

Another slide of the interior of time, this business of chipping in an account church showed a large an amount of cash for either an actual price or a cash prize. Why is it women are so tight on their change when they sit down to play bridge for entertainment.

Typical of women out for a table of bridge is 25 cents a rubber or 25 cents for the evening. The winner generally takes about two thirds of the prize money and the loser rakes in the other third.

When women go bowling for an evening, it costs them upwards of 75 cents each for the alleys, plus 75 cents each for prizes. When women go to a movie, it costs them 50 cents each. Bridge or no bridge, it is at least 50 cents .

Why then is bridge always accused down to such a fiddling little game? Isn't worth boning up for? Why? Why?

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Her Husband Has Many Moods — All of Them Unpleasant

What should a woman do who's married to a man of many moods and all of them unpleasant?

One particular man of this kind is described by his wife as touchy, stubborn, sensitive, worry-minded, bossy and unsociable." When he's not being any of these things, he either sits in gloomy silence or else goes to bed. One can hardly blame his wife for feeling that she is getting nothing out of living with him.

"Do you think it is possible to be contented and happy with a man you don't understand?" she asks. "I've been married 13 years to one who is now 56 and was a childless widower when I married him. I am 45, and this was my first marriage."

She then goes on to list her husband's characteristic attitudes as given above, adding that he has "some of the serious faults such as drinking philandering, or gambling."

"We have no children," she continues, "and because of the negative, unpleasing influence my husband exerts over me, I fear I am becoming a neurotic. I have a car to go around in, so I stay at home all day long doing housework and laundry. When my husband comes home at noon, and in the evenings, he and I eat daily. After dinner, he reads the paper some more, again in silence, and retires at eight o'clock. When he does speak, he's cranky, bossy and nasty, and he won't be sociable even with neighbors.

"Sundays he spends working in the yard and reading the papers, again in gloomy silence, and goes to bed at eight o'clock as usual, even though he sleeps till nine Sunday mornings and takes a two hour nap after lunch."

Miss Fairfax, what makes a man in perfect health act like this, and how can he expect his wife to be satisfied with him year in and year out, and what should I do about it? I hesitate to leave him, because I love him, but what am I getting out of life with him and what is it going to my personality and outlook?"

Get Personal Interests. . . . . .

Even under these, very disagreeable circumstances, I am sure this wife could be happier, if she would just get busy and make some kind of life of her own. When a woman has nothing to do but stay home and keep occupied with housework, it's no wonder she feels frustrated, unsatisfied, depressed and thoroughly discontented. But there's no reason why she shouldn't make things livelier for herself if she will just have the initiative to set about it.

It's obvious that she's not going to get any help from her husband in an effort to make life more interesting, but why should she stick around the house with a man who is either silent, buried in a newspaper or asleep in bed? Why couldn't she leave his lunch or dinner ready for him on the stove and go out somewhere with her friends? Why shouldn't she take part in some community activities that would take her away from home several times a week? Why shouldn't she join a bridge club, or something of the sort, which would give her both fun and companionship? Why shouldn't she find some worthwhile volunteer work such as being a nurse's aide in one of the hospitals a certain number of hours each week? Why shouldn't she take some kind of job - part-time perhaps - that would give her a new interest in life? She might even dream up some money-making project she could carry on at home, as thousands of other women have done.

There are any number of things this woman could do to inject new life and real enjoyment into the days that are now so dreary. If she would take some definite steps toward finding new interests and new friends to fill her lonely hours, and to give her something to think about besides her own unhappy circumstances, she would very soon find life looked far more hopeful that it does now. She might also find that her own new activity would wake her husband up and stimulate him into becoming a more normal person.

Readers' Saturday Column

By Mary Moore

Attention Mrs. R. J.—W.—the reader who wanted Bread Pretzels:

Letter:

Would this help your correspondent who asks about old-fashioned bread pretzels?

Our dearly loved Marthas, who was not "martha" at all, or "laundress" but acted in all these capacities plus cleaning, washing, bandaging, "kissing spots to make them well", storytelling, supervising homework, in fact shared the home and work and interests with mother and got $3.50 per month for it, also baked our bread. Sometimes she would take a little dab of dough and roll it on the board with her palms until it was 7 to 10 inches long and at the thickest never more than a pencil size. These "ropes" she would form into shapes to please us, would twist together, tie one in a knot, form figures, letters, little men, women, animals, suns, moons, stars, anything we suggested. She had a bit of cheesecloth which she dipped in "something" (I fancy it was melted butter) and mopped the finished work. She then sprinkled it over with coarse salt, or poppy seed, caraway, grated cheese, or crushed cinnamon sticks, grated cheese, dandelion fruits, currants (in modern day jargon every-thing but the kitchen sink), then popped them on greased sheets, put on top of the warming oven of the range, covered with a clean tea towel and left maybe ten minutes, then baked. They did not take long to bake and were a beautiful brown. They had a crisp crisp and delicious as they were, or as an accompaniment to soup. I have tried them with varying success but they never tasted quite like Martha's. E. C.

Answer:

Your letter is charming and you certainly gave us a nostalgic picture of the kitchen and beloved friend of your childhood. I do hope Mrs. R. J. W. see this, and thereby thank you for her, for she can't.

Question:

Please give me any information pertaining to underweights—such as diets, menus, etc. Any information will be greatly appreciated.—Madelon B.

Answer:

Suggested food intake for underweight for one day

Breakfast—One half grapefruit or 6 oz. glass fresh orange juice; poached egg on buttered whole wheat toast; buttered toast with marmalade; whole milk.

Lunch—Cream of tomato soup, 2 or 4 slices whole wheat bread in meat or cheese or fish or egg sandwiches, generously buttered; ripe banana, fruit-and-nut cookies, whole milk.

3:30 p.m.— Large glass fresh orange juice and crackers.

Dinner—Lean meat and the natural fat on it; baked potato with jacket on and butter. Creamed green vegetable; green salad with mayonnaise; baked custard, or fruit pie, milk, plus whole wheat bread if you can eat it; whole milk.

9:30 p.m.—Cocoa made entirely with whole milk; peanut butter sandwiches, generously buttered; fig Newtons—Drink 10 8-oz. glasses water per day. Eat regularly. Walk or exercise outside at least 1 hour per day. Have 9 hours sleep per night. If possible eat a well-ripened banana at the end of every meal. Drink 1 quart of whole milk per day.

While we are all aware that fat people get that way from eating rich calorie-laden desserts, I cannot recommend this kind of a diet. However, doing so you would not have room for the protective foods. Fresh fruits and fresh green vegetables even though they are comparatively low in calories.

Mother's Day

The day was spent in grateful song and praise—

A tribute to the name of motherhood—

And voices blent in praises everywhere—

For all the world of mothers, wise and good—

And in our praise did we remember one—

Our mother who with fond maternal pain,

Sent to the war her brave and stalwart son.

That Freedom o'er the world should ever reign!

Did we remember her who gave us life?

Her son, the pride of their dear neighborhood.

Who gave his life, the promise of the years,

Ne'er to return across the ocean foam?

Oh! let us not forget these mothers brave

Who nobly play a patriotic part,

Revealing not the sacrifice they gave—

A son, the pride of a fond mother's heart.

—Helen B. Anderson.

Fashion Flashes

Blends add interest and novelty to the fabric line-up. Orlon and silk get together in fabrics for dresses, smartly fitted suit done of soft, classic lines. The curved pocket flaps and the cuffs, too, are edged with striped taffeta, the belt and while stripes cross one ending in tabs on one side of the collar. The suit is light navy blue.

Little girls take to the spring fashion parade, judging from the concentration exhibited by the mother. Instant approval, we think, was given to a cloche of straw braid in deep beige, with two bands of brown velveteen ribbon, and a spray of yellow silk jonquils at one side with green stems and leaves.

Maybe last year's suit will have to make do for a while longer, so look out for the latest in accessories for a tonic. One such is the wristlet, a nice little number made of a linen-like rayon fabric—fully lined, and fastening with pearl ball buttons. Good with navy, gray or black.

GOOD MANNERS

By CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

"Fiance," Not Bey "Fiancee," Not "Girl Friend"

Girls, please introduce your fiance as "my fiance" . . . never please, "my boy friend". To introduce your fiance as "my boy friend" sounds cheap, ill-bred.

And you engaged men: Please introduce your fiancee as "my fiance," Never, please, as "my girl friend."

"Fiance" and fiancee" are such charming words, thrilling and romantic, that you should use them properly and joyously . . . not bypass them by using clumsy substitutes.

Should Write Address On Birth Announcements

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband is in Korea, and I am living at home with my parents. When I announce to my friends do know that I am staying with my parents, many of them do not know the address, and since we have no telephone here, it is not easy for them to find out the address. When my baby (my first child) is born, I realize that I am going to send out some printed cards of announcement and write notes.

I know that our friends will want to come to see the baby at once, and of course I shall be most anxious to have them come. How would it be possible for me to include the address on both kinds of announcements without it looking a "bid" for gifts? I'm so confused in this matter. Please help me, Mrs. Beeckman.

Elizabeth W.

Here's the sensible way to look at the birth announcements (both cards and notes) you intend to send. your relatives and friends will eagerly welcome the happy news of baby's arrival; naturally they will want to communicate with you in some way to tell you of their happiness and to send their felicitations (and they won't be able to communicate with you if they haven't your address. Therefore it makes sense for you to include your address on both printed announcements and on your notes. Then leave it to your relatives and friends to do the rest. Don't think of it as a "bid" for gifts. . . it's just being practical, a "bid" for friendliness.

Women Rise Also . . . To Show Manners

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When men rise in honor of a distinguished gentleman as he enters or is introduced at a meeting or dinner or other important occasion, should the ladies present rise also? — Eli.

Yes. The women should rise to show the same degree of courtesy and honor as the men show by rising. It would be most impolite, socially unbecoming, for the women not to rise.

'Just One More Chapter' When Reading in Bed

(From The New York Times "Topics")

Everything has its season — hunting, fishing, skiing, oysters, and reading in bed. No legal or sonal limitations, such as are drafted for fishermen, apply to the pastime of reading in bed, but it can be said that the season for reading in bed now is on the wane. Reading in bed is a pursuit best adapted to Autumn, Winter and early Spring; when the weather begins to get warm, as it soon will, and blankets no longer are wanted, reading in bed will start to lose much of its present attraction.

In midsummer when everything (including clean sheets to which in other seasons the word "cool" is prefixed) is warm to the touch, reading in bed can become decidedly uncomfortable.

But now reading in bed is still in season and will continue to be until shortly after the oyster takes its annual vacation from the markets.

Not only has the reading-in-bed season never been defined even roughly by any authority on the practice, but also no scientific study of this pursuit has been made. How many lagging steps and duties motivated in the workaday world may be attributed to the inability of midnight readers to put down an unfinished whodunit, and not to overindulgence in more active and far more debilitating endeavors, it is impossible to say.

Nor can it be ascertained how much worldwide knowledge is being absorbed each night by readers in bed whose only opportunity to travel through the world or books may be in those hours when the city begins to sleep.

It is plain to see that the makers of books underestimate the numbers of persons who read in bed. The book people also attribute the large sales being recorded by so-called pocket books, paper bound to the lower prices at which these books are sold or to the come-hither illustrations, placed upon the covers, often related to the contents only dimly. It is not impossible that the sales of these books are large not only because they fit easily into pocket or briefcase but also because they are such a handy size for reading in bed.

Obviously a man who likes to read while flat on his back will find it more convenient to hold a pocket book than an "Ashton-Advertiser" in cloth covers. Hold-bound book of about the dimensions and weight of "The Big Change" or "A Century of the Essex" can be handled nicely by a reader in bed, but somehow one never sees books of type-lists advertised thus: "Splendid for Reading in Bed."

The habit of reading in bed can be acquired at any time, but those who are most firmly in its grip in all probability began reading in bed in childhood and undoubtedly, therefore, are members of the Just One More Chapter Club. The members of this informal organization are of all ages, from readers in their early bed, racing through "The Funny Adventures of the Fingle Family" or "The Black Stallion's Filly" soon to learn to say, without skipping a word on the page before them, "Just one more chapter, please," to those in advanced years for the third time that lights positively must go out.

And when he is old and has his own house and reads, in bed, bigger if not better books, he will say convincingly, when his wife inquires when he proposes to go to sleep, "Just one more chapter, please." The probability is that not yet exploited this market of readers is the Just One More Chapter Book Club, offering books containing shorter-than-average chapters for invalids and longer-than-average chapters for those hard to understand.

Reading in bed has but one drawback, and that is that the reader cannot have his book and a good book make an excellent one — but not if he is in bed. He must recognize, if he wishes to live a long and useful life, that in exchange for the comfort of reading upon an innerspring mattress, he must sacrifice the companionship of pie or cigaret. This is not too great a price to pay, however, at the day's end, for a few minutes of the exquisite ease afforded by reading in bed, a soothing and truly regal diversion.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

SPOTTED AND STREAKED

Camouflage is essential for very young birds born in the spring and also for the adults which feed them. Accordingly, streaks and spots are common in Birdland, simulating grass or pebbles. Brown striped backs are given to many seed eaters as a great deal of their marketing takes place at a low level. In spring song sparrows build their nests on the ground with pieces of old, brown grass, and all members of the family have streaked plumage so they may remain hidden.

Thrushes have spotted breasts, the dark varying in intensity with different species. The most prominent spots are found on wood thrushes, resembling birds of the forest floor. They scratch the ground for insect food, and their spots are effective, which are in a crotch on an average of 4 feet high, often one more than a few feet. Young robins have their brown ancestry by having heavily spotted breasts, though their parents' breasts are not. This camouflage is provided when the babies are still in their grass nests and big enough to be seen over the sides. They are gripped both above and below. Because brown thrashers spend most of their time digging into the soil for insects, their wings are also brown and their underparts streaked.

Nature provides camouflage for the young more frequently than for their parents that are subject to the dire danger by quick flight. Examples of this are found in red crossbills and cedar waxwings. Mothers, doing more of the incubating and housework, require more protection than the males. Mrs. Rose-breasted Grosbeak and Mrs. Pine Grosbeak attract both look like big sparrows, and their children are somewhat like their mothers.

The offering of many birds which nest on beaches are blotched to match the pebbles. Downy young of the long-billed curlew are daubed in large patches of dark and light, like little clowns. Baby herring gulls are mottled black and white, so that we can be within a few feet of a downy, live ball and fail to find it crouching between grey stones. Tiny buff balls of down ornamented with black spots, seen among sparse grass on a sandy beach, are newly-hatched lead sandpipers.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Fleming and Miss Lois Tracy were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Treverton.

Tulips—Present and Future

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

May flowering tulips and late daffodils bring the spring bulb season to its peak. If the spring is cool and damp, as most of our springs have been in the past few years, the tulips develop slowly with long stems and slowly opening blooms, which last and last. A dry hot spell cuts back the petals and causes them to fall quickly.

If the weather turns hot and dry soak the tulip beds thoroughly with a fine spray from the hose twice a week. This may prolong the blooms for a week, or more.

When you cut them for indoor arrangements do it before the blooms are fully mature, after they have been under cover three days. The early morning or evening is the best time for cutting. Make a sharp slanting cut, and plunge the stems, immediately nearly up to the head. Allow to soak for a few hours, or over night before arranging. Change the water once a day and cut off half an inch each day, and keep the room temperature as cool as possible.

Nip Off Blooms

As the blooms in the bed fade, nip them off. Let the maturing plant spend all its energy in new bulb formation rather than producing useless seed pods. Do not disturb the bulbs until the leaves have decided to clear the bed for other plants. To this end lift them carefully, keeping the leaves as unbroken as possible. This is the food factory where next years blooms, bulbs and leaves are being manufactured. Set the bulbs carefully into soil in a sunny place where they can complete their cycle of growth. When their leaves turn brown and yellow you can lift the bulbs and dry them. Store loosely in shallow flats, so that the air must not be too dry, and too much dampness causes mould to form, and this too is fatal to the bulb. They must not be free circulation of air.

Dig Up Every Five Years

Unless the bulbs have multiplied greatly and become too thick, it is easier for the gardener to plant his tulips deep enough (12 to 18 inches in well drained bed) and to leave them in the ground the year around. About every five years they should be dug up and separated. The drying foliage can easily be covered by annuals with shallow roots which will soon spread and cover the unsightly yellow leaves.

Canvas combine well with tulips. They have shallow roots and soon root out with large luxurious leaves to cover the tulips. Pot marigolds, nasturtiums, zinnias, balsam, snapdragon, or dwarf dahlias make good ground covers. These can go in while the tulips are still in bloom prime.

Summer lilies such as tuberones, summer hyacinth or ixgridias could go in the tulip bed without quarrelling with the first occupants. Geraniums, heliotrope, begonias, or coleus may be planted in solid beds or in groups here in with the tulips. Any one of these, or a combination of them will transform the bed into a glorious summer garden. Give them an occasional feeding with liquid manure, sheep, milorganite or vigoro, and water freely if necessary and doing a little cultivating pinching back, this is needed, when plants threaten to grow too tall, or spread out of bounds.

Can Arrange Differently

But wait — have you taken a good look at the tulips, both near at hand, and from a distance? Are you really sure you want the same kind of show next year? Better decide now before the blooms fade, whether you want them covered arranged differently, or would like some of the newer types. Look around and find out the names of the varieties you would like to have. Plan to have types which bloom extra late, and others which bloom very early. These will extend the tulip season for weeks. Here are the single early, the species, such as Kaufmanniana and several hybrids, Mendel, Triumph, and double Triumph for April.

For May you can choose Breeder, Cottage, Broken Cottage, Darwin, and Parrot. Having made your choice, write it down and put it in the refrigerator overnight. When that page turns up, five months from now you will not be able to remember what you did. You can order them and start looking forward to next year's tulip display.

CIVIL DEFENCE
"High Explosives"

By JACK BRETT

Thursday, May 7, 1953, was the eighth anniversary of the Second World War's End. There have been eight years of peace! This space in the paper, this column and its contents, last week's column, and the ensuing weeks' columns are nothing but direct consequences of such a statement. Today if you follow the lines in this story you will read about a destructive weapon known as the high explosive bomb. Last week you might have read about another weapon, more powerful than any heard of before, the atom bomb, finally completed after the armistice in Europe had been signed.

It is a sad thing space must be devoted to acquainting the public with things of destruction and modes of defence. And it is sadder still to realize that it is absolutely necessary to know about such things. Whether you individually believe there is a possibility of any type of bomb being dropped on this city or any other, or not, is of small consequence. They said it couldn't happen to England, but it did. There is always a risk of war, especially in turbulent times of today.

Word Has Hollow Ring

There were\ probably few people in the city who remembered that Thursday was the anniversary of the signing of the armistice. Probably this was due to the fact, peace seems so distant and the people have so much more to occupy their minds. Peace—the world has a ring of hollow mockery today.

Ask anyone when the First War ended. We are willing to venture the opinion the answer, November 11th, would come easily. In contrast, ask the same question of anyone, when the Second War ended. The answer might be anywhere from "some time in May" to "I don't know." Not knowing is not a reflection on anyone's intelligence, but an indication that Monday, May 7, 1945, at this time does not mean a thing to anybody. The war still continues. Now read about how to defend yourself.

Unlike the atomic bomb, discussed in this column last week, the H. E. or high explosive bomb, one of the most powerful, would not destroy the entire city. As was pointed out, an atomic bomb exploded at a height of 2,000 feet above ground zero would wipe out all the homes in the city. However, the H.E. must not be discounted simply because 10,000 pounds of high explosives would not level Belleville. This weapon, in the hands of one who knew its powers and capabilities could be just as potent a destructive force as the atom bomb.

Not Just One Bomb

When we consider it requires 20,000 tons of high explosives to give the equivalent blast effect of an atomic explosion and when we note the heaviest H.E. used is only 10,000 pounds, it may be difficult to imagine how such an explosion could wrack too much havoc to the city. But, should H.E. be the weapon used on Belleville you may be sure, the enemy is not going to restrict itself to simply dropping one H.E.

The high explosive weapon has always been used for two purposes, saturation bombing and pin point bombing. Saturation is self explanatory, simply a fleet of aircraft loaded down with all the H.E. they can carry, flying above a city or target and dumping their cargo indiscriminately. As was seen in the Second Great War, this type of attack was highly effective. Bombing procedures such as these all but levelled Berlin and one need only take a stroll through old London to visualize another example of its power.

Another thing about high explosive bombing, besides causing a great deal of confusion such as disrupting power supplies, gas mains, blocking streets, building up fire apparatus and a variety of other side to confusion, there is a tremendous danger of fire. During the Battle of Britain, invariably following a high explosive raid, fires would break out all over the bombed area and among the debris.

Pin Point Attacks

Pin point attacks are usually confined to dive bombing raids. Here, one building or special target is singled out for the bomb. Specially equipped aircraft with their bomb slung beneath the undercarriage dive within a few hundred feet or less of the target and as the craft comes out of its dive at its low level, the bomb or bombs are released. The missile seldom misses its mark.

There are basically three types of H. E. bombs, thin case, medium case, and heavy case. With the thin case bomb, its chief object is to produce maximum blast effect. On explosion, the case is burst open giving rise to numerous light fragments, sometimes referred to as shrapnel. Any school boy can realize the great damaging effects of such an explosion. Picture, if you can, the tremendous force of a blast from one of these missiles, say 10,000 pounds, destroying buildings within 6,000 yards, and then to have these small but deadly fragments flying in all directions with the speed of bullets.

Medium case bombs produce slightly less blast but more fragments than the thin case type. Any type of fuse may be fitted to this bomb. If a delay action fuse is used and the bomb penetrates the ground, the effects of the blast and fragmentation decrease with the depth of penetration, but there is a corresponding increase in the effects of earth shock.

The last type, heavy case, are usually referred to as armor piercing or semi-armor piercing and are used principally against heavily protected targets such as capital ships, important installations protected by massive re-inforced concrete, large shelters and submarine pens. Being fitted with armor piercing noses they have short delay action fuses to allow the bomb to penetrate the target before exploding.

On Saturday May 16, readers will find a discussion on the effects of an incendiary attack on the city appearing in this column.

Bethlehem Mines To Level Park

MARMORA — Bethlehem Mines Corporation is giving Marmora Branch N. 227 Canadian Legion a great boost in its plans to enlarge and level the Legion Park on the east side of Crowe River just south of No. 7 Highway.

A dozen or more large trucks are hauling the rock from the excavation for the mine to the park and the Corporation's big bulldozer is levelling it out.

The rock taken out at the mine, for a couple of days will be dumped in the park to greatly transform its appearance and extend the elevated area.

$50,000 Fire Loss

TROUT CREEK (CP) — A $50,000 fire Friday night gutted the Trout Creek planing mill in this community 27 miles sotuh of North Bay.

The fire was the second at the mill in the last six years.

A passing trucker noticed the fire in the corrugated iron building and gave the alarm. The volunteer fire department from Powassan and Callander rushed to the north, responded.

Firefighters said the fact the night was calm kept the damage from going considerably higher. They said a wind would probably have spread the flames to adjacent lumber yards where millions of board feet of softwood lumber was stacked.

A boxcar partly loaded with lumber on a siding caught fire and was reduced to a twisted and warped metal shell.

BARN DESTROYED

CORNWALL (CP) — A barn owned by John L. McDonald, former Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Stormont, was destroyed by fire last night. Loss was estimated at more than $5,000. The barn was at Harrison's Corners, 10 miles northwest of Cornwall.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THE BIG FIGHT!

The mythical gentleman usually portrayed carrying a cigarette and wearing a flowing beard, plus togs, may be the fourth man in the ring when Rocky Marciano clashes with ageless Jersey Joe Walcott for the heavyweight championship next Friday night.

"ROCKY" MARCIANO
Bourgeau.

That appears to be the consensus of the experts who believe Time's relentless toll and subsequent physical depreciation will be the governing factor in the fight. And they are not referring to the "blockbuster from Brockton."

Erudite Dan Parker of the New York Mirror, feels that Walcott's only chance is to win by a knockout early in the fight. Otherwise he won't be able to go the route himself and the longer the fight goes the better will be his disadvantage.

"Time," says Parker, "is running out faster for Jersey Joe at this date of his career than the last few hundred grains of sand in the hour-glass."

"The ravages of eight months will have been added to Joe's tough, old frame by the time the two face each other again. In one's 29th. year, eight months must be the equivalent or aging effect to seven years in one's twenties," reasons Parker.

He goes on to say that Joe's best bet would be to put every thing he has into a mighty effort to punch out a quick knockout defeat himself. "But there's a heap of discouragement in the brake of a wallop on the mush such as that which clouted and knocked Joe sleepy bye-bye on that fateful September night.

On the other side of the picture, Rocky has promised to blank the aging warrior from Camden much quicker than the last time. "I'm not saying when it will happen," says the rocky contender, "but I'm going to win a lot quicker than I did before."

After Rocky's knockout of Walcott, a lot of the tub-thumpers along Beak-Bust Boulevard hailed him as a new "Dempsey." But the general consensus of opinion at the points that the Rock was lucky to land his Sugday punch on Joe's greying stubble. They pointed out that Walcott was away out in front on points when the roof fell in.

In the humble, "knowpert" opinion of this department, Rocky is a long way, yet, from being another Dempsey. The "old killer" was never guilty of a windmill style. He was a stalker, the killer, with "death" in both fists. Rocky can best lay claim to that reflected glory like by wading in, shewing some hitherto unseen "killer instinct" and flatten the old boy before the seventh row customers are in their seats.

There isn't any doubt that Rocky carries dynamite in that right. Pitting testimonial to that is the statement of Walcott, who said after the knockout. "Here I was setting the pace just fine. Then, bang! It happened. I just don't remember anything."

And remember, Rocky has a left that can do devastating punishment. If you saw the televised fight between the Rock and Joe Louis you will recall it was that powerful left hook that sent the once proud Dark Bomber crashing to the canvas. Against "Old" Matthews' two left hooks did the job.

Also in Rocky's corner is the rock-ribbed tradition which says a heavyweight champion never regains his title. One of the greatest of them all, the late Jim Jeffries, tried it and suffered a knockout at the hands of Jack Johnson. Louis tried it against Charles and Charles against Walcott. They all failed.

And finally, remember Rocky is the champion. He has taken the best Jersey Joe could hand out to win it, and lucky punch or not, he is the heavyweight king. Jersey Joe will have to knock him out or get a terrific lead in points in order to do what no other heavyweight has done.

For sheer drama, Friday night's fight looms up as being what should come under the heading "tremendous." And this department is of the opinion that when the fire and fury has subsided the heavyweight crown will still perch jauntily on the curly noggin of the "blockbuster from Brockton."

Giles Disallows Stanky Protest

CINCINNATI (AP) — President Warren Giles of the National League Friday disallowed a protest by St. Louis manager Eddie Stanky concerning the 7-5 victory by the Dodgers over the Cards at Brooklyn Wednesday.

The St. Louis manager was ejected from the game after protesting a decision by umpire Jocko Conlan which ruled obstruction by Cardinal shortstop Solly Hemus and forced Jackie Robinson to score a run.

Boudreau's Bobby-Sox Bevy Wins Eight of Last 10 Games; Goodman's Homer Beats Yanks

By ERIC FRLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now that they've got the place to themselves those upstart Red Sox are creating quite a furore up in Boston, and they are giving the rest of the American League fits in the process.

Lou Boudreau's youth brigade figured to be at least a year or two away from being troublesome to the pennant contenders. But just look at the kids. They have won eight of their last 10 games and they are only 1½ games out of first place.

Fresh from a highly-successful jaunt through the west, the Sox came home Friday night and to the delight of a fine crowd of 20,055 fans grabbed a 2-1 verdict from New York Yankees, their first success against the world champions in 13 starts.

Belted Homer in 11th

Billy Goodman, one of the few faces Boston fans can recognize in the rejuvenated lineup, belted a ball-line leaping homer over the right field wall with one out in the 11th inning off Jim Hector (Skinny) Brown the decision over Johnny Sain, Yankees' other ace, also was a homer—Dick Gernert's fifth of the year.

Brown, a lightlander who came to Boston in the February deal that sent Vern Stephens to Chicago White Sox, handcuffed the Yankees with seven singles.

Cleveland Indians, sandwiched in between the Yankees and the Red Sox, moved within five percentage points of New York by whipping Bob Lemon and the Washington Senators, rallied in the closing innings to down Philadelphia Athletics 7-4 and Chicago turned back Detroit 7-2 in other American league action.

A near capacity crowd of 30,293 turned out for Milwaukee's first major league game of the season and saw the Braves bested by Chicago Cubs 2-0 on Johnny Antonelli's four-hit pitching. The St. Louis Cardinals defeated Cincinnati 6-5 in the only other National League game that finished.

Came The Rain

Philadelphia scored two quick runs against Brooklyn in a battle for first place in the National League but a spring thunderstorm struck as the Dodgers came to bat in the first and washed out the contest. The rain moved on north to the Polo Grounds and there washed the New York-Pittsburgh contest after an inning and a half. It was scoreless.

It was the first time this season all games in both leagues were at night.

A four-run rally in the ninth gave Cleveland its decision over the Browns.

Held to three hits over the first seven innings by Philadelphia's little Bobby Shantz, the Senators erupted for five runs in the eighth and added two more in the ninth. Charley Bishop came to Shantz' relief in the eighth with three runners on and two on base but Jim Busby blasted his first pitch for a two-run double that put Washington in front, 8-7.

Joe Dobson, the 36-year-old Chicago veteran who specializes in beating Detroit Tigers, whipped them for the seventh straight time giving up only five hits.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A tentative budget submitted Friday estimates the cost of staging the British Empire Games here next year at $2,241,000.

"This is the closest to the final budget that we can come to right now," budget chairman Ted Wilgress told the B.E. Games executive, "and there are bound to be changes as time passes."

At a meeting earlier in the day, Stan Smith, general chairman, said more than 600 athletes are expected, the "largest number of British Empire Games history."

Mickey Mantle 'Greatest Player' Thinks Marion

ST. LOUIS (AP) — With an acknowledging nod to Eddie Stanky — the defender of Stan the Man Musial — manager Marty Marion of St. Louis Browns, still thinks Mickey Mantle is the "greatest player in baseball today."

That's what Marion said last week. And he said it again Friday after a subsequent Stanky objection to his placing the slugging New York Yankee youngster ahead of Musial.

Naturally, as Musial's manager, Stanky is in support of The Man. But he's always held Musial, six-time winner of the National League batting title, in high regard, says Stanky, even as a competitor.

Stanky did not mention Marion by name.

"He was a teammate of Musial's for so many years. It was all right then. Now they were on the same club, to call Stan the best. But now that the fellow is in the other league, he forgets all about him."

'Sniper' Sam Leads Pack On Home Course

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. (CP) — Sam Snead went ahead of the pack trying to dethrone him as champion on his own golf course by shooting his second straight 67 Friday to lead Ben Hogan by one stroke at the half-way stage of the 72-hole Greenbrier open.

Snead's 134 for the first 36 holes was six strokes better than par for that distance on the old white course.

Snead and Hogan went off even along with Pete Cooper on the second round. The three had been a stroke behind Shelley Mayfield, of Cedarhurst, L.I., the first-round leader with a 66.

Mayfield took a six over par 76 to plummet to a 10th, place tie.

Cooper, from White Plains, N.Y., and Lou Barbaro, of Deal, N.J., wound up tied for third, two strokes behind Snead.

Hot Jock Boots Home Five More

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (AP)—Wee Willie Shoemaker, hottest jockey on the Pacific coast, booted home five more winners at Tanforan Friday to bring his week's victory total to 31.

With one more program of the Tanforan meeting to go, the 22-year-old rider has already set a northern California record of 91 wins in a single meeting.

Use Twenty-Two Harlers in 4 Games Ten See Action in Royals, Leafs Tilt

(By The Canadian Press)

Twenty-two pitchers saw action Friday night in four International Baseball League games and Toronto was the centre of the "parade."

The harlers marched to the mound before Montreal Royals and set Toronto Maple Leafs 8-3 to take the three-game series 2-1. Eight pitchers were used in Syracuse-Baltimore Orioles tilt, a double-header from the Chiefs, 8-0 and 6-4, and in an Ottawa contest, nine may action at Rochester Red Wings downed the Athletics 7-4.

The Leafs used six pitchers in the Royals as batters they went down. Montreal outhit them 16-10.

Grab 2-0 Lead

Montreal grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first inning and never looked back. Starter Phil Rossbuck, who was relieved in the eighth by Jean Lanoix, was the delight by Tommy Lasorda of Toronto rallied, was credited with the victory. Lasorda was replaced by Jim Bolger and then by Hemp Coleman after retiring one batter, and Coleman was pulled in favor of Ronnie Lee in the final inning.

Vic Lombardi, the first of Toronto's aerial, was the loser. Russ Bauers replaced him in the first and was followed by Phil Haugstad, Bill Voiselle, Ray Shore and Red Fahr.

In the first game at Syracuse Howie Pollet got for his first victory in an easy starts this season. However, he needed help in the seventh fro mVern Taylor and Ken Johnson. Johnson, a Chief, outhit the Orioles 8-5, but committed one error.

At Ottawa, Reader needed help from Bob Tiedemann in the sixth to get credit for his third win at the season. Both hurlers gave up 10 hits, compared with 13 off two Ottawa moundsmen. Art shortstop Art Ditmar went down for his second defeat. Ed Bollenbacher came on in the sixth to fry and pull the game out of the fire for him.

Carter, Araujo Lightweight Bout Set for June 12

NEW YORK (AP)—The lightweight division shook off a Tom Collins hangover Friday with the official signing of a June 12 title defence for champion Jimmy Carter against Georgie Arrajo, the other New England challenger, at Madison Square Garden.

Araujo, from Providence, R.I., gives first any connection between him and Collins is purely geographical. Collins, a Bostonian, was floored 30 times by Carter in two weeks ago.

"The difference is I've got a chin," he said, "and I've a right-think lightweight. I think I can win it. I've watched Carter every time I had a chance, on TV or in person. I've got a good line on him."

Araujo said he wasn't surprised at the Collins result in Boston.

"Collins just can't take a punch" he said.

The 23-year-old challenger almost was matched with Carter a year ago. But something—possibly Lacey Sales—came Araujo thinks it was all for the best because he's sure he is ready now.

Under terms of the contract, Carter will get 45% per cent; Araujo 17½ per cent of "everything," Including TV.

Athletics Move To Baltimore Is News Report

BALTIMORE (AP) — Philadelphia Athletics, one of the five teams which voted against the transfer of St. Louis Browns to Baltimore, were reported by the Baltimore Sun today to be interested in making the same shift themselves.

The newspaper said a spokesman for the Athletics had conferred here with mayor Thomas d'Alesandro.

The spokesman "asked if the Athletics would be precluded from Baltimore's plans by getting a major league," the Sun said in a story by political reporter Edgar C. Burke.

D'Alesandro could not be reached for comment. Thomas J. O'Donnell, his public relations director and close associate in the attempt to move the Browns here, refused to comment.

Since the Browns - to - Baltimore proposal was rejected by American League club owners last March 17, d'Alesandro has repeatedly declared attempts would be made to clinch the deal for 1954.

Aussies Defeat Yorkshiremen

LONDON (Reuters)—The touring Australians defeated powerful Yorkshire by an innings and 84 runs in a three-day English cricket match which ended Friday.

Yorkshire, with 28 not out and Lee Hutton, 62, were the only Yorkshire batsmen who put up a fight against the Australian bowling in the home-n. The team was all out for 261, after a first innings 345.

Cambridge University defeated Middlesex by an innings and 24 runs. Middlesex had declared for a second time at 224 for 6. Cambridge got 264 in about three hours. Cambridge was in the extra half hour.

Up or Downstream With Dry Fly

BY JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Saltwater Tables)

When the early written on dry-fly fishing wrote that bending they were spoilt an old fashioned trout by the dry fly, they said, meant by dryness upstream from the angler. They assumed, with great logic, that this should be done and they invented the dry upstream and wrote to illustrate their conclusions.

A great deal of water has gone over the fishing dams since these were written. Younger men, with inverted minds, have been playing with dry flies for a good many years and they are finding out things about dry-fly fishing. Among other things, they have discovered that the dry fly can be fished to advantage downstream as well as upstream.

My first experiments with downstream dry-fly fishing were made rather accidentally one bank in 1936. Mr Hewitt had been fishing in an area called "Cooper" and I was trying out this downstream method to see what would happen.

"Dump Casting"

"Dump casting," in case you have not met with the term, is simply this. Using a stiff-backed fussy fly, you cast across-stream and then immediately move your rod point at fast water, using a fairly long line.

As the fly reaches the end of the forward cast, the rod tip is raised and the fly skips across the water several times before it finally settles. The method seems to raise fish at times when the water is flat, rainy and calm, or overcast.

I had been trying this system over a bit of fast, ripply water with some success, working my way gradually down through the riffle. At last I came to an area where the water no longer was ripply or rough, instead, it flowed fairly fast, though "broken run" just above a long pool.

Being curious to learn whether the method would be useful in such water, I lengthened out and cast to the far shore. Then, by stripping in line and using the rod tip, I made the fly move across below me in a series of well spaced riffles.

To my surprise, a good trout at once took the fly and pulled off the fly. I decided to see if I could elaborate on this method somewhat.

Altered Technique

That was a good many years ago but I find that this first experiment with downstream dry-fly fishing was the beginning of the altered technique in dry-fly fishing which I will now explain for the benefit of those who may be interested.

Trouts are more active on every trout angler knows very well, when the stream of fish choice is quiet, with no sign of moving fish. To drift a dry fly in the orthodox fashion over such water usually is simply a waste of time and effort. But by the use of the downstream technique, somewhat elaborated, there is added much excitement during an otherwise quiet period.

The system is this. First the line is thoroughly greased with line dressing. Contrary to usual practice, the leader also is given a liberal coat, right down to the fly. Then the fly is oiled and allowed to dry so that the surplus oil will not be washed off.

Now, with a short line, a wide, fairly deep water. It seems to make little difference whether the water is moving slowly or fairly rapidly or flowing quietly through a pool; in fact, the method works quite well in slow-moving pools of glassy water.

Using a long line, the big, bushy fly is cast across and slightly downstream, over the angler's position. Then, by means of raising the rod tip, the fly is made to skip erratically across the surface. An ideal line somewhat tinsies it is stripped in and coiled in the left hand.

Strikes Usually Violent

When it comes, the strike is a violent affair. Evidently the fish deals that he is catching an insect that may take wing at any moment. Or, he feels on the fly like a wolf on a rabbit, making the water flying in all directions. Often as not the trout (fish), Ichneumonids, Flies, and Knight.

Ross, Patrick To Continue With Bruins

BOSTON (AP)—Art Ross, general manager of Boston Bruins during all of their 38-year National Hockey League history, entered Friday to continue in that capacity through the 1953-54 season.

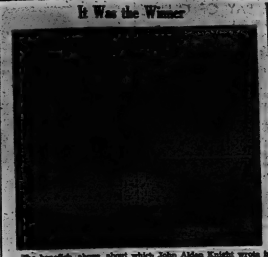
At the same time president Walter Brown announced that coach Lynn Patrick had been signed for next season.

During the recent campaign, the Bruins, after finishing the regular 70-games season in third place, defeated the powerful Detroit Red Wings in the Stanley Cup semi-final series and then bowed to Montreal Canadiens.

sect that any take wing at any moment. Or, he feels on the fly like a wolf on a rabbit, making the water flying in all directions. As often as not the trout (fish), Ichneumonids, Flies, and Knight.

Your insurance policies should "Match Up"

To prevent "holes" or excessive overlaps in your insurance coverage, your policies should all be written by one agent (us, we hope, naturally.)



The reason is, policies can be made to supplement each other wisely and economically. Often, several policies can be combined in one at considerable saving.

And an over-all knowledge of your insurance coverage, may reveal to us that you are omitting some important protection that you should have.

Carry matched insurance—not "patched" insurance.

CONSCIENCE-STRICKEN

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—C. M. Graham, 77, drove through a red light here Friday. He looked around. Not a policeman in sight. So he drove to the police station, and confessed what he had done. Then he insisted that the sergeant hand him a citation, which he said would be the first of his lifetime. In the end he went free, although the sergeant had to take Graham before a forgiving judge before he would leave.

Abducted as an infant as the son of a crooked attorney Henry Hull, can appropriate his dead father's estate, Tommy Ivo is subsequently adopted by William Powell, a rustic philosopher, and his wife, Rosemary DeCamp. Life is peaceful until Tommy stumbles across a long-forgotten buried treasure.

In an old cave, Powell, once a San Francisco playboy, prepares to use the hoard to return to his former dissolute life. But Tommy, remembering his benefactor's philosophy that money is evil, steals the treasure and throws it into a subterranean pit. When Powell's house burns down Hull tells him he is broke. Council Accepts Resignation Of Chief Constable

CAMPBELLFORD — At the regular meeting of the Town Council on Monday night, Chief Constable Cargin tendered his position, effective immediately, and his resignation was accepted.

It was decided to advertise for a chief constable and a maximum salary of $3,000 was established as a basis for taking applications. It was pointed out that as the applications for chief and been for the most part at a higher figure, than had been prevailing locally, Mr. Cargin was given $100 for extra work during the period he was alone in charge of policing the town.

All members of council were present, Mayor Locke presiding.

A communication from the Department of Highways stated that the amount on which road subsidy would be paid in 1953 would of $13,000 instead of the requested figure, or $21,000.

Councillor Free recommended the sale of 68x123 ft. of the parking lot be referred to the solicitor but he did not recommend the sale. Councillor Barnes said that council should sell it and have tax revenue from a building and find another place for parking.

Bowlers Enjoy Pot-Luck Supper To Close Season

CAMPBELLFORD — About 75 bowlers in the Wednesday night church league attended a pot-luck supper in the basement of St. John's United Church on Monday evening.

Following the banquet hour, president, Mel McKeown, of the bowling league, called upon Floyd Adams, who presented the Superient trophy to Earle Nelson, captain of Earle's Eagles, the team which carried the honor for the season by a wide margin. It was also the same captain who won the trophy last year. Individual trophies to the players of the team were presented by Walter Elliott, president of the Young Adults' Club. Regular bowlers on the winning team were: Earle Nelson, Mel McComb, Stewart Milne, Jim Bell, Doris Southworth, and Jean Loucks.

Other Trophies

Wayne Gunter, runner up team captain, presented trophies to Thornton Waters for having the high season average of 217, and to Marion Smith, who was not present, but had an average of 167 for the season for high lady.

Mr. Ron Lockwood, proprietor of Lockwood Lanes, presented prizes to Eleanor Nelson for a single and triple of 64 at station and during the winter's league play.

Mr. Lockwood then presented prizes to Eleanor Nelson for a single and to Jack Meier for a score of over 300.

Lena Ferguson and Carl Stephens received awards for perfect attendance at games during the long season, and a special remembrance from Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood went to Mrs. D. Mansell in addition.

Tribute Paid

Earle Nelson, captain of the winning team, paid tribute to Mel McComb, league secretary, who had done a highly commendable task most efficiently. She was presented with a cash gift in recognition of her services.

It was decided to carry on the league next year on Wednesday night. A new slate of officers were chosen as follows:

A vote of thanks was moved by Carl Stephens to the ladies of the bowling league for their work in connection with the banquet.

Press Club Adopts War Orphan

Montreal — The Hamilton Branch of the Canadian Women's Press Club has become a Foster Parent. The members found their 5-year old girl through the Foster Parents' Plan for War Children, a non-profit non-sectarian organization which owes its existence to a member of the press, John Langdon-Davies, an English journalist.

Fifteen years ago when Langdon-Davis was covering the Spanish Civil War for a London newspaper he picked up a weeping, abandoned 5-year old boy. In the pocket of his ragged jacket he found a note which read, "His name is Jose. I am his father. When Santander falls I will be shot. Will someone take care of him for my sake." This was all in the day's work for Langdon-Davies, a man who before he had been so shocked by the sight of terrified starving children, lost and helpless, that he had gathered together as many as he could and placed them in an abandoned house in Catalina. There Jose found shelter. When war drew near the children were taken by France, and after the fall of France, to England.

Langdon-Davies was so touched by the desperate plight of the children in Spain, he appealed to England and the United States for funds to found his Foster Parents' Plan for War Children. He did not foresee then that with the spread of war his organization would become world-wide in scope.

70,000 Assisted

Since it was founded, the Plan has given aid to 70,000 children, orphaned, maimed or rendered destitute by war in Ireland, Spain, France, Italy, Belgium, Poland, Greece, Holland, Western Germany, and Korea. Today, there are 800 foster parents in the world, most of them Canadians, who are doing their utmost to see that these unhappy children unlike enough to be born while his countries were being destroyed by war, are given a chance to lead normal, useful lives.

The Foster Parents' Plan president and chief relief, Relations between children and foster parents are on a personal basis. When the Hamilton Branch of he Press Club agreed to donate 15 monthly to the Plan, one particular child was assigned to them, and their child will receive $7 a month in cash and regular, well-planned parcels of essential foods and clothing. They received his photograph and the tragic story of his short life. They must write to him at least once a month, and Christmas and birthdays they will receive replies. No doubt they will send him parcels, too, for such special occasions as birthday, and Christmas.

Most foster parents find that their own lives are enriched by this contact and many of them have visited their children in Europe. It is quite possible that little Polish Bohden Szuper, who was born in a D.P. camp and spent all his early years there moved from one camp to another, will be one of his Canadian foster parents. since newspaper women have a way of getting into strange places. A group of sailors on HMCS Magnificent adopted two Greek boys a year or so ago, and last year when the "Magnie" was in Greek waters, the boys went by jeep to the mountain village where their little proteges lived, and came away more enthusiastic than ever about the work of the Foster Parents' Plan.

The plight of the children is still desperate. They are living in caves in Italy, in D.P. Camps, Children's Colonies, and in hovels across the war-ravaged countries of Europe. Canadians wishing further information as to the operation of the Plan can obtain it by writing to Miss Gloria Matthews, Canadian Director, Foster Parents' Plan for War Children, Box 65, Station "B", Montreal.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A collision of two trucks early Friday sent streams of foaming beer over the highway a few miles east of here.

Provincial police said John Weber, of Kitchener, driver of the beer-laden truck, apparently fell asleep at the wheel. His truck crossed the centre line of the highway, police said, and crashed into a tractor-trailer driven by Raymond Dennis of nearby Roseland. The latter truck, owned by Overland Express Company, was loaded with stationary.

Both vehicles went into a ditch.

Damage to the trucks was estimated at $13,000. Both drivers escaped injury.

CONVICTED OF ARSON

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Everard Gooden was convicted of arson Friday after police said he set fire to his car Nov. 15 to collect the insurance. A trainee at the RCAF station at nearby Aylmer, he was remanded for sentence.

Britain Will Defend Suez If Attacked

Churchill Favors Top-Level Parley Of World Powers

Foreign Affairs Debate Opens in Parliament

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill said today he is in favor of a high-level conference of the world's leading powers in the immediate future.

Churchill said such a parley should not be hampered by any long agenda, but be carried out in an atmosphere of informality and privacy and even seclusion.

Churchill did not say specifically whether he thought Premier Malenkov, Premier Stalin's successor, should be among the leaders at the top-level meeting.

He said simply he believes a "conference at the highest level of the leading powers" ought to be held without any great delay.

Outlines Major Points

The Premier in a speech made these other major points as he opened a two-day debate in the House of Commons on foreign affairs:

1. Britain will defend her Suez Canal base if Egypt attacks them. He offered to renew talks at any time with Egypt on the future of the canal zone and said it would be "still better" if Egypt were to agree to the United States joining the talks.

2. A "sympathetic and patient examination" should be given to the Communists' compromise truce proposals in Korea.

3. The position of the anti-Communist zones of Asia-China is not as serious now as it appeared recently. There is some question whether the Communist-directed military offensive against Laos is being inspired from Moscow.

4. Britain will stand by her obligations in West Germany regardless of a strong British desire to reach a friendly settlement with the Soviet Union.

5. A piece meal solution of problems with Russia was better than no settlement at all. This could be interpreted as a reference to President Eisenhower's recent all inclusive peace plan.

Churchill said that a conference of the leading powers might not come to any hard agreement but at least it would lead to a better understanding.

The prime minister reviewed what he called "change in attitude and, we all hope, action that has taken place in Soviet Russia and in the world" since the death of Stalin.

He appealed for caution in "doing or saying" anything that might give the Soviet leaders ground for suspicion.

"It would be a mistake to assume that nothing can be settled unless or until everything is settled."

Tornadoes Skip Across Midwest States; 9 Killed

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Swirling black tornado funnels blasted a path of destruction across parts of five Midwest states and Arkansas during the week-end, leaving nine persons dead, more than 100 injured and widespread property damage.

Areas hit were southern Minnesota, western Wisconsin, southeastern Nebraska, northeastern Iowa, westernmost Arkansas and southeastern Kansas.

Property damage is expected to total several million dollars.

Six of the deaths were listed dead when the tarpaper and clapboard house in which a migrant worker and his family were quartered on a truck farm near Hollandale was destroyed.

Bodies of the six were hurled 75 feet on to a road Sunday night by the twister that the farmer's grandson is Korea.

Also dead in the anti-Communist zones of Asia-China is not as serious now as it appeared recently. There is some question whether the Communist-directed military offensive against Laos is being inspired from Moscow.

4. Britain will stand by her obligations in West Germany regardless of a strong British desire to reach a friendly settlement with the Soviet Union.

END OF SESSION LIKELY TO COME ON WEDNESDAY

House Has Been Sitting Since November 21st

The seventh session—and probably the last—of the 21st Parliament appeared due to end about Wednesday, unless unexpected delays or speedups. It started Nov. 21.

After a month of morning, afternoon and night sittings, the House of Commons still faced a full amount of business, but the time allotted to dispose of it would depend on the inclination of members to speak on the issues.

The House held its first Saturday sitting during the week-end and managed then to dispose of public works and health departmental estimates, though it bogged down on those of veterans affairs.

During the Saturday sitting, the Commons heard from Prime Minister St. Laurent—just back from Europe and the Commonwealth talks and the United States have agreed to study the question of setting up a new joint body to settle trade grievances without the need for either country creating embargoes.

Avoid Issues

The prime minister, who conferred with President Eisenhower, said he regards this move as "quite an indication" of a desire on the part of U. S. administration to avoid raising issues that might disturb trade relations.

Another reference to Canadian-U. S. relations was a suggestion that Canada be built, altogether on her own, a power and navigation project on the International rapids section of the St. Lawrence river.

However, the prime minister said this was very unlikely. He expressed satisfaction with moves of the Eisenhower administration to speed up the project as a joint undertaking.

In other House business, Health Minister Martin admitted he is not happy with the state of civil defence in Canada, but said he knows of no country that is.

Built on Solid Ground

Martin's annual departmental estimates were under review at the Saturday session. Canadian civil defence, he said, is being built along solid lines.

But, he told possible critics, he would not want to say that if anything were to happen now the Canadian civil defence organization could take care of the kind of disaster that Hollandale has happen.

Prime Minister Hoard John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) charged that a government agency is holding back information from Parliament. He threatened to delay proceedings until he gets the information he wants.

Rain Forecast Cheers Crews Battling Bush Fires At Many Points Across Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Forecasts of rain today cheered crews battling bush fires in scattered points across Canada.

A Canadian Press survey showed upwards of 100 outbreaks altogether in British Columbia, Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick, most of them under control.

Two of Ontario's 74 forest fires were reported out of hand early today. One was a 5,000-acre blaze in the Black Sturgeon district near Port Arthur. Two hundred bush workers and forest rangers were fighting it.

The other was spotted along the Ottawa river about 30 miles northeast of North Bay late Sunday. Whipped by a stiff west wind, it jumped the river and had burned a mile into Quebec province territory by nightfall. Aircraft from Trout Lake began moving men and equipment to the scene. More men were dispatched by boat up the Ottawa river from Mattawa.

All Under Control

Rain squalls and the efforts of 1,100 firefighters brought all Manitoba fires under control Sunday. Earlier in the week-end 20 fires burned out of control from Manitoba through Northwestern Ontario with 225 acres destroyed.

A fire in the Badger area of southeastern Manitoba burned out 20,000 acres and forced temporary abandonment of the town. One man was killed Friday when trapped by a fire he volunteered to fight and another was severely injured in the same blaze.

Light rain and cooler weather improved the fire picture in the Sioux Lookout section of Ontario. Two fires were burning, both under control.

Flames still were uncontrolled in rich timber country in Mathieu township, 65 miles northwest of Fort Frances, Sunday but some rain had fallen there and in Dance township, 30 miles to the east where firefighters tried to save an 800-acre stand and a summer resort.

24 in B. C.

A total of 24 fires, none large, burned Saturday in British Columbia, which has listed 63 fires so far this year. Nearly half the province's fires have been in the interior Kamloops forest district. Snowshine was forecast for today in most of the interior and along the southern coast.

Alberta reported a small fire in the Lac la Biche area and two near High Prairie, all under control.

At least nine fires burned Sunday night in heavily wooded stretches of the Ottawa valley watershed north and northwest of Ottawa. Two large fires roared out of control before high winds north of Fort Coulonge, 80 miles northwest of Ottawa, and four or five other blazes also were reported from that district.

Another fire swept a mile-square area near Chelsea, Que., also from Quebec City.

More than 30 fires have been reported in Quebec province since April 7. Officials believe the warm weather of the last few days may increase the danger of further outbreaks.

In New Brunswick, where forest cells have been drying out rapidly, three small fires burned Sunday in the central and eastern sections, bringing the year's total to five. Temperatures were in the 80s Sunday throughout the province.

Nova Scotia has had three small fires so far this season. Officials describe the forests as "dry as dust."

ALLIES REQUEST REDS TO ADVANCE FINAL PLAN

Fate of 48,500 Hinges On Communist Answer

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Allied truce delegates today asked the Communists to advance a plan for final determination of the fate of war prisoners refusing to return to Red control.

At today's 53-minute meeting, the United Nations command said an eight-point Communist proposal for prisoner exchange still let the threat of indefinite captivity hang over 48,500 North Korean and Chinese fates.

Lt.-Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., chief U.N. negotiator, said there was no guarantee that a political conference could settle the prisoner question as the Communists urged.

After the meeting had adjourned Harrison told newsmen Harrison stood in a driving rain outside the truce headquarters and answered correspondents that of the barrage of questions he has asked the Reds, only one has been answered satisfactorily.

He recalled they had said a majority vote would decide differences among the five neutrals proposed by the Communists for repatriations of prisoners refusing to return home.

What Then?

The Communists have proposed that a five-country commission supervise such prisoners for four months. After that period—and after Communist representatives had "explained" things to the soldiers—the fate of those still unwilling to return would be settled by a political conference.

"What then," Harrison asked, "is your further proposal for the ultimate solution of the problem if the political conference cannot arrive at a settlement?"

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Red delegate, didn't answer, but stuck to earlier contentions that any such problem could be settled by a political conference.

Statement Prefaced

He prefaced the statement with: "Our side does not acknowledge at all that there are prisoners who illogically refuse repatriation."

Nam Il said that continued Allied opposition to Communist proposals was delaying the armistice in Korea and "this is contrary to the desire of the peoples of the whole world."

"As I stated yesterday," Harrison replied, "there would be no purpose in our two delegations here repeating arguments on broad principles unless such an agreement can be implemented."

Landing Fast Aircraft on Deck Of Carrier Tricky Job Say Pilots

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ABOARD HMCS MAGNIFICENT (CP)—Landing a plane on the deck of an aircraft carrier can be a bit tricky.

What a Canadian carrier, Coronation bound, is a 17,700-ton, anti-submarine weapon. It takes some 1,100 men to keep her in operation. Some 700 run the ship and the other 400 fly, control and service the 38 Avenger sub hunters and Sea Fury fighters.

The fog and murk finally cleared enough late Saturday, after persisting since the Magnificent's departure from Halifax Thursday, to permit eight Avengers to get off for a few minutes.

The Avenger's job is to hunt out enemy subs and kill them with rockets or, failing that, to summon ships to do the job. The Furies are one of the fastest propeller aircraft in the world, fly cover for the slower Avengers and the carrier.

The Sea Fury has a landing speed of around 100 miles an hour and the carrier's flight deck is only 700 feet long. At that, a landing uses up only 200 or 300 feet of the flight deck. The fast fighter aircraft are parked aft the bow.

The pilot gets his instructions from the batsman who stands at the aft port corner of the deck and signals with two colored paddles. On the final approach to the flight deck, the plane's engine is cut to idle five miles an hour above stalling speed, the pilot waits until it can suddenly flip over and fall into the sea.

The Magnificent's accident rate is around one for every 80 landings, which Cmdr. A. H. Abrams describes as "reasonably low."

Canada's aircraft will convert to jet aircraft when the new carrier Bonaventure, building at Belfast, is delivered in 1955. She is roughly the same size as the Magnificent.

Canadians Given Rest Before Homeward Trip

TACOMA, Wash. (CP)—Two Canadian fighting men, prisoners of the Communists until a couple of weeks ago, were guests of honor during spring countryside Sunday and Korean war veterans' dinner.

The soldiers, after a talk to reporters limited to 15 minutes, went to hospital Saturday to get some badly-needed rest.

Mrs. Bailey took it easy again. The doctor in their ward of the 1,000-bed hospital took them on a 21/2-hours sightseeing drive before they began rest.

Baker and Dugal were the soldiers of the Royal 22nd Regiment who compiled a list of their fellow prisoners on cigaret papers to smuggle out to the world after the Communist captors.

Those who arrived here they were greeted by Roscoe O. Mcintosh handed the soldiers a single pack of cigarets apiece—symbolic of his debt.

The Dugal told reporters a bit about the prison-camp stay.

"Our treatment by the Chinese was fair," he said. "Even the food wasn't too good. It was mostly millet. We had rice only in the winter, three times in summer.

"Mr. Baker told of compulsory lectures on communism, saying: "They told us how the big shot capitalists were exploiting the poor people. We didn't fall for it at all."

Dugal commented on a case reported him in Japan, indicated that Canadian prisoners were not in Korea. "If I got the chance," he said, "I'd go back and fight again."

Ship Reported To Have Hit Reef Near Isle Royale

Eight Survivors Seen On Wind-Whipped Water

GRAND MARAIS, Minn. (AP) — The Great Lakes freighter Henry Steinbrenner foundered and sank in heavy waves off Isle Royale in Lake Superior with 31 aboard early today. Ships in the vicinity reported sighting a life boat and a raft bearing people.

Eight survivors were on the wind-whipped water, rescue ships said.

The coast guard station at Grand Marais reported it had intercepted radio messages from the steamer Clemson and the steamer Sykes in the vicinity of the accident.

The message said "have sighted one raft and one life boat with people on them. Not able to pick up yet." Wreckage also was sighted in the area.

Another ore carrier, the Joseph H. Thompson radioed it had sighted five men on a raft and three in a life boat 14 miles from Isle Royale light station. One man in the life boat was bring down, apparently injured, the message said.

Heavily Reffeted

Winds 55 to 60 miles an hour struck Isle Royale area Sunday night and early today. Heavy seas prevailed today as rescue boats headed for the scene. Most of the freighters on the lakes changed course as they bucked extremely rough water.

The Steinbrenner was reported sunk about 15 miles off the southeast shore of Isle Royale, about midway between Isle Royale light station and Passage Island light on the northeast tip of the island. The Isle Royale light is located at the tip of the arm forming Siskiwell Bay.

Hatches Blown Off

A report from the Clemson heard at 7:25 a. m. EDT said the Steinbrenner had radioed its hatches had been off in strong wind and that it was taking water.

The ship was reported to have struck a reef in the same vicinity as the ill-fated Emperor, a Canadian ship, which went down April 6, 1947. Twelve crew members lost their lives.

Coast guard rescue boats were hurrying from several points. Grand Marais, Minn., Houghton, Mich., stations dispatched motor life boats. An 83-foot coast guard patrol boat left Two Harbors, Minn. The coast guard cutter Woodrush was dispatched from the Apostle Islands off the north Wisconsin shore.

No Takers For Position As Collector

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Unless residents of nearby Edinboro write in sufficient votes in the May 19 primary, a dead Republican will win the nomination for tax collector.

Thomas A. Sheets was the only one to file a nominating petition for the post. But Sheets died a month ago and no one else has applied for the job.

The county board of elections has approved placing his name on the ballot. If no one gets any write-in votes, the board will call the primary no election, a spokesman said. No one in the Democratic party is seeking the nomination either.

Gadget Helps Doctors Check Pilots' Condition in Supersonic Planes

Ontario Swelters While Blizzards Sweep Across Some Parts of Prairies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario swelters under summer temperatures in the new 80s during the week-end while blizzards swept across some parts of the prairies.

Toronto and Ottawa touched 88 degrees Saturday, compared to 39 degrees Toronto record for May 10 set in 1896. But Saskatchewan, which had a scorching heat wave last week, shivered in near-winter conditions.

Snow fell in many areas of central in the Saskatoon area.

Manitoba enjoyed summer weather with the mercury in the high 80s, but by nightfall the temperatures skidded and the weatherman was forecasting drops of as much as 50 degrees and freezing conditions.

The Maritimes had warm weather, Fredericton recorded a high of 87 degrees, the highest in history for early May. Forecast for today was cloudy with temperatures ranging from 50 to 70.

Northern Ontario had a heat wave, but, like Quebec, temperatures fell steadily during the night with threats of occasional showers and today's forecast is cool.

The cold air pushed southwards and at North Bay the mercury dipped to 32 degrees at 6 a.m. There were some cold spots. Porcupine Lake had 28 degrees, as though Earlton 50 miles south had 30.

Warm weather was expected to continue in southern and central Ontario.

Sunday rain relieved parched conditions in Manitoba and rain or snow with cold winds were forecast. The weatherman predicted temperatures in the 40s overnight, where traffic was reported snarled by communications in some sections disrupted. Crops and gardens are not expected to suffer any appreciable damage.

Alberta had moderate weather, but the forecast was snow for Edmonton and rain for Calgary and Medicine Hat. Cooler weather is expected to have warm weather in the interior and along the southern coast.

COMMUNITY AUCTION RAISES $90 FOR PLAY EQUIPMENT

Residents in the College Hill area got rid of some unwanted household articles and at the same time the Prince of Wales Home and School Association raised $90 as result of a community auction held Saturday afternoon. The auction was held on the grounds outside the school.

Cameron Bunnett and his associates donated their services as auctioneers and the unwanted chairs, odd bits of clothing, dishes and household furniture, were knocked down to the highest bidders. Bidding was brisk and when the sale was over the home and school association had $90 to go toward the purchase of playground equipment at the school.

MANY TULIP BEDS IN FULL BLOOM

Tulips are "bustin' out all over" the city following the ideal weather of the past two days. A hunt through the city on Sunday revealed several tulip beds in full bloom, making a colorful contrast to shrubbery just starting to leaf.

In the country, millions and millions of wild dandelions and yellow cowslips are blooming in rural opposition to the brilliance of their urban "cousins."

FRIENDLY ROBIN KILLED BY CAT

"Dapper Dan" a full-breasted robin who set up housekeeping this spring in the first pine tree in succession in a Church Street tree, came to a tragic end over the weekend. "Dan" relinquished his watch for the summer when he was caught to fall victim to a robin-hungry Thomas.

"Dan" was popular with the youngest fry of the area who fed him apples, bits of bread and also have watched him and his mate bring up young birds in the past four years.

DAMAGE TO CARS ALMOST $350

Failure of one driver to notice the car ahead of him had stopped result in property damage amounting to nearly $350 over the week-end.

Robt. W. Fulton was northbound and had attempted to make a left hand turn into his home at 12 North Front Street when the following car, driven by William Carr, of Picton, bumped into the rear of Fulton's car. Damage amounted to approximate $200 and to the Fulton vehicle about $150.

Residents Get First Taste Of Summer Weather

With temperature soaring to 80 degrees, Belleville district residents got their first real taste of summer weather over the week-end and the majority of people took full advantage to get into the open air.

The highways and byways were crowded as motorists took to the open road to enjoy the beauties of the countryside. Trees bursting into full leaf, cherry and plum blossoms and the green of young grass and meadows indicated that spring was well on its way.

Golfers were out in full force and the Country Club greens, west of the city, were well populated all day.

And bicyclists had their day also as city teen-agers made what possibly was their first excursion of the season into the country.

Even the "ice swimming hole" saw a few early comers. The old quarry on the Foxboro road just two miles north of the city saw half a dozen or so swimmers take their first dip of the season.

Also at Foxboro fishing enthusiasts were seen testing the bay water by taking a brief dip on Sunday.

Temperature of the bay water on Sunday was 56 degrees as the day it had risen one degree. The average mean temperature for the first ten days of May has been 54 degrees, the exact reading for all of May during recent years.

Rev. William J. Robinson New Rector St. Thomas' Parish

REV. WILLIAM J. ROBINSON

The Rev. William J. Robinson, B.A., rector of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, Hespeler, has been appointed by the Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, the Rt. Rev. Kenneth C. Evans, M.A., D.D., to succeed to Rectorship of the Ven. Arthur Smith as rector of St. Thomas' Parish in this city. Announcement of the appointment, which will take effect on June 15th., was made by Archdeacon Smith at Matins on Sunday, which was Rogation Day. Archdeacon Smith will assume his duties as rector of Christ Church, Deer Park Toronto, on June 1.

The Rev. William J. Robinson, B.A., was born at Kemptville, in eastern Ontario. He was educated at the schools there and then became a student at Bishop's College, Lennoxville, from which institution he graduated in theology and also received the degree of Bachelor of Arts. He was made a deacon in June 29, 1939, in the parish church of St. James' in his home town of Kemptville, by the Rt. Rev. John Lyons, D.D. who was Bishop of Ontario at that time of Ontario. Upon being admitted to Deacon's Orders he immediately was appointed by the Bishop to assist the Rev. Arthur Smith, rector of St. George's Church at Trenton. The following year on Trinity Sunday he was ordained to the priesthood in St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, by Bishop Lyons.

Appointed as Rector

Some months later the rector, the Rev. Arthur Smith went overseas as a chaplain in the war and Mr. Robinson continued to serve in the parish until December 1, 1941 at which time he was appointed rector of the combined parishes of Tweed and Madoc, which eventually were re-established as separate parishes. He remained in Tweed until June 1, 1946, when he was appointed rector of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene in Napanee, in which parish he has served with marked success. He is a member of the Napanee Rotary Club.

Mr. Robinson married Miss Isobel Morton, daughter of Mrs. Stanley Morton, Bridge Street east, in this city. She is also a Rev. Rural Dean Stanley Morton, who for a considerable time was rector of Trinity Church in Brockville. Following his death the family came to Belleville to reside.

As Miss Isobel Morton, Mrs. Robinson was popular with a large circle of friends here and filled for some time in a capable manner the position of physical director on the staff of the Collegiate and Vocational School. During her residence here she was a valued member of the choir of St. Thomas' Church and took part in the activities of the young people in the parish.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson have three children: Tommy, age 9; Nancy, age 3, and Elizabeth, age 2.

Fire Destroys Close to 300 Cords Slabwood

BANCROFT — Close to 300 cords of slabwood owned by C. W. Bierworth and Son, Bancroft sawmill operators, went up in flames Sunday as sparks from a burning sawdust pile were blown into the slabyard and later fanned out into a nearby woods.

The bush fire was still burning Monday morning with a crew of fire fighters directed by lands and forests department, fighting to stop the flames. The fire had burned nearly two miles into the bush, it was reported.

A stiff wind, which sprung up suddenly Sunday afternoon, was blamed for the blaze which set the Bierworth slabyard afire. The wind was blowing away from the mill and sawdust pile. The dirt road endanger either the mill or the lumber yard. The slabs burned were valued at $6 to $7 per cord.

Today a bulldozer was being used in the fight in an effort to fire from spreading further into the woods.

POLICE BLOTTER

Little more than routine calls were answered by provincial and city police over the week-end and despite the fact highway traffic was heavy no motor accidents resulting in personal injury were reported in the immediate district.

A Herchimer Ave. resident, G. C. Robson, reported the theft of 21 ducks from duck pens at their home, while a Mr. Cox of Point Anne complained that a $300 cutboard motor was missing from his boathouse.

An East street resident reported that her son had been struck by some BB pellets from an air gun. Police investigated and confiscated air rifles from two juveniles.

Leonard J. Connelly, R. R. 2 Belleville, reported his child had had disappeared from where it was parked on Strachan street. Police later found the vehicle parked at the rear of the public utilities premises.

Nine Stitches Required to Close Dog-Bite Wound

Bitten by a strange dog when he stopped to pet the animal after it had followed him into the back yard, Paul Campbell, age 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Campbell, 18 Charlotte street, suffered gashes in his forehead and eyebrow on Saturday which took nine stitches to close.

The dog's teeth missed the lad's eye only by a fraction of an inch, it was reported by doctor who, requiring two stitches to close the tear.

The dog is part hound and was wearing neither collar nor tag. It followed the Campbell boy into the back yard and when the boy stopped to pet him, the animal jumped at his face.

"It's a miracle Paul's eye was not damaged, Paul's mother stated today. She said the boy's eye was swollen shut as result of the bite.

The dog is being held in the dog pound by city dog catcher Charles Thorn. It's owner has not been determined.

Regional F.W.T.A. Elect Directors At Spring Assembly at Bancroft

The spring assembly of region IV (Eastern Ontario) of the Federated Women's Institutes Associations of Ontario met in Bancroft high school on May 2, at 9 a.m. Mrs. Eva G. Rankin, member of the board of governors, presided.

"What is the goal of a human soul?

Is it just to acquire a name?
To write a score of brave deeds or more
On a vanishing scroll of fame?
Or is it lifting the heart to God,
The reaching of hand to man,
The finding of life in the losing of self,
And bettering the world as we can?"

Consecrate Powers

This was the theme of the devotions led by Mrs. Rankin, who challenged the teachers to consecrate their powers and possessions to Christianity's "unfinished business" in the world. She said, "No nation should exist in our minds as to our God-given share in the reconstruction of the world."

In the chairman's remarks, Mrs. Rankin stressed moral and spiritual values in education commending the faithful work done through the years in many class rooms where knowledge has been assimilated and translated into patterns of behavior that are acceptable in a Christian social order.

"Let us continue in the finest tradition of the past and press on to greater things, the Lord working with us' in the great responsibility and privilege that is ours to develop the whole nature of the growing child, physically, mentally, and spiritually," was her challenge.

Reports Heard

Reports were presented by the following: Sick benefit, Miss C. Doughty, Peterborough; Legislation, Miss Amy MacDonald, Ottawa; Ontario Teachers' Federation, Mrs. Ruth Clark, Toronto; Goodwill, Miss Marion Chapman, Ottawa; Finance, Mrs. T. E. Pyne, Wellington; Superannuation, Mrs. Eva G. Rankin, Ottawa.

Luncheon was served by the ladies of St. John's Anglican Church.

Greetings were brought by Mr. Tryon, Reeve of N. Hastings; Mr. G. Wragg, Principal of Bancroft high school; Mr. A. Smith, Inspector of public schools, North Hastings; Rev. Mr. Smith, rector of St. John's Anglican Church, Bancroft.

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—A total of 327 of the 2,295 Indian Jews who emigrated to Israel since the state was founded in 1948 have returned to India because of color prejudice there, Mrs. Lakhmi Menon, Premier Nehru's parliamentary secretary, told the lower house today.

More People Live Under Thatch Roofing Than Any Other Kind

By MICHAEL KING

GENEVA (Reuters) — More people in the world live under thatch than under any other type of roofing, a survey made by the International Labor Organization shows.

The survey covered the efforts being made by various Asian countries to provide low cost housing for their millions of workers.

These efforts, said the survey, were being made in the face of a double handicap.

First, there was a race between a rapidly increasing population and available homes: second, there was the need to divert materials such as concrete and steel from housing to national construction projects, including dams and hydro-electric works.

The steel and cement shortage had led to a search for substitute materials, ranging from timber and bamboo to the better use of traditional plastering materials, including even molasses.

The survey found that building costs could be lowered and more materials could be economized through improved designs.

The invention of a new, simple kitchen stove in India was symptomatic of the saving that could be achieved, the ILO said.

The stove, designed by Hyderabad, was easily constructed into the walls of living room and could be built of mud or bricks. It was smokeless and its thermal efficiency resulted in a fuel saving of from 20 to 40 per cent.

"If this saving was generalized throughout India," the survey said, "it would result in reducing deforestation by approximately 12,000,000 trees every year."

India has considered the greatest amount of research, which has ranged from the relative merits of rammed earth and sun - baked bricks to treated timber and concrete.

The Indian government is also experimenting with fired bricks and stabilized earth and other materials which would redist the country's monsoon rains.

Special plasters being developed are expected to help tide India over the period when the bulk of the country's energies is being diverted to extensive irrigation and massive hydro-electric projects.

In Malaya, research has indicated many possible uses for timber that had previously been regarded as useless "merely because they were untried."

Promising developments have also been carried out in India on creating foam concrete bricks, using finely pulverized rock. In Pakistan new methods of roof construction have been developed using flat slabs of concrete.

Experiments with a domed-type of cement concrete roofing have been made in Pakistan. If successful they should reduce the cost of roofs by about 40 per cent.

CHURCHILL

Must Maintain Base

Churchill referred to Premier Mayadli's proposal of 1950 by which the Egyptian leader described Britain as the "enemy" and hinted that action might be taken to drive Britain from the Suez canal zone.

The British prime minister offered to renew at any time Anglo-Egyptian negotiations on the future of the zone. He said that it would be "still better" if Egypt agreed to permit the U.S. to join any new talks.

He said Britain must insure that the base will be maintained in good condition so that "in the event of a third world war it could function effectively."

He emprasized that if British troops in the canal zone are the object of renewed attacks by saboteurs or by the Egyptian Army —which he said is being trained by former Nazi officers — "we should have no choice but to defend ourselves."

Talks between the British ambassador, Sir Ralph Stevenson, and Premier Naguib broke down in Cairo last week.

A LITTLE WHITE LIE, LONG FORGIVEN

It was in the 1890's — the records do not give the exact date—but the day was one of great bustle and anticipation at the Belleville General Hospital. The occasion was a visit by His Excellency Lord Aberdeen, the Governor-General. And it was an important one to the members of the Women's Christian Association, founders and administrators of the institution.

As the time approached for the arrival of the distinguished visitor a disconcerting fact was the absence of patients in the women's public ward. The good ladies of the committee decided that there should be at least one patient to impress the Governor-General.

So it was that the visit to this ward in due course found His Excellency pausing to express a few words of cheer and comfort to its solitary "sufferer." Indeed, he inquired of the superintendent, Mrs. Fraser, whether the patient's trouble was dropsy, remarking upon her size. The superintendent acknowledged His Excellency's diagnosis with a respectful nod of her head, and the most solemn expression she could muster.

As the vice-regal party moved on, the erstwhile dropsy patient hurried back to her duties in the kitchen. It was the cook who had prevailed upon and kindly consented to play the part of the patient for the auspicious occasion.

The perpetration of this little white lie is an amusing footnote to the unique history and character of the Belleville General Hospital. If it ever needed forgiving, our hospital of today is an eloquent testimonial of atonement by the members of the Women's Christian Association.

Tomorrow, May 12, as citizens accept the invitation to observe Nightingale Hospital Day by visiting the Belleville General, it is interesting to recall some of early background. In 1879 Belleville had no hospital, no home for the aged, nor any organized society of looking after the poor. In that year she Women's Christian Association of Belleville came into being. This ambitious and determined band of women undertook "to conduct a general oversight of the poor of the city, visit the jail, establish a home for the Aged and Friendless of the city, and plan for the building of a hospital for the sick of the city and the county."

It is quite appropriate at this time that we recall the remarkable program to which the Women's Christian Association dedicated itself, because Hospital Day is observed on May 12 in honor of the birth of Florence Nightingale. And it was in the three decades following her historic nursing mission in the Crimean War in 1854 that Florence Nightingale carried her crusade in revolutionizing hospital conditions throughout the British Isles and on the continent of Europe and into the Near East. These can be little doubt that the Lady with the Lamp was the inspiration which moved the members of the W. C. A. to such great undertakings.

Nor is it surprising that the menfolk of that day were not greatly impressed. Indeed, when it became apparent that the women were very much in earnest about their objectives, they incurred "bitter opposition". Men scoffed at the idea of a group of women raising enough money to build the institution they proposed, let alone finance its operation should they succeed in building it. One record states: "Their efforts were not only attacked in newspapers but in the city council, in the provincial legislature and on the streets"

Others viewed better long since. It was this sort of masculine tolerance and obstinacy that, not many years later, provoked the women's suffrage movement on two continents.

Suffice, however, to recall that in Belleville the Women's Christian Association, by 1844, had acquired a site and $15,000 in cash. The first sod was turned on July 25, that year. The formal opening of the General Hospital and Home for the Aged, on the present site of the Belleville General Hospital took place July 20, 1886. It was the only hospital at that time between Toronto and Kingston and it was he first Canadian institution of its kind to be founded, owned and operated entirely by women.

In 1949 the hospital was taken over and operated by the city, but there remain on the 15-member Board of Governors, two representatives of the Women's Christian Association.

Today the Belleville General Hospital is not only the most vital single institution of the community but it is one of the city's half dozen major enterprises. It is probably the third or fourth largest employer with 325 persons on a payroll which amounts to $430,000 a year. It spends $450,000 a year in food and supplies. But right there its resemblance to a big business ends. It is a business without a profit motive. There is no production schedule. There are no shareholder dividends.

It is quite true that the business administrators are always faced with the necessity of making both ends meet (or as near to that as possible) but the attention of the whole hospital organization is focussed on the needs of its patients.

Last year, 6,500 patients received treatment at the hospital. The average stay per patient was of a little more than nine days' duration for a total of 60,000 patient days. This volume of patients puts demands on the hospital which far exceed its normal accommodation.

Visitors tomorrow will see no empty beds or make-believe patients. The rated capacity of the hospital is 131 beds. Actually at the present time 187 sick beds and 35 bassinettes are being accommodated.

During the reception hours, from 2 to 4 p.m., visitors will be escorted on a complete inspection tour of the institution. As groups are conducted through each department the head of the department will explain its facilities and services. Anyone fortunate enough to have never spent time in a hospital is efficient organization will be a revelation. To those who have been patients a visit will explain to them so many of the routine goings-on which were often puzzling to them when they were ill.

A hospital needs both the moral and active support of the community it serves. Its whole purpose is to provide the best possible health protection for all, at all times. The Belleville General Hospital is doing an outstanding work under overcrowded and trying conditions. And there is no one in the community who might not find that one day, because of illness, it has become the centre of his or her world.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

MAY 11, 1933

One hundred and ten pupils of the Cannifton Road public school were inoculated this morning in forty minutes. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Medical Officer of Health for Thurlow township, highly commended the efficient manner in which the two assistants, Miss Findlay and Miss Dumais, Victorian Order Nurses of this city, performed their work.

Some 230 people from Cannifton and vicinity crowned the rather chilly atmosphere and gathered for the street dance in that village Monday evening. A space was fenced off in front of the Rogers Store and the Riverside orchestra furnished excellent music for square and round dances. The proceeds of the dance will go to the treasury of the Cannifton Ball club.

Mr. Fred Adams, of Deltor, formerly of this city and for many years manager of the Carman Opera House, renewed acquaintances in town over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. McGowan have returned from Florida, where they spent the winter.

Ex-Mayor Morley P. Duff, chairman of the local Hydro commission, and Mr. A. E. Scott, manager of the commission, attended the Hydro Night banquet at Ionic Chapter, No. 168, R.A.M., in Campbellford, last evening.

The High School Literary Society held its final meeting for this term last evening in the assembly hall at the high school. The main part of the program was a debate upon the subject, "Resolved that co-operation does more for the world than competition." The affirmative side was championed by Miss Farrell and George Faulkner and the negative side was upheld by Cecil Farrar and Jack Crozier. The verdict of the judges was in favor of the negative side.

Mrs. Miles Rose, late of the Springer Lock Company staff, has left here to reside in Toronto.

Billion Rabbits

(Calgary Albertan)

Australia's rabbit infestation is well-known. Less than 100 years ago 13 pairs of rabbits were let loose on a sheep farm. They overran the country. There are thought to be a billion of them. The number last' growing any more, because the saturation point - has been reached. They eat the grass that a hundred million cattle would eat. They cost the country about a billion dollars a year.

Many methods of control have been tried — poison, predators, fences and so on. Fencing has been partially effective but it is so expensive. Imagine if Alberta's cattle ranches had to be enclosed in rabbit-proof fences.

But apparently scientists now have a more satisfactory control method. A virus imported from Brazil and planted in the rabbit population is now spreading rapidly, and is killing 75, 80 and as many as 95 percent of the rabbits. Some always survive and they repeat the race, but the virus is there to strike down the next generation.

ROSE GROWER

He paid a dollar for a rose
And watched it daily as it grew;
Stood by to ward off all its foes
As gardeners loving roses do.

Someone had told him how to know
The rugged, wild stem from the true
Saying: "Don't let the wild shoot grow
You'll lose your roses if you do."

He'd paid a dollar for the plant
And watched its every growth with care,
Fought aphis, bettle, slug and ant,
An never left a wild shoot
there.

With pride upon the rose he'd look,
But how can this be reconciled:
Care for a dollar plant he took
But let his little boy run wild?

600 Seals Ride Ice Floes

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

The 900 seals that floated into the Bay of Fundy this week on an ice floe from the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and were washed from the coastline near Dalhousie as they dived into the sea in quest of herring and basking in the sunshine on the beach, formed altogether a bigger invasion of their kind than had been seen on the North Shore in a generation at least.

The sleek, fat, cumbersome mammals must be mystified, for by mankind's varying reactions to their visits. The despatch said that the Mounties were on hand, protecting residents from shooting the seals. And yet when the herd drifts out into the gulf again they will get much different reception from the watchful crews of the Newfoundland and Nova Scotia sealing ships and from the shore-based hunters of the Magdalen Islands, between Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

Sealing seems to the novice a cruel business and rarely can a crew based on ships arise in the morning to the hunt as first enthusiastically and without qualms. The kill begins usually in mid-March as the seals come drifting down from the North, sometimes as many as 60,000 in a single pack. Across the ice the crewmen range, clubbing the young seals, which are especially sought for their lustrous skin and fur. They laughter is often so widespread that the decks of the sealers are awash with blood.

Sometimes, though, it's almost as dangerous for the hunters as for the hunted. Many a stout sealing ship has been crunched and splintered, people in its riveted hull, by grinding ice floes, and few people who live and work on land would relish the job of the Magdalen Islanders, who periodically must go out on the ice fields, dragging shallow, flat-bottomed boats behind them — old craft which serve as sheds for the seals or, in emergencies, as lifeboats for the hunters.

The playful but destructive seadogs which the Bay of Fundy coast knows so well are, incidentally, another species of baby seal and somewhat smaller. Both types are different from the fur seal of the Pacific. The seals are protected from wholesale killing by the fact that, though valuable, they are in these parts in one of the largest of the big Atlantic shoreline, there aren't enough of them to form the basis of a seadog-hunting industry.

Artistic Gnosticism

(Hamilton Spectator)

Sir Winston Churchill is not alone in his disapproval of certain "modern" forms of art.

Even Jacob Epstein, whose sculptures have often strained the imagination of the art lover, takes a dim view of such phases of the abstract fancy as the prize-winning Unknown Political Prisoner which was recently mangled by an irate spectator in the Tate Gallery.

Churchill, fearing that a 900-foot replica of the Unknown Political Prisoner will be raised on the cliffs of Dover, warns the public that it will be subject to "run wildly after every curious novelty." But a similar view, Epstein says such "abstract atrocities" should not be taken seriously.

One of the curses of abstract art is that it has become too subjective for the layman. The result has been the emergence of a form of gnosticism, a revival of one of the early Christian heresy of Gnosticism. Gnosticism, Coulton claimed, to have a mystical insight into the nature of good and evil, as well as a special cult of abstract art connoisseurs claims ability to see beauty (and the super-aesthetic plane) on the seemingly incomprehensible creations of the artistic fringe.

The artistic tastes of the average man are not necessarily to these high priests of modern culture. Super-genius, dwelling in an ivory tower, is not impressed with a quest for super creation. The two grope for one another in vain, but unfortunately the general public is excluded. Art cannot be considered entirely subjective if it is to be appreciated by the experts. Innovations in art are the life-blood of it, but there is a high degree of intellectual honesty is expected of them. Not infrequently the intellectual arrogance of artistic Gnosticism has been coupled with intellectual dishonesty.

According to Plato, art is "an imitation of an imitation, three times removed from the truth." The abstractionist cannot afford to leave in doubt the extent to which he presumably trying to give expression.

Computing Farm Costs

(Farmer's Advocate)

Canada has so many acres that farmers here, as compared with other countries, have been careless as to yields and concerned chiefly with total output rather than actual production per acre. The total output has been sufficient to satisfy the operator it was not difficult to rent or buy more land nearby. For a time it could be done.

Now the situation has changed. Rents have gone up, land values have risen and good land is scarce and hard to come by.

Thinking is not directed to the most profitable production per acre. One can send out a lot of milk from a couple of cows and still have a small net return if most of the feed is purchased. It isn't the amount of feed that is grown on pasture that tell the story but rather how much is made available per acre of land. Livestock is a processing plant to convert a basic commodity into a saleable product. All farm income is expected from the soil. There is no other source.

And so ill is that farming efficiency is measured usually on the basis of acre output; but unfortunately there is no standard unit to aim at. It has been said that 500 pounds of beef per acre is satisfactory but 1,000 pounds per acre should be achieved without too much difficulty. Bushels of wheat or butterfat, or pork or bow many dozen of eggs can be produced from a certain acre of land on the average sized farm is still an open question. Without such data no calculations of this nature we shall have a determinable yardstick with which to measure land values and farm efficiency.

HOPEFUL SIGN OF TRUCE

(The Times, London, Eng.)

The most hopeful sign about the renewed talks at Panmunjon is that both sides have, in the Geneva convention, of 1949 on the treatment of prisoners of war, the difficult, even though the Chinese and North Korean Governments have not signed it.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In every family, there is usually a mischief-maker who leaves doors or windows unlocked. I have a burglar friend. He served in the first war and, when his natural talents were developed, and he calls on me from time to time, whenever he fi at liberty - or, as he puts it, "resting" - and gives me the benefit of his professional knowledge. He says it is astonishing how many people will tell the summer, or on weekends, leaving easy access to their city mansions. It is, he suggests, the fault of that filibusterybibet, usually a girl, who comes a boy, and rarely the mother or father. If my friend can figure out such a family or the cockeyed way the blind is drawn which reveals the fact - then all the burglar has to do is reach that window to find easy access to the house. Naturally, if the burglar can find a door or window unlocked, it is much safer enterprise for him than one involving breaking and entering. Breaking and entering is a more serious crime than merely entering, so he tells me.

The last time he lost his liberty, my friend tells me, most humiliating experience. He located one of those pleasant homes set a little secluded back in its own grounds. He had no difficulty in identifying the upstairs room undoubtedly occupied the boy of the family: it had sporting scenes pasted, as transparencies, on the window panes. From a back verandah roof he had no difficulty in getting on to a ledge and a stout Virginia creeper, in which he climbed with ease. He lifted with out even the help of a screw driver. My friend eased himself into the sill.

He must have tripped a wire, for a bell began to ring. In the open window, a food speaker, decorated with the crest and motto of the young fellow whose room he was entering, began roaring, in stentorian tones, over and over again, the words, "Help! Help! Burglars! Police! Help! Help!..." My friend had no chance. Neighbors careered him until the police came. The alarm was an amateur rig, as the subsequent court proceedings revealed, costing a a phonograph record player. Regarding the boy, my friend says you can never trust these young filibbertygibbets.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

WHEN THE DOCTOR BLOWS UP

Dr. Brady

One of the most prized items in my library is a tattered volume entitled "Fourteen Weeks in Physiology, by J. Dorman Steele, Ph. D., which a grader rescued from the rag-man and sent to me. It was the textbook used when I was a boy in Chapel Street School in Canandaigua under the sainted Miss Laits Berner. The textbook was published by A. S. Barnes and Co., in 1874. If there was an earlier elementary school textbook on the subject, I have not seen it. I believe the erroneous notion of most laymen and many physicians that too much calcium" accounts for the brittleness of the bones of elderly persons and the hardening of the arteries (arteriosclerosis) and the "free" gastric in the middle aged, "implanted by this textbook.

The proportion of mineral matter to general matter in the bones varies with age, "joined Dr. Steele. "In youth it is from one-third to one-half, while in old age the mineral is greatly in excess." Sounds so plausible, doesn't it, old timers? To laymen who harbor the quaint notion about "mineral matter" (calcium, chiefly) I can only say I'm sorry for you. As I eat my daily ration of calcium and D, usually along with a glass of milk, as I beat it for the bowling green, I am mindful of the millions of people whose calcium deficiency gets worse and worse—as does the rheumatism and joint mobility simply because of this 19th century vagary. I do all I can to combat it, but it is a thankless task.

Some people report that they have taken calcium now for two or three years without apparent benefit. What should they try next? I do not suggest taking calcium for three weeks or three months. I suggest eating it every day from now on.

Others do not sick but tell me that they have too much calcium in their "system" now . . . how they acquire the notion I can only guess.

Still others reproach me for the enthusiasm I caused them — when they asked the racketeer at the clinic about taking calcium he blew up or hit the ceiling and asserted that it would be dangerous for any one past fifty to take much calcium. They'd very likely get arteriosclerosis" . . .

Despite what we learned from Dr. Steele's textbook and so many others since, unable to unlearn, the truth is that in old age the mineral (chiefly calcium) in the bones steadily declines. The bones are the storehouse of calcium and this reserve is drawn on to supply the daily needs of blood and of muscle, nerve and heart and muscles. When the body is deficient in calcium and the individual does not get enough vitamin D to insure good calcium metabolism or utilization, the inevitable consequence is osteoporosis, porosity of bone, weakening, wasting, shrinking, increased brittleness, loss of weight.

In America today nearly everybody's diet is deficient in calcium. The diet does not include enough high-calcium foods—such as milk, cheese, cheese, beans, nuts, greens and peanuts.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A GREAT AMERICAN PAINTER

One of the most remarkable exhibitions of paintings on "our fabulous West," by Frederick Remington Leigh, has recently been shown at the Grand Central Art Galleries in New York. I have never viewed such a collection of vibrant, virile paintings. The artist, now 56 years of age, many of his finest paintings being recently created in his early eighties.

Leigh was born in West Virginia in 1896. He started painting at the age of fourteen. For twelve years he worked at illustrating for the Royal Academy medal six times. At the age of forty he went West and lived with the Indians, living of Indians, cowboys, and animals. His paintings are a story of Arizona, New Mexico, the Dakotas, and the Rocky Mountain region.

The days of the "Wild West" and of the buffalo live anew in great murals as well as in smaller, simple domestic scenes among the Indians. There is tremendous drama in many of the larger paintings—action, and rare beauty as well. No one, I am sure, has ever painted the colorings to the Grand Canyon that has Leigh. He has lived every colorful emotion upon his canvases that a painter can possess could have done what he has done.

The paintings of Leigh are owned by many collectors, including the Duke of Windsor and the late Marshall Field. The Belgium and many museums and art galleries proudly own examples of canvases of this great American painter. Some of his finest work is immortalized in the American Museum of Natural History in New York. The spirit, the color, the drama, and action displayed in the more powerful paintings of Leigh are unforgettable.

I was especially fascinated by the many examples of domestic scenes in the life of the Navajo and Hopi families. And what sheer beauty in such a painting as "Pony Express by Moonlight." Poetry, drama, beauty, silent beauty—they are all in the work of this great artist. Loss, by a terrible life has been that of William Robinson Leigh!

BUILT TO BOUNCE BACK

An ever-popular children's toy is the squat figure, now generally made of plastic or rubber, which is set on a rounded base. Each time it is knocked down it springs smartly up again, ready for the next blow. Its secret, as everyone knows, is simply a heavy weight in the base that always swings it back to the upright position.

Someone has suggested that human beings ought to be constructed in a similar way — psychologically speaking, at least. For as most of us go through life, we are likely to receive a variety of blows which may lay our pride, or perhaps our finances, or else our personal ambitions flat as can be.

Unfortunately, we do not always spring back with the facility of the statue at the end of the knock-toy: a solid foundation for living. People whose lives are built on substantial bases of character—integrity, love, courage, and humility—almost unlimited capacity for rising out of defeat into victory.

Song Festival by School Choirs Highly Praised by Director

Major Brian McCool, assistant director of music for the Department of Education of Toronto, gave credit to staff musical directors for the excellence and improvement of choral singing in the 1953 annual Song Festival, sponsored by the South Hastings Educational Association (Western Division.)

Some 300 voices were featured in solos, duets, trios and choirs in an educational and non-competitive Song Festival in the Air Marshal Breadner School auditorium, recently. Instrumental participation in the program included piano solos by Don Herbertson and saxophone Chorus from Air Marshal Breadner School and an instrumental band number by students of North Trenton Public School.

A total of nineteen choirs from Air Marshal Breadner School, Frankford Public School, Dufferin Public School, North Trenton Public School, and College Street Public School drew favorable comments from Major McCool who summed up his remarks with the statement, "The staff work behind the festival is the best that I have ever seen at any local festival."

Centre of his praise were musical directors Miss Coletta O'Keefe, Breadner; Miss Phyllis Sise, Frankford; and Mr. George Downs, all Trenton schools.

Words of praise, such as "fine blend and tone" were directed towards more than 300 students, participating from Breadner school, after Major McCool appraised the work of Frankford students by remarking "Youngsters of the entire area must be extremely gifted and intelligent."

Have Lovely Tone

The Dufferin School Junior Choir were credited with their "lovely tone, even though the high notes were an effort." Comments of "precision, rhythm, excellent turnout and conducting" were directed toward North Trenton Public School and young musicians of Queen Elizabeth Public School were paid special congratulations by Major McCool.

Regarding the College Street School duet, Major McCool remarked: "One is betrayed into criticism as if adults were performing."

The director's closing remarks summed up his feelings for the entire program, "A delightful event in tone, delicate and artistic."

Dufferin Public School soloists were Linda Ormshaw, singing "Willy"; Carol Frost, singing "Rose of Tralee"; John Uttley, singing "Passing By". Queen Elizabeth Public School soloists were Robert Webb, singing a "Young Musician," and Grace Taylor, singing "Alice Blue Gown."

Nancy Maiden and Beverley Gunter, of College Street Public School, were featured in the oddly duet number, "Jennie with the Light Brown Hair".

Mater of ceremonies was Principal G. D. Dwyer, Breadner School. Inspector R. H. Mackem, South Hastings Department of Education, introduced Major McCool, who was thanked for his participation on the program by K. M. Bird, president of South Hastings Educational Association (Western Division).

Drownings Top List as 32 Meet Violent Deaths

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Drownings topped the list of Eastern Canada fatalities reported during the week-end as a mid-spring warm spell sent residents flocking to lakes and rivers. Crowded highways also took their toll.

A Canadian Press survey early today showed 32 victims of violent deaths, including 11 drowned and two missing believed drowned, nine in traffic accidents, four in tractor mishaps, two in gun accidents, one from suffocation, one by falling into a lake while fishing and one thrown from a railway handcar.

Ontario had 15 fatalities, Quebec 14, Nova Scotia two and New Brunswick one.

Biggest multiple death occurred when a row boat capsized on a lake near Mont Laurier, Que., drowning five persons, three of them brothers. Dead are Leonard Lapalme, 21, of St. Johns, Que., and his wife; Albert Lapalme, 22, of Montreal, and his wife, and Maurice Lapalme, 35, also of Montreal.

Three-year-old Nancy Clayton of North York was found suffocated in a refrigerator, which had been placed outside a house and was apparently unused. The girl apparently had been playing around it when the door locked inside and the door had locked.

Other Ontario deaths: Albert Tanner, 38, of Korah township, of self-inflicted gunshot wounds; Robert Caufield, 39, of Sault Ste. Marie, of self-inflicted rifle wounds; Charles Hagerman, 25, of Hamilton, in car-transport collision; James A. Mair, Jr., 32, and his wife, Eileen, of Sarnia, missing since Thursday and believed drowned while on a fishing trip at Erie lake, where dragging operations have started; Gilbert Dupuis, 25, of Windsor, in a car crash;

Leslie Lalonde, 70, of Ottawa, struck by a car while riding a bicycle; Donald Dillon, 18, of Napanee, drowned while swimming in the Napanee river; Solomon Morin, 66, of Niagara Falls, struck by a loose rock which fell while he was working on the hydro project; William James Patterson, 21, crushed to death by a tractor driven by his father on their farm near Moscow; Gardner Morrison, 54, of Mount Forest, run over by a tractor while he was cranking it; Albert Nakiniak, 43, of Midland, drowned while saving a boy from drowning; Danny Grondanoff, 3, of Toronto, when he darted from behind a parked car into a line of traffic; Robert McCreight, when he was thrown from a railway speeder near Marathon.

FLEES ARREST, KILLED

Child Knocked To Ground, Not Seriously Hurt

TRENTON (Special) — Dennis Howard, 4½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Howard, of 32 Meyers Street, was more frightened than he was hurt when he darted into the path of a car driven by Gordon Campney, 36, of 186 Hibbert Street, Oshawa, here yesterday. He suffered only abrasions on the right knee, treated by Dr. Duncan Campbell.

A car driven by Campney was proceeding east on Meyers St., slowing down for a crowd of children playing at the curb. Suddenly one child ran out from the group directly in the front fender, slightly grazing the boy's leg, knocking him to the ground.

Bill Campney, of Trenton, was a passenger in the car.

Issue Warning

The latest victim, Arnold Radway, of 85 Water Street, operating a late model car, reports he was travelling south on Front Street near Brooke's Lunch, when a small girl staying with A. Grey on Front Street, threw a stone which hit the hood of the car and damaging it.

Life Easy One

The life of a Trenton fireman is not an easy one for the last week.

On Saturday one of the hose trucks was called to a brush fire threatening a house on the south side of the Murray Canal in Murray Township. Firemen reached the trouble in good time and helped volunteers bring the flames under control. There was no damage resulting from the flare-up.

First Session Of Iranian House Ends in Disorder

By MARC FURDUN

TEHRAN (AP) — The first session of the Iranian Parliament since early March broke up in wild disorder Sunday within five minutes of being called to order.

Amid the clamorous shouting of deputies and spectators, a new deputy whose credentials were rejected by Prime Minister Mossadegh's opponents was booted out the door.

Guards forced spectators out but a 15-minute brawl ensued in the entrance hall between the pro- and anti-Mossadegh groups. The session—long delayed by a withdrawal of Mossadegh's opponents from Tehran, preventing a quorum—had been expected to consider Premier Mossadegh's

Prevents Quorum

One was a measure interpreting the constitution to deprive the Shah of any claim to active command of the armed forces. This was the measure the opposition effectively blocked by preventing a quorum. The second was the proposed removal of parliamentary immunity from accused Minister Baghaie, the Labor party leader whom the police accuse of inspiring and directing a plot to kidnap and murder national police chief Mahmood Afshartus as the first step to wrecking the Mossadegh government.

Mehdi Mir-Ashrafi, an anti-Mossadegh stalwart, turned his wrath on Ali Reza Nabi, deputy. In last year's elections, Baghaie was elected deputy for both Tehran and Kerman. While he was absent at The Hague with Mossadegh, the credentials committee ruled that he should represent Tehran. Two weeks ago, the committee ruled that Roohi, whom Baghaie defeated in the Kerman election, was entitled to that seat.

In the midst of Sunday's uproar, Mir-Ashrafi whirled on Roohi, demanded to know by what right he was on the floor. Mir-Ashrafi pulled Roohi to his feet and forced his bowed head to exit with pushes. blows and kicks. No one came to Roohi's assistance as Mir-Ashrafi, with a final kick, sent him sprawling at the door.

R. E. Bonter and Mr. Bonter, Marmora Girls' F.O.L. 279, held a bake sale in the Legion room of the Memorial Hall, on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Lavender spent Friday in Toronto.

Mrs. James Grier, of Kemptville, is visiting Canon and Mrs. J. M. Brownlie at the rectory.

British Housewife Will Soon Throw Away Ration Book

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—After 14 years of food rationing, the British housewife looks forward with a reasonable degree of hope to the day when she will throw away her ration book.

The fact is controls are being shed one by one, almost without anybody noticing.

"I hope," Food Minister Gwilym Lloyd-George told a meeting of women, "that by next year we shall be nearer still to complete freedom and the abolition of the ration book."

Eggs—the golden nuggets of wartime—recently came off the ration. Now you can order bacon and eggs in a restaurant and nobody lifts an eyebrow. Candy was freed early in February after being on the restricted list, except for a short period, since June 26, 1942. Instead of being limited to 24 ounces a month, those with a sweet tooth now can order as many bars as they want.

Take Things Calmly

The remarkable thing—is that on balance Britain's housewives take the liberties calmly, almost as though they had got so used to rationing they couldn't accustom themselves to plenty in the pantry. Occasionally there were queues before candy counters but nothing sensational.

Still rationed are sugar, butter, margarine, cooking fats, bacon, some cheeses and fresh meat. Some say everything except cheese and meat will be free of controls by autumn and that all foods will be a matter of economic choice by 1955. The hope was given a further fillip in Britain's new budget, with the announcement that sugar will be decontrolled "shortly."

There have been hints from the opposition Labor party that it fears decontrol will mean pricing such commodities as butter and bacon beyond the reach of the working class, especially if decontrolling is accompanied by abolition of the remaining food subsidies, which help keep the price of basic items at an artificially low level.

Subsidies were clipped roughly by half in the 1952-53 budget and now run more than £200,000,000 a year. It has been estimated that subsidies on butter, bacon, cooking fats, and margarine total £60,000,000, reaching their highest levels on butter and bacon.

The Conservative government has countered arguments about rising prices by contending that, for instance in the case of eggs and tea, the cost has remained at about the same level as under rationing. They claim that lower world food prices make it unnecessary for the housewife to pay more on the open market than under rationing.

Trade Pessimistic

Many trade sources, however, are pessimistic about lower prices.

They say Argentine manufacturer said that unless world prices fall further, the cost of margarine would inevitably go up once rationing ended. He said the only known supplies of essential vegetable oils are in the Philippines, a dollar area which is an unlikely shopping place for Britain.

A buyer for a retail and wholesale grocer said butter has shown no tendency to become cheaper. A dairy produce importer agreed and predicted removal of controls and subsidies might result in a price rise.

Some present prices are: butter three shillings a pound, margarine is 6d. cooking fats 8d to 9d, bacon two shillings to 5s 9d, varying as to cuts, sugar sevenpence a pound. In Britain, the average industrial wage is about £9 a week.

So easy, with the 'blue coal' Budget Plan. You pay small monthly sums NOW, and start the winter with a PAID-UP supply of the world's finest anthracite. Prices are at their lowest. Act Now.

Weddings

DEWART—BRETT

A marriage of wide interest was solemnized in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc, when Eva Margaret Brett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Brett, became the bride of Eric Dewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dewart, of Indian River, Ontario.

Standards of pink and white snapdragons and ferns formed the background for the ceremony at which Rev. Gordon Brett and Rev. Walter Brett, brothers of the bride, officiated.

The bride given in marriage by her father, chose an original gown of blush ivory satin fashioned on princess lines. The beaded lace yoke extended in a ruching edged panel to the hem line and a chapel train fell in graceful lines from the bodice waistline which was trimmed with satin leaves. Her tulle illusion veil was held by a matching cap edged with matching satin leaves and she carried talisman roses and stephanotis.

Miss Lloyd of Toronto, and Miss Barbara Burks, of Trenton, attended the bride and were respectively gowned in coral pink and seafoam green nylon net over taffeta. Their wide ballerina length crinoline skirts had tiered bodices complimenting by matching stoles and mittens. They were corsets on their hair, and carried nosegays of roses, sweet peas and stephanotis.

The two little flowers girls Marnie and Linda Brett, nieces of the bride, were similarly gowned wearing in their hair wreaths of sweet peas and pansies and carrying matching nosegays.

Mr. James Bigham, of Indian River, was groomsman, and Mr. Harold and Grant Brett, brothers of the bride were ushers.

The soloist was Mrs. Wesley Hulin, while Mr. Ronnie Robertson was organist.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Among those present were guests from London, Hamilton, Toronto, Oshawa, Montreal, Trenton, Peterborough and Indian River. After a honeymoon trip to the States, the bride and groom will reside at Indian River, Ontario.

Ways and Means Will be Found To Extend VON

OTTAWA (CP)—E. P. Taylor of Toronto, president of the executive council, Victorian Order of Nurses for Canada, said Wednesday that ways and means must be found to extend VON work, both in centres where VON now operates and in areas not served.

The 55th annual meeting of the board of governors was held in Rideau Hall, home of the governor-general, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey. The governor-general said "there isn't a person in this country who doesn't want to see VON services expanded."

Mr. Taylor, re-elected president of the organization, said the principal limiting factors in developing the full potential of the order were inadequate finances and a shortage of trained nurses. Extension of home nursing would make a "notable contribution" to relieve a deficiency of hospital beds in many places.

An expanded program of public information was needed to extend VON work and to raise the necessary financial support. National funds "are almost exhausted very shortly," he said, and accordingly "we must launch a financial appeal."

Married 73 Years and Still In Love

TROUT CREEK (CP)—Seventy-three years of married life and "more in love today than ever before."

So say Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo David Brott, 91 and 88 respectively, parents of 12 children, grandparents of 14 and great-grandparents to 33.

Today is the anniversary and this little village 26 miles south of North Bay will celebrate with the couple who eloped when Mary Ann Moffitt was 16 and Lon Brott a youth of 18 employed on the railroad.

"You can't have it all smooth sailing," says Mrs. Brott, "but if you're patient and enduring, you can soon look back and see how foolish you were to quarrel over little things."

Elegance is well typified in a modified sheath dress of all-over backed silk organdie, also in black or navy. Binding the casual collar of the deep narrow V neckline, and the short sleeves, is black satin, which also makes the tailored belt through which is thrust a single red velvet rose. A dress easily dressed up or down, and always right, which means that it is a good investment.

Young Mother Working Out Two Problems

EDMONTON (CP)—A young Edmonton housewife is working out the problem of being a home-making mother and a university engineering student at the same time.

Mrs. Reva Stilwell, the former Reva Shenton of Calgary, has a six-month-old son, David Shane, and is a student in civil engineering at the University of Alberta.

Mrs. Stilwell vowed she would be a career woman and a wife and mother too. She continued classes after her marriage and last spring received a B.Sc. degree in physics.

Following the arrival of David Shane last October, friends thought she would forget her ambition to be a civil engineer.

Since January she has been attending lectures and doing field survey work with male engineering students. Next year she will complete some more required subjects and the following year she will enroll in full engineering.

Both Bill and Reva feel it is all right to leave David Shane with relatives during the day while she is attending classes. In the holiday months she can spend the full day with her young son.

Mr. Tindale explained the various methods used and then demonstrated step by step, how to first make the design for the stencil, how to use a stencil for each color and then to lay the colors into the textile.

After the demonstration of each method, the members moved to a large work table and proceeding to cut their own stencils and to lay the bright colors into the textile. Designs were soon applied. Many designs are used on place-mats, table-cloths, draperies and often for children's clothes.

'Male Cook' Says 'We Are What We Eat'

By Mary Moore

Today I am giving you, without any deletions, a letter I received from an earnest and cultured gentleman.

When I consider that I wonder all the time when the axe is going to fall on my tender neck for being a crusader of eating for health, I wonder how far "Male Cook" thinks I should go.

Being a born health crank—please notice I add health crank—I am often embarrassed when guests at our home have no choice but to eat whole wheat bread... if they "eat bread at all—and to eat salads—if they want to have enough, and to eat fresh fruits for dessert. Of course, they don't have to accept my invitations,—but they always do.

Here is "Male Cook's" letter:

Dear Mary: I enjoy reading your column. I think you are using up all of your energy trying to answer a number of needless requests. I have read many letters and they all love you, admire your courage, and urge you to continue wearing yourself out in order to satisfy a number of people like millions who are digesting their grass with their own teeth

I know you are sincere in your work, anyone could tell that by the pains you take to try and give each request their recipe for some particular food they want. I wish you would please pause for a moment and ask yourself the question: How many years am I taking from their lives by supplying them with such rich food.

I would like very much to see you make a change in your program and try to teach the public the value of foods. I would like you to show them why we should eat certain foods in order to keep our bodies healthy. I have learned the hard way. I am happy to say it was not too late to change my ways.

I would like to make a comparison to bring out my point. Take an automobile. We all know they need care and attention. We see that our car is looked after regularly and the results are satisfying. Now let's take our bodies. We need same attention as our cars, proper lubrication, and washing. I think you will agree with me if we did this there would be less sickness and we would not need to keep building hospitals to house and care for the sick.

I realize you have a job to do and must say you are doing it well as far as passing out recipes for food goes. I might also add you are making many women lazy. They lean on you, become careless. They think, oh well, just write Mary, she will put it in again.. Then I have read so many foolish requests, such as just yesterday a woman wrote in "What do I do with leftover meat?" If I was a married woman I certainly could not let anyone know I was that helpless. I think good cooks must be ready and willing to stand on their own feet and learn to cook from experience. No woman can ever be a good cook without imagination. Now if she has this she could sit down and imagine what she would do with leftover meat and bingo a new dish would be born.

True I am a man, but I can cook with any woman. I wanted recipes and I have collected over 50,000. I never have to write to anyone as I saw the need and was willing to spend time and energy. . . Now I know you are thinking if I had my way you would soon be looking for a new job. I do not wish this, but I think you could do wonders with a column teaching people the value of food, how much we need each day and what we should eat. After all, "We are what we eat."

. . . I hope you will forgive me if I have gone too far. Please give it some thought. You know what I am saying is right. Your position tells me you understand food, also what reaction it has on the body, and you could do a wonderful job teaching the people how to live right. Let's hear from you as this is only a friendly discussion.—Male Cook.

I want to start off the friendly discussion by saying, cooks have to be born with imagination. It is not something you acquire or learn.

I'll tell you what I will do "Male Cook". If you care to write to me again outlining the eating principles you subscribe to I will print your letter and what's more bolster it with my blessing. Fair enough? Incidentally I live in your home town. Would you share a few of the 50,000 recipes with us?

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Is The A Social Game, Or Illegal Gambling?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am very much upset because my husband has gambling in our home. Nothing I can say will make him stop it. In fact, he gets very mad and abusive if I say anything about it.

I don't want any gambling in my home, so will you please tell me what I can do about this?

Mrs. D.

Dear Mrs. D.: I wonder if you really mean that your husband conducts an illegal gambling game in your home, or if it is just that he plays cards with his friends for small stakes? It makes it use as though it might be the latter, and that you are upset because you are against the whole principle of playing cards for money.

If it is the latter situation, then I doubt if you are going to be able to stop it, since it is just a question of you and your husband differing on a particular kind of recreation. I can understand your feeling, especially if your husband spends money on his card games that he cannot afford. But unless you can make him see reason on this point, I'm afraid you're not going to be able to get anywhere by arguing or quarreling with him about it.

On the other hand, if he is actually conducting an illegal operation in your home, then you can go to the police, unless this stops immediately, you will report it to the police. If you don't want to take this step without some confidential guidance, you might take the problem to the family advisory service in your area, where you would be helped to handle the matter properly. If you write the name and address of this family advisory service, write me again, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope, and I will send it to you.

She Hadn't Like Blanket Gloves

Her Boy Friend Dropped Her

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Every Friday night my gang has a party which is held at the home of one of the kids. And every Friday my boy friend and I have always gone to the party together, until last week, when he took one of my best girl friends instead of me. Now he won't look at me.

Another thing is that our parties get kind of boring, because all we ever do at them is to dance and play kissing games. I think my boy friend got mad at me because I didn't want to play kissing games.

How can I get my boy friend back, and what can we all do to improve our parties? — B.B.

Dear B.B.: I think you are a very sensible and smart girl to feel that parties might be more fun if you varied the entertainment, and climinated the kissing games. Next time it's your turn to have a party, why don't you think up a brand new program for it? I'll bet spending money on his card games that he cannot afford. But unless you can make him see reason on this point, I'm afraid you're not going to be able to get anywhere by arguing or quarreling with him about it.

On the other hand, if he is actually conducting an illegal operation in your home, then you can go to the police, unless this stops immediately, you will report it to the police. If you don't want to take

Fashion Flashes

Whimsical touches add interest to new fabric gloves, making them hard to resist, even if one has a drawer full of gloves left over from previous seasons. For instance, the backs of one group of shorties are spattered all over with the tiniest of mother-of-pearl buttons, each one sewn on in a different colored thread — red, blue, green, beige and black, on white.

Waiting for Summer shoppers are handsome linen accessories to go with linen outfits or for wear as a fabric contrast—good either way. One such is a music roll handbag of washable black linen. It is piped in white call. Lots of smart linen gloves as well.

TRIESTE, Italy (AP)—Work was completed today on a 12-ton bathysphere in which Professor Auguste Piccard hopes to descend more than three miles into the Mediterranean Sea. Piccard, who reached the stratosphere in a balloon in 1931, switched his interest to the ocean bottom some years ago. The bathysphere measures 6½ feet in diameter.

Victory Called Slap in Face To Churchill

LONDON (AP)—Labor party officials Friday night labelled Labor's landslide victory in local council elections throughout England and Wales a slap at Prime Minister Churchill's Conservative government. Conservatives termed the results misleading.

Labor—Gained 417 seats, lost 24.
Conservatives—Gained 92, lost 332.
Liberals—Gained 9, lost 12.
Independents—Gained 26, lost 128.
Communists ... Gained 6, lost seven.

More than 7,000 seats were at stake in the campaign, fought largely on local issues.

The results do not affect Churchill's government. Such local elections are studied closely for possible trends in voters' thinking. However, and Labor representatives in Parliament are expected to step up demands for a general election.

Labor party headquarters said the results were a criticism of the "conservatism" of the Churchill government.

Discussing the outcome as misleading, a Conservative party statement said: "In many places the Conservative poll is higher than last year, and the Labor poll has fallen."

Bribery of Writers Great Shame Of Journalism

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A prominent newspaper man said Friday that bribery of certain newspaper writers "is one of the great shames of American journalism."

Norman E. Isaacs, president of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association and managing editor of the Louisville Times, called on newspapers to clean up flagrant concepts of right and wrong.

"A great many editors have written poems about the mink coat set," Isaacs said. "Are they not perhaps themselves blinding themselves to the fact that their newspapers are in the squirrel coat class?"

Isaacs addressed the annual conference of news executives, sponsored by the University of Minnesota School of Journalism.

"There are three major fields where bribery is operating and one minor field," Isaacs said.

He named the major ones as sports, entertainment and women's news; the minor one as politics.

He charged that in many cities sports writers have long been on wrestling and boxing promoters' payrolls.

"In the entertainment field," Isaacs said, "the press agents operate at great high pressure. Nothing is too good for the press."

In women's news "all you have to do is to pay attention to your women's desks—particularly the two weeks before Christmas," he told the newspaper executives. "The girls themselves use the perfect word for it: Loot."

He said that there is always "some petty chiseling" in politics, but added that on the larger scale, I think political writers have learned to steer clear of any involvement."

Political Drama Rather Than Major Legislation Featured 21st Parliament

By JOHN LEGLAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The seventh and possibly the last session of Canada's 21st Parliament cut taxes slightly, passed a sheaf of dollar and minor legislation and produced more political drama than any in recent years. Parliament is expected to prorogue this week with an election coming in August.

Stimulated by the imminence of an election, party members chopped it out almost without interruption for more than five months. Political fences popped up every where.

The great and swooping furore of the session involved the Carlile report critical of administration in the army works service. Progressive Conservatives kept harping on it there month after month, both in the Commons and in a House committee.

Sharpest Tussle

The sharpest touch of personal drama came April 16 when Austin E. Dewar, liberal member for the Saskatchewan riding of Qu'Appelle, resigned his seat following disclosure that he had traded cheques with a contractor doing government work. Denying any profit-making or conscious wrong-doing, Mr. Dewar announced he will run again.

In the waning days of the session, too, three other back-bench Liberals made history for this Parliament. They became the first of Prime Minister St. Laurent's supporters to vote against the government on Opposition non-confidence motions theoretically putting the life of the administration at stake.

John L. MacDougall (Vancouver-Burrard) and A. H. Jeffery (London) bolted on a censure motion against the way the government used its emergency powers. John H. Sinnott (Springfield) broke away over government policy on wheat prices.

Tax Cut

In the tax field, Finance Minister Abbott's budget sliced 11 per cent from the personal income tax, cut corporation taxes and made other income reductions. The cuts were estimated at $257,000,000 for the current fiscal year.

The $5,400,000,000 budget also brought in the abolition of the $2.50-a-year radio licence fee. Instead, the CBC will get the estimated $12,000,000-a-year revenue from excise taxes on television and radio receivers.

On the legislative side, Parliament extended the government's broad emergency powers for a year, to May 31, 1954, after a stiff fight in the Commons.

More government aid was provided for health, housing, water conservation, gold mining and veterans' dependents.

Plans were announced for adding $42,000,000 to expand the government's health program during the next five years. Money provided for home-building loans was boosted to $750,000,000 from $450,000,000.

Gold Mines Aided

Federal aid for marginal gold mines was raised by about $11,000,000 a year under an enlargement of the number formula by which it is calculated.

Funds were made available for putting deceased veterans' dependents through university. Also, Parliament extended to the end of the next session the act giving Korean soldiers the same benefits as those of the Second World War. Later, the legislation is expected to be made permanent. Another measure affecting the armed forces was one authorizing Canadian tribunals to try Canadian servicemen charged with offences against the laws of foreign countries.

In natural resources, provision was made for federal contributions up to 37½ per cent of the cost of water-conservation projects undertaken with the provinces and municipalities.

Two major pieces of labor legislation went through. One bans discrimination in employment or union membership against anyone on the ground of race, religion or nationality. It applies to those under federal jurisdiction such as in railways and communications.

Second labor measure was the extension of unemployment insurance to cover persons who become disabled after being put out of work for other reasons. Until now, insurance benefits have been received only when a person was available for work.

Two international treaties were ratified at the session. One, with the United States and Japan, is for regulation of the North Pacific halibut, salmon and herring fishery. The other is a halibut treaty with the U.S. alone.

Legislation extending the scope of co-operatives was adopted. It will allow the operation of credit unions—now restricted to individual provinces—on a national basis.

One big measure produced more heat than any other of the session but it never did get passed. It was a wholesale overhaul of the Criminal Code, the first in about half a century. It took so much committee study that by the time it came to the Commons there was no time left to deal with it if members were to get to the Coronation.

New Portfolios

The session saw the creation of a new portfolio in the cabinet. Ralph O. Campney of Vancouver Centre, who had been Defence Minister Clarke's parliamentary assistant, moved up as associate defence minister. This is the only ministry that carries an associate portfolio.

Standing of the Commons:

Liberals 161; Progressive Conservatives 48; CCF 23; Social Credit 10; Independent Liberal 1; Independent 4; vacant 5; Total 262.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVEN, Sports Editor

THEY DIFFER!

At horse races dyed-in-the-wool track addicts bite their fingernails as the bangtails round the stretch. In England you've seen elderly Britishers, emotion sealed tighter than enemy peas, calmly and briefly tap their sandalwood fingernails together with a serenely soothing "well played old chappie" as their favorite cricketer "hits a century."

The not-so-stoical soccer fan 'over 'ome' is a bit more demonstrative, probably because he's had a couple of pints of "arf-'n'-arf" prior to the kickoff. He'll cheer quite loudly, y'know his idea of Stan "The Man" Matthews when a brilliant play is made and the ball soars into the net.

On the golf course, if you're a Hake fanatic, the first thing to learn is to hold your breath. And when the chances petite for the game-winning hole, it's just as well to have the heartbreak take a second or two respite.

The baseball fan? Not much comment about him His vocabulary is probably the most colorful in the entire sports calendar. He figures the pastebourd he paid a dollar for gives him the right to express his feelings via the vocal chords, and in the main, he does it with verve, abandon, and a choice selection of descriptive phrases.

And once we saw two British Tommies go into pacifistic action over the respective rackar merits of, believe this or not, their favorite "coaches." That was a popular "out-of-the-trenches" sport in World War One, when you never saw playing "heavy-heavy" and rassling a beaker of vin blanc at the rear of the partially-rubbled estaminet. (Ah, Nueve Kotze, Wipers-proper-Ypres, Madame Bodoux and Estaminet Rickels at the little pub near Bailleul who you always cared for from bleire after you'd come broke an hour after pay parade because you put your faith in and 'rance on the "book" or the "mermaid straight.")

Fandom of various sports has its own way of expression of feeling. But if you want something out of the ordinary take a look-see next Friday evening at the antics of the alley keglers at the Bowl-O-Drome when they are in the throes of the current "Mr. Bowling" tournament.

Here you will see more emotions than Sarah Bernhardt ever dreamed of having. Hope, despair, triumph, defeat, victory, and the rest of the emotional gamut are all registered by the saddle of the alleys.

The aging veterans like Joe Legault, Walter Moore, Horace Crumshaw — oops, we almost said Cec Hardwick, Jim McKenzie, and we may as well, toss addie disappointment with a scarcely perceptible shake of the head. But have them "strike" and a grin and a wink does the trick. Others are the poker-faced type. They knock the head-pin for a row in solo, or scatter the quintet of maples with as much expression as a cement mixer.

Others, and you have to be a lip-reader to appreciate it, cast off a poor score with an inaudible cussword. Some will war-whoop like a jungle-jaloed Apache when the "strike" sign goes up. Others will send a sly look at their teammates or the "gallery" in general to see if their "strike" feat is duly appreciated.

There are some who openly display their pride in their feats. They knock the "five" for a loop and then proudly strut to their favorite resting place in a "nothin-to-it" manner. This is the type who on his next time up, "head-pins", then takes a sudden interest in his shoe-laces.

The type we admire is the bloke who takes good and bad scores in his stride. We noticed one the other night who was in the middle of a story (parlor type), interrupted it to "take his size" (bowling, that is) hit for a strike, then came back and picked up the thread of the yarn as though nothing had happened.

Pyrhology enters into the game at times. Take the case of the young bowler who fired a strike then told a pal about it. "Okay," said the pal, "go get another" He did. The process was repeated until the youngster piled up nine straight strikes before he "blew."

All this, of course, takes place in front of a background of the loud conversation bum of the gallery. There are plenty of "Ohs and Ahs" as the keglers hit or miss, mixed with encouraging "That-a-boy, Joe" or a sympathetic "tough luck, Theophilus".

But on the whole the gallery usually confines its remarks to itself as some of the bowlers can be thrown offstride by open remarks made along the same line as their golfing counterparts.

From our impressions, alley bowling has something that some sports haven't got. It fosters good sportsmanship and a fine competitive spirit. Seldom, if at any time, does a "rhubarb" crop up and arguments are scarcer than the proverbial kiddy's nickers. It doubtless has its "grouches" and "beefers" but apparently these are so few that they are overshadowed by the greater majority of good fellows and girls who participate in this popular winter sport. More power to 'em.

Campanella's Homer, Doubles Account for All Dodger Runs; Tribe Vaults Yanks for Lead

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

If anybody has put the rabbit into the baseballs, it's news to the Philadelphia Athletics and Phillies.

While nearly every other club was blasting the ball out of the park Sunday, the two Philadelphia clubs were held to only two extra base hits in three games. And they were measly two-baggers by Athletic Eddie Joost and Eddie McGhee.

Washington Senators dumped the Athletics in both ends of a doubleheader, 8-2 and 4-2, while Brooklyn Dodgers swirled the National League lead from the Phillies with a 5-0 shutout.

Bob Porterfield permitted the Athletics only seven hits each over a seventh-inning single by Joost. That gave manager Jimmy Dykes' light-hitting crew the unenviable distinction of being handcuffed with no hits, no RBI and one hit in a space of four games.

Plenty of Homers

A total of 38 home runs was hit Sunday. They included two each by Cleveland's Al Rosen and Cincinnati's Gene Hermanski, a grand slammer by the Indians' Ray Boone and three pinch-hit homers by Washington's Jim Busby and Giants, Del Wilber of Boston Red Sox and Grant Dunlap of St. Louis Cards. Even the pitchers partook of the home run festival, Washington's Dean Stone and Cleveland's Dave Hoskins joining the list.

Four Cleveland homers accounted for all but one of the dozen runs the Indians tallied in the final two innings to rout St. Louis Browns 12-3. Rosen snapped Virgil Trucks' seven-inning shutout streak with his three-run circuit blast in the eighth. Hoskins, Boone and Rosen again homered in the eight-run ninth.

The victory boosted the Indians into the American League lead by two percentage points over the Yankees despite New York's ball-game margin in games won and lost.

The Yankees collected 24 safeties to down the Red Sox, 7-4. Vic Raschi relieved starter Allie Reynolds for New York and was credited with the victory. There was no decision for loser Ellis Kinder as catcher Sammy White, the other by pinch hitter Wilson.

Detroit shortstop Harvey Kuenn hit his first major league home run to help the Tigers defeat Chicago 8-6 in the first game of their doubleheader. They won the nightcap, 2-1.

The offensive star also played a prominent role in the Giants' sweep of both ends of a twin bill, 4-0 and 3-2. Don Mueller hit a solo homer and Davey Williams hit a three-run blast off Murry Dickson to account for the Giants' first game runs as Sal Maglie spun a three-hit shutout. Hofman's pinch-hit homer in the ninth snapped a 3-3 tie.

Red Legs Win Two

Roy Campanella drove in all Brooklyn's runs with a homer and double off Karl Drews of Philadelphia. Meanwhile, young Billy Loes blanked the Phils on six singles.

Cincinnati got only five hits off Vinegar Bend Mizell of the Cardinals but threw seven runs and the Redlegs won the opener, 4-2. The Redlegs then won the night cap, 5-2, as Bob Borkowski chipped in with a homer.

Bubba Church and Kenny Raffensberger went the distance for the Redlegs, marking the first time this season that a Cincinnati pitcher had gone the route in a win-ning effort. Cardinals homer hitters were Steve Bilko, Peanuts Lowrey and Grant Dunlap.

Max Surkont and Don Liddle pitched Milwaukee Braves to a double win over Chicago Cubs, 6-2 and 4-1. Roy Smalley and Ernie Ward homered for Chicago and Johnny Logan hit one for Milwaukee.

Secret Is 'Out', Campy Changes Batting Stance

BROOKLYN (AP)—The secret is out—Roy Campanella's sensational long-range clubbing is due to a change in his batting stance.

The slugging Brooklyn catcher was miffed Sunday when he learned his secret was no more after he had rapped his fourth homer in three games and added a pair of doubles to drive in all the Dodgers' runs in their 5-0 triumph over Philadelphia Phillies.

"Who told you?" he demanded heatedly when asked whether it was true he had moved in closer to the plate this season to correct a weakness against curve balls.

"Charlie Dressen, your manager," he was told.

Campy started to say something, then thought better of it and smiled instead.

"Well," he remarked, "I should have known somebody would give me away. I just hope the pitchers don't find out, though."

Earlier, Campanella had shrugged off his tremendous hitting with the usual non-informative remark, "I'm swinging the same as last year. Except that this year I'm connecting."

Whatever the reason, Campanella has been hitting at a murderous clip. In 21 games, the bulky backstop has walloped 11 home runs and has driven in 38 runs to top the majors in both departments.

CAHA Annual Under Way Today; Quebec League to Seek Reinstatement

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The Canada Amateur Hockey Association opened its annual meeting today at this border point on a happy note, presented with an informal problem still demanding immediate attention.

Representatives of the International Ice Hockey Federation of the United States amateur body and the president of the Japanese Hockey Union were on hand.

So were five representatives of Quebec province who didn't know early today whether they were in or out on the deliberations.

Members of the suspended Quebec Amateur Hockey Association met at least half a dozen times, both in Toronto and Niagara Falls during the week-end, preparing and revising their formal application for reinstatement.

Information from a western delegate was to the effect that the draft application, as first submitted, was not to the liking of the CAHA officers.

Asked Exemplary?

The CAHA's big Quebec branch was suspended last February for defying the parent body by issuing a playing certificate to a junior player. Jack Kilrea maintained he was correct in his interpretation of the CAHA code of regulations.

The CAHA now seeks readmission. It still maintains it acted correctly. The application for reinstatement therefore hinges on wording of its apology for flouting an edict of the CAHA—not on the principle involved in issuance of the certificate, at least so far as the CAHA is concerned. A western informant said common sense probably could be reached.

The Quebec league has become the dominant question. The whole Canadian matter, along with what the CAHA faces, finally puts into words in its application, is expected to go before the CAHA resolutions committee at the opening of the sessions. If it is not acceptable and if formal application between the CAHA can prepare to leave for home. But the decision of the CAHA will be submitted to a special general meeting by the resolutions committee.

Immediate action is necessary as CAHA delegates have to take their places, or be elected to places, on functioning committees or the parent body.

While the meetings are under way today, there will be considerable speculation about what the Quebec Senior Hockey League will do. The league, one of those involved under the general CAHA suspension before it resigned from the CAHA, meets tonight to consider turning professional.

Immediate action is reported in resolutions regarding rules. One would limit, with certain exceptions, of goalkeepers in playoffs. As regulations stand, a goalie may be replaced by one from the same team if the incapacitated goalie, through medical certificate, is declared out for the series. It is now suggested a replacement can be made only in the game the goalie is incapacitated—one game or less. Second one from Jack Moore far this proposal will get is considered. Another is said to deal with icing the puck, to lighten the burden on the shorthanded team, through a nonhalt of New York, president of the U. S. Amateur body, was expected today.

The Japanese visitors at the presession meetings were Prince Tsunenori Asaka and his wife. The prince on his way to Europe, said he is hopeful of arranging exhibition games between Japan and the Canadian champions.

Ron Saylor Seems Headed for Second 'Mr. Bowling' Title

Ron Saylor, "Mr. Bowling" of 1953, seems reluctant to loosen his grip on this title and is going all out to retain the crown for another year. When the smoke had settled after the second round of this year's tournament, the same Mr. Saylor was found to be back in the driver's seat. His second five game total of 1378 added to last week's 1402 gives him a grand total of 2780 pins. That's an average of 278 per game and is large to beat. However, Leo Lacelda with 2740, just 40 pins behind, and veteran Joe Legault with a total of 2725, are right on Saylor's heels. Also in the Class "A" Big Five are Jim Collier, 2606 and Jim Seamark 2530. It is likely that 1180/3 "Mr. Bowling" will be one of the above but the face will not be won until the winner has crossed the finish line. There are a few dark horses in the Class "A" for a sensational finish.

Class "B" bowlers have a new leader in the person of Dave Batchelor who put an 1184 alongside his first round 1184 for a total of 2368. This gives Batchelor a 40 pin lead over Jack Moore's 2306. Both bowlers have shown consistently good form in this tournament and are favored to battle right down to the wire for the title in Class "B". Orval Orser man, 2300, K. Burnside of Kingston are still in there pitching and along with Ed McQuaid, 2254, should make it interesting in their group.

Vic. Pickrell made the change from Napanee unanimous by taking over the top spot in Class "C". His second round 1105 gives him a ten game total of 2200 and a margin of 151 pins on his field. Leo LaBelle popped into second place with 2049. Still in the exclusive Big Five are Joe Dwyer, a first year bowler, with 2033, and Keith Harvie, 2030. Fifth man in the group is a newcomer, R. Randall, who stands at 2015.

With the tournament going into the final game this week, the excitement continued to mount. The climax will come Friday, May 15th, at the Bowl-O-Drome along about 11.30 p.m. when "Mr. Bowling" will be presented along with the O'Keefe's Trophy, to have and to hold for one year, and also with a trophy for permanent retention. Mr. Vic Pickrell, high master of ceremonies, will then dish out a beautiful Paul Mercier calendar-clock to the lucky one with "Mr. Bowling's" wrist. The winner will also receive other prizes.

Winners in the Class "B" and Class "C" will also be presented with their awards that night. The first six bowlers in each Class "B" will be presented in line for prizes. The rest of us will be in line to enter next year's tournament.

Close Fight for Top in Int. League; Wings Lead as Leafs Drop to Third

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A glance at the International baseball league standing, following a busy week-end schedule, shows four clubs in a close fight for first place—only 20 points separate them.

Rochester Red Wings are on top, followed by Veterans Royals, and Buffalo Bisons, tied for second spot, and Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Leafs have dropped to third spot and Toronto Maple Leafs.

Buffalo moved a home double bill from the Maple Leafs, 7-3 and 1-0. Home run clouts by Emil Rastaino, Ken Chapman and Hal Daugherty played a leading role as rookie Frank Lary gained credit for his third victory against one defeat in the opener. Veteran John Weiss, making his first start of the year, reaped the 1-0 shutout. He completed the double. Lou Ortoten's clean single in the second was the only Toronto hit.

The Leafs won the Saturday encounter 11-5, outhitting the Bisons 9-8. Don Johnson went the route for Toronto.

The Orioles divided a Sunday doubleheader with Springfield at Baltimore. The Indians took the opener 6-3, and the Orioles took the nightcap 15-4.

Bob Hartig limited Baltimore to four hits to win the opener. Jocko Thompson started the nightcap for Baltimore but was relieved by Bob Greenwood in the third who gave up only three hits.

Sam Snead Wins Rich Tourney; Hogan Second

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Sam Snead brought an end to Ben Hogan's all-conquering 1953 golf Sunday by winning his third consecutive Greenbrier Open.

Hogan, winner of his first two tournaments this year, faltered in the second half of the 72-hole tournament to finish third. Jack Burke Jr., Fort Worth, Texas, for second place money of $1,000 with a 64 on the last round, still three strokes off the pace of Snead, who took away $2,000.

Snead's last round was 66 and he wound up with 283, 12 strokes ahead of the par-70 Old White course.

Shoemaker Takes Rich Stakes

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (AP)—Taking command in the home stretch, he favored Trusting with Wes Shoemaker aboard Saturday won the $30,000 Tanforan Handicap by a length.

The big gelding, carrying top weight of 130 pounds, streaked over the mile distance in 1.35 3-5. Home Free was second and Alberta Rancho's Indian Hemp, second choice in the betting, third. It was Shoemaker's 31st winner of the season and his third of the Tanforan meeting, which closed Saturday.

Petes, St. Kitts Win Opening Lacrosse Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Indian game of baggataway —that's lacrosse to you—made its 1953 debut during the week-end as the 1953 senior Ontario Lacrosse Association campaign began rolling.

Peterborough Timbermen dropped Toronto West Yorks 16-13 in a Saturday opening at Orillia while St. Catharines Athletics played on home grounds and handily defeated Brampton Excelsiors 23-6.

The Peterborough - West Yorks game was close until the third quarter when the Timbermen jumped into a 11-9 lead. The first half ended in a 6-6 tie.

The hero for the winners was veteran Ike Hildebrand who pounded in five goals and assisted on another. Curley Mason collected three goals with Don Askew notching two and assisting four times.

Matching Peterborough's Hildebrand's performance for the Yorks was Leo Teatro with five goals and one assist. Playing coach Dan McPhail tallied three times and Ken Croft and Jim McNulty each counted twice.

A brief scuffle in the third quarter resulted in major penalties for McNulty of West Yorks and Russ Wilson of Peterborough.

St. Catharines Athletics put on a great display of power in a game that was never really in doubt. Athletics rolled to quarter leads of 6-3, 13-4 and 19-7.

Jim McMahon was top scorer for St. Catharines with six goals and two assists. Bill Dunlop also tallied for the Maroons. Ken Mowbray, Doug Smith and Ted Howe each scored twice and Ron Bradshaw, Bob Melville, Gerry Davies, Gerry McTaggart, John Dewar and Bill Nelson scored singles.

Chuck Thompson led Brampton scoring with two. Nick Ferri collected three and Pete Bradkin and Jack Blonde scored once.

Ti-Cats Sign Bears' Quarter

HAMILTON (CP)—Coach Carl Voyles of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of Big Four Football League announced Saturday that George Hadda, 25-year-old first-string quarterback for Chicago Bears of the National Football League, has signed a contract with the Tiger-Cats.

However, George Halas, coach of the Chicago club, said Sunday night Hadda is not entitled to sign such a contract.

"He can't do it," said Halas. "The boy has a reserve option clause in his contract that gives us choice of his services for the following season. And that means 1953."

Said Voyles:

"The Bears' option clause doesn't mean a thing up here."

Senior Baseball May be Reality

Belleville may see senior baseball after all, this summer.

Malcolm Robb, president of the Belleville Baseball Association said over the week-end that he had definite assurance that Watertown, N. Y., would be interested in an entry to the proposed Border League if the loop would be a four-team affair.

Mr. Robb said he had been in touch with Jerry De Castro, manager of the Watertown club, and apparently the powers-that-be in the American city have changed their mind.

He added he would endeavor to interest a team in the Ottawa Valley district in "coming in" to round out the desired four-team loop.

Langlois Loses In Ring Upset

BOSTON (AP)—Joe Rindone of Boston registered an upset victory over French middleweight Pierre Langlois with a split decision in their 10-round bout Saturday night at Boston Garden. Rindone weighed 161½, and Langlois 162.

Starting as a 13-to-7 favorite, Langlois, who had won his four previous American starts, soon convinced the fans that Rindone had little defense for the Boston lad's accurate left jabs and stinging straight rights to the head.

Both the judges voted in Rindone's favor by identical points and referee Joe Zaputles credited each with the 10th round. Boxing commission's scoring system, however, of rounds, gave 10 points and losers nine or less. Each gets 10 for even rounds.

Williams Wins Over Bill Andy

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Joe Williams, 152, former world lightweight champion, scored a unanimous decision over Bill Andy, 154½, of Providence, R.I., Saturday night in the feature 10-round main bout of a fight card here.

There were no knockdowns but in the eighth round Williams staggered Andy with a short flush on the jaw. Andy came back in the ninth with a two-fisted attack that had Williams on the ropes but Williams rallied in the 10th and won going away.

Six Teams Form Softball Loop

Six teams will form the Lakeshore Ladies Softball League, it was announced following a meeting held at Colborne on Sunday.

The teams are Belleville Nortown Electric, Colborne, Ballinderry, Grafton, Trenton SCAF and No. 6 Repair Depot, Trenton.

The league will open seasonal play on May 26th. The schedule will be released some time this week.

Ben Ritchie will coach the Northern Electric team here with Pat Gervais as manager.

The first practice has been called for Tuesday night at the collegiate campus starting at 6.30.

Thousands Greet Barrie Flyers

BARRIE (CP)—More than 7,500 citizens Saturday welcomed home Barrie Flyers, Canadian junior hockey champions.

The Flyers won the Memorial Cup with a 4-1 victory over St. Boniface Canadiens Wednesday night in Winnipeg to take the final series 4-1.

They were met at Allandale station in a Saturday afternoon parade through town to Queens Park for a civic reception by mayor J. W. Ross.

Coach Hap Emms took advantage of the meeting to deny reports that he intends to leave Barrie.

"I like Barrie, I have no intention of ever leaving Barrie and I have no intention of completely retiring from hockey," he said.

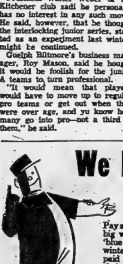
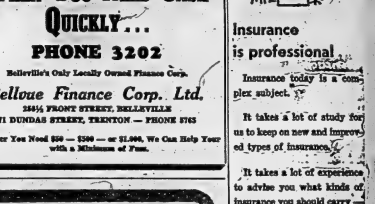
West. Ont. Clubs Veto Suggestion To Desert CAHA



KITCHENER (CP)—A suggestion put forward by Montreal that Ontario hockey clubs in Ontario and Quebec desert the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and become outright professional leagues is being vetoed by three Western Ontario hockey clubs.



Representatives of Guelph Biltmores, Galt Black Hawks and Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts all oppose a idea.

President Walter Weber of the Kitchener club said he personally has no interest in any such move. He said, however, that he thought the International Junior series, started as an experiment last winter, might be continued.

Guelph Biltmore's business manager, Roy Mason, said he hought the league would be foolish for the junior clubs to form a league of 4 teams to turn professional.

"It would mean that players would have to move up to regular pro teams or get out when they reach junior age, and you know how many go into pro—not a third of them," he said.

Rocky Said to Be Strong, Dangerous Easy to Hit, Confident of Victory

By JACK HAND

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP)—Rocky Marciano looks the same as usual—strong, dangerous, determined and—easy to hit.

The much-publicized nose still is in the same place. It hasn't bled for weeks. Nobody can hit it—or even see it—behind a two-pronged mask that adds a grotesque touch to the training scene.

When Rocky defends his heavyweight title against Jersey Joe Walcott at Chicago Stadium Friday night, he can be expected to fight the same type of pressure fight that finally wore down the old gent last September.

Spar mates Billy Noble and Willie Wilson have felt Rocky apply the pressure. They hit the champion but he hits back more often.

"He had me in trouble with the big gloves four or five times," said Noble after Sunday's workout. "I think he'll knock Joe out again—wear him down just like last time."

Memory is Green

Rocky figures the same way although the memory of that first round knockdown still is green.

At the breakfast table in the rustic lodge near the gym he was talking about that knockdown—first of his career.

"I always wondered what other fellows were thinking about when I had dumped them," he said. "Now I know. I don't even remember getting hit but there I was on the deck. I said to myself 'You'd better get this guy before this happens again. It could happen.' And to that time I never honestly thought it was possible."

In case it slips your mind, Rocky took a four-count knockdown from Walcott in the first round but got up and knocked him out in the 13th.

Marciano expects Walcott to fight like he did last time although he has been hearing plenty about Jersey Joe reverting to his old stop-and-go boxing routine.

"He might try it a couple of rounds," said Rocky. "But one punch can change any battle plan. I'll be after him and he'll be after me. I think it will go the distance. But, if it does, I still think I can win a decision."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Solid mahogany is a bridge player who refuses to make use of the available bridge signals. No excuse can I think of for avoiding them. In a partnership they are musts for the best results.

There was the tournament deal shown here: —

	NORTH
	♠K Q J 10 6 4
	♦Q 8 3
	♣A 5 3
WEST		EAST
♠9 3		♠A 7 5 2
♥Q 10 6		♥J 8 5 3
♦10 5 4 2		♦J 9
♣10		♣J 8 6
	SOUTH
	♥A K 7 4 2
	♦K 7 6
	♣K Q 7

Most tables reached and made six spades or six no-trump, either of which is a laydown. But one south ignored all the investigating methods and brutally jumped to seven.

He opened with a bid of one heart and his north partner jump shifted to two spades in the immediate response. Without dickering any further, south flung in a bid of seven no-trump and went down one.

His excuse was that the north jump showed all he needed for a grand slam try. With the power his own hand held, if grand slam was not there it was just bad luck. So he claimed.

This blame on hard luck is a handy excuse for stubborn players. Of course, you will have bad luck in some deals. But there is no good reason for making the luck bad when unnecessary.

With an initial first response by north the south hand has good cause for skullduggery. But grand slam depends on unimpeded controls in all four suits. And south can guarantee this in only two suits.

He may guess that north has the two black aces. But he has no real assurance of this. And he has access to signals that will tell him so with plenty of time to get the information.

Even if north has both black aces there is no assurance that a grand slam in no-trump will come through. If north lacks hearts the cards needed there are also the spade king at least.

Four no-trump is the aces and king asker. North would reply and show only one ace and one king. This would reveal an ace missing and he could stop at six. No use chucking away a cinch.

OFFICIALS JAILED

BERLIN (Reuter)—Three former officials of East Germany's state sportswear organization have received long prison terms for sending Alpine boots to seashore resorts and bathing suits to mountain villages, the Red newspaper Freiheit, said Sunday. The sportswear enterprise was dissolved by the government last year.

AT THE BELLE—M.G.M. brings a champion musical to the screen in "Everything I Have Is Yours," starring Marge and Gower Champion, the dancing team who scored in "Show Boat" and "Lovely to Look At." Dennis O'Keefe, Monica Lewis and Dean Miller are other principals in the new song and dance romance, a show with everything for every one of us, in color by Technicolor.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, May 12, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Dull, uncertain indications. Some disagreements and setbacks likely, you; but your intelligence and good sense can cope with troublesome days. Show your mettle.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Look to your own intuition for many of your answers because you have fine reasoning powers. Get enough rest, your energetic nature needs it.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—May find yourself beating your wings against the cage of hard circumstance. You may be too full of ambition. In any case, quiet down.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Your planet rays invigorating enough, but how you co-operate will tell the tale. May have talent, but are you using it properly?

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Should be mostly pleasant day. Make the most of it; start with a smile and be consistently reasonable, especially to those under you or depending on you.

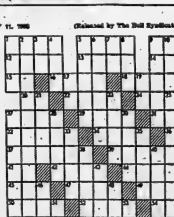
August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Avoid those who cause emotional strain; be careful you are not involved unwisely. Decrease speedy tempo of living.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Conditions can be good or bad, according to your reaction to problems, personal or otherwise. Be a sound reasoner. Then act!

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—None of the supposed problems you imagine are your day's major problems. Look below surface at yesterday's happenings.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Stimulating influences to spur you to gainful deeds. Necessary work can be carried on successfully. Just be yourself.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—No unconquerable difficulties; ointment, especially from noon to 6 p.m. Proceed with program happily, without emotional interruptions.



January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Indulge a close study of every move that has business or financial background. This applies to the big, as well as the little things.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Happy outlook for most part — excellent endeavors. Have a true air of optimism, confidence, and can hardly miss having a successful day. Heart interests rate.

YOU BORN TODAY: are generally practical, conservative, energetic and, at times, persistent. Yet seldom rush into things until you know what it is about; therefore make excellent managers, business owners, lawyers, doctors. Tebu self-will. Birthdate of: Dante Gabriel Rossetti, Eng. poet, painter; Wm. Thomas Manning, Episcopal bishop.

All-Canadian Power-Navigation Job Unlikely St. Laurent Tells Parliament on Return Home

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent has just seen, though gentle, pressure on the United States to speed up a start on the St. Lawrence seaway.

In a report to Parliament on talks with President Eisenhower, he suggested Saturday the possibility of Canada building her own power and navigation works on her own side of the river in the event of unfavorable U.S. action.

Mr. St. Laurent indicated an all-Canadian power-navigation job is unlikely.

But his House statement, immediately after his return from a Washington trip, appeared to be another step in the pressure Canada has been putting on the U.S. with a view to starting the $750,000,000 project.

Observers thought it was a follow-up to moves in Washington 24 days ago by Transport Minister Chevrier, who suggested there that Canada and the U.S. each could build its own seaway and that Canada might start serious work on downriver parts of the seaway in Canadian territory before Washington gives approval to the joint international section.

Prime Minister St. Laurent also said Saturday that he has been informed that an application for a bond guaranteeing against heavy damages will be filed against any anti-seaway interests who may try to block in the U.S. courts the carrying out of an expected U.S. decision favoring a start.

The decision is due shortly from the federal power commission, and it is expected to be challenged by seaway opponents. Predictions in Washington are that such challenges could hold up a seaway start until at least 1955.

Another facet of the changing seaway picture was brought out in Washington by Mr. St. Laurent when he indicated at a press conference that Canada wants the International Rapids part of the seaway in Canadian territory whether or not the U.S. comes in on a joint deal.

Mr. St. Laurent told correspondents in Washington he is not convinced that it would be more economical or efficient to build the navigation works on the American side of the river.

This represented a switch in the publicly-known government thinking, which up to now has been that joint Canadian-American navigation works would be built on the U.S. side because of indicated lower costs there.

Following Mr. St. Laurent's statement, a government official said later studies indicate costs would be cheaper on the Canadian side for a canal-lock system built in conjunction with the joint power project. For that part of the system, according to officials here, the cost might be around $106,000,000 for a U.S. canal and $10,000,000 or more less for a canal in Canadian waters.

Considerable study also has been given here to the possibility of an all-Canadian power and navigation development.

An official study has been made on it and it has been found that Canada could develop on this side of the International Rapids between 800,000 and 900,000 horsepower of hydro against the 1,150,000 that country would get under the Ontario-New York plan now proposed.

However, say such scheme would involve U.S. co-operation in some form, since it would inevitably affect river water levels. For that reason it would have to go before the international joint commission that regulates the use of boundary waters.

In the Commons, Mr. St. Laurent referred to this plan only as an alternative to an unfavorable power decision by the FPC.

"We could," he said, "develop a portion of the potential in the international section, and we might build a canal on our own side.

"But we would be losing for Ontario and the Ontario hydro commission almost half the potential that can be developed if there is a dam that stretches from one shore to the other shore."

Reward Offered For Information On Missing Boys

TORONTO (CP)—A $500 reward for information leading to the whereabouts of three Toronto youngsters missing 10 days was announced Saturday.

No trace has been found of the three Quigley brothers, the oldest 10, since they walked from their east-central home to a neighborhood store to buy candy.

Puzzled police have run out of clues in the round-the-clock search for Henry, 10, Howard, 7, and Paul 5.

Said a weary policeman Saturday: "We're all scared something has happened to the poor kids or they'd be back by now . . . Even the crackpot calls have petered out."

Police have been patiently tracing every tip, no matter how slight, in the search for the boys. On Saturday 215 Boy Scouts and police officers combed downtown Toronto and the waterfront. Amateur radio "hams" operating walkie-talkies and radio-equipped cars co-ordinated the search.

Goose Shows No Inclination To Fly Again

KINGSVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Winnie, the crippled Canada goose who was flown home from Connecticut in a passenger plane, is in "perfect health" but shows no inclination to fly again.

Officials of the Jack Miner bird sanctuary in this town about 25 miles northeast of Windsor said Sunday the bird has gained weight and is apparently satisfied with life in his private, 50-foot-square coop which is equipped with a pool.

Winnie caused a ruffle on international waters last month when a dispute arose as to what to do with him after he was found stranded near Greenwich, Conn. Canadian interests finally won out and the bird was flown here.

Drop in Value of Canadian Dollar Boon to Exporters Of Paper, Lumber, Base Metals

By ALEX DENNO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The recent drop in the value of the Canadian dollar will affect many Canadians and Americans.

To the average Canadian it will mean the end of holiday or business travel at a premium across the border.

To the American tourist in Canada, it will end the nuisance of having to use a 5-cent dollar.

Tourist officials, however, don't think the disappearance of last summer's five-per-cent premium on the Canadian dollar will have much effect on their industry.

The fact the two currencies recently have come to almost even terms won't mean a great increase in tourist travel or tourist spending here.

Canadian holidays will be just a bit more pleasant for Americans.

To the business man, the increase in value of the U. S. dollar should mean higher returns for many basic Canadian exports, including pulp and paper, lumber, base metals, grain and gold. As an example, pulp and paper companies showed profits last year as much as 18 per cent less than the previous year. This was blamed largely on lower returns in U. S. money. Increased labor costs were also partly responsible.

A spokesman for the Canadian Exporters' Association said the decrease in value of the Canadian dollar is a boon to Canadian exporters. With the Canadian dollar at a premium, they are said to be virtually impossible for the exporter to realize a profit.

A survey of some companies, which export to the United States reveals all welcome the Canadian dollar's decline. Imp o r t-export companies, those companies which import component parts of their products and export the whole, also consider the change a healthy development, despite the fact that they must pay more for incoming material.

Canadian officials attribute the decline to the reduced demand for Canadian dollars, caused by a decline in Canadian exports. Canadians noted were the tendency of American investors to sell Canadian securities and the reluctance of Canadian companies to float bond issues in the United States at a time of rising interest rates in that country. Canadian exports in the first quarter of 1953 dropped to $900,000,000 from $995,000,000 for the corresponding period last year.

In New York, bankers attributed the drop to American investors selling Canadian securities and reinvesting their funds in United States issues, for greater interest rates. This, they say, has increased the supply of Canadian dollars on foreign exchange markets, and tended to push down their price in terms of Canadian dollars.

London brokers expressed still another view. Some observers said in saying the sale was about the investment rather than a withdrawal of capital from Canada that has caused the current setback. Also, some continental interests and Middle East countries which in the past have used Canada now are taking their profits, they said.

Foreign exchange officials in Montreal say that Canadians can look forward to a leveling off next year, and if trade balance is achieved the Canadian dollar will return to a premium in terms of American funds.

FREIGHTER BLOWN TO BITS OFF JAPANESE COAST

Four Fighter-Bombers Release Bomb Loads

TOKYO (AP)—The United States Air Force said four American Thunderjet fighter-bombers jettisoned their bombs at almost the exact place and time an unidentified ship was reported to have exploded and sank today.

The USAF said the Thunderjets dumped their loads in the sea approximately 35 miles southeast of Misawa Air force base between 5:40 and 6:20 a. m.

A Japanese farmer said at approximately 6:30 a. m., he saw an unidentified ship of about 3,000 tons blow up and sink off the village of Samuraihama—36 miles south of Misawa.

Far East Air Forces headquarters said the area was a restricted area known as the Misawa bombing area. It said the agreement with the Japanese government, it said maritime craft enter the area at their own risk.

Canned Confirm Reports

"The air force has been unable to confirm reports that a Japanese fishing boat or other craft was present in the area at the time the bombs were dropped," the USAF said. "An SA-16 (Albatross) rescue aircraft from a U. S. Air Force rescue unit in Misawa also searched the area during the day but found no confirming evidence of the reported bombing."

A USAF officer said it was possible the Japanese farmer saw a geyser from the last bomb explosion and had mistaken the geyser for an exploding ship.

Three Japanese patrol boats searched the area but did not report sighting wreckage or survivors.

Dropped Their Bombs

The USAF said the four F-84 fighter-bombers of the Japan air defence force were on routine training manoeuvres. They abandoned a scheduled training target because of weather and dropped their bombs in the restricted sea area.

The USAF said the fighter-bombers dropped their bombs from an altitude of 8,000 feet in clear visibility.

Prior to jettisoning their bombs, the USAF said, the pilots were careful to see if the water below was clear of vessels.

The newspaper Asahi quoted one witness as saying the ship was approaching violently in an apparent attempt to escape, and another witness as saying the ship sank about five minutes after a column of black smoke boiled up.

650-Room Hotel Will be Built In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—M. H. Lipton, Toronto broker, announced Monday that construction of a new $10,000,000 hotel on the corner of University Avenue and Queen street in downtown Toronto is scheduled to begin in October.

The Ontario hotel will be built by the Earle Milner organization. Its organization owns 216 hotels throughout the United States.

The building is slated for completion early in 1956.

Finance Minister Suggests Retailers Trim Credit Sales

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott estimated today that the debt of Canadians to their storekeepers has reached a record of more than $1,500,000,000 and suggested that consumer-retailers trim credit sales if they want to stay in business.

Shopkeepers who sell too much on credit may not only be discouraging the consumer's habit of saving against the future, but also endangering their own business investments, Mr. Abbott said in a speech prepared for the annual meeting of the Canadian Retail Federation.

Retailers to Expand

Retailers were planning to spend a lot of money on capital expansion this year—about $200,000,000 including repair and maintenance costs—an increase of 50 per cent over 1952.

"Just as it would be unfortunate to see a fall in the high rate of personal saving, so it would also be undesirable if any portion of this considerable annual investment in retailing facilities was endangered by the possibility of too many credit sales turning sour," Mr. Abbott said.

There had been a "very significant" rise in consumer spending and in outstanding retail credit in 1952, following elimination of federal credit controls, but while credit was going up so was the rate of personal savings in Canada.

"It would be unfortunate indeed," Mr. Abbott, "if consumers were encouraged to pledge so much of their future earnings that the rate of net personal saving dropped."

The saving habit was important to Canada, if the government's policies had had the effect of persuading Canadians that they have nothing to save for, "then we would be free-wheeling to disaster."

During this period in which we must finance a high level of production for defence, a period in which there are many demands on available goods and many calls for the taxpayer's dollar, the evil of a watered-down dollar is always close at hand.

"I believe that that danger is temporarily at bay," said Mr. Abbott, "but it would not be prudent to forget that it is there."

Confidence Is Rise

The volume of consumer credit outstanding was continuing to rise "at a more moderate pace during the current quarter. It would seem reasonable to expect that "fairly soon" the rate of increase "should ease off as repayments begin to come in from this volume."

He had been encouraged to see that the proportion of total retail sales now being exchanged in the fairly steady at just under one-half of cash sales.

"In the turn of the year, consumer credit outstanding in Canada was $1,506,000,000 per cent higher than at the end of March, 1952. We know that it has gone up somewhat since then. This is a pretty rapid growth in outstanding debt, and it is important that the blacklog of potential purchases be built up while consumer credit was restricted."

Three Men Drown When Scow Sinks Near L. Timagami

TIMAGAMI (CP)—Three men were drowned Monday night when a scow overturned at Rib lake, about 10 miles north of Timagami. Another man swam 400 yards to shore.

Dead are Rene Maille, 44, Irvin (Jack) Hanson, 25, and Gerald Mallette, 28, all of New Liskeard. Timagami is 55 miles north of North Bay.

Howard Taylor, 29, said he made his way to shore in the bitterly-cold water after his three companions lost their grip on the craft and slipped beneath the waves.

Taylor, still shocked by the ordeal, said today that he believed his light shoes saved his life. The others were heavy bush boots.

Worked on Cottage

Taylor said the four had spent the day at a cottage on a little island owned by Taylor's parents. The three victims had been working to put the cottage in shape for the summer and Taylor went down to check on the work.

They set out in the motor-powered scow Monday evening and when Taylor from the island to the highway so he could return to New Liskeard.

"We were all sitting near the front, looking ahead, when it happened," Taylor said. "There was a noise which may have been an explosion in the motor. I seemed to 'jump right into the air.'

"The four men were plunged into the water.

"We tried to hang on," Taylor said. Maille had warned the others to be careful and stayed them to try and kick the boat to shore.

"But the force of the water was too much. One by one, the three men lost their grips and went under.

Taylor said he vaguely remembered paddling out to swim to shore. He staggered to the nearby Ontario Northland railway line and then walked a mile to a section foreman's house.

Dragging operations were started early today but no trace of the victims was found.

ALLIES TO MAKE COUNTER OFFER TO POW PLAN

Communist Proposal Said 'Unworkable'

By GEORGE McARTHUR

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Gen. Mark Clark said today the Allies will make a counter proposal shortly to the eight-point Communist prisoner exchange plan branded as "unworkable" by United Nations truce negotiators.

"We will submit a counter proposal shortly which we are sure will observe the principle" of non-forcible repatriation of prisoners, Clark told newspaper men.

The UN commander arrived in Seoul today from Japan and talked for an hour with South Korean President Syngman Rhee. There was no report of what went on, but Rhee has been adamant recently to ignore any armistice which fails to unite Korea.

Rhee's office said it was an "exclusive meeting only between the president and Gen. Clark."

Clark said he also planned to confer with Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr., chief Allied truce delegate.

At today's 32-minute truce session, Harrison accused the Reds of dodging certain questions on the ultimate disposition of prisoners who refuse to go home after an armistice in Korea.

Return on Wednesday

The Communists countered that the Allied plan now assume details could not be solved later, step by step, and that an armistice in Korea "cannot be realized at all."

The delegations return to the conference but Wednesday morning.

Clark said the Communist plan had been studied "very carefully." He declined to say when the Allied counter proposal would be laid before the Communists, saying he used the word "shortly" advisedly.

Part of the Red plan suggests that 48,500 North Korean and Chinese prisoners refusing to return home be turned over to a neutral commission for four months, during which time Communist representatives would explain things to them. The fate of those still refusing to go home would be decided by a political conference, the Reds suggest.

Harrison hammered hard at that key point.

"It is obvious," he told the Communists, "that if after the period of explanation the free choice of your side there are still those who resist repatriation it will only be because they have been absolutely determined not to return to your control.

"That being sop we don't see how there can be any further real effort to get them by means of political negotiations. If the rights of prisoners are to be protected then it would seem that the proper and humanitarian course is to release them rather than force them to be repatriated.

"Why don't you agree with that?"

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Red negotiator, said his delegation had studied carefully the Allies' questions "which possess a certain degree of importance and which require concrete answers . . ."

He dismissed the others as "questions of administrative detail."

Police Smash Black Market In Car Tires

TORONTO (CP) — Police said Monday they believe they have smashed a black market in tires stolen by the hundreds from the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Canada Limited plant in suburban New Toronto.

Eight persons on charges were Albert Elliott, 27; William Reid 34; Roy Baker, 32; James Hazelwood, 24; and David Voyce, 25, all from the Toronto district.

Cheese Will be Offered On Open Market Friday

Ontario cheese will be offered on the open market starting on Friday of this week without any government or producers' association price support, it was stated here today by Charles Heath, secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association.

Mr. Heath said the board had decided Monday when a negotiating committee consisting of five members of the cheese purchasing trade met with a special committee of five members from the cheese producers.

Mr. Heath said that the 30c per lb. price agreement which had been in effect since April 15 had been revoked and it had been agreed that open cheese exchanges as soon as the necessary arrangements could be made and sell cheese by auction on an open board. Approximately two million pounds of cheese was expected to be offered when the exchanges opened after being closed for a week.

Friday was set as the day for opening exchanges, the reason for the delay being to give time for advising factory salesmen regarding the method of selling.

Reason for the decision to offer cheese on the open market has been the government reaction to the producers' request for a 50c floor price.

Ottawa had offered a co-operative method of selling the same as was carried out last year, guaranteeing 30c per lb. but 34c was guaranteed. The Provincial government, however, did not favor a six cent credit such as was granted last year. The province last year and also deemed the co-operative method of selling unsatisfactory and unworkable.

The five members of the negotiating committee representing the cheese trade which met with the producers committee yesterday were F. E. Wright and J. H. Olivo of Montreal; S. J. Sanderson, Oxford Station; F. A. Wiggins, Toronto, and Gordon Henry of Belleville representing the producers' association were W. O. Cain, R. C. Reynolds, J. L. Kelso, A. E. Hicks and Cecil R. Gill.

Diplomats Say Churchill Advances Entirely New Way to Settle Cold War

By TOM SCHILTREE

LONDON (AP)—Diplomatic sources said today Prime Minister Churchill has advanced an entirely new idea to settle the cold war. It amounts to a suggestion that the world West bind themselves together in a two-way guarantee against aggression.

Informants assumed that this point in Churchill's speech Monday to the House of Commons gave both Washington and Moscow something to chew on. He opened up new business for diplomatic discussion and the big power conference proposed.

Further, Churchill revealed a slight difference in climate between London and Washington. The two Western capitals apparently do not interpret in exactly the same way the developments in Russia since Stalin's death last March.

Churchill outlined a British foreign policy different from a Western one. The informants said he attempted to see the world and his problems as a whole through British eyes.

And in doing so he called on his own long memories of the great diplomatic moves of the twentieth century.

Most striking was his reference to the Locarno Treaty of 1925. Locarno failed to head off the

Waco, San Angelo Almost Flattened, 50 Persons Missing

Weather Bureau Warns More Twisters May Come

WACO, Texas (AP) — The U.S. weather bureau warned today of the possibility of more Texas tornadoes in the wake of two man-killing twisters Monday which left at least 54—and possibly as many as 75—dead.

The dread tornadoes, striking with rare fury 200 miles and two hours apart, killed at least 46 persons in this central Texas city of 50,000. Eight were killed at San Angelo far to the west.

The U. S. weather bureau at New Oleans this morning issued this warning: "There is a possibility of a few tornadoes in the area bounded by Tyler, Lufkin, Yoakum, Del Rio-Eagle Pass area, Junction and Taylor remainder of today and early tonight.

Hundreds of weary rescue workers dug with bare hands and bulldozers here into two piles of rubble which had been part of Waco's downtown business section.

Bodies of five teen-agers were recovered during the night from the wreckage of a pool hall. Fifteen other youths were missing in the building.

Police Sgt. John Wohlwend said "I don't believe another person is alive" in the wreckage of the Katherine Arms Hotel building and those adjacent. Exactly how many were buried beneath the grotesque mounds of rubble was not known. More than 20 persons are missing.

They succeeded at 8:45 a. m., EST, in freeing Mrs. Lillie Mackie, a slightly-built elderly woman who for almost 14 hours had been trapped behind a divan—a fortunate safety pocket.

Forrest Moore, a member of Baylor University's staff who relayed rescue instructions over a loudspeaker during the all-night rescue work, said "there are a reported 30 to 50 trapped in the basement of the Dennis building."

Ironically, if there were people trapped in the basement they could have escaped the tornado but be drowned. Moore said a steel beam had punctured a 10-inch water line and water cascaded into the basement for seven hours.

"The basement is almost full," Moore said, "when the water was finally shut off. Firemen began pumping the water out at 4:15 a. m.

Texas tornadoes followed week-end and mid-continent storms which killed 111.

The Red Cross estimated the death toll at 54 but Police Chief Angelo's at seven but said indications were the search of Waco and San Angelo will be long and hard here.

Two square miles were demolished or damaged in Waco and property damage here and in San Angelo ran into the millions.

Scores Trapped

Scores of persons were trapped in the Jay Theatre here when the roof collapsed on them. Most were killed was unknown. An undetermined number were rescued quickly, but early today huge cranes, bulldozers and men with their bare hands dug desperately at the wreckage.

Two hours before the tornado lashed Waco, a similar storm crushed into San Angelo, a sheep-raising centre.

At least eight were killed and more than 100 injured as the winds flattened homes over a mile-square area and destroyed all structures at the San Angelo fairground.

Power lines and communications lines amid the ruins made rescue work hazardous and hampered newspaper men. Rescue work continued through the night, only about 10 per cent of Waco having any power.

Children Injured

Scores of school children were reported among the injured in San Angelo, where nearly every window in the Lakeview School was blown out. Teachers at the school were praised for ordering the children into hallways when they saw the storm approaching. More serious injuries and possible deaths were prevented, school officials said.

Downtown Waco was under martial law with National Guardsmen in force base, Boy Scouts, police and firemen patrolled streets among rubble several feet deep.

Every building in an area roughly 30 blocks square was either destroyed or damaged. Many splintered homes were in the wreckage.

Steel sides of the big Brazos river bridge were sliced as if with gigantic can openers. All of the span's wooden portion was ripped away and what traffic there was crawled slowly over a single track across the steel floor.

Ronnie Murphree, 17, was in Torrance's Recreation Hall with 25 or 30 other teen - agers when the storm struck. "We were all playing pool," he said.

Lights Went Out

"Then the lights went out, but nobody paid much attention. We just thought it was a storm. It was raining and hail was beating on the windows. Then debris began coming from the ceiling and that's when I thought something was wrong. I got under a pool table and almost everybody else did, too. Then the whole roof seemed to fall in.

"After awhile, I pushed away some boards, crawled out from under the table and crawled out. I was right near the side door. When I got up on top, I looked around and then I saw this awful, awful mess."

Despite Denouncement of Soap Opera, 'Mrs. Dales Diary' Likely to Continue

LONDON (AP)—Britain's soapless radio soap opera about a housewife family, "Mrs. Dale's Diary"—was denounced today as an insult to the medical profession. The British Medical Association in a statement said the nose-to-nose morning serial was "a gross libel" on the air by the BBC.

It added that Mrs. Dale is too hard-brained for a doctor's wife and that the conversation in their home is just plain trivial. Vowed the Journal:

"If we thought for one moment that doctors run any risk of marrying Mrs. Dales and begetting little Dales, we would demand that the medical college set up a breed-to-run marriage bureau."

"It is about time this nonsense came to an end."

The Journal's remarks about the serial were put up to doctor Alan Dale, one of the Dale diary scriptwriters, who answers to be a doctor's daughter herself. Her comment was something of a crusher:

"From my experience, the level of culture in a doctor's home is not substantially higher than in anybody else's."

And having no sponsors to take fright from The Journal blast, the BBC indicated Mrs. Dale will continue to be heard.

Movies Shown Of Newfoundland By Dr. Locke

In the autumn of 1952, Dr. Arthur Locke made a trip to Newfoundland. At the regular noon luncheon of the Rotary Club in the Hotel Quinte on Monday, the doctor outlined a few points of interest surrounding his trip to the newest Canadian province and showed movies taken at that time.

They visited the Grenfell Mission on the northeast coast of the province, directly across the Strait of Belle Isle from Labrador. Dr. Locke noted there is a great shortage of medical doctors in the province, the medical work being done by nurses. Flights to it still by basic industry, the speaker pointed out, and there is an extremely high incidence of tuberculosis among the Newfoundland.

The doctor told of a number of interesting incidents and related to the gathering the story of Sir Wilfred Grenfell, a surgeon who conducted considerable missionary work in Newfoundland toward the close of the 19th. century.

Birthday roses were presented to Charles Gibson, Charles David, A. D. MacLean and Ab. Wonnacott. The presentations were made by Ken Cockburn. There will be no meeting on Monday, May 18, it was announced.

Dr. Locke was introduced by Jack McCoy and the thanks were extended by Art Francis.

Property Will Be Used For Parking Lot

City owned property to the south of the former tourist park on Dundas street, East, will be levelling and used as a parking lot in connection with the Kinsmen swimming pool.

This was approved yesterday by city council which authorized the use of a bulldozer to level the property to make it useable as a parking lot.

At the same time council approved of no parking on the west side of Newberry street and this street will be used as an entrance for all persons proceeding to the swimming pool. Buses taking children to the pool, or taking them away, will load and unload on Newberry street instead of Dundas street.

Alderman Robert Temple, as chairman of traffic, noted that using the city owned property south of the tourist park as a parking lot for cars going to the pool would cause greater congestion of traffic on Dundas street and the committee felt no parking would be advisable.

The front of the tourist park property facing on Dundas street will be closed off causing persons proceeding to the pool to use Newberry street.

Coronation Day Celebration Plans Under Way

Everything possible is being done to make the Coronation Day celebration a success and if all those citizens carry out the duties who have promised, it will be one of the best in the city's history.

At a recent meeting of the committee it was decided to have the residents of the Hastings County Home view the parade from the vantage point and the Kiwanis Club will be asked to assist in this portion of the parade. The club has, on many occasions, looked after the residents on these parties and has a perfect organization for the work. They will be asked to assist.

A flight from the R.C.A.F. and Trumpet Band will lead the parade and the parade committee and it is expected that an aerial display will take place about although a direct answer to the request has not been received. Military organizations have announced their willingness to take part in the parade and that part of the day's program will be the most important item. Although a free day is being declared a holiday, it is the wish of the committee that every organization in the city will be represented when the parade marches off from the Collegiate corner.

The question of floats was fully discussed at the committee meeting but it is to be hoped there will be a number of firms with enough interest in the parade to provide attractive float entries. Mr. Gordon Bell, chairman of the committee, will be assisted in the parade, only scenes depicting the history of the British Empire will be used. The Little Theatre Guild has consented to assist in arrangements for floats, and the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion has been granted the concession for sales of refreshments on the grounds, the night of the 24th. Fifty per cent of the money will be given to the celebration committee to help defray expenses.

The Public Utilities Commission was thanked for the donation of $500, which will be used to pay for the fireworks display, while the $200 donated by the Bay of Quinte High School Area Board will be used for paying for the decorations of the school in the neighborhood of $1,000. It was suggested and unanimously approved, that the merchants and home owners make a concerted effort to decorate their premises. Front street, part of Victoria avenue and the entire Front Peninsula to the lower bridge will be looked after by the committee, but the committee feels that a general scheme of decorating should be carried out through the whole city. The decorating of premises should not start later than May 20th, so that its beauty can be enjoyed up to the day of the celebration.

A simple, yet impressive service will be held on the Armouries lawn, at which time, the mayor or acting mayor will read a message of loyalty to the British throne. Rev. S. E. Lerman is in charge if this service and it is expected all the churches in the city will take part. All members of the city council will be asked to attend.

Police Station Will Receive Coat of Paint

The city police station is to get a new coat of paint changing its present drab exterior appearance to something of a brighter hue.

The color is still to be decided, but yesterday city council approved of the work recommended by the local police commission.

Alderman Robert Countryman as chairman of property noted that renovation of the police station was being carried out as a term project, and this year it had been decided to paint the exterior walls.

A year ago new wiring had been installed and the courtroom was renovated. Fixt floor renovation had been carried out previously with new cell blocks being installed.

It thought council decided four or five years ago that the city police station was a dump and that money spent on the building would be money wasted," observed Alderman Argue. "And here we have spent thousands of dollars."

To this Alderman Countryman replied that the police department station was being carried out as a term project, and that it had been decided to paint the exterior walls.

Special Committee Will be Set Up To Review Duties

City Council Monday not only ratified an executive committee recommendation that a special committee be set up to review the senior executive office duties at that but with the view to determining the feasibility of establishing a clerk-solicitor position, but went further and amended the recommendation to allow the consideration of a clerk-solicitor or "any other combination of positions."

The committee will investigate the police magistrate position, size of Belleville and will report their findings back to council next September.

Alderman Countryman said he agreed with the recommendation but asked if "it went far enough."

"What further review do we set-up and get the job done?" he asked.

Mayor Haig noted that the retirement of Wilfred Holmes as city clerk "which was effective June 30, had raised the question of whether it would be advisable to have a full time solicitor. However, it was noted that if reasonably full employment was to be given a solicitor, it would be necessary to combine some positions.

He noted that with the rapid growth of the city it was becoming increasingly important that the administrative work of running the city should be done by permanent, experienced officer than by semi-volunteer men such as aldermen.

Mayor Haig was quite agreeable for the committee's recommendation to be broadened to allow the special committee to consider a clerk-solicitor position "or any other combination of positions."

500 Acres Bush And 300 Cords Wood Burn

BANCROFT (Special) — The bush fire which Sunday and Monday swept through bushland in the outskirts of Bancroft after destroying approximately 300 cords of slabwood at the Silverworth and Son sawmill, burned over between 500 and 600 acres of woods before it was brought under control, it was learned today.

The fire started Sunday afternoon and fanned out into the woods before a stiff wind. It swept to the York River and despite the efforts of fire rangers and volunteer fire fighters raced through the tinder dry woods.

The blaze was finally brought under control late Monday after a welcomed rain assisted the fire fighters.

No settlers' homes were burned in the bush fire, although Gary Hartley's shack came was in the path of the fire, took out his tools and his father-in-law, and baby as a precautionary measure.

Snackbar Gutted At Bancroft Loss Is $4,000

Bancroft — For the third time in two weeks fire Monday night has left the downtown section of Bancroft village when fire gutted the snackbar operated by Forest Chapman on Hastings street, causing damage estimated at about $4,000.

The fire was discovered at one o'clock this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest T. Thomas, next door neighbors who saw the flames through their bedroom window. Mr. Thomas tossed five gallon pails of water on the flames in an effort to control them until the fire department arrived.

The snackbar premises, a one-storey structure, was almost completely gutted by the flames, and the combined public hall-wall paper store and upstairs residence owned by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas was singed by the flames. The Thomas building was not insured for the burning building.

"I am still shaking from fright," Mrs. Thomas stated this morning. "When we woke up the flames were shooting out of the window of the snackbar just outside our bedroom window."

Cause of last night's blaze was not determined but there were some suggestion a short circuit in an electric cooker may have been responsible.

Percy Calbury, a Hydro employee at Lakefield who assisted in fighting the fire was cut about the face and neck by flying glass as he attempted to go through a window.

About 90 long-distance trains daily leave the Ile Exotes railway station at London, England.

Council Approves Three-Year Plan For Storm Sewers

City Council Monday afternoon approved a public works committee recommendation to proceed with a three-year program of storm sewer installation in the new housing development in the east end of the city.

Approval of the three-year program was "in principle" only as it was pointed out this year's council could not bind future council to carry out the work.

The question as to whether the work could be done under local improvements instead of under the general rate as planned was raised by Alderman C. L. Hyde as chairman of finance.

"I approve of the work in principle," stated Alderman, "but is there any possibility of the work being done under local improvements. The tax burden under the general rate is getting extremely heavy."

To this Alderman Thomas replied that home owners in the housing development would not afford the cost of storm sewers being installed under local improvements.

"Installation of storm sewers in this area will save for the good of the city as a whole," he said. "Also all other areas in the city have been constructed under local improvements. The tax burden would be fair to do otherwise in this case."

Mayor Haig said he had opposed the work being done under the general rate "because of the overwhelming" burden it would place on the taxpayers. However, he said he had been over-ruled by council. He noted that some consideration to the cost of storm sewers debenure costs years in advance.

Would Cause Tax Jump

Alderman Thomas observed that the total costs of the three-year sewer program would mean an additional three and a half mills on the tax rate by the end of 1953.

Alderman Keegan, as chairman of planning, wanted the recommendation laid over until the planning committee to give it consideration.

To this Alderman Thomas pointed out that storm sewers in the new private fleights of the planning committee scrutinizing the recommendation claiming that if the "advantage of the plan and sewer to the city an entirely separate system of storm sewers would be required.

According to the three-year storm sewer program, sewers in the Bleecker area would be completed this year. In 1954 a main trunk sewer from the Mc-

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices drifted lower as stock market trading slowed in forenoon dealings today. Volume for the first hour totalled 422,000 shares.

Industrials and western oils were weak. Golds and base metals also traded lower.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals weakened slightly in light trading.

Miscellaneous issues and papers drew some support in industrials but steels, agricultures and retail stores weakened.

Senior golds and holding companies weakened but juniors were mixed.

A wide majority of small losses weakened western oils. Leading losers were General A, Gridoil and Albermont.

Obituary

REV. C. E. STEPHENSON

Rev. Claude E. Stephenson, retired minister of the Wesley Methodist Church, died suddenly at his home in Murray township, near Wooler, early this Tuesday morning. He was born in Telford 64 years ago and before his retirement had a charge in Frankford.

Criminal Record Read in Court

Donald Thomas Gibbons, 41, of Toronto, received a further remand until Friday by Magistrate T. Y. Wills when he appeared in magistrate's court here today for sentence on 14 charges of passing bogus cheques with local merchants more than a week ago.

Gibbons' criminal record was read to the court by Crown Attorney R. C. Donnan and the magistrate observed he would have to consider this before passing sentence. The record dated from 1931 when Gibbons was given two years less a day in the reformatory for breaking and entering and theft. Since that time he had been sentenced on several charges of theft and in 1951 on several charges of false pretences.

Charges against Gibbons resulted from the passing of 14 worthless cheques against local merchants on May 7. Gibbons, along with Lucy Poitras, 25, of Toronto, was arrested in Kingston on May 2 and they were returned to Belleville for trial.

This morning in court Miss Poitras appeared on a charge of uttering a worthless cheque and when no evidence was offered by the Crown the charge was dismissed by the magistrate.

33 Candidates Presented For Confirmation

PICTON — Rt. Rev. K. C. Evans, Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, officiated at the annual confirmation service at the Church of St. Mary Magdalene here Sunday evening, when the rector, the Rev. W. G. H. Swayze presented a class of 33 candidates. His Lordship also officiated at the unveiling of a beautiful stained glass window, given by Mr. and Mrs. George Cook in memory of their daughter, Miss Catherine Cook.

The memorial window, in the sanctuary, depicts the crucified and risen Lord. Referring to the memorial, Bishop Evans stated that "when we give something we also give ourselves. For a number of generations to come, this memorial window will perform a Christian service in the parish."

His Lordship referred to the coming Massed Coronation service in Kingston to commemorate the accession of Queen Elizabeth II, in her dedication to the principle of service, the Queen threw out a challenge to all, and not especially to those of her time in life," the Bishop stated.

The Bishop spoke of the last 25 years adding more scientific knowledge and more material possessions than the previous 25 centuries. We should be sure that in acquiring these things we have not laid down or sacrificed things which are more important, such as peace of mind, he said. It we have, the spotlight thinks of ourselves as taking a voyage on a luxury-equipped ocean liner, without a course, and without a chart.

"We should have the unanimous voice of the combined church to say that 'we have seen the Lord.' Such a conviction and expression of belief will prevail over indifference, doubt or unbelief," said the Bishop referring to the inscription, "Thou art the Son of God," which spears on the Memorial window.

DIPLOMATS

Second World War, but in Churchill's view it was an important attempt to keep the peace.

Members of the House of Commons, many of whom were only boys when the Locarno pact was signed, listened intently as the 78-year-old prime minister said:

"It was the highest point we reached between the wars and was based upon the remarkable provision that if Germany attacked France, we should stand with France, and if France attacked Germany, we should stand with the German.

"The scene today, its scale and factors, are widely different. Yet I have a feeling that the master thought which animated Locarno might well play its part between Germany and Russia in the minds of those whose responsibilities is to consolidate the peace of Europe as the key to the peace of mankind."

Then he said: "Russia has a right to feel assured, so far as human arrangements can reach, that the terrible events of the Hitler invasion will never be repeated, that Poland will remain a friendly power and a buffer, though not, I trust, a puppet state."

WHAT IS WRONG IN KOREA?

While truce talks in Panmunjon began to reveal indications of heading back into an all-too-familiar pattern of stalemate, the people of the United States, for the second week in a row, were being given another "top level" military opinion on how the whole Korean campaign has been mismanaged by Washington and, more pertinently, is still being mismanaged.

Two weeks ago it was an unexpected statement from General Douglas MacArthur . . . the sum and substance of which was that only countermanding orders from Washington had prevented military action under his own command which could have ended the Korean war by the end of 1950. This week the same could have been done then without provoking Russia into a global war . And he declared his opinion that the UN forces still possess the potential to take decisive action. It is his belief that even the threat of such action—air destruction of Red China's industrial bases and severing her supply lines with Russia—would bring immediate settlement of the Korean war.

MacArthur's views, however, are not altogether new and not greatly at variance with the claims he made after his dramatic dismissal by President Truman. They herald a more forthright protest came from General Van Fleet, who returned only a few weeks ago after serving two years as commander of the Eighth Army in Korea. In the first of two articles written for Life magazine, Van Fleet gave a grim warning about the way the U.S. is conducting the Korean War

"We have made terrible mistakes in Korea. We may be in the process of making another one right now. In the present peace talks with the Chinese Reds, I am absolutely convinced, we are in danger of tinpwing away the future of our nation," Van Fleet wrote.

He states that when he assumed command in April, 1951, the Communists were being driven back in a shambles. In May, for a few days while the Chinese retreated in disorder, Van Fleet saw total victory within his grasp. "Then our Government's policy intervened, and we were ordered not to advance any farther . . .

"While we missed our chance in May of 1951 . . . we have had many chances since. While I was in Korea opportunities presented themselves again and again where I was fully aware of my chance to beat the Reds once and for all and was restrained only by high policy. . . .

"The question is still there," Van Fleet asks the question: "Why, when we are so thoroughly and completely superior to the Chinese Reds in North Korea, are we not considering anything less than a genuine (Asia-wide) peace?"

He believes the first mistake was made both in Korea and in Washington "in overestimating the capacity of the Red Chinese armies, which attack with far more fury than staying power. The first erroneous judgment . . . has created a state of mind which has dogged us throughout the war and is still plaguing us in the peace discussions."

Van Fleet maintains that the Chinese face a crippling supply problem (the same view held by MacArthur). He insists that the logistics of a prolonged attack against the UN forces are beyond the capacity of the Red Chinese army. . . . Having failed to win a victory, he is spotlighting himself for even a sitdown war. If we ever put on some pressure and make him right we give him an almost insoluble logistics problem.

"All we have to do is to start an all-out effort in Korea, and the Reds will soon come begging to us."

These views firmly contradict those of the man who has been in command in the field in Korea for the past two years. Taken at their face value they are a good deal more than a grim warning. They are a forthright indictment of the military we are now committing them to fight in any way. And indeed very few persons would be qualified to do so. It may be noted, however, that as distinct from the circumstances under which MacArthur was recalled, there is no reason for suspicion of pique or "sour grapes" in Van Fleet's case.

Several points have been made by persons in high places to pause. There is no indication that they have even been noted in Ottawa, or that the Prime Minister even discussed the Korean situation as he was in Washington last week. - Yet it was only last week that the second most serious Canadian casualty list of the Korean war was reported.

A TORONTO SURVEY

Last week we commented upon an American dietary survey which indicated that the teen-agers of the U.S.-from 13 to 19 years of age, were badly fed and undernourished. In the absence of any comparable figure it was our guess that the same find might apply to Canadian youth.

In the Toronto Star Monday there was an account of a study of the eating habits of the Grade VI school children which had been carried out by the Toronto Nutrition Committee. The survey showed the following conditions:

One-half of the Grade VI children in Toronto ate no vegetables, excepting potatoes, although vegetables were in plentiful supply. A third did not get any citrus fruits at all, in a season when such fruits were available at reasonable prices. A fourth did not drink sufficient milk, that is, not even a pint a day, the minimum required for a growing child. Over one-half ate no whole grain breakfast cereal. Two-thirds did not get vitamin D. Almost all got liberal servings of sugar, the most expensive food. Nearly half received generous portions of sweet foods (cake, pie, candy, soft drinks.)

Somewhat disturbed by the results of its study the committee points to the disproportionate use of meats and sweet foods as indicating the need for nutritional education. The Grade VI youngsters were selected for the survey because it is believed the group reflects the eating habits of parents and others in the home.

In contrast to a metropolitan centre such as Toronto, a survey in a smaller urban community such as Belleville, with greater proximity to the fresh fruit and vegetable market, would probably reveal a more favorable picture. But the widespread need for dietary and nutritional education is apparent.

Finland is probably the world's most literate nation, with only one per cent of its population unable to read and write.

From the first day of December last until the end of April, just past, when the local Red Cross closed its canteen at Bridge street east, exactly 5,056 free meals were served by local charity, who, owing to unemployment, were forced to receive assistance in this way. In all the canteen served 1,044 meals, 1,986 of which number went to transients. Over the same period of time 3,012 meals were registered at the police station for a night's lodging, the majority of these men were given a meal ticket when they left the station in the morning.

How U.S. Submarine Sank World's Biggest Carrier

By Oscar Parkes in the Navy (London)

The most humiliating naval disaster ever suffered by Japan was the loss of the gigantic Shinano (71,890 tons), the largest carrier ever launched by displacement — over built.

She was sunk by an American submarine three days after she was about to enter active service in November 1944. For a capital ship to be lost in action is dangerous enough; for a carrier designed to be practically unsinkable and upon which so much depended, it was a disaster of the first magnitude.

The Shinano was the third of a trio of immense vessels built in response to a simple directive to produce the most powerful warships in the world for world conquest. The Yamato and Musashi, were completed and mounted 72,000-ton battleships of a size and armament unsurpassed by any other warship in the world. Each twice the displacement of our Eagle.

Their complement of aircraft was only 47—which would make them little more than a joke. But this was merely the number provided for operational short-ages, and does not represent her full capacity, which was over 60. Her flight deck was 256 yards, but ships should be given the heaving and pitching deck of the Shinano's torpedoes showed no damage at all. The young man cluding eight pairs of 8-in. 25 sets of triple 25 mm., and 40 machine guns.

As a steamer she fell short of the 30 knots of the Yamato, but the other Japanese carriers, but with her 150,000 h.p. in front of her propellers and full battleship lines, a speed of 27.3 knots was as much as could be expected.

After commissioning, 10 days were spent getting stores and ammunition aboard, followed by 1,900 officers and men she was ordered to proceed to the Inland Sea to carry aircraft and pilots to Tokyo.

The Japanese officers and men had no training abroad, although three-quarters of them had seen active service.

Two jobs remained to be done before the ship left. Floods of parchments and sealing up holes in bulkheads, etc., had to be made through cables and pipe leads.

During the night of 29th November, the huge carrier was surging along at 18 to 20 knots, screened by four destroyers, when a radar contact was picked up at a distance of 12 miles. It was the U.S. submarine Archer Fish, which started tracking until she could fire a spread at the heart of the Japanese carrier.

With the range correct and a dark horizon to the north, Archer Fish approached to 1,500 metres. Although making a full knot more than the submarine's best, the destroyers were not equalized speeds although it would have made no difference to the chance of reaching a firing position.

At a sudden course change to southward put the submarine on the beam of the Shinano, the ranges closed rapidly, Archer Fish fired a spread of six and a good position was attained, six torpedoes leaped out of the submarine's tube. Archer Fish just two or three leaving a report that the submarine had left a full salvo in accordance with her orders pressed.

In 47 seconds the first torpedo ripped into the Shinano's after end, followed by a ball of flame climbing up her side. Another 47 and the second struck. The first, was registered, and then one at the destroyers, forced the submarine to submerge. Other hits were heard, and the ship began to list. But no one knew how to work them. A few bucket brigades functioned ineffectively until the men drifted away. Civilian personnel organized a naval unit were added to the ludicrous state of confusion by rebuilding to obey orders and assembling in the upper spaces, when they seemed to have when ordered below.

Still under way at slow speed Shinano continued to list slowly to starboard. Counter-flooding had no permanent effect, and soon all power was lost. Boiler feed water for the inboard fire rooms had been exhausted; the engineers were cut off but when steamed on salt water but no one knew how. By the time dawn came, all discipline was lost and members of the crew and civilians began to abandon ship.

A heavy list to starboard brought destroyers alongside and transfer of the crew was facilitated. With the list increasing slowly, the great Shinano rolled over, turned her bottom up and slid ignominiously to the bottom stern first. About two thirds of the crew were saved, and the assistant flag-navigation officer obtained permission from the commanding officer to save the secretary's photograph from the bridge, where it was hung as an inspiration to all. It was carefully wrapped and transferred to the destroyer alongside.

So ended the brief career of the most honorable, most gigantic Shinano—the greatest single ship catastrophe in many centuries of Japanese superlatives.

Throughout Canada birds now are nesting in the usual haunts of pests. The nests have something in-common, however. They are "apartment" houses, built by comfortable. Unlike humans, birds don't indulge in getting building when it comes to providing homes for themselves. They are the finest engineers and builders of high order, all in one. If we think we are smart, it is apt to take us down a peg if we examine a bird's nest. Birds use the materials at hand in building on the species, they will use hair, feathers, twigs, mud, grass, material, and they will construct a compact, safe nest.

Since the bird is under difficult conditions, high up in the weaving branch tops, it has to use what tools to help them. They do it mainly with their strong little bills, and they are smart, for they know, either. They aren't restricted by an eight-hour day, or by any union rule that says they can only so many bricks — or twigs — a day. Nature has endowed birds as birds we would soon solve our housing shortage.

Schweitzer's Optimism

(From "Out of My Life and Thought" by Albert Schweitzer)

In my judgment of the situation of the world I find myself forced to look at the present time. I am compelled believe that that situation is not so bad as it seems to be. I am fortunately conscious that we are on the road which, if we continue to tread it, will lead us into "middle ages" of a new character. The spiritual and material misery to which mankind of today is delivering over will lead to the renewing of thinking and of the ideals which inspired the Middle Ages. The spring is there in the human soul. The spring of optimism.

One belief of my childhood I have preserved with the certainty that it can never be shaken. Belief in truth. I am confident that the truth is stronger than the lie, that stronger than the force of clever propaganda and all the other destiny awaits mankind than that which, though ills mental and spiritual affliction, it prepares for itself. Therefore I do not believe that the night will put out the road to ruin to the end.

I am sure we are to find who revolt against the spirit of thoughtlessness and who are personally sound enough and free enough to let the ideals of ethical humanity become living forces, a force, there will start an activity of thought which will be strong enough to evoke a new mental and spiritual disposition in mankind.

Because I have confidence in the spiritual powers of humanity I believe in the future of mankind.

258 Years Safe Driving

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

The average Canadian motorist, according to the figures compiled by the automobile manufacturing industry, drives 6,300 miles in the course of a year without an accident, in these days of congested highways, he is duly thankful.

Thought-provoking, then, is the statement of Mr. Justice Taschereau, of St. Stephen, who has just been acclaimed as the Maritime Provinces' Mr. Motorist of 1953" and presented a certificate of honor by the Maritime Automobile Association. In his 17 years of operating trucks and buses, Mr. Bell has driven 1,500,000 accident-free miles, or approximately as much as the average motorist would travel in 238 years.

JUST FOLKS

TO A YOUNG COUPLE

We'd gone to set seafood, not knowing that we Neat-guests at a gay wedding party would be.
Unacquainted we were with the groom and the bride
Or the parents who plainly the knot had just tied.
But although uninvited, and as wise we shared.
We wished them good luck as we sat there and stared.

A whisper I heard: "What a beautiful bride!"
I said: "What's a nice looking groom at a time like this?"
Had I known at their wedding so close we should be

I'd have brought them a gift from you women and me.
Let's judge by the vase I will send this with a grin—
They'll need it with so many friends dropping in."

To that bride and that groom go these verses to tell
Four wedding guest strangers are wishing them well.
Four guests uninvited will keep them in mind,
All hoping the future to them will be kind.
May their love never change, may their joys never cease,
In the hope of four people they never may meet.

SIMPLE TRUTH IS STILL AMAZING

A member of an airplane crew several of whom were rescued after hours in the sea after the plane crashed, tells of being put to bed with hot water bottles around his feet and arms and hot coffee — which was good treatment — and a double "shot" of brandy, which was bad treatment, whether for ordinary shock or for the weakness, depression or lowering of vitality from exposure to cold.

The crewman says he relaxed for the first time. In the morning a doctor arrived with two nurses. He looked the crew and said he was amazed — not a cold among us."

What's Am I dreaming! La'ne see, the magazine is dated 1953, not as I feared for a moment, 1853.

It reminds me of my patient . . . I did then, and still do, use tumbler hospital treatment for chronic alcoholism. I was giving him the same treatment that had been introduced to the profession by Dr. Alexander Lambert (T.R.'s family physician) before the war —the big war, that is. Increasing doses of belladonna and hyoscine-mu up to the point of delirium, followed by that part of the treatment. It was February,1 n Elmira, which is a suburb of Horseheads, about 20 miles from Corning, N.Y., if you must know. One night the lulled to return to the bed. Investigation the attendant found the patient visited the bathroom and had climbed out of the bathroom-patient in night shirt and slippers, ories, saccharine yields none.

Saccharin

Is the use of saccharin instead of sugar beneficial. Some reason for using it is that I do not want to put on weight. (Mrs. L.E.M.)

Answer — Any one may use up to five grains of saccharin daily with safety. One-fourth of saccharin gives the sweetening effect of a teaspoonful of sugar. A pound of sugar yields 40 'calsaccharin yields none.

MEANING INTO LIFE

People with no purpose, or without meaning in their every-day lives, are unhappy people. Purpose gives meaning, and meaning gives incentive. Nothing is as important as to come in contact with people who are on their way—to a definite destination.

Every once in a while we read or hear of someone performing a notable deed. Someone with a spirit of obduracy. It isn't so strange, however. People are forever doing this. They are those who early begin to emphasize the fact that purpose and meaning into life there is always triumph!

"Your most interesting purpose" is what gives zest to our lives and keeps the spring in our step. It is about us, a protection against all mishaps and failures. Endowed with vision, we grow into success and defeat. We are sustained and constantly encouraged.

"Be not like dumb, driven cattle! Be a hero in the strife!" said the poet Longfellow. It is this sense of the heroic which puts meaning into life, 'deadening all its misery and injustice. Some have all our progress to those who never give up venturing. Columbus, with a definite objective in mind, if a first thought does not work out satisfactorily, try the next—and the next. Learn the art of progression and success.

Here is a line that I came across the other day which is worth a little at a time, but often." It's the accumulation of sordid and deeds that is getting joy and meaning into what we do. The more we learn and experience, greater become the meaning of life. We learn to live better and happier than yesterday!

SHALLOWS

Mariners fear shallow water. In fact there is nothing a sailor fears more than shallow water. When he is a vessel going over water that he knows extends down to a depth of several miles, he feels safe, even though the waves are high. Charts are made and distributed showing seafaring folk to show them how to keep out of shoals. Shallow waters often mean wrecks.

And shallow living means the wreck of one's career. When a man comes to the end of his life and looks back over it he sees that if his every decision has been dictated by selfishness, that his ambitions have been ephemeral, his interests superficial—life is hard to take at that grim juncture.

Wouldn't you like to have all the money you can spend and all the time in the world to spend it? You think so, but ask yourself this question: What is the use of the deeper joys of life for a million dollars?—the joys you get out of home life, the satisfaction you are having in your children, the comfortable assurance that you are highly regarded by your fellows? These are joys that the commonest can have as well as the king. These are the really deep joys of life that are available to all people. Would you surrender any of these for life's superficialities? Would you give up living the way you do and go sailing over shallow waters because you could do so in a gray boat?

200-Foot Extension to Park Breakwater Wall Will be Built

Trenton (Special)—A government official announced here yesterday that work would commence immediately on the installation of a 200-foot extension to the bayshore park breakwall giving Trenton one of the finest inland harbor facilities on the Great Lakes system. "By pushing the wall straight out to the east the inside waters will provide safe anchorage for power and sailing yachts as large as any visiting ports horsebouts these days," an authority said.

The wall will be eight feet across the top with mooring facilities on both sides. No dredging will be required in this part of the mouth of the river because soundings show that the water is between eight and 10 feet deep.

At the present time a movement is on foot to illuminate at least part of the breakwall with five modern lamp standards spaced at equal distances apart. Visiting yachtsmen will find the lights a boon for refueling and replenishing their stores during the cool hours after the sun has gone down.

The business men of town welcome the newest improvement to the waterfront. One retailer calls the decision to build the man-made-harbor "the best thing that ever happened to Trenton" explaining that it will provide a place for citizens to relax as well as a sheltered harbor for their boats. Others are talking about the tourist dollars it will attract while visiting yachtsmen find a haven and facilities not offered by other waterfront municipalities.

Great Changes Made

The old timers who come back to Trenton for the centennial celebration will look twice when they see the great changes made on the waterfront south of the post office.

They will find Governor Simcoe Park completely renovated with Fraser Park across the road to the east in the place where the Waddell company used as a slipway to repair boats and barges. They will recognize the Simcoe gates now standing at the entrance to Fraser Park and still the cenotaph for local soldiers who fell in both World Wars.

But the greatest renovation has taken place at the shore, for years a town dumping ground where bull rushes and willows thrived.

Installation of a 250 foot breakwall filled in behind over park provides the space for a beautiful bayshore park truly one of Trenton's greatest assets. It is in this area that the centennial committee has planned to erect a bandstand and seating capacity to entertain visitors during the eight days of celebration and fun-making.

An active Parks Board has been credited with this program of beautifying the waterfront which was until a few years ago an unsightly mess harboring vermin and disease while townspeople went out of their way to refrain from mentioning that part of the town on the bay only a few feet south of the main street.

Caused Anxiousness

Brighton Provincial Police experienced a few anxious moments yesterday.

A lesliner in the habit of phoning on his departure from cleaning up the local bank forgot to make the regular morning call. A policeman rushed to the bank to find the door locked and everything in order. The janitor displayed embarrassment when told about the concern he had caused.

Settlement Reached

TORONTO (CP)—A compromise settlement was reached Monday between 61 striking employees of the Swift Canadian Company and company officials.

Terms are to be submitted today to members of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL) union. If accepted, will end a strike at Stratford that began March 4.

The workers sought a wage boost of nine cents an hour with retroactive pay. The settlement provides for 10½ cents an hour but the union has agreed to forgo retroactive pay.

The increase will bring the rate for men to 97½ cents an hour and for women to 67½ cents an hour.

The settlement followed three days of talks under chief conciliation officer Louis Fine. The union was represented by assistant director Sam Hughes.

Breadner School Has Largest Attendance of Service Schools

Air Chief Marshal Breadner School has the largest attendance of any service school in Canada, according to the last annual Report of the Department of National Defence, by the Honorable Brooke Claxton.

The official figure is listed as 947 students enrolled, however, since the report was compiled, the school has grown to a pupil enrollment of 730.

Four army schools have the next highest attendance, Camp Borden Public School is listed as having 561 students. The next three army schools are Currie Barracks Public School, Calgary, Alta., with 555 students; Fort Henry School, Barriefield, with 435 students, and Petawawa Camp Public School, Petawawa, with 383 students. At Rivers School, Brook District No. 2319 School, Rivers, Man, is next with 381 pupils.

In service schools throughout Canada, the Air Force leads the navy in total attendance with a figure of 3,068 students. The army is second with 2,668 students and the navy has a total enrollment of 559 pupils attending service schools.

Where suitable educational facilities are not available to the children of service personnel, within a reasonable distance from their homes, service schools have been established by the Department of National Defence.

Training Command Headquarters, No. 6 Repair Depot and RCAF Station Trenton Air Force personnel, living in and around Middleton Park, send their children to Air Chief Marshal Breadner School.

Five Rooms Opened

The growth of Air Marshal Breadner School dates back to 1948 when five rooms were opened in a former Barrack block at No. 6 Repair Depot. In 1949, the temporary school was expanded to ten rooms and in the same year, G. D. Dwyer was appointed principal. He watched the temporary classrooms grow to fifteen in number before students were moved into Breadner School in December 1951.

As rooms in the new building were completed more students were moved from the Repair Depot, until in June 1952 the school was officially declared open with a presentation of a school crest by the Home and School Association.

In less than one year, the student population has outgrown the capacity of the building. It was designed to take care of the needs of 650 students in 15 classrooms, but today there are 730 students in 23 classrooms and one kindergarten room. There are 26 teachers supervising in classrooms with as many as 38 pupils.

Despite the shortage of space, Breadner teachers and students manage to carry on a very active school program. Miss Collette O'Keefe, musical director, was responsible for the training of 300 students who appeared in a song festival recently, on the auditorium stage. A program of physical training is carried on under the supervision of Miss G. Hoskin.

Breadner students will participate in an oratorical contest on May 15 and on Victoria day they will participate in an Empire Day program. They take part in regular clean-up day programs and hope to enter the Trenton Schools Field Day.

Centrally Located

The school's large auditorium is centrally located in the building. Here, the staff and students played host, recently, to five Trenton and Frankford schools who participated in a Song Festival, sponsored by the South Hastings Educational Association. Special blackout curtains have been installed on the windows to permit the showing of educational movies. The stage is spacious and has recently been fitted with new drapes. There is a seating capacity of 600 on the main floor and in the balcony.

Breadner School is a No. 4 stage school of class one construction. No. 4 stage is the maximum size school built by the Department of Defence construction. The steel frame, brick and masonry fireproof building is centrally located in an area where there are 850 homes.

Principal Dwyer, who served overseas for three years with the RCAF, has taught at Assumption College, Windsor, and at Sandwich East. Mrs. Dwyer taught at Breadner during the teacher shortage period in 1952. The couple live in Middleton Park at 14 Johnson Drive.

New School for the Park

Middleton Park is to have a new school to take care of the ever-increasing situation at Breadner school.

The No. 1 stage school is designed to hold 200 students and will be of the same type construction as Air Marshal Breadner School. It will be an exact duplicate of one wing of the larger school. The six-room building will be located between McGill and Bell Irving Avenues and will be for children in the lower grades.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

The many friends of Mrs. Charles Phelps, College street, Hillcrest, will be sorry to hear she is a patient at the Cottage Hospital in Pembroke, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith and daughter Joanne, of Campbellford, returned last week from an extended trip through the United States, which took them through Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, District of Columbia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Ohio and New York state. Mr. and Mrs. Smith had planned on proceeding to Tampa, Florida, but Mr. Smith was taken ill in Washington, D.C., and it was necessary for them to return home. They report the trip a most pleasant one, however.

Weddings

GRAHAM—BELCH

A lovely wedding ceremony was performed on Saturday, April 25th at Bridge Street United Church during the background of daffodils, tulips, white narcissi, ferns and candles, when Bernice Jane Belch, of Bellville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Belch, became the bride of Malcom Andrew Graham, of Hillier, Ontario, son of Mr. Walter Graham and the late Mrs. Graham. The Reverend Duncan McTavish, minister of the church, officiated.

Mr. S. Alec Gordon, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of French chantilly lace, net and satin, fashioned with strapless, fitted bodice having a matching lace jacket buttoned from the neck with fine pearl collar and long, fitted sleeves ending in lily-points over the hands. The bouffant skirt fell in graceful folds. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was waltz-pearl at the edge and held in place by a rhinestone tiara. She carried a shower bouquet of roses.

Mrs. Allan Royle, of Belleville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing powder blue over taffeta with matching jacket embroidered neckline, and mitts.

Miss Jean Belch, sister of the bride, gowned in yellow brocaded taffeta and net, with matching taffeta flowered headdress and mitts, and Mrs. Keith Elliott, in mauve brocaded taffeta and net with matching floral headdress of taffeta and mitts, were bridesmaids. All carried bandbouquets of gladioli florets.

Little Beverley Ann Belch was flower girl, frocked in powder blue net over taffeta with matching floral headdress. She carried a nosegay of gladioli and rosebuds.

Mr. Russell Forsythe, of Hillier attended the bridegroom; Mr. Allen Hardy, of Hillier, and Mr. Thomas Morris, uncle of the bride, acted as ushers.

At the reception, which was held at the Engineers' Hall, Belleville, gay with its pink and white streamers, the bride's table was daintily appointed with a lace cloth centred by a three tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom. The bride's mother received, wearing a grey suit with navy and white accessories, assisted by the bridegroom's sister, Miss Effie Graham who wore mauve with black accessories.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride chose a wine-colored suit with matching topcoat and navy accessories.

Out-of-town guests were present from Oshawa, Toronto, Kingston, Hillier and Trenton.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at a shower given by the girls of the Avon Jewellers, at the home of Miss Shirley O'Carroll, also at a shower and dance by the friends of Hillier, and a shariveri at the home of Miss Effie Graham, of Hillier.

PLANE CRASHES IN STREET

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—A small plane crashed into a busy intersection at San Lorenzo Monday, blew up in flames as it ripped through power wires, then scattered wreckage over a market and parked automobiles. Two were killed. Spectators tried vainly to free the pilot from the flaming cabin of the little low-wing monoplane. A second body was found later in the wreckage.

National Council of Women Celebrates Jubilee in June

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

When the National Council of Women holds its jubilee conference at Winnipeg in June, it will celebrate the founding of the council in 1893 by Lady Aberdeen, wife of the Marquis of Aberdeen and Temair, governor-general of Canada 1893-1898. The Associated Countrywomen of the World at its seventh triennial in Toronto in August also will remember that Lady Aberdeen inaugurated the 1920 conference which led to the formation of the international organization.

The biography of this remarkable woman, "A Bonnie Fechter," (Clarke Irwin) is by her daughter, Marjorie Pentland.

Lady Aberdeen's active and influential life (1857-1939) recalls an age and names now part of history: Queen Victoria, Gladstone, John Bright, Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Parnell, Woodrow Wilson, to mention only a few.

It was while she was chatelaine at Government House, Ottawa, that she became the first president of the Canadian National Council of the Women, after having been elected the new president of an international council of women in Washington in 1888. In 1897 she organized the Victorian Order of Nurses to commemorate Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee.

The chapters on her connection with Canada are particularly fascinating. On a tour across the Dominion in 1894 she records that at Qu'Appelle, N.W.T., for her husband's birthday she "gave him a white legged cow and three hens so that they can lay fresh eggs on the train." In 1898 for the Empire Exhibition in Glasgow, she created a garden of good neighbors with a peace cairn built of stones from round the world. The idea for it came from the magazine of the Junior Red Cross of Canada, which describes the peace cairn in the international park between Manitoba and North Dakota.

Her initiative, faith in international effort, optimism combined with simple modesty and capacity for hard work and detailed work made her an effective pioneer in the fields of women's co-operation and public health.

Ontario Pioneers

The experiences of two families who settled in Upper Canada in the 1820s and early 1830s are vividly revealed in "Authentic Letters from Upper Canada" (Macmillan), originally published in 1833 in Dublin as a selection of letters from the Magrath and Radcliff families, it is now in print 120 years later.

"Authentic Letters" is an account of life in the colony, and was not originally intended for publication.

The Magrath family settled at Erindale near York (Toronto) in 1817, and the Radcliffs at Adelaide near London, Ont., in 1832.

Thomas William Magrath, 23 years old when he arrived in Canada, became a well-known figure in Ontario, and an enthusiastic gentleman. Five of his letter's describe field hunting in detail subjects among contemporary accounts.

While tea was being served, Mrs. Clare, with a group of C.G.I.T. girls, assisted by Mrs. Hyde, conducted an affiliation service, which provided a fitting closing for the afternoon.

EAST ALTON, Ill. (CP)—Ann Linkogle, pretty blonde 18-year-old bank bookkeeper, was locked in a vault in the Illinois State Bank Saturday night, and was there imprisoned for more than eight hours. She was locked in when she didn't hear fellow employees tell her they were closing up. She pushed an alarm bell, the vault door shut and men turned on, and workmen spent hours drilling a hole through 20-inch-thick concrete to release the time lock.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Can She Trust A Sailor?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 21, and since most of the boys my age are in service I have no choice but to date servicemen. My dates have always been with sailors, because there is a naval base near where I live, but I have always met them at respectable places, such as dances, parties, etc.

I have found out, as most girls do, that there is truth in the saying, "A sailor has a girl in every port." Some of them leave you with a broken heart and don't really care. They just move on to another port and other girls.

My problem is, however, that I have now met one who seems sincere, honest and very level-headed. He rushed me for two months, and then was shipped out, but before this time I knew quite a lot about him, his family and his home town, and he even asked me to marry him later on. Before he left, he gave me his class ring, and told me that he had been looking for his kind of girl for some time and now he doesn't have to look any more. Everyone in my family took to him right away and think he's something special. We correspond regularly, and I know he's the only one for me, but my girl friends keep saying, "Don't forget he's a sailor!"

What do you think about this?

Lois

Dear Lois:

What I think about this is that it's perfectly possible for a young man to be "sincere, honest and very level-headed" even though he may be a sailor! It's perfectly true that there are some young men who, when they go into service, feel that it's a time to be "on the loose," and have as much fun with as many girls as they can. But there are also those who maintain the standards of conduct by which they have been taught to live and so behave no differently from the way they would behave out of service.

It's not at all impossible that you have met one of the latter. But don't let your emotions run away with you; give yourself plenty of time to make sure. Keep on writing to this chap, but try not to let your letters become too intimate or "too sentimental. Let things ride until he comes home again and you have a chance to find out just how serious he was about you and vice versa.

They Fared Their Problems And Solved Them

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I read your column every day. I read of heartaches, tears and disappointments of married women, so I would like to write you an entirely different kind of letter.

In 1946, despite my family and friends' turning against me, I married a man who was an alcoholic. I was 19 then and he was 21.

It was tough going at first, but I sincerely believed that with love, kindness, understanding and the help of God we could lick his terrible disease together, and I prayed for guidance and strength to help the man I loved. Day by day, month by month and year by year we fought, till one day he knew he had won and our nightmares were over.

When I was 22, I began to lose my slight little by little. What made it harder was that by then we had two precious sons. When my sight went completely, I lost all hope, but my husband never did. He never stopped telling me that once we had the world against us and came out on top and we could do it again. He took care of our sons and our home, read to me and patiently walked me around the house so I could learn to walk in the dark. My husband never stopped telling me how much he loved me. This gave me reason for fighting, and eventually, thanks to a wonderful hospital, I regained my sight. My husband and I celebrate our seventh wedding anniversary this month. If we loved each other when we married, then compared to now, it was only puppy love. We have the deepest love and respect for each other, and there isn't a person we know who doesn't respect my husband.

W.H.W.

Dear W.H.W.:

It makes me very happy to have a letter telling of a man and woman who loved each other so much that no problem, however big, could daunt them. I am very glad indeed to publish it, and I feel sure that it will help many who read it.

Last-Minute One-Dish Puddings and Sauce

By Mary Moore

In every cook's life comes the hour when time is galloping off in all directions and there's no end in sight for dinner.

A certain irreverent young man in my life, initial of P., has called these last-minute Mary on occasions. That explains my acquaintance with such desserts as lemon or orange-cake puddings and fudge pudding — dishes that may be served almost as soon as taken from the oven.

You'll welcome these desserts in your hour of need, but there's one thing I have to say about fudge pudding. While the recipe does not look large the pudding is rich and will serve eight people generously.

Another thing to keep under your hat until you are sick and your loving husband is obliged to prepare the meals: these desserts a man can make. They are so simple and straightforward, and the reward of rich fine flavor - and appreciation - will be a great satisfaction to your darling.

Quick Orange-Cake Pudding

Into a large bowl put your sifter and in the sifter put ¾ cup sifted flour, 1 cup sugar, ¾ teaspoon salt and sift together into bowl. Then add 1½ to 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, ¼ cup fresh orange juice, 2 egg yolks, ½ cup milk, and beat until the batter is smooth, now fold in 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into medium-sized pudding dish (or 6 individual dishes) and stand in larger pan of water. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 45 minutes. Serve with cream. Delicious cold in summer. For special occasions provide some whipped cream for topping.

Quick Lemon-Cake Pudding:

Use lemon rind and juice instead of orange juice in above pudding but use only ¾ cup lemon juice, and ¾ cup water.

Fudge Pudding

(8 generous servings)

Put your sifter in the bowl and into it put 1 cup sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup sugar 2 tablespoons cocoa. Sift these together then add to them ½ cup milk and 2 tablespoons melted shortening and butter. Then add 1 cup chopped nuts. Butter a 9-inch square pan and spread batter in pan. Mix together 1 cup brown sugar and 4 tablespoons cocoa and sprinkle over batter. Now carefully pour over entire pudding 1¾ cups hot water. Second water but don't worry for it works out all right after during the baking the batter settles to bottom. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 45 minutes. When you serve it cut in squares and invert squares on dessert plates, and spoon some of the sauce in the pan over each square.

Rain Delights

These are delicious fruity individual puddings, in which you may substitute steamed apricots and cut up maraschino cherries for the dates, if you like, for a change.

Put sifter in mixing bowl and into it put 1 cup sifted flour, ½ teaspoon each salt, baking powder and baking soda. Sift together into bowl then add ½ cup soft shortening, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 3rd cup sour or buttermilk, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind. Beat with rotary or electric beater until batter is smooth, then stir in 1 cup cut-up dates (or other soft dried fruits - figs are good too). Fill greased muffin tins or individual pudding dishes two-thirds full and bake 25 to 30 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. Serve these hot, and pour over just before passing a mixture of ½ cup strained orange juice and ¼ cup white sugar. This is a quick and delicious sauce. If you prefer to serve the orange syrup hot, heat it in top of double boiler.

The Students Send Invitations To Their Tea

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The students in the girls' dormitory here, of which I am director, will soon give a tea. Many of the girls in the dormitory never miss reading your column, and so we decided to write you concerning the form of invitation for this tea. Would you advise the following: for "At Home," instead of "will be at home") as the preferred form? And if not, would you please suggest another form?

The Students
of Hathaway Hall
will be at home
Tuesday, the second of June from three to five o'clock
—Dormitory Director

This form is entirely proper, delightful, impossible in phrasing, and you have the lines artistically spaced. I think this form:

"will be at home" . . . is more correct, but the students may prefer the more formal "At Home." And you young ladies may prefer "until" in the host method . . . "from three until five o'clock."

I like very much also the grace and personal touch, I think somewhat more cordial, form:

The Students
of Hathaway Hall
request the pleasure of your company on Tuesday, the second of June from three until five o'clock

Today's Flower Girl Doesn't Sleep With Her Petals

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My little 5-year-old daughter is to be a flower girl at a wedding soon. What is she supposed to do in a "modern" wedding? Not so long ago flower girls dropped rose petals—but today isn't this considered "old-fashioned"? — W.

Yes, the custom of having a flower girl strew rose petals on the floor before the bride has been discarded. In today's wedding a flower girl usually carries a tiny bouquet, generally a pert little nosegay with small flowers circling about a rosebud, and backed with a paper frill.

BEAUTY

Personality Quiz

Grand assets are found in the gardenia complexion, the luminant head of hair, the svelte and slender shape. But we doubt if any girl was ever loved just because she had long curly intriguing eyelashes or any other quality of physical beauty. A girl is loved for herself, for her personality, her charm, her nice manners, her character. External loveliness is nice to have. All women strive to attain it. It is a sort of passport. But it is not the whole story.

Suppose you take inventory of character qualities. If you feel that you have some that are no credit to you, don't be too hard on yourself. There are no angels on earth. We all have our weaknesses, our bad moments. You will be likely to overcome them if you remember that unpleasant emotions are reflected in the countenance. They are the kind of good-looks grifts are the kind of good-looks grifts that cosmetics cannot erase or disguise.

Do you try in every possible way to get along happily with your fellow creatures? Do you avoid arguments? Are you over-sensitive, unable to endure the slightest criticism? If so, learn to smile and take it on the chin.

There are as many spoiled adults as there are spoiled children.

Do you make a serious effort to be tolerant, to bear with your shortcomings and those of others? Are you annoyed if a person expresses opinions that are the opposite of yours? Two subjects that should be avoided then—politics and religion.

Are you well-mannered when shopping, being patient with clerks who are not familiar with the stock and may take a long time to find what you want? You must, as well be. Getting fussy and disturbed will only react upon you, get you in a dither, maybe spoil your day.

Do you try to avoid confusion in the home? If you are the boss of the domestic works, plan your duties carefully, save steps, and conserve energy. You'll look brighter and be sweeter.

Try not to be selfish in even the smallest way. In almost every family there is one individual who must have the white meat of the chicken, the crisp heart of lettuce, the most comfortable easy chair. There are as many spoiled adults as spoiled children, and you can't do a thing about them.

No. 16: Henry VI. Ruled England 122-1461

Born: 1421 at Windsor, son of Henry V and Catherine of France. He was nine months old when his father died, and there is a story he was crowned king with his mother's bracelet. A month later his father's plan of uniting the crowns of England and France was realized: Henry VI was proclaimed king of France. He was kept from having a childhood, but he grew up to be a pious, gentle man. England owes great educational institutions to him: Eton and King's College, Cambridge, were two results of his reign. Other results were unfortunate for him. The French, thanks to spirit aroused by Joan of Arc, expelled the English from all except Calais! Factionalism at home produced the fratricidal War of the Roses. Henry became deranged and eventually was imprisoned. He was put to death in 1471.

LOSES LIFE IN RESCUE

MIDLAND (CP)—A Czech immigrant lost his life Sunday saving a 12-year-old boy from drowning. Albert Nakladal, 42, saw Morley Dejardins fall into the harbor water from a raft. He plunged in and several hundred feet from shore found the half-drowned boy. Nakladal towed him to shallow water, set the boy on his feet and then collapsed. His body was recovered 40 minutes later, but attempts to revive him failed.

to Her Majesty, and "The Queen" was sung. Lloyd Hanna, being the longest-married member of the league, proposed a toast to the ladies, keeping it in a humorous vein, yet most sincere. Audrey Arbuckle, one of the newest brides of the league, responded.

Toast To Leader

Gib Gilmour proposed a toast to the league, to which the two presidents responded. President Gene Lohnes asked the bowlers to co-operate in turning out to league and executive meetings, and to always remember that although a competitive spirit was a right and a good thing in a league, no bowler should forget spirit of good sportsmanship that must prevail for a successful league.

President Selbourne Sharpe thanked everyone for co-operating during the year, and said that he hoped division 'B' would be able to enlarge again next season.

A toast to the future of the Frankford Bowling League was proposed by Bill O'Rourke, to which Karl Austin responded.

Karl and Jean Austin led in a sing-song of Frankford Bowling League compositions which went over well. They were assisted by the captains and assistant captains of the two divisions.

250 cents were given out. Through an error, a few were over-looked, but these are being looked after, and the bowlers will receive their crests shortly.

Jack Farley presented a gift to president Gene Lohnes, on behalf of division 'A', a beautiful pen desk set. Leonard Reid of division 'B' presented a pen and pencil set to president Selbourne Sharpe. Both thanked their leagues.

In the election of officers, Preston Chase was elected for division 'A' as president, and Wayne Arbuckle, secretary. Leonard Reid, president and Elmer Rogers, secretary, were elected for 'B'.

MAY, 1952 - first steel erected... MAY, 1953 - the first car rolls!

Since its inception, Ford of Canada has produced more than 2,750,000 cars and trucks, substantially more than any other Canadian manufacturer.

A Canadian Achievement

FORD-OAKVILLE

largest plant under one roof in Canada!

Forty-nine years ago, a little group of enthusiastic, forward-looking Canadians founded Ford of Canada, and opened Canada's first automobile plant. Now, still pioneering—still building for the future—Ford of Canada begins production in the greatest automobile assembly plant ever constructed in this country.

Ford-Oakville is, in fact, the largest plant under one roof in Canada. But sheer physical size is not the important thing about this new industrial giant. Brought into operation in Ford of Canada's 50th Year, this great new plant is a multi-million-dollar pledge of this company's firm, continuing resolve to keep in step with Canada through the great future that plainly lies ahead. Built in record time . . . by Canadians . . . to serve Canadians . . . to build cars and trucks to suit our Canadian needs and preferences, Ford-Oakville is truly an achievement of which all throughout the country may well be proud.

Ford of Canada is in the automobile business. All the vast new facilities of Ford-Oakville are for one purpose only—the assembly of Ford and Monarch, Mercury and Meteor cars—and Ford and Mercury Trucks.

Manufacturing operations will continue to be handled at Ford of Canada's Windsor plants—where another vast expansion program is now under way, to provide the largest automotive engine plant in Canada, the most up-to-date automotive foundry, and a machine shop second to none in modern tools and precision equipment.

These Ford of Canada plants represent a distinct forward step in Canada's fast-moving progress as an industrial nation. They will mean better cars and trucks for you—better values for your money—and better service through our 1,100 dealers from coast to coast.

THE NEW FORD-OAKVILLE . . . Assembly plant alone covers 33½ acres. All Ford of Canada cars and trucks will be assembled here, while like near future, by a plant working force expected to reach 4,000 men.

Prince Charles Looks Forward To Colorful Parades He Will See on 'Coronation' Day

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A wide smile, flashing eyes and porcelain fairness make up the picture of Princess Anne most likely to be remembered on Coronation Day.

For this friendly, chubby child, when on her best behavior, has the looks of a cherubic putting by a Renaissance master.

But appearances are deceiving. Out of the public eye, Anne is just a healthy 2½-year-old with all the normal instincts. Her hobby, at the moment, is showing big brother Prince Charles, two years older, that he is not really so superior. There is little the young Prince can think up in play or mischief that Anne does not manage to share.

On Coronation Day, the children will see the Queen before she sets out for the abbey, and when she returns wearing the imperial state crown.

Set for Pageantry

But the most exciting moments of this historic day for the Dresden doll princess, who already has a fortune in jewels lying in store for her 18th birthday, will be the bands, mounted cavalry and gaily-colored uniforms.

When the Queen returns to Buckingham Palace from the abbey, Anne and her brother will join the royal party on the balcony of the palace, to wave to the cheering crowds. This means the roar of a shouting multitude is likely to be the most outstanding feature of that festive day, stored in a child-ish memory. The young Princess will hear that same sound on many occasions throughout her life.

Like Charles, Anne talks of "mummy's Coronation," but has even less appreciation of what it means than her brother. Although every question asked by the children in regard to royal activities is answered truthfully, neither has any real appreciation of their own importance or that of their parents.

Born to move among kings and perhaps marry into an ancient royal line, Anne has several years yet of unalloyed childish pleasures, before the importance of the crown is forced upon her consciousness.

In the circle of nursery playmates chosen to form the present world of the heir to the throne and his sister, Anne has little chance of appreciating that her life is different to that of other girls.

Learning to Dance

As long as she is second in line to the throne, Anne will have an easier schooling, be less tied down and more able to direct her growing up life as she pleases. Like her aunt, Princess Margaret, this silver-blonde will see day revel in the freedom denied the heir to the throne.

Anne and her brother have already started dancing classes under Marguerite Vacani, who taught their mother and Princess Margaret. Born on Tuesday, Anne will be taught to live up to the adage: "Tuesday's child is full of grace."

At present, however, she has a tomboy pleasure in the pursuits of Prince Charles. With little time for dolls and other girlish toys, she prefers clockwork gadgets and always wants to be the person working the radio-controlled car set presented to the Queen by the city of Windsor. But this toy is reserved for times when the Duke of Edinburgh can direct operations.

Anne, already an important young lady in her own right, has a chrysanthemum and a street named after her, two waltzes have been composed for her and she is a citizen of Edinburgh, Texas, "with all the privileges thereof."

MARMORA

Marmora — R. G. Sheppard, Fish and Wild Life inspector, of Tweed, furnished an interesting talk in which he covered his 30 years of service with the Department of Game and Fisheries, at the monthly dinner meeting of the Marmora district Chamber of Commerce at the Royal Hotel on Thursday evening.

The attendance of members was good and several visitors also present were welcomed by president Ralph E. Neal.

In the course of his talk the speaker referred to the more recent stocking of waters in his large territory with speckled trout and mentioned that over 1,000 lakes had been stocked with various game fish.

Films Shown

He showed three films later in the meeting. Also present and showing a film on the carbonated drinks industry entitled "Refreshment Through the Year" was Larry Buskard of the Coca Cola plant, Belleville.

Mr. Sheppard was introduced by R. E. Hunter and thanked by James Shannon.

Before his address, past president, Alex Fraser, submitted a proposal for the nature of the June meeting.

He said that "it had been considered a good idea to make a tour of the resort spots in the district on the last Wednesday afternoon in June and to include the ladies on the tour. Members unable to get away in the afternoon could join the others later, at the resort where dinner would be served.

C. R. Whittemore supported the proposal which the executive will endeavor to carry out.

Mrs. Charles Westfall, of Plymouth, Mich., visited her mother, Mrs. Annie Grant, and other relatives here.

Morris and Douglas Lynch attended a convention of the cold storage and locker operators of Ontario in Toronto on Tuesday.

Mrs. P. Gordon and Mrs. Louis R. Green attended the convention of Women's Institutes in Guelph last week as delegates from Marmora branch.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Vesterfelt and daughters, Leona Mae, spent a few days in Timmins, recently, being accompanying on their return by Mrs. Mary E. Holland, who will make her home with them. Mrs. Holland is the grandmother of Mrs. Vesterfelt.

Mr. and Mrs. Burress Johnson of Malone, and Mr. and Mr. Elvin Ellis, of Port Colborne, visited Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Ellis last Sunday.

Mr. W. J. Cottrell spent Friday in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ellis, of Peterborough, were week-end guests of Mr and Mrs. Stanley Ellis.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McConnell and Jean, of Belleville, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Bowen.

DANCING PUPIL

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—A new dance, the "Queen Elizabeth Waltz," will feature a civic ball while the Queen is here late this year. Mayor Sir John Allum, 63, is ready to start lessons. He said "if the Queen has learned it, I will have to learn it too."

China Builds Railway to Uranium Deposits in Sinkiang

Red China is reportedly rushing development of rich uranium deposits in Sinkiang (1) wit 6,000,000 "volunteer" workers and 100,000 troops to receive Russian training in helping to Soviet-ize the polyglot population. A labor force has been drafted to advance the railhead from Lanchow (2) to Tihua (3). Plans call for a rail link into Russian Turkestan (4) to form a return loop of the Trans-Siberian (5). Such a link would vastly shorten the distance between Indo-China (6) and Russian factories. Completion of this artery is believed by observers in Hong Kong (7) to be holding up a march on all Southeast Asia. Danger of Fires Reduced When Rain and Snow Sweep Across Manitoba, Ont., Que.

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The danger of forest fires was reduced Monday when rain and snow swept across Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec.

Thousands of tired firefighters who battled fires in bush and forests were given their first break since a summer-like heat wave parched central Canada provinces.

Eighty fires were burning in Ontario Monday in 20,000 acres of mixed timber. Most of them were held or put out, but one was out of control 30 miles northeast of North Bay. The 5,000-acre bush fire was battled by 170 men.

One blaze at Markstay, near Sudbury late Sunday gutted a 40,000 lumber mill, left 13 families homeless and destroyed buildings and 2,200 acres of forest. Officials blamed a cigaret carelessly thrown away.

Fear For Crops

Although farmers feared for their crops as a result of icy storms in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, officials of the Manitoba department of agriculture said the rain and snow "couldn't have come at a better time" to help in the fight against forest blazes.

Some 60 fires in Quebec were brought under control, but the situation had reached a point where the provincial forest protective service considered banning forest travel.

There have been no official estimates of damage, but they may run into millions of dollars. Many firefighters blamed careless trappers, anglers and settlers trying to clear land for the fires.

The situation in the West eased after five days of fires. Several small blazes were reported in the Maritimes.

Conditions in some parts of Ontario remained serious and unless substantial rainfall comes, the danger will remain high in southern sections of the province. Frank Miller, forest protection supervisor at North Bay, said unless there is rain all bushland in the southeastern section of Northern Ontario will be banned for travel.

Every possibly-useful device is used by firefighters to bring a blaze under control. Small groups of trained bush firefighters are equipped with such items as a plow, a bulldozer and a mobile radio unit.

Another method is to drop large paper bags filled with water from aircraft. They are not likely to extinguish a big fire, but serve to check a small blaze before it can develop and so give firefighters a chance to race to the scene and deal with it.

Appeals to Govt. For Widening Of Regulations

OTTAWA (CP)—Howard Green (PC—Vancouver-Quadra) a veteran of the First World War, appealed Monday to the government to widen the regulations covering the granting of payments to prisoners of war during the last war.

Speaking in the House of Commons during a veterans affairs debate, Mr. Green said the biggest group of wartime prisoners in Germany can only get reparations when they can prove maltreatment and can prove they were incapable of working on discharge.

There was a "nasty slur" creeping into the question. There had been suggestions—not in the Commons but in parts of the country—that these men "surrendered" and don't deserve consideration.

One of the largest groups of prisoners, he said, were veterans of Dieppe. They were thrown into that operation "without the slightest chance of coming through" and many were left on the beaches with no choice but to surrender. These men were shackled for a month by the Germans, yet that apparently did not count in the eyes of Canadian authorities.

Thousands of Canadian airmen were shot out of the skies over Europe and were captured. Yet they couldn't get anything unless they proved maltreatment had affected their ability to work on discharge. Many of these men had suffered terribly from forced marches.

Conviction Quashed

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Appeal Court Monday quashed the conviction of Joseph Mesadra, convicted with six other post office employees of conspiracy and obtaining money by fraud, after crown counsel W. B. Common said there was "no evidence of theft except for inadmissible evidence."

Mesadra was sentenced by magistrate S. T. Bigelow to seven months concurrent on each of two charges.

Charles Dubin, defence counsel, submitted that Mesadra's brother, Henry, was found innocent by the same magistrate on "identical evidence."

Routine Jet Flight "Came to Grief" for Edmonton Pilot

"I'm a lucky guy," said P.O. Keith Walker of Edmonton after escaping from a Vampire jet which came to grief at De Havilland airport in Toronto. On completing a routine flight, the 22-year-old auxiliary RCAF pilot overshot the landing strip by 150 feet, bounced his fast-moving aircraft across a graded field, and, after covering half a mile, veering across two landing strips at 100 miles an hour, brought the jet to a standstill. "The plane kept going in all directions—like a wild steer," said Walker, seen above. "When it finally stopped I didn't waste time. I got out and started running, as I was sure plane would blow up." The young pilot, unharmed by his escapade, came to Toronto last November as an auxiliary member of Squadron 411. He had been flying ordinary planes since he started summer training with the RCAF as a university cadet in 1951. He has been flying jets for nearly two months. — Central Press Canadian.

Medical Officers Make Saving Of $2,000,000

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Doctors at Victoria Hospital and local RCAF medical officers have run up a saving in defence spending estimated at $2,000,000, through a five-year heart research program.

The work has been under the direction of D. C. W. Manning, assistant professor of clinical investigation, University of Western Ontario, and a leader in aviation research. Dr. Manning reported on his work at a meeting in Los Angeles Monday of the International Aero Medicine Association.

The saving was made through 5,000 heart examinations made on applicants for aircrew. Out of this number 27 applicants were rejected because of heart abnormality.

It is calculated that it costs the government between $50,000 and $100,000 to train a pilot. Catching the 27 medically unfit means substantial saving by rejection before training began.

The heart examinations were done on electrocardiographs, machines which record the visual record of the heart's activities.

Loses Appeal

TORONTO (CP)—G. L. Tiller, Toronto salesman, lost his appeal Monday against a two-year penitentiary sentence as a criminal sexual psychopath. He must also be started summer training with serve an indeterminate sentence a charge of indecently assaulting a small girl.

Office Workers Given Advice By Pope Pius

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The Pope's advice to office workers is to hold their tongues, avoid gossip and sex talk, and to get on with their jobs.

The text of a speech by the Pope, made to 4,000 civil servants in the Basilica of St. Peter's Sunday, was made public Monday.

The pontiff said that unfortunately jokes are often made about sex, adding that it is even more regrettable when such talk "becomes the instrument of slander, gossip or calumny."

He told them not to discuss things they would not mention "in the presence of your mother, your wife or daughter."

"If you want to appear truly Christian, you must govern your tongues during the exercise of your duty," he told the civil servants.

"You must know how to stay silent and how to speak at the proper time—but above all how to stay silent. . .

"Every time that in your offices there is too much useless talk, or talk that has nothing to do with your work, your handling of the files would suffer inevitable delay, with harm, sometimes severe, to the persons concerned.

"And if this talk should be not only useless but—God forbid—also harmful in itself, then even more energetically should you curb your tongues."

Egypt Pours Torrent of Abuse On Churchill and Splashes Some on Dulles Over Zone

CAIRO (Reuters)—Egypt today poured torrents of abuse on Britain's Prime Minister Churchill and splashed some of it on John Foster Dulles, United States secretary of state, who is here on a fact-finding tour of the Middle East.

Cairo newspapers linked Dulles with Britain's policy of airing sight in the Suez Canal Zone. They accused him of coming here with preconceived views which ran counter to Egypt's insistence on taking over the British base at Suez lock, stock and barrel.

But the main attack was levelled at Churchill, who insisted in London Monday that Britain could not evacuate the base without insuring that it was preserved for the use of the West in Middle East defence.

Prime Minister Mohammed Negub, who has broken off discussions with Britain over the future of the base, summoned his cabinet to a 7 a. m. meeting at which he bitterly criticized Churchill and called Britain an aggressor.

Ignores Knighthood

"Mr. Churchill," he said, ignoring Churchill's recent knighthood, "attempts to conceal his imperialistic designs toward the Arab world behind a new name: Defence of the interests of the free world in the Middle East.

"I declare that Egypt considers the presence of foreign troops on her territory under any disguise a continuation of British aggression which started in 1882 by a bombardment to protect and save the throne. Excuses and pretexts have continued ever since.

"Now it is in the name of protection of the interests of the free world. Egypt and Egyptians are determined to rid themselves of British occupation and aggression once and for all."

Naguib's declaration was in reply to Churchill's assertion to the House of Commons Monday that British troops in the Suez were ready to defend themselves, if Naguib's "boastful and threatening speeches were to be translated into action and. . .our soldiers were killed."

Don't Need Help

Churchill added that "we are entirely capable of doing this without requiring any physical assistance from the United States or anyone else."

Naguib accused Britain of consistently violating the treaty rights by which it acquired the base and declared "the canal base is useless as long as it is held against the will of the Egyptian people and against the will of the Arab and Moslem peoples."

"Does Mr. Churchill consider that his attitude against legal and legitimate rights of Egyptians constitutes a contribution to defence of the interests of the free world?" Naguib asked.

"Defence of the Middle East by the means which Mr. Churchill suggested is impossible. I say defence of the Middle East is possible only if it is done with the co-operation of completely independent nations of the area."

Fear 15 of 31 In Crew Lost As Freighter Sinks

GRAND MARAIS, Minn. (AP)—A still turbulent Lake Superior today continued to bar detailed search of the area off Isle Royale, Mich., where the iron ore-laden freighter, Henry Steinbrenner, foundered in a heavy storm Monday with 31 aboard.

Coast guard cutter Woodrush, at the scene overnight, reported waves were so high small boats could not be launched to facilitate the search for survivors or bodies.

Seven Brought Ashore

Two rescue ships, the Joseph P. Thompson, and the Wilfred Sykes brought seven survivors ashore at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and Superior, Wis.

The Thompson arrived at the Soo locks early today, several hours ahead of schedule.

Carrying five survivors, including Capt. Albert Stiglin, the Thompson cut a path of the locks shortly after midnight.

Capt. Stiglin and the other survivors, Art Mulvy, James Lamprix, Frank Jazapacadus, and Joe Radzevicz, were taken to the War Memorial hospital in Sault Ste. Marie for physical examinations.

Radzevicz was reported to have suffered a broken arm and leg. The others were reported uninjured.

Not Allowed to Talk

The rescued men were not allowed to talk to reporters pending the outcome of their examinations.

The Thompson sighted a lifeboat body of first mate Andrew Craft.

The Sykes landed the first two survivors at Superior, Wis. Monday night. The men, identified as Bernard Oberoski, 24, a cook, and Kenneth L. Kumm, 19, a deckhand, were taken to a Duluth, Minn. hospital, still suffering from shock and exposure. Their condition also was such that newspaper men were not allowed to interview them.

The coast guard, still checking the list of crew members, said there were 15 known survivors, 10 bodies recovered, and five men still unaccounted for. The death list was being held up pending the arrival of a third rescue vessel, the Clemson, at Sault Ste. Marie later today.

the sykes sx para 5, eliminating para 2, 4

The Sykes also brought in the body of Frank Tomczak, an oiler, recovered from the same lifeboat occupied by Kumm and Oberoski.

Capt. George Fisher of the ore and crew members said waves were 12 to 20 feet high when they reached the scene, about three hours after the heavily-laden Steinbrenner disappeared into 600 feet of water.

Fisher said the lifeboat the two men were in was awash with water at 35-degree temperature. He east doubt men in lifejackets could have survived long in such icy water.

From Cleveland came word that disaster marked the Steifbrenner's launching as well as her finale. The 437-foot vessel had to be put into the water prematurely in 1902 when a fire swept the shipyard at Fort Huron, Mich., where it was built.

Eight years later, the Steinbrenner sank after a collision with another ship in St. Mary's river near the Soo locks. But it was refloated, repaired and returned to service in 1910.

SIX DIE IN CRASH

NOME, Tex. (AP)—A Southern Pacific passenger train struck an automobile at a grade crossing in this little town Sunday night, killing six persons. A seventh person was critically injured.

Medical Association Requests More Coverage in Press

TORONTO (CP)—The general council of the Ontario Medical Association Monday night unanimously approved the forwarding of a resolution to the board of governors asking for a press code.

The code would be designed to cover the dealings of the medical profession with the press and to foster an increased appreciation of the profession in the province.

Dr. J. C. Dawson of Peterborough said doctors have too long underestimated the importance of the press in interpreting medical news for the public.

Another resolution passed by the council called on the board to ask insurance companies to pay a suitable fee for group insurance reports or any other type of insurance information required from doctors.

The association said 59.6 per cent of the province's doctors are against compulsory health insurance and 40.4 per cent in favor.

In a report to the annual convention, the association said most of the doctors in favor of a national health plan believe it should be administered by the medical profession.

But, the statement added, "the possibility of any government turning over for administration a fund which will approximate $1,000,000,000 a year is so remote as not to warrant discussion."

Tempest Revolves About Remark Made by Member

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe threatened Saturday in the Commons agriculture committee to take criminal action against a member of Parliament. Later he said he had made a mistake.

The tempest revolved about remarks in a Commons committee by Percy Wright (CCF—Mistford) which Mr. Howe interpreted as imputing transport controller Roy Milner was "a thief," and whether or not Mr. Wright should withdraw them.

Mr. Wright declined to withdraw his statement when asked to by Mr. Howe. The minister said he would take criminal action.

Tempers cooled after the luncheon recess of the committee and Mr. Howe said he was mistaken in suggesting that the immunity of members of Parliament from prosecution for their statements did not extend to parliamentary committees as well as the Commons.

Not a "Thief"

Mr. Wright had described Mr. Milner's attitude towards the grain producers as that of a man raising chickens—"he was interested in the chickens but . . . for what he could get out of them." Mr. Milner is on loan to the government from the board of grain commissioners, a semi-government body.

Mr. Howe said the member implied Mr. Milner "is a thief." He demanded a with d r a w a l. Mr. Wright said he would not withdraw.

Mr. Wright said he had qualified his "chicken" remarks later by adding that he was not suggesting Mr. Milner has any financial interest in the grain trade.

"I want that statement withdrawn," Mr. Howe said.

"I'm not going to," replied Mr. Wright.

Said He Was Wrong

"Well, all right then there will be a criminal action for it," Mr. Howe said.

The committee adjourned for lunch at that point. But when it met again Mr. Howe said he had been wrong in suggesting parliamentary immunity did not extend to parliamentary committees.

Mr. Wright, also conciliatory, said he would look over the record of his statements and if any action was needed on his part he would raise the matter in the Commons.

Woman Waiting To be Embalmed Found Not Dead

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A 76-year-old woman, who lay in a morgue for almost 17 hours waiting to be embalmed, surprised employees of a funeral home Sunday night when she emerged from a stupor and declared, "No, I am not dead."

W. L. Murdaugh of the Murdaugh funeral home said the woman, Julia Stallings, revived when an apprentice embalmer turned on a light. When the woman raised her arm and glared at over her eyes, the apprentice turned to his coutn and said, "This woman is not dead."

The woman opened her eyes. "No, I am not dead," she said.

Guy H. Patterson, in charge of the Negro branch of the Fulton county alms house, said the woman had been a resident of the institution for a little more than 2½ years.

He said she had been ill for several months and that he called the funeral home when she "passed out" Saturday night and he was unable to "tell that she was breathing."

Terrified Girl Apparently Bitten By Invisible Teeth

MANILA (Reuters)—Horrified police and reporters Monday saw a terrified girl, screaming that she was being attacked by apparitions, apparently bitten by invisible teeth as a police officer held her in a tight grip.

Eight human bite marks, surrounded by what looked like saliva, appeared on the girl's left arm here while police and reporters looked on.

The 18-year-old girl, held in a detention cell for a week on a vagrancy charge, began screaming Sunday night that she was being bitten by a "flying human being with big bulging eyes and wearing a black cape."

She was taken to police headquarters for observation. There she suddenly began shrieking "Here he comes again" and squirmed in a police officer's grip. Police reporters drawn to headquarters by report of "Dracula's invasion of the Philippines," saw the right teeth marks appear. As the girl cried in fear and pain, more teeth marks appeared on the other arm.

A medical examiner called to the scene said the bites were undoubtedly human but was baffled by the mystery of their origin.

Van Doos, Homeward Bound After Year in Korea, Want To Resume Paratroop Work

By BILL ROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—Homeward bound after a year in Korea, the 1st Van Doos are starry-eyed over parachutes.

Old-timers with the 1st battalion, the Royal 22nd Regiment, talk ecstatically about leaving again the thrill of jumping into space when the unit resumes its home-defence paratroop role. Newcomers want to qualify as jumpers speedily so that they can stay with the battalion with which they fought over here.

The first 50 para-volunteers will be dropped off at Rivers, Man., on the way to Quebec. The army has made special arrangements for them to begin their courses at once. The next 50 of the 172 volunteers are to follow at Rivers at the end of June. The unit sailed from Kure, Japan, May 2.

Lt.-Col. Louis Trudeau of Quebec commanded the battalion here.

Tough Slugging

The year in Korea was more one of tough slugging than pitched battles. The Van Doos proved outstandingly last September that they could take punishment and still assert mastery over no man's land. They never lost an inch of ground. They had some first-rate patrols. But for the most part it was the wearying, nerve-straining task of sitting and taking it.

Trudeau says the Van Doos' period of real fetting was last September, when they held a series of ridges west of Little Gibraltar. The enemy shelled constantly and patrolled intensively—at first.

During September and October the battalion suffered more than 200 casualties, including 29 killed. This was during the enemy's buildup for the Oct. 23 assault on Little Gibraltar, then held by the 1st battalion, the Royal Canadian Regiment.

Says Trudeau: "We avoided more casualties by strict control of daylight movement, by much digging, and by having all work done by night.

"When we finally left that position we were the bosses of no man's land. We were able to patrol at will along our front, and even had some successful daylight laying patrols. Those helped us bring down fire on enemy we observed, and got information on which to base fighting patrols at night.

Morale High

"Despite our casualties and although the position was hard to defend the men's morale was high. They felt their responsibilities the more, and carried out their duties the better because of it."

"We learned here," says Trudeau, "that to be good in defensive operations the soldier must be a good shot and know his weapon thoroughly.

"It is even more important in this kind of warfare than in the attack. He must know how to fend for himself—more even than in the fluid battle because he lives constantly under trying conditions. There are the lonely outposts at night, the small patrols and ambushes, the strain of sitting out barrages in a trench. He must be prepared to cook his own food, and to sleep in discomfort.

"Korea has given us more confirmation for believing the Canadian a good soldier—he is keen, brave, with a lot of initiative and adaptability."

Last June Van Doos were the first Canadians here to try out armor vests. They were a novelty then, and used only on patrols. Before they left here in April Van Doo companies wore not only the vests but steel helmets all the time in forward areas, so much had the shelling increased.

Periods at Front

Like other infantry outfits, roughly one-third of the battalion's time here was in reserve. Its periods in the line were from April 24 (1952) to July 1; Aug. 10-Nov. 3; Dec. 1-Jan. 30, and April 7-20.

During their last reserve period, in February and March, the Van Doos received and quickly came to like their first Turkish (Korea Army troops attached to the Commonwealth division) soldiers.

And when they returned to the line for their last stint, Korean soldiers suffered and died together with them in the common effort.

The reason for the Van Doos going into the line so close to their departure was so that when the 3rd battalion arrived it could send company and platoon leaders forward to see how the position was held, how patrols functioned, and get the "feel" of the setup from fellow-countrymen of their own language.

That process began the night of April 17 and after two more nights of it the Van Doos were relieved by the newly-arrived 3rd battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment, then assuming its first assignment.

At the last parade the men were presented with mementoes of their year here—a cigaret case for each soldier and a brooch for his wife or girl friend, both with regimental arranged for us in Montreal," says Trudeau, "because it will be the last chance for the battalion to put on a good show before we all come together again after our holiday."

Work begins at Valcartier, Que., again early in August.

It hopes to march through the streets of Montreal and Quebec, but by the time it reaches the provincial capital it will be only about the Dominion to begin their leaves, 100 strong.

Men will be dropping out across The unit has been awarded 16 pioned here."

and 220 will stay at home in Montreal.

"I do hope they have a parade crests, and a regimental scarf.

Have New Flag

Trudeau says the battalion also is taking home "a lot of bric-a-brac" for the regimental museum —patrol and raid souvenirs, and a new flag. The flag was designed here and made in Japan. It has flown outside battalion headquarters ever since the first model was received last autumn.

"If permitted to do so we would like to fly it in Canada beside the red ensign," says Trudeau. "We wouldn't take it on parade with the regimental or battalion colors. But it would be always outside our headquarters, wherever we are, as a sign that the Van Doos are stadecorations, including an OBE to Trudeau, and more are pending.

Quebec Sr. Hockey League Decides To Operate As Professional Loop

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Just as hockey, we thought, had been wrapped up for a few months at least, the pesky cuss bobs up again and not with anything pleasant.

According to a Toronto report, juvenile hockey has caused a mild rift in the amiable lute between the Ontario Minor Hockey Association and the Ontario Hockey Association.

Relations are somewhat strained, the story goes, because OHA first vice-president Frank Buckland came out with the statement that a juvenile player should declare himself at the start of the season as to whether he will play juvenile or junior "B" hockey.

Buckland is quoted as saying: "There has been too much moving up and down of juvenile players in OHA junior "B" hockey. We've got to stop it if junior "B" hockey is to continue in the smaller centres."

Behind the roaming juvenile player is the professional scout, said Buckland, and once a player is spotted he is either moved to a junior "B" club sponsored by the scout's professional club, or to a centre where professional coaching is available.

"This past season," Buckland said, "there have been cases of juvenile players performing for juvenile and junior 'B' clubs right down to the playoffs."

President Mike Welchel, of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, says his organization will stand by its rule whereby a juvenile player can play junior "B" hockey providing he is released by his juvenile club or gets permission from his juvenile manager.

"We are not against a boy taking advantage of the opportunity to better himself in hockey," he said, "but the OMHA insists that the affiliated club gets first choice and the move must be made with the written consent of his juvenile manager."

This department can't see its way clear to go along with the Buckland idea. After all what is minor hockey for. The grand job being done by the Ontario Minor Hockey Association for the puck-chasing younger fry of the province has drawn the admiration of all sports organizations and individuals.

What would Buckland have? Players of juvenile age sitting on the bench all season because they must not play with a junior "B" team. Here in Belleville, the Black Hawks brought up some juvenile players and the kids made good. The experience gained in the few games played last season will stand them in good stead for next year.

And it was not so long ago that the OHA vice-president announced the use of junior "B" players for a Peterborough senior "B" club, despite the fact that the OHA ruling stated that junior players cannot play for a senior team unless the clubs are affiliated, or belong to the same parent organization. Belleville protested this action and rightly so, but the protest was tossed out with the accustomed funny OHA statement that the rule was printed wrongly in the book of words.

However, with regard to the juvenile player situation, it is stated that the two hockey bodies will get together some time during the summer and discuss the matter fully.

BASEBALL!

Five teams, at least, and possibly six, will form the Belleville District Baseball League, it was learned at the executive meeting last night. Included are Belleville Regent Juniors, Prince Edward County, Napanee, Trenton Legion and Bloomfield, a last-minute entry. These clubs are definite starters with the Trenton-Batawa Combines given until Friday to make up their minds.

The opening game is scheduled for Monday, May 18th, when the Belleville Juniors will be guests of the Prince Edward County team at Picton. The schedule will be drawn this week and the other teams will swing into action immediately following.

The controversy over player Bill Greer, of Wellington, that caused some discussion last week was cleared with the entry of the Bloomfield team. Greer will play for the canning village squad.

Ron Sivel, of Picton, was appointed official scorer and just to clear up a misunderstanding with friend Mike Rodden down Kingston way, Walter Gerow, Sr., not the hockey star, is umpire-in-chief of the loop.

The schedule will be a twenty-game affair with each team playing the others two games at home and two away.

FINE GESTURE!

The death of big, lovable Jim Thorpe caused this story to be revived a few years ago Ted Williams, the Boston Red Sox slugger and now a Marine flier, was the star attraction at a sports show. Thorpe also was one of the attractions. Before the show closed Williams was honored by a group of his friends, who presented him with a car and house trailer. Later that night Williams summoned Thorpe, who was down on his luck, and told him: "I have no use for those presents. They're yours." According to Boston sources, that was the house trailer in which Thorpe was living on the West Coast when he died.

Jersey Joe Will Retire If Defeated

CHICAGO (AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott's manager said Monday he will retire the 39-year-old ex-champ if he loses to Rocky Marciano Friday night but insisted the old boy is a cinch to regain the heavyweight boxing title.

"I have everything fixed for Joe to get $500 a week the rest of his life," said Felix Bocchicchio, his manager. "But he 's not going to lose. I think he is a cinch. The price of 3 to 1 is way out of line. It should be a 6 to 5 and take your pick."

Bocchicchio talked about Walcott at a press luncheon preceding a showing of films of the first Walcott-Marciano fight last September when Rocky knocked out Walcott in the 10th round.

"If Joe wins, this won't be his last fight," said Felix. "You boys are going to see him execute a one-two combination that is the greatest thing in the world. . . .

We expect the champion to be pressing. He's going to tear in there and he'll find Mr. Walcott ready. If he may be dismissed sorry he came in so fast. And we'll be ready from the opening gong."

Decision Comes Few Hours After CAHA Passed Motion To Lift Branch Suspension

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The decision of the Quebec Senior Hockey League to turn professional appeared today the only disconcerting episode in a little love feast to welcome the return of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association to the family fold.

Action of the big Quebec circuit came Monday night only a few hours after the amalgan Amateur Hockey Association had practically agreed, through a decision of its Resolutions committee, to reinstate the suspended Quebec branch.

The committee's recommendation for reinstatement went before the plenary session today at the CAHA's annual meeting.

Move Not Surprise

The QSHL move was not a surprise, either to the CAHA or to the QAHA delegates awaiting readmission. Its effect could scarcely be assessed at the moment, but there was a general opinion among delegates to the national convention that the CAHA as a whole could not suffer.

It was felt there now could be more concentration on senior hockey. The QSHL has come out with the Maritime Major League in the professional sense that it affected only the two circuits. The QSHL was always the stronger.

President Al Hollway of the QAHA said the situation has arisen where he and his four other representatives from the Quebec branch left home and the matter needs further study.

The CAHA showed far less concern over the QSHL action than it did over the phraseology of the application of Quebec Amateur Body for return to good standing.

President W. B. George and secretary-manager George Dudley of the CAHA said the QSHL decision was okay with them and they felt the Quebec amateur branch, if admitted to regular status, "can take care of its own affairs."

"There was a similar situation in Ontario when the major series folded," they said. "Now we have a stronger senior league in the Allan Cup series in Ontario than before."

The implication was that Quebec can pep up its senior series for competition in the Allan Cup playoffs.

The other major series group affected by the Maritime Major League and secretary - treasurer C. S. Medcalfe of Halifax said the status of players would have to be considered since owned nonprofit league teams and those under professional contracts. He foresaw a possibility that this league may have to revert to Allan Cup status and in this event would need eight or 10 imports for each team, instead of the four now allowed.

The situation confronting the QAHA arose originally over granting of a player certificate by the QAHA to a junior player—Ron Attwell, with Montreal Canadien juniors. The QAHA said it was right. So did the CAHA. The upshot was that the QAHA was suspended for defiance.

Regretted Move

At the peace-feeler meetings during the last few days, the QAHA has gone so far as to say it regretted defying the CAHA. The parent body accepted a flat admission that the QAHA was wrong at the start of the Attwell case. The final draft of a statement was acceptable to the CAHA officers. It read:

"The QAHA realizes an improper course was followed in permitting Attwell to play in defiance of the ruling of the executive of the CAHA and regrets such action."

The CAHA officers then passed this statement along to the CAHA resolutions committee. It was accepted and a resolution was formed to re-seat the QAHA. This resolution went before the general meeting today.

New Pro League Will Affiliate With Other Loops

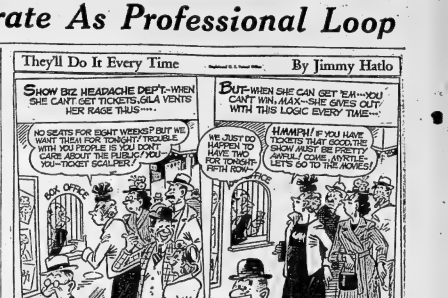
By ALEX DIMEO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Senior Hockey League at a club owners' meeting Monday night voted unanimously to become a professional league.

A motion was also passed to seek affiliation with the National Hockey League, American Hockey League and the Western Hockey League. Under the proposed new name of Quebec Hockey League, it will be set to go with the Western Hockey League.

Once professional, the new QSHL will have several all connections with the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association and the governing Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Present at the meeting, presided over by George Slater, QSHL president, was Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL. Previous to the formal vote on the motion to become pro, Campbell clarified the position of the QSHL as a professional league, in relation to the NHL and other professional leagues. He said that the NHL will have no direct jurisdiction over the league, but will see that agreements drawn up between leagues are carried out.



As a professional league, Campbell said, each club in all probability will be permitted to place five players on its own negotiation list, with a limited number of NHL rules.

The initial split with the CAHA came about when the CAHA refused to recognize a playing certificate granted Ron Attwell, by the QAHA, to play with the Montreal Junior Canadiens. The QAHA insisted the certificate had been issued in full accordance with CAHA regulations. For defying the authority of the governing body, the QAHA was suspended and a deadline set for teams, clubs and players within the Quebec association to make known their intention of remaining with the CAHA or also face suspension.

A few days before the general suspension was to go into effect, the QSHL resigned from the QAHA so as not to jeopardize the rights of their players in the mix-up which ensued.

The NHL then extended protection to the QSHL's player list and the league played out the regular schedule to set up its own system of playoffs.

The decision to turn pro will mean that the QSHL now will receive $10,000 for a drafted player, as compared with the present arrangement of $3,000 from a minor pro club and $5,000 from the NHL.

International Feud Is Simmering In Canadian-American Pro Football

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Another international feud is simmering in professional football. If anything, it's proving to big-time American clubs that Canada isn't in the bush league.

The latest tiff between Canadian and United States teams developed Monday over the Canadian signing of George Blanda, quarterback on last year's Chicago Bears of the National Football League. It's almost certain to end up in the courts —as the Dick Huffman case did two years ago.

Coach Carl Voyles of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union announced Saturday that the 25-year-old Blanda had signed with his club for the 1953 season.

Can't Do It

"He can't do it," cried George Halas, owner-coach of the Bears, in Chicago. "The boy has a reserve option clause in his contract that gives us choice of his services for the following season. And that means 1953."

Not so, said Voyles at Hamilton shortly before he left for his home at Vero Beach, Fla.

"The action is illegal," said Bert Bell in Philadelphia, commissioner of the NFL. "If that's the way they want to play we will have nothing to do with them."

He told the Bears "to get an injunction against Blanda and bring suit against the Canadian team."

Bell added:

"A contract is a contract and it should be honored; and these youngsters should not be taught to go outside the law."

Voyles didn't go for that. He said he signed Blanda in retaliation for the Bears' signing Bill Gregus from North Carolina's Wake Forest College. Gregus was a lineleading and tackling star with Tiger-Cats two years ago.

Neither Bell and the Bears say that if they signed Gregus, I'd sign one of their players," Voyles said. "I protested to Bell and he told me that will had no claim on Gregus and that I was entitled to a chance at big time football."

Bell countered:

"When the Bears signed Gregus he was a free agent. The Bears had notified Blanda they were taking up his option and thus he is under contract, legally, to the Bears."

If the precedent set by Huffman in 1951 applies to Blanda, he'll be with Tiger-Cats next fall.

Huffman jumped Los Angeles Rams and signed with Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union two years ago. An injunction was issued in Los Angeles and sustained in Winnipeg courts. But a West Virginia judge upheld Huffman's appeal and freed him of the injunction.

That was the big test for Canadian teams luring star players from the United States.

Some never got to the courts. One notable case was the switch made earlier this year by Billy Vessels, all-America halfback from Oklahoma. The 26-year-old outstanding player in U.S. college ranks last year signed with Edmonton Eskimos of the WIFU in February. Baltimore Colts tried to get him, but Vessels decided on the Canadian team.

The settlement was security. Eskimos got him a job with an oil company and Vessels said he liked the idea of keeping the job after his football days ended.

The salary might doesn't throw much weight in Canada. Big Four and Western Canada conference clubs put a ceiling on their players early this year. The tops is about $6,000 a season.

The ceiling came after Johnny Bland, star halfback student from Drake University, was signed by Calgary Stampeders last year. The price tag was much higher than the $6,000 limit.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

When the former heavyweight fistic champion, Jim Jeffries, died recently, there was associated a flood of reminiscences. Half-forgotten names from a glorious era of the ring came bobbing to the surface, names like Gentleman Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Tommy Burns, and others.

But one name, and an important one, in its association with Jeffries, was overlooked entirely. And since the forgotten man is a Canadian, and the only Canadian who ever held the world heavyweight fistic title, I'd like to devote a Calvert column to Tommy Burns, the forgotten man.

Tommy Burns was born in 1881 in the little town of Hanover, Ontario, of German Canadian parents. His real name was Noah Brosso. And his career began with the great man's undoing this way: Jeffries retired in 1906, but agreed to referee, and donate his title to the winner of a match between Marvin Hart and Jack Root. Hart won the championship, and less than a year later, again with Jeffries refereeing, Burns defeated Hart and became champion. Jeffries refereed when Burns defeated Philadelphia Jack O'Brien.

Though he weighed only 175 pounds, Burns feared no one. There came from Australia a bruiser in 1907 a giant of a man. Bill Squires, fearson in looks, backed by an imposing record. American heavyweights steered clear of Squires. But not Burns. He signed to risk his title against the scowling, strong-jawed giant. Squires was made a 3-1 favorite, and fans of the day felt sorry for Burns, but they turned out in great numbers at Colma, Cal., and brought along cushions to make themselves comfortable as they watched what was to be a 45-round match.

It didn't last that long. When the bell rang, Burns moved swiftly out of his corner, swung a right to the jaw of the Australian. That was the end. Squires was out.

Burns was a busy fighter. In the two years he held the title, he fought 12 times at Vancouver, in America, England, Ireland and Australia. 11 times he won, but in the 12th, he was knocked out by Jack Johnson, who thus became champion. Johnson, who dodged a meeting with another Canadian heavyweight, Sam Langford, in order to get a chance at the title, weighed 20 pounds more than Burns. He beat Tommy badly, and broke his right, but the Canadian gamester kept valiantly 3e, it until in the fourteenth round, the police stepped in and stopped the fight.

It was then that Burns really gained recognition—as "former champion". He had earned his title long before. Future generations will remember Burns for one thing, if for no other. Until Joe Louis came along he held the record for defending his title more times than any other heavyweight champion.

Cleveland Blows Big Chance To Grab American Loop Lead; Bows to Chisox by 2-1 Score

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sport Writer

Are Cleveland Indians suffering from an incurable case of Yankee-phobia? Is it true that the mere thought of Casey Stengel's crew scares the living daylights out of the otherwise dangerous Tribe?

Probably not. But the time for the Indians to eliminate such suspicions is fleeting rapidly.

They come into Yankee Stadium tonight for the first of a two-game series. If they blow the opener most folks probably will advise them to go back to Ohio for another season.

Losing to the Yankees is an old habit of the Indians. It has been many moons and eight long seasons since Cleveland won more games than it lost with New York.

Monday night the Indians stopped out at Detroit Griswold Stadium on Lake Erie for a single game with Chicago. They owned a minute percentage edge over the second-place New Yorkers. A clear victory would have sent them on in to New York with a chance to hold that edge — or only broken even in the two games.

Homer Did It

It didn't work out that way. The same White Sox who bowed to Bob Lemon on a single hit on opening day collected eight against him Monday night and won the game, 2-1. The Indians weren't able to concentrate against Billy Pierce. The lefthander gave up seven hits, all harmless except for Bobby Avila's second home run, in picking up his 38th win against a single setback.

The Cleveland-Chicago contest was the only regular action in either league Monday.

Starting today all the National League teams will be in the West and all the American league in the East for the first time this season. Along with the Indians in New York, the American League schedule shows St. Louis in Philadelphia, Chicago in Boston and Detroit in Washington. All are night games.

In the National League Brooklyn invades Chicago for the only day contests. The others are in St. Louis, Pittsburgh in Cincinnati and New York in Milwaukee.

The White Sox got their winning run against Cleveland in the eighth inning when Minnie Minoso and Sherman Lollar singled with two out and Chico Carrasquel doubled home Minoso.

Avila's homer had tied the score in the seventh after the White Sox had taken an early lead in the fifth on a single, double and base by Jim Rivera, a sacrifice and a ground out by Pierce. Rivers led the Chicago attack with three singles.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankees of 1953 won the American League pennant by the runaway margin of 17 games, and yet not a man on Joe McCarthy's shifting staff that year won more than 15 victories. Red Ruffing and Lefty Gomez each racked up 15, Marius Russo 14, Spud Chandler 10, Ernie Bonham, Atley Donald and Marv Breuwer nine each, and Johnny Murphy, the great reliever, eight.

Cleveland's record of trading away the wrong players must be without parallel. Gene Woodling, current leader of the Yankees' attack, belonged to the Indians originally, but they dealt him to Pittsburgh in 1946 for a second-string catcher named Al Lopez. The Tribe's swap of Allie Reynolds for Joe Gordon looked good at the time, and a dependable second-baseman helped them win a pennant in 1948, but Reynolds now has helped pitch the Yanks to five world championships, going on six. The deal which sent Minoso to Chicago White Sox is of too painfully recent memory to require comment.

We saw doubt expressed in print again the other day that a fast-ball pitcher actually can make the sphere rise, or "jump" as it reaches the batter. The argument, as usual, was that such a feat is against all the laws of nature. All we know is that we've seen Feller, Rapa a dozen catchers about it. Let us time or another and, without exception, they swear she hops the ozone and a lot when a good speedballer is right. Dazzy Vance told us at the last world series that he had many days when his famous fast one was jumping as close to six inches. They'd call for a look at that ball after nearly every pitch," he chuckled.

We note by the Mid-West papers that there's a threat of bad blood between Chicago and Milwaukee since the Braves moved out that way. The Chicago dailies, claiming that Milwaukee is within their sphere of influence, are trying to "adopt" Charlie Grimm's club and have arranged staff writers to cover them same as their own Cubs and White Sox. This is, naturally, bringing some fierce glares from the leer capital, Cubs and White Sox fans don't like it either, and are writing indignant letters to their sports editors about the fuss being made over the new kid.

'Victor Scott' Yonkers Winner

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Victor Scott turned on the speed in the stretch to beat Casanova by a nose Monday night in the Saucer Pace, feature of the first night of grand circuit racing at Yonkers Raceway.

Barry Bedell put the whip to Victor Scott with a sixteenth of a mile to go and the free-legged sidewheeler had enough to catch the pacesetter. Cash Kirk was third with the 7-5 favorite, Meadow Abbe, fourth.

Time for the mile was 2:05.2.

Guelph Loses First Game

GALT (CP)—In a pre-season exhibition baseball game, Galt Terriers of the Intercounty Senior Baseball League Monday night handed Guelph Maple Leafs their first loss of the season, 9-3.

Galt's Tex Kaiser was the big gun of the night with a perfect performance at the plate, including a triple, double and three singles. Gerry Cline of Galt and Udie Napier of Guelph hit homers.

Point Anne Claws Bobcats

Point Anne whomped Bobcats 15-2 in an exhibition softball game played last night at Alemite Park. It was the first game of the season for both clubs who were forced to slog through the nine innings in a light rain.

Hunter and Pat Maracle divided the hurling chores for the winners and kept the Bobcat bats well under control. Dowsett was on the hill for the losers.

The teams:

Bobcats: Temple, catcher; Dowsett, pitcher; H. Powers, first base; Old, third base; Miller, shortstop; Massey, second base; Conway, left field; Nelson, centre field; R. Powers, right field.

Point Anne: Elliott, centre field; Mulholland, centre field; Knull, shortstop; Mallory, left field; Green, catcher; Woods, third base; Buchanan, first base; Maracle, second base; Hunter, pitcher.

Campanella Rides Crest of Hot Hitting Wave

NEW YORK (AP)—Fast ball, curve, slider, change up, knuckler —Roy Campanella is hitting 'em all and with plenty of power.

The 31-year-old Brooklyn Dodger catcher is on a torrid hitting streak, banging him to the top in almost every major batting department this week.

In his last five games, Campy has collected 12 hits in 21 at bats, five home runs and 18 runs batted in.

Roy isn't the National League's leading batter—yet. He's second to Johnny Wyrostek of Philadelphia Phillies. But the stocky backstop is hitting a cool .390, is tops in homers with 10 and in RBI's with 38.

When Campanella won the NL's most valuable player prize in 1951, he batted .325, scored 33 home runs and knocked in 108. If he continues anything close to his present pace, he's a cinch to eclipse each of those marks.

Wyrostek, with 3-for-13, tailed off 45 points last week but still paces the senior circuit with .406.

In the American League, Boston's George Kell leads with .395, a drop of 20 points. The Red Sox third sacker got three hits in 11 times at bat last week. Records for Sunday's games:

Cal Abrams of Pittsburgh Pirates is the National League's third leading batter with a .373 average. He had 6-11 and moved up from 10th place.

Behind Kell in the American League comes Cleveland's Al Rosen. The Cleveland third baseman dropped off 18 points to .362.

Mel Parnell of Boston Red Sox and Milwaukee's Max Surkont, each with four wins and no defeats, are the leading major league pitchers.

Close Fight In International

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The International Baseball League clubs are bunched together as they hardly la breathing room.

All eight teams took it easy Monday, after heavy going during the week-end, and get back into action tonight. The outcome of these four games may give an idea which club is likely to go which way.

Rochester Red Wings, whose Harry Walker led them to the Governor's Cup last season, are on top of this scramble, and only 1-2 games behind are the last-place Springfield Cubs.

Rochester has won seven games against five losses and has a .583 average. Montreal Royals and Buffalo Bisons are tied for second place with eight victories apiece. The Als are two games in front. With .563 are Toronto Maple Leafs, who hold a 9-7 record.

Tonight Rochester takes on the Cubs at Springfield. Which team will have sole possession of second spot will be decided when Montreal plays host to Buffalo.

Ottawa Athletics will greet Toronto. The A's are two games behind the leaders in seventh place.

Fifth-place Baltimore and Syracuse Chiefs who are next, will meet on Orioles' home grounds.

Musial Changes Batting Stance

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Stan (the Man) Musial looked his batting slump square in the face Monday in hopes of ending the jinx once and for all.

The six-time National League hitting champion decided he needed more than a pinch-hitter with himself. He has had only one hit in 23 trips to the plate. His batting average has slumped nearly 100 points in a week to .233.

So he asked for special practice on St. Louis Cardinals' day off on the league schedule. Manager Eddie Stanky obliged.

When it was all over—about 50 minutes later, sweat dripped from Stan's face. But he figured maybe he'd discovered a few things and he'd been doing wrong.

One was his stride; the other the way he had been holding his bat.

He found out, for instance, that in 1948 he used a 12-inch stride. That was his stride in .376 for the league title. This year his stride has been a little longer.

Later, he explained that it's an unorthodox batter who crouches over the plate even though the book says you're not supposed to.

Musial thought maybe he had been holding his bat too low.

Stanky didn't appear to be worried about the slump Musial has been in batting slumps before and come out of them.

London Majors Whip Panthers

KITCHENER (CP) — London Majors Monday night defeated Kitchener Panthers 5-2 in an Inter-county Senior Baseball League pre-schedule game.

A five-run rally by Don Mays in the top of the sixth proved the winning blow for the Westerners. Panthers' righthander Rolly Lacourse walked three in a row with one out. He then had bases for May's big blow.

Mayers had already hit 2-1 before May's clout on the strength of a two-run single by Russ Evon in the second inning.

JOCKEY HURT

BOSTON (AP)—Jockey Bobby Permane, who survived a terrific spill in 1949, was in hospital today with a broken right collar-bone after being tossed at Suffolk Downs.

The 29-year-old rider was thrown Monday when his mount, Andre, went to his knees right after the field left the gate for the featured seventh race. He'll probably be out of action four to six weeks.

Doris Hart Beats 'Lil Mo' In Stunning Upset

ROME (AP)—Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., achieved one of the year's most stunning tennis upsets Monday when she conquered Maureen Connolly, America's triple crown holder, in an exhausting three-set match for Rome's international championship.

The scores were 4-6, 9-7, 6-3 in the bitter battle which saw little Mo of San Diego, Calif., fight off five set points before she finally yielded the 16-game second set.

The men's singles championship went to Jaroslav Drobny, the 32-year-old expatriated Czech who crushed Australia's 18-year-old Lewis Hoad with almost unbelievable ease, 6-2, 6-1, 6-2. It took the left-handed Drobny just 60 minutes to finish the job.

'Alley Cats' Retain Lead In Spring Loop

The Alley Cats of the Spring Bowling League are sharpening their claws in order to get a firm hold on the loop championship.

The "Bowling Kitties" are out in front of the pack by nine points despite the fact they were edged 4-3 by the Quinte Distributors last night. Pinfalls were 2582 and 2455 respectively.

In the other games Trihards (2737) and G. H. Woods (2554) were five point winners over Canada Cement (3624) and Orders (3359). Kirkwood Stories (3526) edged Combines (3555) by a 4-3 count.

The standing as of last night, with two nights to go: Alley Cats 29; Kirkwood Stories, 20; Trihards, 20; Quinte Distributors, 19; Combines, 19; G. H. Woods, 18; Orlons, 14 and Canada Cement, 12.

Top scorers last night were:

B. Panke 833 (360); W. Adams 832 (366) J. Elliott 820; J. Moon 800; J. Corlies 777 (343); G. Bellis 768; J. Lessell 764; W. Rawson 737; F. Bailey 740; M. Callaghan 725; D. Hall 717; C. Boycott Forces Track to Cancel Opening Date

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Confronted with an all-out boycott by horsemen and jockeys, the Hollywood Turf Club late Monday called off its opening today.

The announcement was made by the track board of directors. "There will be no racing Tuesday at Hollywood Park. The racing cannot be properly presented to the public because the horsemen have refused to enter enough horses," the brief statement said.

Track employees were instructed not to come to work today, which seemed to indicate that perhaps the $12,000,000 racing plant might not even open the next day.

At the last count, only 38 horses had been entered in the inaugural 40-race program, and only one horses was named to race in the $25,000 Premiere Handicap.

The directors met Monday behind closed doors. There was no indication about their stand against granting demands of the members of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association for 40 per cent of the track's share of the pari-mutuel handle for purse money.

The track has argued that its $2,500,000 stakes and purse program, a record figure for any $200,000 more than it was obligated to give, is as high as it will go.

Hawkers Win Bakelite Title

Hawkers are the 1952-53 champions of the Bakelite Bowling League.

Harry Hawkshaw's squad came through with flying colors to defeat Kitchener-Waterloo for the glory with a total pinfall of 3384 and 2839 racked up by the runners-up.

Close play featured the league activities down through the schedule with only eight pins separating the top team to the eighth at one time. Hawkers won the first series with the Yankers taking the second and both battling for the championship.

$40,000 Fire Loss at Lindsay

LINDSAY (CP) — A $40,000 fire Monday destroyed the three-storey plant of J. A. Arnberg Co. Ltd., and for a time threatened a large warehouse and offices of National Grocers Ltd.

The fire broke out in a pile of sawdust at the rear of the factory and was extinguished by firemen from the station across the street. It broke out a second time and spread to the interior of the building before firemen could bring it under control. The factory makes candy sticks.

Gil Turner KO's Lombardo

BROOKLYN (AP)—Gil Turner, perpetual-motion man of Philadelphia, wore down Johnny Lombardo with a ceaseless attack and then stopped the Mount Carmel, Pa., middleweight in one minute of the seventh round of their 10-rounder Monday night at Eastern Parkway Arena. Turner, a 3-to-1 favorite, weighed 152, a half-pound more than Lombardo.

For three rounds Lombardo matched the fast-punching welterweight contender blow for blow but he faded under the rapid pace. From then on it was all Turner.

Although there were no knockdowns, Lombardo sagged in the fourth and fifth rounds under the fury of Turner's attack.

They were remanded to May 19 on $5,000 bail each. The two were charged in connection with an attack Friday night on Gabriel Chauvin, 34, who was beaten and robbed by two men.

Insurance is professional
Insurance today is a complex subject.
It takes a lot of study for us to keep on new and improved types of insurance.
It takes a lot of experience to advise you what kinds of insurance you should carry — how to combine policies to give you the most insurance for the least money, etc.
We hope to merit the same degree of confidence that you have in your doctor and lawyer.

St. Laurent Pays Tribute to U.S. War Dead

In Washington to confer with President Eisenhower regarding the St. Lawrence Seaway plan, situation in the Far East and in Europe, Canada's Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, is seen as he placed a wreath at the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington National Cemetery. During the two-day talks, the two leaders paid particular attention to the seaway project, and as a result it was reported that Eisenhower and his cabinet had agreed that U.S. should participate in vital construction. — Central Press Canadian.

"By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The best final contract can be decided only after a pair swaps all the information they can. Most of this is done with bids that give forth their most natural meanings.

However, some advices cannot be told in this manner. For this reason a system may enlist the aid of an artificial convention rather than deny its followers the benefit of some needed safeguard.

The purpose of an ace and king showing convention is clear to all sensible players. It is to advise when a slam of some kind is reasonably safe; when a grand slam is unsafe.

A deal we discussed is shown here:

	NORTH
	♠ K Q J 10 6 4
	♦ Q 8 2
	♣ A 5 3
WEST		EAST
♠ 9 3		♠ A 7 5 2
♥ Q 10 8		♥ 7 5 3
♦ 10 5 4 2		♦ J 9 7
♣ 10		♣ J 8 6
	SOUTH
	♥ A K 7 4 2
	♦ A K 7 6
	♣ K Q 9 4

The bidding should go like this:

South	North
1 H	2 S
3 D	3 S
4 NT	5 H
6 NT	Pass

The immediate jump takeout by north shows south enough to think in terms of a slam of some kind. But there is no reason to be bullheaded about it until the safety features have been explored.

With plenty of time, south shows his diamond suit to learn what else north can tell him. Even when north rebids spades, south is not advised at what he should be their trump suit.

When slam is evident and a satisfactory trump suit is not, a player has recourse to no-trump. Thereafter his reliance must be placed in enough aces and kings for the size of the slam.

Four no-trump asks for aces and kings. Five hearts is reply for showing only one ace and one king. This tells south a grand slam will not make. He must be content with what he can get.

Little Benny's Note Book

It was pritty near time for me to go to bed last nite, and I said, Hay, pop, hap ma, can you blame people for making a natural mistake?

You can, but you shouldn't, pop said, and ma said, Everybody has the rite to be mistaken with the best of intentions, that's one of the reasons we live in a democracy.

Well suppose I actually get twisted in the cellender and think tomorrow is Saturday instead of Tuesday, so I just stay in bed instead of getting up? I said, and pop said it's an intriting supposition, and with your gifted imagination it mite even lie in the realm of possibility, but dont worry about it. It's a million to one shot that your mother and I wont get twisted in the cellender, so there's every chance that we'll call you promptly as usual, he said.

Yes, we can promise you faithfully, so have a good nite's rest with an easy mind, ma said and I sai', But jimminies, I'd think you were rolling me just because you thought it was a good idea to get up in the morning on general principals, even on Saturdays, so by the time I got up it would be too late to go to school without spoiling the class record for early-ness, especially if you forgot to keep on calling me.

You win theoretically, that's as far as I'll go, pop said, and ma said, I wont even go that far, for land sakes.

The result being I got up this morning as usual the 2nd time I was called, either because I knew it wasn't Saturday or because I was almost positive it wouldn't work.

Sport in Brief

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel brought his champion New York Yankees home from their training session yesterday, convinced Cleveland is the team to beat for the American League pennant.

They're the best in the league if the Yankees aren't," said the $100,000-a-year brain trust, who is seeking his fifth straight world baseball championship.

"We've only played them one game (won by the Yankees, 11-1) but the records are enough to convince us they're the boys who are going to give us the most trouble."

Yawning feet at Stengel and his rivals in action, Stengel anticipates rough going for his proteges all down the line with Boston Red Sox "the most improved."

"If that's a very good young ball club," he added, "you have to hustle all the way to beat 'em."

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Stuart Lare, president and general manager of a manufacturing plant here, is trying to get a place on the St. Thomas pitching staff in the Intersociety Senior Baseball League.

Giants' Ace Yet to Yield An Earned Run

NEW YORK (AP) — Hoyt Wilhelm, the New York Giants' reliefpitcher, is bucking baseball's second year jinx this season, but he's having even better success than he did in his rookie campaign.

Earned run averages compiled by The Associated Press revealed today that Wilhelm, who topped the National League in that department in 1952 with 2.43, has yet to yield an earned run in the 27 innings he's worked. The 29-year-old knuckleball ace has won two games and lost one.

Lary pitched for Montreal Royals when he was owned by Brooklyn Dodgers.

NEW YORK (AP)—Alfred G. Vanderbilt, owner of the beaten favorite, had the last word Monday in the wordy debate about the bumping of Native Dancer by Money Broker in the Kentucky Derby.

Vanderbilt, who has had little to say during the argument as to whether the bump was intentional, issued this statement at Belmont Park:

"In order to correct a misquotation, I wish to state that I did not at any time say or imply that Native Dancer was deliberately bumped or fouled in the Kentucky Derby."

AT THE DRIVE-IN THEATRE

"Two Tickets to Broadway"

Unable to break into big-time show business in New York as a singer, Tony Martin is about to go back home when, on a bus station, he meets Janet Leigh, a small-town gal just arriving to crash the stage. It is love at first sight. Eddie Bracken, Tony's fasttalking manager, cooks up an elaborate hoax in an effort to get Tony, Janet and some showgirl clients on Bob Crosby's television show. Backing for the act is secured from the owners of a delicatessen. Furious when no word is heard from Crosby, Janet storms in to see him, learns the whole thing was a trick, wrongfully blames Tony and decides to go back home. Next, Tony, also mad, barges in on Crosby, who agrees to give him and the girls a spot on the show. At the last minute Bracken finds Janet and rushes her back to finish the act, which scores triumphantly.

Brantford Edges Waterloo 1-0

BRANTFORD (CP)—Brantford Red Jackets defeated Waterloo 1-0 Monday night in a pre-season exhibition Intercounty Senior Baseball League game. Veteran pitcher Alf Gavey pitched for the winners. Catcher Clifford ran the circuit for them. Red Sox Brantford second baseman Ed Finney knocked out a double.

Gavey limited the Tigers to four hits and was careful with men on bases, keeping only 10 on the bags when a hit would have meant trouble. Veteran Hank Bisanti hurled for Waterloo.

Three Children Found Hungry, Dirty in Home

TORONTO (CP) — Three children were found dirty and hungry in what was described as a frightened, hungry and dirty condition in a west-end Toronto home.

Phillip and David Jones, 28 months, and Brenda, 4, were taken to the Hospital for Sick Children, where one was detained and the other two turned over to the Children's Aid Society.

Neighbors, who notified police after they became worried about strange noises in their flat, said the father was separated from his wife. The mother was reported to have been in the building Monday.

Toronto Police Censured in Court

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto police were censured in court Monday because they allowed an abortion to be performed on an unmarried woman so they could get evidence.

Judge Robert Forsyth criticized the police when the court was told that the woman went to officers after making arrangements for the operation in her home but told them she didn't want to go through with it. Two women were charged with the abortion.

Charles Dubin, defence counsel for the women, said police ordered her to keep the appointment. He said an officer hid in the house and rushed into the room where the operation was taking place when the woman screamed.

Judge Forsyth said: "I do not think the action of the police is entirely clear of criticism. I know they did it with the best of intentions but they should not have aided in the commission of a crime."

The accused were placed on a two-year suspended sentence.

THRONGS SEE BLOSSOMS

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Boston, Ont., suburb's warm weather brought bumper-to-bumper traffic to the Niagara peninsula Sunday. Sightseers in thousands of automobiles thronged the highlines lined by this district's famous fruit trees. Despite the heavy traffic, there were only minor accidents.

Many Relatives Attend Family Birthday Party

Marmora—About 75 relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Davidson assembled at their home on Victoria Avenue recently, in honor of the former's 74th birthday. The evening was spent in bingo, cards and dancing.

About midnight the gathering was called to order and Earl Rombough, of Foxboro, read an address of felicitation and Mrs. John Davidson made the presentation of a purse of money, following which pleasing refreshments were served.

All of Mr. Davidson's immediate family were present with the exception of his daughter, Mrs. Howard Allison (Clara), of Brantford. Those present were Mrs. Simon Matthews (Grace), Bonarlaw; Mrs. Ira Vesterfelt (Ida), Marmora; Mrs. Lloyd Brown (Alma), Marmora; Mrs. Howard Duncan (Alice), Frankford; Thomas Davidson, Kingston, and Douglas Davidson, Marmora.

Three sisters and one brother were also present, namely, Mrs. George Lee (Elizabeth), Madoc township; Mrs. John Willman (Ailee), Madoc; Mrs. Carol Rombough (May), Foxboro and William Davidson, Marmora township.

SILENT CARILLON

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP)—Enthusiasts waited in vain to hear carillon here, then officials investigated. The carillonneur, Selwyn Baker, was found imprisoned in a stalled elevator which had to be broken open.

Workers Return After Strike

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Drivers and mechanics employed by the Windsor branch of Kingsway Transports, Ltd., returned to work Monday following a week-long strike.

Major point of difference between the employees, members of local 20, Teamsters' Union, (AFL), and the company was dismissal of two drivers. The dispute will be arbitrated later this week by Eric Taylor of Toronto, chairman of a three-man conciliation board which met here during the week-end to consider other problems.

Mr. Taylor and the other two members met to hear differences between the union and major truck operators but the Kingsway strike came up for discussion. The hearings were adjourned Monday after a three-day session.

SECURITY TALKS

HONOLULU (AP)—A high level closed door conference which may provide the basis for a new security policy in the Pacific opened at Pearl Harbor Monday. State, defence and interior department representatives from Washington and top navy commanders from the Pacific and Far East gathered in Honolulu for the four-day talks.

Officials and Hockey Stars Take Part in Store Opening

Civic and municipal dignitaries as well as high-ranking company officials were present at the opening of the Bata Shoe Company's newest store on Front St.

Mayor A. McLeon Haig, pictured above second from the left in conjunction with Warden Jack Kincaid, of Hastings County, officiated in the "ribbon-cutting." Third from the left is Dr. C. K. Herz, vice-president of the company. Last but by no means least, and the idol of the eyes of Belleville's young hockey fandom, are those stars of the world champion Montreal Canadiens, Maurice "The Rocket" Richard and Kenny Mosdell, brilliant centre player, who were here to "guard" the famous Stanley Cup, a feature of the new store's opening display.

Mrs. John Craig Talks To St. Andrew's W.M.S.

Shannonville — Shannonville United Church W.M.S. monthly meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Orval Stratton, on Thursday with 17 women, four children in attendance. Mrs. L. W. Scott presided and opened the meeting by reading a lovely poem on the beauty of spring, also a reading from the "Onward", and most graciously welcomed the visitors.

A card of thanks was read from Mrs. Sager and family for the card of sympathy they received at the time of their bereavement. A note of thanks was also read from Mrs. Alfred Little for the card sent during her illness.

Mrs. Claude Clarke gave a temperance reading, after which Mrs. Gerald Stratton, group leader, took charge and read a poem from the Missionary Monthly. The theme for the month was "The United Nations and Missions."

Mrs. William Houston read the Scripture lesson from 1 Cor.

Mrs. Gerald Stratton gave an interesting reading and called on the guest speaker, Mrs. John Craig, who gave a splendid talk on the appearance of Jesus to His disciples "After they had fished all night and caught nothing. Jesus told them to cast their nets again and they obeyed Him and this time they were successful. Jesus then cooked fish for them and asked Peter the question, "Loves thou me?" "Love to Him is the supreme test of our spiritual life our W.M.S. was born in prayer," said Mrs. Craig, who left many challenging thoughts with those who heard her.

Mrs. Craig is a fine speaker and a most enthusiastic missionary worker, also president of St. Andrew's Presbyterian W.M.S. Belleville.

Mrs. Craig was thanked for her fine talk by the group leader, Mrs. Scott, who also spoke briefly, voicing her appreciation to Mrs. Craig for her inspiring message, and also to the hostess for her hospitality.

Mrs. W. S. Dies dismissed the meeting, after which Mrs. Stratton and her assistants served bountiful refreshments. A social time was enjoyed.

Opposition Parties Demand Better Deal for Veterans

OTTAWA (CP)—Members of opposition parties joined forces Monday in the House of Commons to repeat demands for a better deal for Canada's war veterans, particularly the elderly recipients of war veterans' allowances.

From Veterans Minister Lapointe they received the reply that the government is giving continued study to the suggestions, but they would be costly. He indicated that nothing would be done at this time.

In reply to a question by Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) as to whether the government was "opposed" to increasing the allowance rates and increasing the ceiling on permissible income, the minister said:

"There is no provision before Parliament for any immediate changes to the act."

Wants Allowances Raised

In the main opposition spokesmen pressed the government to raise allowances paid to "burnout" pensioners 60 and over to $60 from $50 for single veterans and $120 from $90 a month for married veterans—the scale asked by the Canadian Legion.

They suggested, too, that veterans and their widows and children should get the benefit of the doubt in borderline pension cases. Some like W. Chester S. McLure (PC—Queens) thought veterans—now restricted to an outside income of $120 a year—be allowed to earn any sum without reduction of their pensions.

Mr. Lapointe said to raise the permissible income ceiling to $1,200 a year for singe men and $2,000 a year for married men would qualify at least 8,000 veterans for allowances. Another 8,000 would qualify at least 8,000 veterans for would boost the cost considerably.

At the morning sitting the CCF moved a motion that the government consider increasing old age and blind pensions "commensurate with the cost of living."

Motion Defeated

Mr. Knowles, who moved the motion on behalf of his party, made it clear the increase should be to $60 from the present $40 a month.

In a subsequent vote the Liberal majority defeated the motion by a count of 69 to 20. The Progresive Conservatives and Social Creditors supported the CCF amendment.

Allies Hand Reds New Blueprint For Armistice

Sweeping 11-Point Plan For Exchanging Prisoners

By GEORGE A. McARTHUR

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The United Nations command today handed the communists on new blueprint for an armistice in Korea. It was a sweeping 11-point plan for exchanging prisoners of war, last big roadblock to a truce.

The Allies would free 34,000 North Koreans who refuse to go home and—on certain conditions—give temporary custody of 14,500 balky Chinese to a five-country commission made up of Sweden, Switzerland, Poland, Czechoslovakia and India.

The communists called the proposal a "step backward" and said the Allied attitude "threatens the prospects of the whole armistice negotiations."

The broad plane — a counter-proposal to one advanced by the communists nearly a month ago—left pending Allied position that no prisoner will be sent home against his will.

After the lengthy document was read a spokesman for communists commented acidly, the truce delegations adjourned until Thursday morning.

Lt-Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr., senior Allied delegate, presented the plan to his communist counterpart, Lt-General Nam Il, in a one-hour, 40-minute session.

Proposals of Allies

The Allies proposed:

1. Repatriation of prisoners immediately after an armistice, except those refusing to go home. Releasing to civilian status those prisoners of Korean nationality unwilling to return to Red rule. Releasing all non-Korean prisoners who persist in refusing to return to communist control after 60 days custody of a neutral commission.

2. Conditional acceptance of the Communist nomination of India, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Sweden and Switzerland as members of the custodial commission—only if India heads the body and provides any troops needed.

3. Rejection of the Reds' proposal that a political conference determine the fate of prisoners refusing to go home after being in neutral custody.

Permitted to Explain

The Allied plan voiced no objection to the Red proposal that representatives of the communist governments be permitted to explain things to reluctant prisoners. However, the Allies warned against any effort to intimidate or force the prisoners.

Nam sneered coldly that the Allied had not accepted the communist proposal—the Reds had put it on an "all or nothing basis"—but taken "a step backwards from the three-point proposals put forward in the letter of April 26 by your side."

The Allies had nominated Switzerland as a neutral to handle all reluctant prisoners.

"Obviously," Nam went on, "this is not an attitude that should be taken in the negotiations, but one that threatens the prospects of the whole armistice negotiations."

HUGE DISCORD

MONTREAL (CP)—An Anglican bishop whose diocese covers more than 600,000 square miles mentioned the need for more clergy there, Rt. Rev. Reginald J. Pierce, bishop of Athabasca, told the Montreal Diocesan Theological College that it is equivalent to ministering to people in 23 parishes and 61 missions.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP)—Synopsis: After several days of warm sunny weather, localities throughout the lower Great Lakes will find it rather unpleasantly cool for the next few days. Overnight, cold air which has kept northern areas of the province below the freezing mark for three days and more which caused the thermometer to drop to eight above zero at Nakina Tuesday night, has swept southward to the shores of Lake Erie and Ontario. Tonight and Thursday night gardeners, especially those in low lying areas, may expect frost.

Baby Bonus Wends Way Into Carriage

Guess I'll just have to throw it out.

Hmmmm, maybe I'll have a look inside the bag.

What! did I say garbage?—It's money!

This was the train of thought Tuesday night for Frank Corry, 35, an elevator operator, as he found a paper bag filled with $60 in cash in the empty baby carriage of his two-year-old child. The carriage had been left in an apartment house hallway.

Police said they were looking for the owner, hoping to trace him through some names of papers found with the money.

Hog Prices Soar To Year's High

Orders from Toronto and Montreal combined with a scarcity of hogs to boost the price to $31.50 a hundredweight—highest this year. Sales, the body which handles pig marketing in Ontario, said farmers delivered their herds early this year when federal price support of $28 a hundredweight was removed.

For a time pig prices fell to $22 but started to rise as the scarcity was felt.

Salesmen said they expect a "good run" of hogs toward the end of August as farmers go back into pig production for the higher prices.

Farmers Fined For Starting Fires

FORT FRANCES (CP) — Three Rainy River district farmers received stiff fines up to $200 apiece Tuesday after being found guilty of starting fires which destroyed thousands of acres of bushland and destroyed several buildings.

Magistrate A. Lamothe levied fines with the Crown attorney that the fines, which could have been disastrous but for week-end rainstorms, were the result of carelessness.

Child Feeds Baby Sister Four Days While Mother Was Dead in Bed

BLOXWICH, England (Reuters) —Ever since Christmas four-year-old Jeanette Cockayne played mother with her doll. Suzette, who is about the size of baby sister Carol.

She fed Suzette regularly with bottle.

One day in April Jeanette's mother, Mrs. Jean Cockayne, 27, lay still on her bed. Jeanette tried to awaken her because she was hungry and eight-month-old Carol was crying for her bottle.

Jeanette did not know that her mother had died in a diabetic coma.

Her father, policeman Gilbert Cockayne, was out of town. The house was empty and little sister Carol kept crying.

Jeanette was too short to reach the door lock to get out and bring help. She tried knocking on the windows and waving to passing neighbors. They just waved back.

So she decided to take over where mother left off. She got her doll's feeding bottle, filled it with water and fed baby sister Carol.

"I used to watch mummy give Carol her bottle," Jeanette said Tuesday night. "I gave it to her lots of times."

She was but tall enough to reach the cookie jar on the kitchen shelf. She shared the treats with her baby sister. She ate the rest and washed the dishes.

For four days this went on and still nobody came "to help me look after mummy."

Then a neighbor noticed too many milk bottles on the doorsteps' front step. A housewife climbed a ladder to the bedroom window to Jeanette in to stand on a chair and open the door.

They found Mrs. Cockayne dead in her bed. And little Carol was smiling and healthy.

The story was revealed here Tuesday night—a month after Jeanette mothered the little sister.

The children are being cared for by their grandparents in this village. Nobody has told Jeanette that her mother is dead. She thinks they have taken her to hospital.

EXPLOSION FORCES CREW TO JETTISON SECRET PLANE

Test Pilot and Another Airman Believed Lost

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—An explosion forced the crew of a mothering bomber to jettison a highly secret rocket plane Tuesday night, and sent them spilling from 40,000 feet over Lake Ontario.

The chief test pilot of the Bell Aircraft Corp., and another crew member were feared lost. The B-50 bomber was carrying the experimental Bell X-2, reported capable of flying at speeds well over 1,000 miles an hour.

A widespread search was on today for the two men, but scant hope was held that they survived.

Landed Safe' Damaged

It was reported that the parachute of the test pilot, Jean L. Ziegler, landed safely.

The other crew member whom the aircraft firm declined to identify except to say he was a Bell employee, was reported to have parachuted from the bomber.

A Bell spokesman said no one was in the X-2 when it was dropped into the lake about 15 miles from Rochester.

It was indicated that both men dropped out of the four-engine mother plane, which was damaged but landed safely here.

The spokesman said the explosion was aboard the mother ship. But he explained that the X-2 was damaged and that the complicated mechanisms of carrying a "parasite" plane made it difficult to be certain that the X-2 itself did not explode.

He said the firm had been unable to determine the cause of the explosion.

Faster Than Sound

The Bell X-2 is believed to be capable of flying much faster than the speed of sound. It's predecessor, the Bell X-1, has made brief test flights at speeds reported in the 1,000-miles-an-hour range. Sound travels at about 780 miles an hour at sea level.

Bell Aviak, second in the series of rocket-propelled ships built for research by the U.S. air force and States government, is expected to be tested this summer at Edwards Air Force base, Calif., where the X-1 broke the sound barrier.

The X-2 is reported to be faster than either of the previous models. Bell is known to have more planes of the X-2 type.

Bell officials said the B-50 carried a crew of nine, but declined to identify immediately the pilot who landed safely in the lake.

They reported that one crew member, Robert Walters, 27, of Buffalo, suffered an eye injury and burns on both arms as a result of the explosion. No one else was injured, a spokesman said.

Statements in British House Arouse U.S Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Dewey Short of the House of Representatives armed services committee said today Congress is tired of taking "dictation from our so-called Allies."

The Missouri Republican made the remark in joining angry congressional reaction to statements by the British House of Commons Tuesday that some Americans do not want to settle the Korean war.

Clement Attlee, former prime minister and leader of the Opposition Labor party, also raised the question whether President Eisenhower or Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep-Wis.) is running United States foreign policy.

"That's almost an insult," Short said in an interview.

McCarthy himself said that when he heard of Attlee making such statements, he recalled "the picture of him in Spain reviewing the Communist troops and giving the clenched fist salute." He had an aide bring out a picture of a group standing with raised fists, and said it showed Attlee and Spanish Communist leaders at a review during the civil war.

Representative Lawrence H. Smith (Rep. Wis.) said in a separate interview he had removed from Europe convinced the European "would not defend themselves" against a Russian attack. He said the entire American-supported military buildup is a "questionable venture."

One exception, who requested anonymity, said a number of influential congressmen had voiced similar to those expressed by Smith, who has consistently opposed European military buildup, and although he is chairman of the European subcommittee of the House foreign affairs committee.

Representative John Voys (Rep-O., commenting on Attlee's speech, said: "I'm sure that American foreign policy is not being run by Attlee or any other Britisher, and I'm glad of it."

RECORD ATLANTIC HOP

Warton, England (AP) — Two Canberra jet bombers broke all speed records for Atlantic crossings during a casual ferry hop from here to Gander, Nfld., it was announced Tuesday night. The jets sped westward Monday from England to Newfoundland in four hours 36 minutes — an unofficial average speed of 492 miles an hour.

The official record crossing of the Atlantic is 483.19 mph, established in August 1951 by Wing Cmdr. Roland Beamont in a Canberra from Aldergrove, Northern Ireland, to Gander.

Calgary Youth Knifed to Death

CALGARY (CP)—Brian Snell, 17, of Calgary, was knifed to death Tuesday night. Police arrested 17-year-old Robert Ronald Yokeys 1½ hours after the knifing and charged him with Snell's murder.

Police said a fight took place at a house where Snell and another friend were visiting two girls. They said that Yokeys was an uninvited guest at the house and that he and Snell started a fight in the back yard.

Natives Convicted Of Cannibalism

EAST LONDON, South Africa (Reuters)—Four Africans were sentenced to six months hard labor each here today for eating human flesh.

The four—two women and two men—cut off portions of flesh from the body of a white woman, an Irish missionary nun, killed in a native riot.

The four ate the flesh because they believed it contained magic, they testified.

The nun, Dr. Elsie Quinlan, was killed when her car was overturned and set on fire in a native riot here Nov. 9, 1952. Seven Africans were killed in the fighting.

HOUSE MINGLES COMPLIMENTS, HOT FEELING

Drew, Macdonald Made Members Privy Council

OTTAWA (CP)—The House of Commons passed from gracious compliments to hot personal feeling Tuesday as speeches moved through the waning hours of this 21st Parliament. The end of its sittings are expected today or Thursday.

The compliments went to George Drew, the 59-year-old leader of the official Opposition, and to Speaker Ross Macdonald, 61, with announcement that they and 2 other members of the official Coronation delegation have been made members of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada.

The others are Rt. Hon. Thibaudeau Rinfret, 73, chief justice of Canada, and Senator Elie Beaubien, 83, speaker of the Senate.

The appointments entitle them to use the term honorable with their names for life and to sit with a body which rarely sits. The Privy Council is the official cabinet which endorses and supports executive acts of the powers.

Consists of 43 Men

The Canadian Privy Council consists of 43 men, including all members of the present cabinet, living members of former cabinets and a few outstanding outsiders such as the Duke of Windsor and Earl Alexander, former governor-general. Mr. Drew becomes the first leader of the official Opposition in Canada to be admitted to the Queen in this honorary capacity while holding the position he now holds.

Prime Minister St. Laurent told the House in announcing the appointments that it was felt they would be fitting in view of the fact the four men will play prominent roles in the Coronation delegation. His announcement was applauded by the members and described by Gordon Graydon (PC—Peel-Wimipeg North Centre) as "a graceful gesture" by Mr. St. Laurent.

The atmosphere was typical of a Parliament which can swing from one mood to another with the flick of a caustic tongue. But caustic tongues were not lacking Tuesday as the weary remnants of the membership—many have gone home—pounded through nine hours of sitting before it was all over at 10 p. m.

Percy Wright (CCF—Melford) sparked a brief revival of a feud with Trade Minister Howe and challenged the latter to a debate before the bar of the House to answer charges by Congress secretary-controller Roy Mulner.

Wright rattled into the House a battle that started in a committee when Mr. Wright compared Mr. Mulner's letter in the welfare fight the farmers He said that making Farmers Union a party to the setting of grain commissioners was like putting a "weasel in a chicken house . . . He wants the fox and chickens for what he can get out of them."

Destroyer Pulls Alongside Carrier To Take on Fuel in Mid-Atlantic

By DAVE MCINTOSH

ABOARD HMS MAGNIFICENT (CP)—The cocky destroyer Sioux pulled alongside this flat-top in a choppy mid-Atlantic sea Tuesday to take on supplies.

Sioux, sleek, 2,600-ton destroyer, came abreast of the 17,700-ton Magnificent, lines were fixed across the 150 feet of water separating them and the six-inch oil line was hauled aboard by Magnificent crew.

It's a tricky operation on a windy day and the ships must keep exactly stretches of 25 feet enabled the ships to keep approximately the same distance apart.

Sioux dropped back aft of the carrier after refueling to take up her customary station during flying operations from the Magnificent. Both squadrons of Avengers and Sea Furies got airborne. One returned when it couldn't raise its undercarriage for normal flight.

It was only the second time since Canada's Coronation squadron left Halifax last Thursday that the weather has been good enough for the Furies to take off.

The cruiser Ontario, once and Ontario, meanwhile, carried out dummy torpedo attack on the carrier and gave their anti-aircraft guns a workout. The Quebec was getting along nicely after making her own repairs on a burst main steam joint in the engine room, the job which normally is done only in dockyard.

The joint burst just before the cruiser left Halifax, forcing her to put back into port for repairs. One of the most ticklish parts of the job was fashioning a 400-pound ring into place while the ship was taking a buffeting from the weather.

The squadron was some 800 miles off Spithead Tuesday night. The four ships are due there Friday where, joined by the frigates La Hulloise and Swansea, they will participate in the royal naval review June 15.

Anglo-Egyptian Dispute Over Suez Zone Worsens

British Charge 30 Attacks Made on Troops in Area

LONDON (AP)—Three landing craft loaded with Royal Marine Commandos sailed under secret orders from the Mediterranean for Port Said at the northern end of the Suez Canal today.

There was no official announcement of their destination, but speculation immediately was that they would reinforce Britain's Suez garrison. Egypt's premier, Maj.-Gen. Mohammed Naguib, has threatened to oust British forces from the zone with Egyptian blood if necessary.

The admiralty reported that the 8,000-ton light cruiser Bermuda now is at Port Said, in the canal zone, but declined to comment on unofficial reports that four Royal Navy destroyers — Cumberland, Chevriot, Chequers and Chevron—had been rushed to the area.

An army spokesman, announcing the shift of the marines, said: "certain movements of the Royal Marine Commandos have been approved as a precautionary measure."

His announcement came shortly after Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd told the House of Commons that British soldiers in Egypt have been "ambushed, shot and assaulted" in some 30 attacks since the beginning of April.

Have No Option

Declaring that many of the attacks apparently were carried out with "at least the connivance" of members of the Egyptian armed forces, Lloyd added that "our soldiers have no option but to defend themselves."

Reports from Port Said, at the canal's northern end, said British troops were digging trenches at several points in the zone and have set up tank - supported military guards at certain crossroads.

A British Army spokesman in Cairo commented that it was also "normal responsibility of commanders to ensure at all times the security of troops and installations."

Talks Deadlocked

Anglo - Egyptian talks over Egypt's demand for the withdrawal of the 80,000 British troops in the canal zone came to a halt last Wednesday when British negotiators demanded that some 3,000 British technicians remain to keep the vast military installations in readiness.

The Egyptians refused, maintaining they could do the job themselves with only 500 British technicians.

Fuad Galal, Egypt's minister of national guidance, told a press conference in Cairo Tuesday night that the stalemated talks "can resume only on the basis of Egypt's stand which has not changed—an unconditional evacuation of the Suez base and full Egyptian control of it."

Red Sheet Loosens Up In Coverage

LONDON (AP)—The Communist Daily Worker announced today it has decided, like other British newspapers, to give the Coronation a little special attention.

Said a front-page notice:

"The Daily Worker on Saturday starts publishing a new type of Coronation cartoon.

"Every day until Coronation Day we tell, in strip cartoon form, the great story of the British people's struggle against the monarchy in the days of the Stuarts."

Paratrooper Fatally Stabbed During Quarrel

SHILO, Man. (CP)—A 23-year-old paratrooper was fatally stabbed with a hunting knife Tuesday during a washroom quarrel which allegedly followed an argument over a missing watch.

He was L-Cpl. Alvin W. Smith of Toronto.

Military men are holding Pte. R. J. Finn, 24, formerly of Ireland and recently of Camp Shilo, Man.

About 10 men were said to have been in the washroom when the fatal stabbing started. After a violent argument, Smith was stabbed in the lower left abdomen. The knife allegedly used was not army issue.

Both men were members of the 3rd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment and had been taking parachute jumps at Rivers, Man.

What Is It? Mike Would Like to Know

SAYS CITY SHOULD PROVIDE WASHROOMS

A reminder of the necessity for public washrooms being provided by the city was heard in council Monday afternoon. George DeVuyst, restaurant owner, told council that it was unfair for restaurants, hotels and service stations to be asked to provide washroom facilities for persons other than customers.

Mayor A. M. Haig assured Mr. DeVuyst that the matter was not being ignored by council. The problem was to find the right location for the washrooms," he said.

School Board Planning New School, Prince Charles Addition

The Belleville public school board is planning not only one new school in the east end of the city but is planning a six-room addition to the Prince Charles school in West Belleville as well, it was learned by city council Monday when by-laws for provision of funds for both projects were tabled.

The by-laws to provide funds for construction of both the new school and the addition, as well as for funds to purchase and develop a school site for the East Belleville school, were given first and second readings by council and will be forwarded to the Municipal Board for approval.

The by-laws called for provision of up to $15,000 for the school site; up to $262,000 for the new proposed addition at Prince Charles School.

There was little discussion by council when the by-laws were tabled, although Alderman Bryan Reid asked why the Prince Charles School had not been made larger at the time it was constructed. He wanted to know if there was any control which would have prevented a larger school at the time.

Allowed for Normal Growth.

Lawrence A. Kells, public schools representative, answered there was such a control. He said the Department of Education would not permit construction of schools larger than to take care of the enrolment estimated five years in advance.

This allowed for normal growth but did not take into consideration any possible industry building in a centre and a corresponding influx of population. When the Prince Charles school was built it was considered ample for five years.

Mayor Haig pointed out that Belleville was not alone in finding it necessary to construct new schools, but that this condition was prevalent all across Canada.

Plans call for the construction of a six-room addition at Prince Charles, with tenders for the work to be called as soon as approval is received from the provincial board. Board officials feel that the additional six rooms can be provided about as cheaply now as they could have been built at the time the school was constructed. The school was planned so as to allow just such an addition, it was pointed out.

The school board has still not definitely decided on the site for their proposed new school in East Belleville although the former Hatlow property at the corner of MacDonald and Victoria Ave. is favored. An option would be secured on the property and the board is waiting the report of an engineer as to the soil conditions of the land at this particular site.

Plans call for construction of a 13-room school, it was stated.

MRS. ETHEL VIOLET JOHNSON (Frankford)

A highly esteemed and respected resident of Frankford, Mrs. Ethel Violet Johnson, beloved wife of Gerald Johnson, died in Belleville General Hospital after an illness of twelve days — on May 2, 1953. The late Mrs. Johnson was born in Norwich, England, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Percy Tegg, came to Canada in 1919 and has been a resident of Frankford since that time.

The late Mrs. Johnson is survived by her husband, Gerald Johnson; three sisters and one brother who live in England, and one brother-in-law, Mr. Stanley Johnson and his wife of Belleville.

The deceased was a member of Holy Trinity Church, and had been a very ardent worker in the church, as well as the various women's organizations, having held office in the same in past years. She was, at the time of her death, treasurer of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Missionary Society and organist in Holy Trinity Church.

She rested at her late residence until Tuesday, May 5th, 1953, when service was conducted in Holy Trinity Anglican Church by the rector, Rev. H. C. Becker.

Interment was made in Frankford Cemetery. Bearers were Albert Caskey, Ernest Anderson, Thomas Burkett, George Spencer, Archie Thomson and Jack Patrick acted as bearers. The many floral tributes and messages of sympathy expressed the sympathy of the community to the bereaved.

Hospital Day Brings Hundreds To Inspect Facilities of Institution

More than 300 persons, divided into 15 groups, toured all departments of the Belleville General Hospital yesterday afternoon during Hospital Day when people saw for the first time how a modern hospital is run from the ground floor up. Tuesday was National Hospital Day, the anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale. The tours were conducted by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary.

Kenneth E. Bye, hospital administrator, said the turnout far exceeded his greatest expectations. He also said it was the largest showing in many years. All tours began in the administrator's office, where the guest book was signed, the tour then moved to the public wards where the guests were able to see the overcrowded conditions.

The next stop was the maternity ward on the third floor. Here again inadequate conditions were apparent to the visitors. Moving along the corridors, the tour arrived finally at the pediatric department and then to the laboratory, where the tour was introduced by Miss Mae Locke, hospital pathologist. Dr. Locke briefly described the operation of a number of pieces of equipment. The department has another technician, Miss Kitty Gaele, recently arrived from Peterborough.

After visiting the radiology department the guests were shown a display of equipment purchased for the hospital by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary and included in the display was a portable X-ray unit, an orthopedic table, inhalator resuscitator, inductator, pediatric scale, fracture simulus sterilizer, overhead table, oxygen tent, loafer chair, dresser, curtains and towels. Also included in donations from the Bessie Sigma Phi sorority were a wheel chair, layettes, knitting supplies and donations to the library.

At the conclusion of the tour the guests were invited to the nurses' residence, where refreshments were served.

Inscription on Bell Recalls Bridge St. Church Fire in 1886

With repair work on one of the largest church bells in Belleville being carried on, the fire which swept through Bridge Street United Church one Sunday morning back in January, 1886, was recalled this week by some of the older members of the congregation.

It was recalled that the fire broke out just before the morning service was about to commence and before it was brought under control the roof of the edifice had been burned off.

The building was comparatively new at the time having been constructed about 20 years previously. The structure was rebuilt, however, as it is seen today.

But with the passing of the years a defect has developed in the turret structure atop the church building and in recent years the main turret has started to lean dangerously. An out of town steeplejack firm has been employed to tear out the brick work from the one turret and rebuild it. Also caps missing from the other turrets will be replaced.

A new church bell was presented to the church when it was rebuilt following the fire. The bell was presented by the young ladies Bible class of that day.

Following is the inscription on the big bell:

"Presented to the Bridge Street United Church Tuesday, March 12th, 1897. "Dedication Day" through the efforts of 100 young ladies in The Young Ladies' Bible Class in faith that God will see it is worn and torn by the careless. C. P. Holton, teacher, M. H. Deacon, Sec., E. S. Conger, Treasurer."

Several District Soldiers on Way Home from Korea

More than one thousand officers and men, most of them members of the 1st Battalion Royal 22n. Regiment (the Van Doos), the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery and 101 Workshop, Corps of Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers, are expected to arrive at the West Coast port on Friday.

They are being rotated to Canada after a year's service in the Korean theatre of operations. Special trains will speed them to their homes across Canada.

Personnel will be processed on the trains so that all necessary administrative work will be completed before they reach their destinations.

Following is the list of officers and men returning to their areas: 2nd Lt. Gnr. RCEME, Hastings; Gnr. B. G. Cronkrite, RCA, Cobourg; Gnr. Cpl. Gray, RCA, Marmora; Gnr. K. G. Reynolds, RCA, Kingston; Gnr. T. H. Williams, RCA, Trenton; Pte. J. G. M. A. Bourgoin, R. 22e. Reg., Trenton; Pte. W. G. Post, RCOC, Havelock; Pte. W. G. Sutherby, Belleville.

Council Approves No Parking On Dundas St. East

They are going to have no parking on Dundas St. East, day and night, on either side of the above street both day and night.

There was some objection from council members who pointed out that residents in the area may have guests during the evening hours, who will find it inconvenient to park. So the recommendation was amended calling for no parking from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.

But again on Monday Alderman Robert Temple, traffic committee chairman, reported to council that the evening hours were the most dangerous from a parking standpoint with heavy transports having to negotiate between vehicles parked at the curbs.

So the by-law was changed ruling out parking for the full 24 hours and was passed by council. Some members of council dissented.

Y's Men to Charter Kingston Club

At the regular meeting of the local Y's Men's Club, Mr. E. L. Littlejohn, chairman of the executives committee, announced plans for chartering a new Y's Men's Club in Kingston at the end of this month. "We plan to have representatives from clubs in Peterborough, Brockville, N. Y., Watertown, N. Y., and other cities in Ontario, with a 100 per cent turnout from our own club," stated Mr. Littlejohn.

Following the business portion of the meeting, members took part in a quiz program, with the assistance of Mr. G. H. Trill, program chairman, various members acted as a panel of experts under the fashion of the popular radio program, "What's My Line?" Other members of the club wondered if they had been harboring a group of mental giants for the "experts" were able to come up with the correct answers on each occasion.

Average Canadian Family Spent $82.10 for Health Services in 1951

OTTAWA (CP)—The first country-wide sickness survey shows Canadians spent a total of $373,800,000 on health services in the 12 months between the fall of 1950 and the fall of 1951, the bureau of statistics reported today.

This meant an average expenditure for each family unit of $82.10 for the year. The term family unit covers families made up of husbands and wives with or without children, and single persons outside these family groups.

The survey was conducted jointly by the federal health department, all provincial health departments and the bureau of statistics. The object was to estimate the prevalence of illness and accidents, expenditures on health services and the amount of nursing, medical and other health care obtained by Canadians.

The $373,800,000 figure does not include payments made by government or similar agencies and therefore does not represent the total costs of health service in Canada. Further compilation of figures will be released later.

Of the $373,800,000 an estimated $88,400,000 or 23.7 per cent was spent in prepayment plans for medical care, hospital care and combined plans of care and services.

Direct payments for services in general medical practitioners and specialists, for eye and dental services, hospital care, and nursing both at home and in hospital, cost $203,200,000, or 54.4 per cent.

Spending on drugs and appliances came to $75,300,000—$73,000,000 was for medicines—or 20.1 per cent, for care and services not falling within the three main classifications.

An analysis of average expenditure by size of family unit shows the family of five-to-six persons with the largest expenditure for health services at $114.70. Next was the three-to-four size at $110.40 followed by the family of seven or more at $104.80.

Recognition of long service within the Canadian Legion was awarded seven members of the Belleville branch 99, at a special meeting held in the legion clubrooms on Tuesday evening.

Seven members were presented with 25-year membership pins. Those receiving these awards included Comrades C. Leggat, T. Sculthorpe, D. Bradford, C. Jeffs, G. Ellarby, F. Gardner and D. Batchelor. He particularly commended the older members who worked with him during what he termed, "tough times."

Commander Burnett, in speaking to the gathering, traced the development of veterans' services. Emphasizing the fact, the Canadian Legion has been a major factor, obtaining many benefits for which veterans and dependents are now entitled, he said: "Only by active support of all veterans can the gains be maintained and further amendments obtained."

The chairman of entertainment, W. Slater, took charge of the meeting following the presentations.

Search Rescue Planes Return To Trenton Station Due to Fog

Trenton (Special)—Two Dakota aircraft from the Search Rescue section at the Trenton Air Station returned at about 10.00 a.m. this morning after searching five hours for the wreckage of the American secret plane which crashed in the Canadian waters of Lake Ontario yesterday.

The Bell Aircraft Corp. of Niagara Falls reported that the research aircraft was damaged in an explosion and dropped from a mother plane over the lake last night. Two men parachuted from the mother ship at the time of the blast an official of the firm said.

At daybreak this morning two aircraft from Station Trenton left the airfield here to join in the hunt over the water. Five trained para-rescue personnel were with the search crews ready to jump down into the lake if the missing men were spotted. Bad weather set in causing the search people to return to the base here. They are standing by in case they are recalled.

Chief Inf. LAC. C. L. "Carnie" Hagadoren of Peterborough reported to pilot Bill Pigden of Belleville that he sighted an oil "spaun isquaaaspun Pun spun age on the surface of the lake shortly before the searchers were forced to leave the area. The information was passed along to the American authorities who were directing their own search planes in the area.

The five jumpers intended to parachute down into the lake to an inflated raft if signs of life were spotted. They could keep afloat until a boat reached the scene from the shore.

The missing aircraft was the Bell X-2 most recent of a series of top-secret experimental planes being built by Bell of Buffalo. Earlier Bell models the X-1 and the X-1A have cracked the sound barrier and flown even faster. It is understood that the X-2 could fly faster than its predecessors.

The secret craft was carried aloft by a mother ship a B-50 bomber. The mother ship returned to the test plant at Niagara Falls Airport where the crew reported two men had bailed out of the bomber at the time of the explosion.

Three Being Held for Car Theft, Assaulting Owner of Vehicle

Two men from Nova Scotia and a third man recently out from Ireland, are being held by Provincial Police here on charges of car theft and assaulting the owner, causing actual bodily harm.

Charged with car theft and assault are: Samuel M. Thompson, 22, of Belfast; Michael Kavanaugh, 24, and Robt. McKay Marshall, 35, both of Nova Scotia. Marshall is also charged with dangerous and careless driving.

The three are charged with assaulting Raymond Doyle, 35, R.R. 1, Shannonville, and with stealing his car. Doyle was being held in the car when the vehicle was stopped by provincial police near Milltown, 15 miles east of here.

Provincial Constable H. Tasker reported that while he and Constable E. L. Graves were patrolling in a police cruiser a small English model car passed them, almost forcing them off the road. The vehicle continued to weave down the road and brushed the rear wheel of a highway transport before it was overtaken and stopped by the officers.

It was reported that Doyle had met the three men earlier at Shannonville. Doyle claimed the men had assaulted him, then pushed him into his car and drove the vehicle away.

Police took Doyle to Deseronto, where he was treated by Dr. D. C. McVicker. Provincial Constable Harry Barker investigated.

The three men will annear in magistrate court at Belleville Thursday.

Employment Situation Shows Big Improvement

The number of unemployed in the Belleville district has dropped from a peak of 1303 in February to 1,000 at the present time. It was stated today by Mr. H. H. Reed, manager of the local National Employment Service office.

This is about 150 more than were out of work at the same time last year, it was stated.

Lateness of construction work getting underway this spring was given as the principal reason for the greater number out of work this year, the only large construction project under way at the present time is the erection of a new building at the Dominion Parasite Laboratory.

The farm labor situation is well in hand, according to Mr. Reed, who says approximately 35 placements have been made in recent weeks. Twenty-five immigrants have been placed on farms and more are expected.

With the exception of a few minor layoffs due to material shortage all factories in the city were said to be working full time.

OFF THE RECORD

By Ed Reed

"As you probably have guessed — that wasn't the brake."

A RESOLUTE POSITION

When General Mohammed Naguib tells the Egyptians that "the true price of freedom is warm flowing blood" and that Britain is "the enemy", he proclaims a battle cry that arouses every Egyptian and is applauded throughout the Arab world.

The tragedy of the situation is that most of the Egyptian people do not know what the Suez issue is or why this new crisis has arisen. It is enough for them to know that British troops are still in occupation of the canal zone and that their new liberator has demanded that they must go. Why Naguib has chosen this time to be obtuse, to the point of inflammatory outcries, we can only guess. No doubt there is some domestic design behind it as heretofore there was every indication that negotiations were proceeding amicably and with the widest compromises being made by Britain in settling differences pertaining to both the Sudan and the Suez.

Whatever Naguib's claims may be on behalf of his new Egypt, he cannot change that British remains in control of the canal zone by every color of right and under the most valid treaty conditions. It is by virtue of this treaty that Britain's military establishment in the Canal zone has come to represent an investment of over two billion dollars. In times past the protection of this vital link with the East was a matter of the greatest concern to the British Empire. Today it has become of greatest concern to the entire Western world.

This being so, Sir Winston Churchill has bluntly, and quite properly, stated that Britain will not allow the native host to defend the Suez base if it is attacked by Egyptian armed forces. No doubt Mr. Foster Dulles is fully aware that this is a point upon which Britain will remain resolute. Having his visit with Naguib may be instrumental in persuading him that in this matter there is much more at stake than the cherished national sovereignty of the Egyptians and, therefore, that it will not be jeopardized by some agreement which will assure the protection of the canal zone. That is all that Britain asks.

And Sir Winston has given the assurance that if it is necessary to defend the Suez, British arms are equal to the situation without any outside help.

NO PRICE TICKET SHOWN

On the word of Health Minister Paul Martin as recently as last week, national health insurance is not among the "election plans" of the Liberal party. Nevertheless we are deeply interested in what the very great deal will be heard on this subject in the federal election campaign later in the summer.

The electors may be sure that no political group is going to be outraged at the suggestion that such a scheme be introduced. The CCF-ers, of course, will be all for it. In view of the recent apologies CCF leaders have been making for the untimeliness of some of their policies of state socialism, it is one of the few lures left in their bag of tricks. The socialist medicine men are in the unhappy position of having pronounced the inevitable death of the Canadian economic system some years ago only to find that it has become healthier by degrees almost every hour since, and without resorting to any of the CCF nostrums. They could be more charitably disposed if they found out in Saskatchewan that a government health scheme can be useful election bait and it's about the best bet they have for next August.

Now the Liberals are not going to denounce the idea. After all, they first started talking about national health insurance before the CCF party was born. And they have not been terribly shy about it at any election since. If there happened to be nothing more engaging to talk about. But their stand today, Mr. Martin told the House of Commons, is that "the time is not yet ripe."

He put it in the most dishonest thing that can be done in this particular field in the absence of the preparatory stages, including the building of hospitals, the personnel required, would be impossible in a system of this kind. It would both defeat the purpose and not be in keeping with responsible government. . . . This country is committed now to the expenditure of huge amounts of money were to introduce a proposal now which would cost this country an additional $600,000,000 a year, I should like to know what the judgment of the people of Canada would be."

We don't know what the judgment of the people might be if asked for another $600,000,000 a year for anything, on top of their present taxes, but we have a pretty good idea what their answer would be if they were told that a national health scheme for Canada would cost an extra billion dollars a year.

Electors would do well to remember that this week a report before the Ontario Medical Association placed the cost of a national health plan at that figure — $1,000,000,000. Or just about twice Mr. Martin's estimate, which he describes as "a rough figure."

Lest some CCF critic should protest that the majority of the people is not in favor of compulsory health insurance some statistics from the United Kingdom might be pertinent. State health service was introduced by the former Labor government. In the London weekly, The Recorder, of three weeks ago, we note this paragraph:

"It (the health service) was estimated to cost £170,000,000 annually. It is costing £400,000,000. Even so no new hospitals have been built and only one or two of the promised health centres have materialized."

It is very obvious that neither the Government, on the basis of facts it now has, nor any political party, can be in a position to offer the people of Canada a national health plan in the forthcoming election. What is doing so be able to tell us, within hundreds of millions of dollars, what it is going to cost the taxpayers a year.

MOVING SIDEWALK

The world's first moving rubber sidewalk has gone into operation in Chicago, the N.Y. Journal of Commerce reports. At present the installation is used to move people through a museum exhibit, but traffic experts see this mode of transportation as a practical means of moving large numbers of people through crowded areas.

WHAT MAKES RELIGION GENUINE?

Did you ever meet a religious person who didn't believe in God? Of course not. The two are self-contradictory. How can a person be religious and not believe in God?

There are plenty of people who do about with them all the superstitious cruelties of religion without having factory human relationships like any real religion in their hearts the trust that persons have in another. All satisfactory relationships between God and man reside in that in our being able to trust in Him who, by his very creation of us, indicates that he trusts us. Trust is so important that we may put it in the forefront of the spiritual life.

THE GROOM

Here's to the groom! He is easy to tell.
He's the nervous, young man with the flowered lapel.
If his parents are wealthy, the paper may note:
"The groom wore the usual trousers and coat."
If he toils for a living, as I, he'll emerge
In suit of some maker's conventional serge.

For years the attention has gone to the bride
And the radiant mother who stands at her side.
And it's never considered bad practice to say
Kind words of the father who gives her away.
But always the least noticed man in the room,
Head to foot of the hand-shaking line, is the groom.

So here's to the groom, to the fixings he finds
To the collar and tie that are choking his throat.
And here's to his hand as it vivigly shakes
As he puts on her ring with the vow that he takes.
May this curious ceremony never grow slim;
Our groom is the wedding took notice of him.

A Tale of Two Cities

(Montreal Gazette)

Canadians have particular reason for being interested in the April issue of a magazine called News. The magazine is published from Gorky street in Moscow. It is issued by the Soviet Union to express the Soviet point of view on world affairs. It is in the English language and is intended for circulation abroad among English-speaking countries.

In this particular issue is an account of the presentation by Joseph Stalin Peace Prize to Dr. James G. Endicott, chairman of the National Council of the Canadian "Peace" Congress. Hitherto there have been reports of what Dr. Endicott had said in Russia but Dr. Endicott himself never fully confirmed these reports. In this issue of News is the text of Dr. Endicott's speech upon being awarded the Stalin Peace Prize on March 28. It is an official text.

The remarkable feature of this text is the way in which Dr. Endicott contrasts the peacefulness of the Soviet Union with the feverish war spirit that exists in capitalist Canada. With regard to the peacefulness of Russia, Dr. Endicott has this to say:

"It has been my good fortune to visit the Soviet Union each year since 1950 and to observe for myself the tremendous progress in the peace movement in your vast country. I have visited many of the great cities of the Russian Republic, in Uzbekistan and in faraway Siberia. Everywhere I have visited, everywhere I have observed intense education for peace, a deep understanding as to why peace can be preserved and a magnificent faith in peace that fills your people to undertake vast projects of construction for the future."

"It is my opportunity today to speak as a peace worker from the Western, anti-Soviet countries of the world. It would be useless for me to pretend to this distinguished audience that any such appreciation prevails in Canada in particular, or in North America in general."

These words certainly seem to be borne out by what were received in Canada concerning Dr. Endicott's speeches in Russia. He had said in Russia that he was reported to have said: "I can breathe freely in Moscow. In your country at every step I hear the beautiful word 'peace.' And then I reported on the point the pathetic contrast between the breath of peace in Moscow and the war spirit of the west.

It may be of interest to note that Dr. Endicott found the peacefulness in Moscow in 1950, only a few months before the outbreak of aggression in Korea. But this fact has, in these intervening years, brought no illumination. Russia still preserves its magnificent faith in peace, despite its active part in the Korean and other aggressions. This is, it must be admitted, a remarkable achievement.

Perhaps it may not be hard to understand why a member of the Canadian cabinet said that any Canadian who was not enthusiastic about his own country while in Russia is "beneath contempt." But it seems important that others' assessions should not fall, however unconsciously, into the error that such ideas are so constantly impressed upon the victim's brain that he finally first sinks in to the end the victim is repeating words, like a parrot.

Some such danger may be seen in the present tendency of the comments being made upon the latest Russia peace campaign. It was evident in the comments by a certain news commentator of the CBC Sunday afternoon. He was expressing regret over an unwillingness he believed to exist in the West to meet the Russian peace offers "half-way." He expressed his opinion that a real change may have taken place in Russia. The hand was being extended. But the West showed a dangerous reluctance to grasp it.

Language parallel between these remarks and those of Dr. Endicott is no doubt unintentional.

But the very existence of the parallel is important. Because Russia has recently said to the West, the West is said to be unpeaceful by way of contrast.

Certainly every possibility of peace is to be explored. But Moscow-bred talk about Russia's peaceableness, in the face of the invasion of Korea is rather like Moscow breathed peace before the invasion of Laos. The Western World is not necessarily being unreasonable when it does not meet this kind of peace half way. It is scarcely asking too much that Western World has some reason to be sure of its own defence. And as our military experience has proved, our efforts, even at such defensive reasonment, are infinitely feeble and inefficient.

It is bad enough to have Dr. Endicott representing the Russian peace point of view and to complain that the West is refusing to meet them half way. But it is rather worse when a suggestion, at least slightly similar, is made, however unintentionally, over our own radio.

Fur Coat Story

LONDON — Richard Carrington has lately looked into the fur trade, a fur coat's journey from the backs of furry animals to the dressing machine known as a "banjo flesher." After this came the finest in their influence," she writes for fiction. They do not like machines," Sigma, which is how he must afterwards discover to be leather and then greasing, a fascinating process that produces perfect suppleness and quality. The skins are soaked in a large wooden tub of grease and oil which was then treated with a mixture of mechanical legs on a machine known as a "kick-er."

In the old days the furs were cut by hand. The pelt was first stripped below the waist, stood in it and marked out the shape of the coat. After greasing, the skins are cleaned with sawdust and dried in a drum. The machine like a huge carpet sweeper beating, shearing and combing.

Finally the fur coat was given to the headmaster's dream, so Carrington thought, for it was here that the mechanically-operated canes which descended alternately on the boys' bottoms were given an added punch. Then

Discussion Called 'Deplorable Waste of Time'

Following a discussion which was termed a "deplorable waste of time," council Monday turned down a recommendation asking for the removal of a boathouse owned by Frank Weir on South Front street.

The boathouse in question was formerly owned by the federal government for use in connection with the operation of the old lighthouse in the harbor. When the lighthouse was dismantled the boathouse was sold to the Weir family.

Some months ago council had passed a recommendation leasing city-owned property to Mr. Weir as a right-of-way to his boathouse. However, the amount of the yearly rental had not been stated and the lease was never picked up by Mr. Weir.

Calls Boathouse Eyesore

Yesterday's recommendation to have the boathouse removed was tabled by Ald. Keegan, chairman of the planning committee. He claimed the boathouse was an eyesore and should be removed; also that the city right-of-way in question should be reserved vacant property for use as a slip for launching boats.

In opposition to the recommendation, it was pointed out that the Weir family had used the boathouse for 58 years, and that they were waiting only for the lease before repairing the building.

"It looks to me as if a few people who want to get rid of the boathouse are trying to railroad this thing through without thought of the rights of any individuals," commented Alderman Thomas.

Mayor Haig noted the reason there had been no lease prepared was because no rental for the right-of-way had been stated. "Surely a man using city property should not be in a better position than if he owned it," he said. "People owning property on both sides of Mr. Weir are paying taxes."

Alderman Bradford declared the whole discussion a "deplorable waste of time," noting that the majority of council had considered the whole matter disposed of months ago.

When council voted down the recommendation it was suggested the property committee bring in another recommendation at the next meeting setting the rental which Mr. Weir would pay.

City Assessor Leighton Thompson noted the lot on which the boathouse stands was a "water lot" which was now assessable although it had not been assessed before as it was Crown property. With a tenant now occupying the lot it was assessable, he said.

Commercial 'B' Bowling League Enjoys Banquet

The Men's Commercial "B" Bowling League wound up the season in a blaze of banquet glory at the Shrine Club last night. Trophies and prizes were presented to champions and others, and a new slate of officers elected.

Retiring president Herb Frazer presided at the party which started with a tasty turkey dinner served by Shrine hostess Mrs. Woodhouse and her capable assistants.

Tributes were paid to champions and individual prize-winners. The handsome LaBatt Trophy, emblematic of the league championship was given to the Station street Marketeria, winners of the loop title by "Barney" Parsons on behalf of his company. It was accepted by team captain Ed Bauer.

The credit Bureau Trophy, donated by Norm Gateson, was presented to the Dominion Stores team, captained by Bill Bell. Captain Ed McQuade of the second division winners, Dobbs Plumbing, received the Bob Bland Trophy.

The prize for high single went to John Moon with a 372, with that for high triple being won by Bob Soaft with a 933. High average prize was won by Jim Cordes with a 224.

Elmer Scott, 1952-53 secretary was named president in the election of officers, succeeding Herb Frazer. Bob Mott was given the secretarial post with Ed Bauer being named to look after the league's finances. Jack Lee was given the job of "public relations officer."

Tributes to the champions, individual prizewinners and the league as a whole were paid by Past President Frazer and guests. President Scott spoke briefly at the conclusion of the banquet, asking for the same co-operation next season as was given his predecessor.

True Bill Returned

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A Surrenn Court jury Tuesday returned a true bill against Cecil Smith, who is charged with perjury in connection with statements he made recently before a police commission hearing.

True bills also were returned against David Cook, 20, of Windsor, and Robert MacDonald 28, of Vancouver, who face 11 charges each of breaking and entering and theft from stores and garages in Windsor and Essex county.

Smith charged he was the victim of a "police shakedown" and said he paid a bribe to Sgt. Gilbert Robitaille to keep from being convicted on a liquor charge. Four charges laid against the police officer on the basis of Smith's statement were later dismissed and the perjury charge was laid against Smith. His trial will open next week.

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, May 9th at 11.00 a.m. for the marriage of Carolyn Edith Ann Calcutt, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Calcutt, to James Peter Gaulin, also of Belleville, son of Mrs. George Gaulin and the late Mr. Gaulin. The Reverend J. J. Buckley officiated before a background of white snapdragons and ferns.

Miss Dorothy Grant presided at the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Bob Mohen.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a ballerina length gown of white net over satin with Chantilly lace inserts, featuring a fitted bodice with matching lace jacket with ruffled sleeves ending in lily-points over the hands. The shoulder-length scallop edged veil was held by a bridal headdress and she carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Ed. Silver, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, gowned in mauve net over taffeta with matching lace jacket and floral bandeau and mitts.

Miss Gwen Carter, cousin of the bride, and Miss Leona Bonnett, were bridesmaids the former in lime green net over taffeta with matching jacket, floral bandeau and mitts, and the latter in yellow net over taffeta with similar accessories. All carried nosegays of pansies, and rosebuds.

Mr. Ed. Silver, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Harold Carter, uncle of the bride, and Mr. Jack Hart, uncle of the bridegroom, acted as ushers.

The reception was held at the New Queen's Hotel, Belleville, where the fifty guests were received by the bride's mother, who wore steel grey with black and white accessories, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, attired in grey crepe and lace with black and white accessories. Both wore corsages of purple pansies and pink Sweetheart rosebuds.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and points west, the bride chose a blue taffeta dress with navy accessories, a grey and pink plaid topcoat, with corsage of red carnations.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Silver and responded to by the bridegroom.

Out-of-town guests were present from Point Anne, Toronto and Napanee.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a white gold wrist watch; the bride's gift to her attendants, pearl earrings, and the bridegroom's gift to his attendants, tie clips.

Mrs. C. Sleep New President Liberal Assoc.

Mrs. Herbert McCabe, who for the past four years, has been president of the Central Ontario Women's Liberal Association, has relinquished that position and has been succeeded by Mrs. C. Sleep of Belleville.

The meeting of the association was held recently in Cobourg and representatives from fourteen ridings, which represent the association, were on hand.

Mrs. Sophie Sleep, of Seagrave, Ontario, was the unanimous choice of the convention for the post of president and other officers elected were Miss Enid Rogers of Colborne, executive first vice-president; Mrs. Ben Burley of Belleville, secretary treasurer and Mrs. Herbert McCabe of Belleville as corresponding secretary. Fourteen vice-presidents were also named, one for each riding represented in the association.

The new president thanked Mrs. McCabe for the time and effort she gave the office for the past four years and hoped that she would continue to give the association her advice and help. The meeting expressed confidence in the new president and then had a full discussion on the issues brought before the meeting for consideration.

The guest speaker was Mrs. M. J. Poupore of Sudbury, Past Ontario President. The speaker dealt with the new legislation regarding the federal health plan.

Mrs. F. Belby Honored By 2nd Scout Group

Scouts, Cubs and group committee members of the 2nd Belleville Scout group, held a parade to the evening service of Christ Church on Sunday, at which time a past president's gold pin was presented by Mrs. Maurice Button to Mrs. F. Belby, past president of the Mothers' Auxiliary, in recognition of her faithful services rendered to this group.

Mrs. Maurice Button, who presented the pin, has been active in scouting activities for many years and was the first president of the Mothers' Auxiliary of the 2nd Belleville group organized in Bellevue early years. She was assisted with the presentation by the new president, Mrs. W. Gander.

The rector, Canon J. B. Creegan, gave a short talk on the work being done, and the work already accomplished by the group committee and the Mothers' Auxiliary members for the Scouts and Cubs, and said that he hoped the boys appreciated their efforts. Mr. Creegan also expressed his own appreciation for the free and generous services rendered by the committee and auxiliary groups.

University Women's Club Holds Successful Spring Fair

On Saturday afternoon a record attendance at the University Women's Club Spring Fair in the Kinsmis Centre showed the ever growing popularity of this event.

The honored guest of the afternoon was Mr. Manly Macdonald, R.C.A., whose fine exhibition of paintings was the feature attraction of the Fair. Guests enjoyed the privilege of seeing and discussing with the artist himself the large number of beautiful pictures displayed to advantage against a background of black along one side, and also hung on one wall.

Rapids

The exhibit included a wide variety of scenes from all the seasons of nature and from different locales. Outstanding was an especially large painting of rapids showing a subtle use of shades of blue to give a realistic effect of water in motion. The bright glowing colors of an autumn scene created its own special appeal. Beautiful maritime scenes of fishing boats and docks were there for those who like the sea. A restful spring scene of a house by the water with its soft sunny coloring gave a feeling of happy security and peace in the world. Of scenes from the local area, there were many, all done in beautiful colorings for which Mr. Macdonald is famous.

Prominent on an easel near the entrance was a large oil-painting of a winter scene donated by Mr. Macdonald for the scholarship fund. At six o'clock Mr. Macdonald drew the winning ticket, and announced the winner to be Donald Leslie of Leslie's Shoe Store.

Spring Fair

The excellent organization of the afternoon's activities by the president, Mrs. Douglas Burr, and the fine co-operation of all the members resulted in a particularly satisfying and successful Spring Fair. The special convener for decorating was Mrs. E H. Tindale, whose decorative effects added greatly to the pleasure of the tea. The two table centres of daffodils, deep red snapdragons and yellow candles, and the dainty flower decorations for the cake plates were most attractive.

Mrs. W. F. Baldwin was the able convener for the distribution of draw tickets from which $240 was raised for the scholarship fund. Conveners for the well-supplied home - cooking table were, Mrs. P. T. Seibert and Mrs. H. W. Burns, who did a thriving business.

Miss Ruby Nash was the genial saleslady in charge of tickets on the two "Mothers' Day" cakes made by Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon. The winners of these cakes were Mrs. Earl Hickey and Mrs. A. C. Locke.

Conveners for the tea room were Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon, Mrs. R. E. Barrett and Mrs. W. J. Musgrove; for supervising the kitchen, Mrs. J. Haig; for exhibiting the picture, Mrs. W. J. Doyle; for selling draw tickets during the afternoon, Mrs. L. Finlayson, and Mrs. W. N. Hurst; for publicity, Mrs. J. E. Pugh; for supplying the cakes and sandwiches, Miss Eric Grout; for attending to all the finances, Miss K. Daly.

Those members who poured tea were Mrs. A. C. Locke, Mrs. H. J. Bateman, Mrs. A. E. May, Mrs. D. Houston, Mrs. Arthur Smith, Mrs. W. L. Langlois, Mrs. R. Pringle, Mrs. W. J. Doyle, Miss J. Tickell, Miss E. Grout and Miss K. Daly.

Among those who served in the tea room or at the home-cooking table were, Dr. L. Mathieson, Mrs. G. Bailey, Mrs. M. Brunton, Mrs. W. J. Kellett, Mrs. J. Kuntze, Mrs. E. L. Littlejohn, Mrs. J. L. McGregor, Mrs. R. Martin, Mrs. J. MacDonald, Mrs. R. W. Cass and the Misses E. Panter, M. McMahon, W. Kincaid, M. Doyle, M. Dandeneau, Lee, B. Monteith and J. MacKay.

Greeting the guests at the door were Mrs. J. A. Jarvis and later, Mrs. L. D. Reid. The president, Mrs. Douglas Burr, welcomed the guests and invited them to the tea room, while Miss M. Mc-Pherson acted as the hostess for introducing the guests to Mr. Macdonald.

Tabernacle Church Y.P.U. Entertains

Tabernacle United Church Young People's Union entertained fellow unions of Christ Church Y.P.A., Bridge Church United Church Y.P.U., College Hill Y.P.U., and Centenary Y.P.U. at a "Play Party" held at Tabernacle United Church on Monday evening.

The evening commenced with a sing-song ably led by Margaret Hillis. Many fine comments were to be heard on the way Marg carried out the sing-song, which started with secular songs and was finished off with several Negro spirituals.

With the singing of "Lord I Want to be a Christian", the group filed into a candle-lit room adorned with an inspiring worship centre. The manner in which this was done added greatly to the worship service conducted by "Bob" Hadrock.

"Bob's" message was based on the influence that people have on one another and was of an inspirational nature, which was manifested by the spirit in which the young people then joined in fellowship of recreation.

Recreation was the highlight of the evening and was led by Eloise Sine and Rosemary Hunter, after many lively and exhausting games of the relay type, and a few folk dances, the group of 65 young people were just about ready to settle down to refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, cakes and coffee, served by Tabernacle Y.P.U.

Rev. Ray Rowley then conducted the group on a tour through the church, after which a friendship circle was formed, and with the singing of 'taps' and the benediction, a perfect day was brought to a close.

The evening was presided over by Earl Lashway, president of Tabernacle Y.P.U.

Mrs. Fred Conboy then had charge of the meeting and presented the following program which was much enjoyed by all.

Parrott, "Falling Water", reading by Mrs. Walkom, "Over Ninety"; solo by Mrs. M. Reid accompanied by Mrs. J. Parrott, "It Is No Secret". Several songs were then sung by different groups.

A social time was enjoyed by all during which refreshments were served by Mrs. Garbutt assisted by Mrs. Harvey and Miss Shaw.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Should A Girl Admit That She "Had to Get Married"

One of the letters discussed in my column a little while ago was written by a young woman who said she had "made a mistake which demanded immediate marriage" to the young man who was the father of her coming child. She and her husband had character enough to accept the situation for what it was, and did not wish to try and cover up the truth with fancy stories. Her mother, on the other hand, insisted that the way should be prepared for announcing a "premature" baby.

"I feel that people have more respect for you when they see you trying to build everything good on such a mistake," the girl wrote, "and that one should not insult their intelligence with such crude, overworked stories as my mother insists on telling."

I thought this honest and courageous young woman was right, and her mother was wrong. While the readers agreed with me, others violently disagreed.

Among the latter was a wife, now the mother of three children, who writes that her first child "was a mistake, and I had to get married." No one would have known the truth, she says, because it all happened in a city far away from her home town. She was quietly married, and then went to live near the army base where her husband was stationed and where her baby was born. But because, some time later when she and her husband were settled in a small town, she confided the facts to one of her girl friends, "to this day, she declares, "this child is being snubbed, left out of parties and ridiculed.

"So I think the girl's mother is right," she concludes. "Never admit that you made this kind of mistake.

Taken To Task

Then there was the mother who took me bitterly to task, telling me that what I said "encourages the youth of today that it is perfectly proper to bring such things out in the open and be brazen about it.

"My own daughter was in a similar situation," she said, "only she did not marry the fellow. She blamed it on the fact that we didn't like him, but I am sure that if she had really loved him, what we thought would have made no difference, as she is quite headstrong. Now she constantly brings it up to me that I thought more of what my friends would think than her happiness, and I would never have written this letter if I hadn't seen her cut your column out of paper to bring up to me at some future date.

"When a family lives in one community all their lives and are respected as bringing up a fine family, one certainly does not want that reputation torn to shreds." What this mother did about her daughter's problem she does not say, leaving me wondering if she made arrangements to dispose of the whole matter by an illegal operation.

Obviously, there are times, as in the case of the girl who needlessly gave away her personal story, when to keep silent about a matter of this kind is the sensible thing to do. But I still believe that in many other cases, when the truth is likely to be guessed anyhow, and clumsy attempts to conceal it serve only to feed hungry gossipers, it is wiser to let the situation stand as it is.

Fashion Flashes

Creeping up the popularity ladder is the beige suit. Blond beige worsted is used for a handsome suit with cardigan neckline, cuffed sleeves and cuffed jacket hem fringed at the pocket to match the woolen stole-scarf.

Novelties in mink jackets include one real beauty. It is a mink sweater, no less, cut on straight, vertical lines, front and back, with soft, full push-up sleeves just below elbow length.

Wool knit cardigan binding—at round neckline, down front and at cuffs—is decorated with pearl, rhinestone and bronze beadings. So are the little buttons down the front.

Clicking with buyers is the fitted suit with separate blouse, or a bow scarf matching the lining. Wool jersey—in navy, gray or red is used for a softly fitted suit with snug, buttoned jacket and club collar, with a separate soft bow of navy and white silk foulard to match jacket lining.

A change from the perennial rose hat trimming is the carnation, suddenly blooming in almost every millinery department. A parasol parade of dull and shiny straw is veiled in complexion-pink a deeper shade than the pink of the hat, which is trimmed in back with a cluster of rose pink carnations and green velvet bows.

Big season ahead for linen, after a big resort winter, for suits and dresses as well as separates. Pink linen is used for a handsome afternoon dress, the plain bodice with short, cuffed sleeves and wide, notched neckline. The skirt is trimmed with matching silk tassels held by steel bead motifs.

Special-Purpose Menu

By Mary Moore

A quick switch in my plans was made when I discovered boneless rolled hams were hovering around 65 cents per pound. Right alongside were blade and rib roasts of beef - 5 pounds of which could be had for about $1.95. So for Sunday we had beef instead of that luxury-priced ham, naturally.

I'm still fooling around with herbs, as this was our menu. The ice cream was included because Ruth D. would like the recipe for vanilla ice cream using skim milk powder.)

Cookies Coffee
Pot Roast with Herbs Gravy.
New Potatoes
Buttered Broccoli
Tomato Aspic on Lettuce
Homemade Vanilla Ice Cream
Cokies Coffee

Directions

Pot Roast With Herbs

You need a five-lb blade, chuck or short rib roast with a good fat edge, about ½ cup drippings, about 1 tablespoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 2 chopped onions, ½ teaspoon each crumbled basil and thyme, 4 medium celery stalks with leaves, ½ cup hot water. Melt the drippings in heavy frying pan or Dutch oven. Brown the meat on all sides in this fat. Sprinkle over all remaining ingredients, cover tightly and simmer for 2½ to 3½ hours, or until meat is tender. This amount makes 9 generous servings. Skim off the excess fat to make gravy and bring sauce to a boil. Add 2 cups boiling water. Mix 4 ½ tablespoons flour with ½ cup cold water to make a smooth paste, and stir into the sauce in pan, and simmer for about 5 minutes, stirring. Pour around roast on hot platter. You could make an outer border of boiled new potatoes.

Tomato Aspic (jelly moulds)

One and ½ tablespoons gelatin, 3rd cup cold water, 2½ cups canned tomatoes (in summer fresh peeled tomatoes may be used), ¼ cup water, 1 bay leaf, 1 slice onion, ¼ cup chopped celery leaves, 4 cloves, 4 pepper berries, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1½ teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons lemon juice. Soak gelatin in ⅓ cup cold water 5 minutes. Simmer together all remaining ingredients except lemon juice for 20 minutes, add lemon juice and strain all through sieve. Stir in gelatin until dissolved. Pour into moistened individual moulds or into 1 large shallow mould and chill. If chilled in shallow mould cut into squares or diamonds with knife dipped in hot water.

Variation When aspic begins to congeal you may add as much as 1 cup of drained peas or chopped celery, or hard-cooked egg or mixtures of these with sliced stuffed olives or chopped parsley. If hard-cooked eggs are moulded in this it may be used as a luncheon dish, when cottage cheese makes a delicious accompaniment. The last idea will appeal to my reducing buddies.

Homemade Vanilla Ice Cream

(Using skim milk powder)

Sorry to say that to give this the delicious smoothness you folks crave this recipe calls for 1 cup cream. Makes 2 quart.

Two teaspoons gelatin, ¼ cup water, 2 cups water, 1 cup skim milk powder, ½ cup sugar, 2 teaspoon flour, one-eighth teaspoon salt 4 egg yolks slightly beaten, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 cup heavy cream, 4 stiffly beaten egg whites. Soak the gelatin in the ¼ cup cold water 5 minutes. Sprinkle the skim milk powder over the 2 cups water, let stand 5 minutes then heat with rotary beater 1 minute to dissolve it. Heat milk in double boiler until quite hot, then stir the soaked gelatin into it. Mix together dry the sugar, flour and salt, and stir them into the milk mixture until thick, cover and cook 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir a little of this hot mixture into the beaten yolks, return to double boiler and cook stirring 2 minutes. Pour into bowl, add vanilla, and chill. Beat until very light with rotary beater and fold in beaten whites. Fold in stiffly beaten cream. Pour into freezing tray and freeze to a mush. Turn into cold bowl and break up with fork and beat again until fluffy but not melted. Immediately return to tray, cover with waxed paper and freeze until firm.

Cold baked potatoes may be reheated by dipping them in hot water, then putting them into a warm oven to reheat slowly.

Husband-Wife Team Working Out New Series

LONDON (Reuters)—Hans and Lotte Hass, Austrian husband-wife team who made their living facing man-eating sharks and other undersea monsters armed only with a camera, are organizing an expedition to the Galapagos Islands.

Hass, a bronzed six-footer with a Van Dyke beard, and his tiny blonde wife have taken some of the most amazing undersea pictures the world has seen.

They have bought a 350-ton three-masted schooner for an eight-month trip to the islands, a naturalists' paradise 650 miles west of Ecuador. With them next July will go 10 crew members and eight scientists, including a doctor and a biologist.

Hass, 33, says he is particularly interested in meeting a ferocious sawfish, often 25-foot long, who rules the roost in the pacific islands; there is also a large octopus which has never been photographed under water.

The husband-wife team made their reputation—and their money—with a movie called "Red Sea Adventure." It won first prize at the Venice film festival two years ago.

Lotte, one-time Vienna stenographer, operates in a one-piece swimsuit with a glass mask over her face and a cylinder of oxygen strapped to her chest. Twice she has had reels in hospitals—one unsuspectsive devil fish clouted her as she tried to photograph the pilot fish that live in the monsters' lawn.

The couple have a theory about sharks—just yell and they go away.

"Lotte once sat on a coral rock looking like a mermaid with her long blonde hair floating about her, pushing away the sharks as they came up one after another," said Hass.

On their last expedition, in 1952, they took photographs of 150 coloral formations along the Great Barrier Reef, off Australia.

Australian experts pointed out more than 290 persons had been killed by sharks in Australian waters in the last 15 years and gave the couple a month to live. They lived, but admitted the Australian sharks were the most dangerous they have dealt with.

Life Becoming Less Rugged For Farm Women

The proportion of farm homes with inside running water, private bath, or shower, private flush toilet and electric lighting was nearly three times as great in 1951 as

Queen Will Take Part In Ceremonial Drinking of Kava

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

SUVA, Fiji (CP)—Queen Elizabeth II will take part in the ceremonial drinking of kava when she reaches Suva in December on her South Pacific visit.

Like most Europeans tasting kava for the first time she will probably find the muddy brown liquid tastes very much like soapy water.

The drink, made from yaqona root, is non-intoxicating. The ceremonial of drinking it is a central feature of most great occasions in the Fiji Islands, British colony in the South Pacific, and it will be the focal point of the greatest day the islands have known since the cession of Fiji to the British crown in 1874.

Right Royal Welcome

Conscious that Fiji will be the first Commonwealth land Her Queen will make south of the equator on her coming tour, the Fijians have planned a welcome that will set New Zealand and Australia on their mettle.

According to a custom reserved only for a visiting paramount chief, a Fijian party will board the liner Gothic on its arrival and present the Queen with the largest whale's tooth to be found in the colony. The bushy-haired Fijians will be dressed in native costume and wearing Sulalua—garlands of deep-hued flowers.

The kava ceremony will take place after the Queen lands. Yaqona roots, ground to a powder, are used for the drink, but the mixing by tradition must be done in a huge wooden bowl in the Queen's presence.

A cup bearer will then offer her the drink in a polished coconut shell, which she will toss aside in the accepted fashion after she has drained its contents. Chanting to the beat of wooden drums will accompany the ceremony.

Traditional Gifts

The ritual will end with the presentation to the Queen of enormous quantities of food and other gifts. A hundred pigs, some ready for eating and others alive, will be among the gifts. The Queen is at liberty to order the food aboard the Gothic, or to dispose of it in any way she thinks fit.

Another feature of the ceremonies will be the entry of women into the celebration. Usually these are left to men, but because the visiting "paramount chief" is a woman, the women will be admitted to the ceremonial.

Fijians will flock to Suva for the celebrations from most of the 200 islands of the group. Many will be there by boat, but in these days when a network of air services is bringing east and west to the islands a considerable number of the chiefs and leaders will travel to Suva by plane.

GOOD MANNERS

By CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Thoughts On Weddings . . . From An Aisle Seat

The coronation of a young and beautiful British queen is having a dramatic and romantic influence on weddings this Spring. So many brides are choosing the impressive pageantry of a traditional church wedding. So many wedding gowns of costly satin and regal lace . . . with trains of court length, cathedral length, or chapel length. . . .

Crowns. . . coronets. . . diadems. . . tiaras. Regal head dresses for these beautifully impressive brides are being worn by today's brides. Queens indeed they are. . . for this Day of Days!

New nods in headdress for the bridesmaids. The small coronets of small silver leaves.

Most bridal bouquets today are smaller, much smaller, than formerly. . . simpler in design, more casual appearing, easier to carry. And usually of fewer kinds of flowers. The attendants bouquets today too are much smaller than yesterday's, usually very simple, often of the pert, circled nosegay type.

Interesting to observe: At four out of the five large, formal metropolitan weddings I attended last week, the groom had his father as his best man. Is this a trend? Three out of the four brides-grooms were "Jr.". . . and it was the immediate impression to see the two men, father and son, of the same name, coming toward the head of the aisle to put their son's bride to welcome the radiant new member of the bridegroom's family.

Dear Miss Manneman:

In your column you say "the bride's parents sit in the first pew on the left of the aisle, and the groom's parents sit in the first pew on the right of the aisle." Why is this? It is confusing to me, because I should think that the seating-arrangement in the church would be just the reverse: that the bride's parents, since they are the ones who give the wedding, should sit in the first pew on the right of the aisle. Our daughter is to be a June bride, my wife and I are reading everything you are writing about weddings, and we want to be absolutely clear about the question above. Thank you. Mrs. Beckman.

"The Father of the Bride"

The groom's mother and father are the guests of honor at the wedding . . . therefore they should be given the place of honor at the right of the bride's mother and father, who are the hosts of the wedding. This seating-arrangement abides by the tradition that guests of honor are seated at the right of the host and or hostess.

And this is the reason why, as the parents' table at the wedding reception, the groom's mother (the woman guest of honor) is seated at the right of the bride's father (the host at the wedding) and the groom's father (the man guest of honor) is seated at the right of the bride's mother (the hostess of the wedding).

MATURED FLIERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There now are more than 1,000 civilian pilots in the United States past the age of 60, Dr. Ross A. McFarland of Harvard University school of public health told the world meeting of the Aero Medical Association today. But the senior fliers still are doing a good job, safety of the civilian air crashes shows that pilot aging had nothing to do with the crackups, Dr. McFarland said.

Longines Symphonette Coming To Belleville Next Season

Belleville Community Concert Association has lined up a nicely diversified series of fine entertainment for its membership next season, and announces the following:

Longines Symphonette:—

This top radio attraction hardly needs an introduction, since it has been continuously on the air since 1941 — when it had its premiere from New York over radio station WEAF. It will be thrilling to hear and see in the flesh what has been familiar for so long on the air waves. The ensemble is composed of strings, brass and woodwind — a truly small symphony.

Merley and Leonhart — Duo-Pianists:—

Combined there last nine years on Fred Waring's popular radio and television shows, besides making annual concert tours, these two met as students in Paris and were married there. They made such a successful debut in Paris at that time, that they have been more recitals in the French capitol since. They have won enthusiastic acclaim in fields of both serious and popular music.

Janet Collins:—

Premiere Danseuse Metropolitan Opera Company. Glamorous new dancing star of the Metropolitan Opera — this young prima ballerina is something entirely different to Belleville. Her first big success was in Cole Porter's Musical, "Out of this World," and it wasn't long before she came to the attention of Rudolph Bing, and was engaged for the Met. Assisted by a drummer, a pianist, and a vocalist, she explores new and wonderful places in her dance programs. John Martin, dance critic of the New York Times has hailed her as "The most exciting young dancer who has flashed across the current scene in a long time...

Frances Yeend — Leading Soprano, New York City Opera Company:—

One of the brightest new stars in the musical heaven, who "looks and sings like a sunpoddess and has the poise and technique to do that golden voice justice" (Chicago Tribune); the fortunate possessor of "a soaring, triumphant soprano that would be in place in any opera house in the world." (Milwaukee Journal). Her activities of the past four seasons have moved the artist at an almost precipitous pace to a position of prominence. She has sung under most of the leading symphony conductors, appeared at many major music festivals, among them, Edinburgh, Holland and in the Berkshires, Hollywood Bowl, The Hague in Holland — and besides made a triumph of her leading operatic roles with the New York City Opera Company.

CROWN CAVALCADE — The PREDECESSORS of ELIZABETH II

Born: 1442, son of Richard, Duke of York. When the latter, who had forced his acknowledgement as heir in the crazy Henry VI, was slain in one of the periodic outbreaks of "the War of the Roses" Edward led an army of fortune hunters to London and was proclaimed king. The murder of Henry VI solidified Edward's claim and the House of York maintained a shaky supremacy for 24 years. Edward made his reign profitable one. He collected tribute from the French for not invading them. Edward's commercial ventures, while designed to benefit himself, also furthered the rise of the merchant classes of London.

Pr. Edward W.T.F. Holds Banquet, Hears Fine Address

Picton—On Friday evening the Women Teachers' Federation of Prince Edward County were hosts at a banquet served by the ladies of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Their guests were the men teachers of the county, the staff of the Health Unit, husbands, and friends.

Seated at the head table were Miss Ival Stark, Miss Vera Pyne, Rev. W. McLean, Mrs. Graydon Calnan, Mrs. A. Bennis, Miss Falconer, Miss McNeil, Mrs. Meda Hart, Nursing Sister Cowbin, P. S. Inspector A. F. Brown and Mrs. Brown, Mr. Andy Bennie, Miss W. Wycott, Miss Mary Huff and Mrs. Kay Trumble.

The long tables were most attractive with bowls of forsythia and daffodils. The guests were welcomed by the president, Mrs. Meda Hart. Grace was said by Rev. W. McLean.

Following the excellent dinner, Inspector Brown briefly addressed the teachers in regard to raising a sum of money for the proposed Memorial Hospital. He thought a committee could be formed at convention, or through the Federation, and that perhaps $800 could be raised to equip a room or to buy some piece of needed equipment. A plaque would identify the gift from the county teachers.

Mr. Brown also drew attention to ten copies of the book "An Education for Slow Learners." One copy was to be placed in each of the larger public schools of the county and the remaining copies would be available for the smaller schools to use.

Officers

The nominating committee brought in the following slate of officers for the coming year: past president, Mrs. Meda Hart; president, Miss Winnifred Wycott; 1st vice president, Miss Mary Huff; 2nd vice president, Miss Thelma Calnan; secretary, Mrs. Kay Trumble; treasurer, Mrs. Keitha Gough.

Conveners: religious education, Mrs. Freeman; public relations, Miss Ruth Vincent; superannuation, Mrs. Rae Shortt; research, Mrs. Douglas Redner; finance, Miss Phyllis Boyd; legislation, Mrs. Lillian Hicks; publicity, Mrs. Geo. McKay; status, Mrs. Herb Johnston; sick benefit, Miss Alice Cauchey; constitution, Mrs. Art Jackson.

Miss Wycott thanked the teachers for the honor and privilege of serving as their president and hoped that, with the co-operation of all, a successful year lay ahead for the the federation executive.

Miss Vera Pyne introduced the guest speaker, Miss McNeil, for the past three years public school inspector for North York, and one of the leading educationists in the province today.

Miss McNeil is a graduate in psychology from Queen's University, taught in high schools, and as an exchange teacher for one year, before being appointed inspector. Her topic was "Misconceptions About Manual Education".

She stressed that the aim of education was to help the individual to become himself—to become the finest person he is capable of becoming. As a result, he will be privately happy and publicly useful; able to live more completely, and to perform his work skillfully and magnanimously. In evolving dynamicism in the child and shaping the immature child, there are a confusing number of mediums, devices and techniques. In choosing which to use, the teacher must "cut out the dead lumber and strengthen the good."

Self Reliance

"We have to teach the child: to be obedient and yet to make up his mind intelligently, (for instance the boy "who sat on the burning deck" was obedient, but he was an awful sap.) To stand on his own two feet, when to be polite and giving, and when to insist on justice when he doesn't get what he rightfully deserves. To be satisfied with what he has and yet to strive to better his condition; to be truthful and yet tactful; to use his past experience and observation to anticipate the future; to teach the child to think and to aid him in growing into a person. Teachers are responsible for the growth and development of the individual child; to teach the child that freedom with responsibility brings the greatest reward in living."

Miss McNeil urged the teachers to use common sense in discipline and not to interfere unnecessarily with the child's freedom, nor to be too concerned over little things. When a child is pushed or driven he becomes aggressive and disobedient. Many child needs a few hours outside school when he is free of discipline. He should not be asked to do something for which a reason cannot be given.

The teacher from Elmbrook, Miss Ruth Vincent thanked Miss McNeil for her fine address.

Mrs. A. Jackson contributed two fine solos "In the Gloaming" and "Sort of Miss You," accompanied by Mr. Benvie.

Miss Joan Laughren sang in fine voice "The Lord's Prayer", and "Just a Wearying For You" also accompanied by Mr. Benvie.

Mrs. Ross Piper gave two highly amusing readings that were well received.

Mr. Marlen Wehanks thanked all who had contributed to the program and Miss McAlpine thanked the ladies of the Guild for the bountiful dinner and pleasant surroundings for the meeting.

It was announced that the Picton unit of the Women Teachers' Federation will have a dinner meeting at Maple Inn on June 10 at 6.30.

MADOC

P.S. Holds Music Festival

Madoc — The Madoc Public School Musical Festival, which was held in the high school auditorium on Tuesday and Friday nights was an outstanding success. On evening the auditorium was filled and the numbers presented by the pupils were enjoyed. On Thursday night John Bristol, president of the Home and School Association, spoke briefly and welcomed those in attendance.

All grades took part, Grade 1 opened with a group of songs and following Grades 2 and 3 presented rhythmic band music, which was followed by an operetta, "Days O'Kerry Dancing", in two acts.

The performance of the pupils was outstanding in their dialogues, solos and chorus, and it would be unfair to choose a star as all the pupils were outstanding and much credit is due to Miss Wilma Hamilton for her efforts in presenting this concert. The accompanist, Mrs. K. Bernie and Miss Mader public school staff assisted in every way possible.

Receives Gift

William Hawthorne, Sr., played his part, being an Irishman right from the old land, for his talent for artistry he painted a fine scene of rural Ireland used as a background for the play and as appreciation for his work on Friday evening was presented with a gift by the pupils. Miss Wurtm and Mrs. Bernie also received gifts as a token of appreciation. Following the Friday night performance the staff and all who assisted were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hawthorne.

Tornado-Torn Texas Counts 87 Dead; Flooding Streams Pose New Dangers in State

WACO, Texas (AP) — Texas, weather-weary and tornado-torn, today had counted 87 dead from Monday's giant tornadoes as flooding streams posed new dangers.

Wild winds, rain, dust storms and snow added to the state's misery while storm-ravaged Waco — digging from under a $25,000,000 tornado rubble and counting 78 dead— found itself in the path of the flooding Brazos River.

The other Monday tornado, at the west Texas plains city of San Angelo, left a death toll of nine and a damage estimated in excess of $2,000,000. Some 500 injured were counted at Waco, close to 100 at San Angelo.

Rivers Rise Higher

As the death count steadily rose, the usually placid, muddy red Brazos inched higher and higher at Waco. Many persons already had been evacuated Tuesday night and the river was expected to reach a 28 - foot crest at 7 a. m. CST (9 a. m. EDT) today. Flood stage is 27 feet. The river's stage at the same time Tuesday was 3.9 feet.

Tired, grimy workers, some almost at the point of exhaustion, still dug into heaps of rubble that had been modern store buildings before Monday's big blow.

Workers burst through the tangled, twisted mass late Tuesday night into the basement of the destroyed five-storey R. T. Dennis building where it had been feared from 30 to 50 bodies would be found. There was none there.

Portable generators, huge searchlights and earth-moving equipment were rushed to the stricken city in trucks flanked by police cars. Blood plasma came from far and near for the injured.

Aid Storm Victims

San Angelo citizens dug into their own pockets for money to aid the storm victims and in other cities funds were being raised to aid the losers to the deadly, destructive winds. The state of Texas rushed under wild, unusual weather.

Dalhart, in the north reaches of the Texas panhandle, had a snowstorm as the temperature dropped below zero. Stockmen there warned to look after their animals in the snow-swept panhandle areas.

Dust storms lashed Midland, Wink, San Angelo and Big Spring areas of west Texas with grit. Visibility was down at Wink where it was cut to a half mile.

More Twisters Sighted

More twisters were sighted in the vicinities of Sherman, in northeast Texas; Gladewater, in east Texas; and San Antonio, in south Texas. But no damage was reported.

Blinding rainstorms, spawned by the same turbulence that sent the deadly tornadoes across Texas, poured up to five inches of rain on Huntsville, four on Nacogdoches, and three on Jacksonville. Local floods harried residents of all three east Texas cities.

Greater Waco had more than six inches of rain. The south section of the city was flooded and calls had gone out for boats to help in evacuation.

The weather bureau said the wild weather was caused by cold air blowing out of Canada and colliding with warm, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico.

RCAF OFFICER DIES

London, Ont. (CP) — Flt. Lt. Rev. William A. W. Latimer, 43, RCAF Crumlin, died suddenly Monday. Dr. A. R. Routledge said cause of death was coronary thrombosis. Flt. Lt. Latimer was found dead in his room by a fellow officer. The body was relevved to a Durham funeral home.

Capt. Tells Grim Story of Death, Peril in Sinking

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) —Capt. Albert Stiglin told a grim story Tuesday of death and peril in the Lake Superior storm sinking of his ore freighter the Henry Steinbrenner.

Stiglin, 46-year-old veteran Great Lakes skipper, was one of several survivors brought to this lake port before dawn Tuesday by rescue boats.

As a U.S. Coast Guard inquiry impended, others who lived through the disaster off Isle Royale were en route here in additional craft. At the same time it was disclosed that survivors on the Steinbrenner's raft tried vainly to keep a dying fellow seaman alive.

The Steinbrenner went down in 600 feet of water early Monday. With hatch covers torn off by powerful seas, she could not float hold with water.

The latest shakup at the Grand Marais, Minn., Coast Guard station listed 19 dead, 16 survivors, and five men missing.

Wan and tired, Capt. Stiglin met reporters while four of his crew, described as in a "state of shock," rested in hospital.

He told of the Steinbrenner's departure from Duluth, Minn., Sunday on seas "smoother than a pond" only to encounter a savage storm the next night.

All the crew left the ship on its two lifeboats and one raft, he said.

The raft, with Stiglin as one of 10 men on it, capsized.

"The Lord only knows where the fellows hit," he said.

Only six, including the captain, got back on the raft.

"We spent four hours on the raft. It tobbed up and down on the top of the high waves. Seas broke over us, drenching our clothing. Once we saw one of the lifeboats bobbing in the water."

"The first mate (Andrew Kraft) lost consciousness on the raft. He died shortly after the rescue ship showed up."

Deckhand Jim Lambardais, 39, said he tried to fasten slipping hatch covers aboard the freighter shortly before she foundered.

"Water was coming into No. 11 hatch at the stern," he said in an interview in hospital. "Every time she rolled, the hatch would roll and the water pour in."

TRAPPED IN CAR 2 HOURS

Kitchener (CP) — Leonard Fullerton, of Brantford, spent three hours in his wrecked car before being discovered by a passing motorist early Tuesday. He suffered a broken ankle and face cuts. Fullerton said he went to sleep at the wheel of his car and went into a ditch.

WANT HIGHER RATE

WASHINGTON (AP)—A request to Congress for higher postage rates on newspapers, magazines and advertising material appeared to be in the offing today. Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield, without saying so flatly, indicated to a House of Representatives appropriations sub-committee that studies now being made pointed towards a recommendation for higher rates of second and third class matter, "for a temporary period of at most two years."

Ike Nominates Gen. Ridgway Chief of Staff

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today nominated Admiral Arthur W. Radford to be chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, succeeding Gen. Omar N. Bradley. He also nominated Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway to succeed Gen. J. Lawton Collins as army chief of staff.

The White House announced that Eisenhower later will nominate Admiral Robert B. Carney to succeed Adm. William M. Fechteler as chief of naval operations.

It said the president has proposed to the fourth Atlantic council that Lt.-Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther succeed Ridgway as supreme commander of North Atlantic forces in Europe, and that the council has approved. Gruenther has been chief of staff to Ridgway.

The president's action today completed plans for reorganization of the joint chiefs of staff. Last week he nominated Gen. Nathan Twining to succeed Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg as air force chief of staff.

Bradley and Collins will serve out their terms which expire in August. Fechteler's term has two years to run but today's announcement would indicate he will not finish out the term.

There was no immediate word, however, as to when Carney would take over the top naval post from Fechteler.

FOUR HONORARY DEGREES

OTTAWA (CP) —The University of Ottawa announced Tuesday it will confer the honorary degree of doctor of laws on four Canadians during graduation exercises June 7.

The degree will go to Mr. Justice Gerald Fauteux of the Supreme Court of Canada, Education Minister Dunlop of Ontario, Solicitor-General Rivard of Quebec, and Editor Alexander Gardiner, chief architect of the federal public works department.

Victims of Forest Fire

Of 100 fires reported to have broken out in Canada's timber lands parched by worst spring heat wave in years, 80 were confined in Ontario where they destroyed over 20,000 acres of mixed timber. One fire, raging out of control, raced through Markstay, a small lumbering settlement in the east Sudbury area, destroying a $40,000 lumber mill, the homes of 13 families and 2,000 acres of forest. A carelessly tossed cigarette was blamed for fire which gutted the homes of Mrs. Albert Sequin — seen with son Gerard and grandson Denis — and Henry Valinquette, a neighbor. — Central Press Canadian.

Principal Says College Should Provide Clergy to Meet Needs

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Huron College, situated in the second largest Anglican diocese in Canada should provide clergy to meet the ministry needs of the diocese of Huron and other dioceses as well, the principal of Huron College said Tuesday.

Rev. Dr. W. R. Coleman told members of the diocesan synod that the college is not doing this.

Eight students will receive their licentiate in theology tonight at the college's annual convocation, he said. This is a larger number than in the past, "but it is not large enough."

He said it raised the question of recruiting for the ministry "which is not being given enough serious thought in the diocese."

Dr. Coleman proposed regional conferences to which young men would be invited even though they may have given no thought to the ministry.

Reporting on the college's financial campaign, Rev. Canon H. F. Appleyard of Grace Church, Brantford, called for a continuation of the drive to raise the remaining $121,480 required to erase the school's debt.

A resolution calling for an increase "with the least possible delay" in the minimum salaries paid to clergy in the 280 parishes of the diocese was passed by unanimous vote of delegates.

The resolution called for minimum stipends of $2,200 for single and $2,400 for married clergymen, plus car allowances where necessary for both classes.

Previous minimum for both married and unmarried clergy was $2,000 a year.

Most outspoken lay delegate in favor of the proposal was F. E. Russell of Canon Davis Memorial Church, Sarnia.

"Ask yourself who in the world would be willing to work more for what they (clergymen) do when they could go into industry and earn three or four times as much," he said.

The synod recommended provincial action to provide medical care for indigents lacking residence requirements.

Rev. John Duncan, St. Thomas, Ont., asked the resolution on indigent care was designed to close a gap in the province's medical service.

Thinks Papers Concentrate Too Much on Violence

LONDON (CP)—Beverley Baxter, Canadian-born member of Parliament, says he thinks newspapers concentrate too much on violence.

"Death, death, death," he said is the recurring theme, except on Sundays when it becomes adultery."

Baxter, who was addressing the British Association of Industrial Editors, added he doesn't think much of Britain's Sunday newspapers, some of which "no self-respecting man would edit."

He thought there was a sale for "idealism, for beauty and even for humor."

Baxter once was editor of the Daily Express and still writes for the Evening Standard. Both are owned by Canadian - born Lord Beaverbrook.

Postgraduate School May Be Formed

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Medical Association may be asked to accept a plan for postgraduate education of practising doctors when it meets again for its annual convention.

The education committee Tuesday put forward a proposal for appointment of a director to further such a program and for the financing of a postgraduate school.

Dr. R. G. Hall, committee chairman, said doctors must keep abreast of developments in medicine and expand the present program of lectures into using existing hospitals as lecture centres with ward calls to supplement.

The finance committee proposed that a charge of 50 cents or 2½ per cent be made on dues collected by the Ontario body for the Canadian Medical Association. Dr. Carl Hill said the Ontario body does the work and now turns over a $20 fee.

A recommendation that a doctor's fee for an initial physical examination and complete history of the case be increased above the $5 level was adopted by the general council. The recommendation will go to the tariff committee of the association.

91 Candidates File Nomination Papers for Contest

HALIFAX (CP)—Ninety-one candidates filed nomination papers Tuesday to contest the 37 seats in the May 26 Nova Scotia general election.

In Pictou West, W. E. Salsman, nominated at a Liberal convention, announced his withdrawal and did not file papers. In Antigonish, Terrence Thompson, defeated Progressive Conservative in the last election, filed papers as an independent.

Liberals, who held 27 seats at dissolution, entered standard-bearers in all seats and the Progressive Conservative party, who formed an eight-man opposition, entered all but one riding. The CCF, who had two members, entered 16 candidates.

There were two independents, both in Antigonish against the sitting member, Lauchlin Currie, Liberal-Labor. There was only one woman entered, Mrs. Florence Velma in Cumberland Centre.

In the last election in June, 1949, Liberals under Premier MacDonald captured 28 seats. They dropped one to a Progressive Conservative in a by election.

Forest Fire Toll

Forest fires have ravaged central Canadian provinces following a summer-like heat wave. Residents were driven from their homes and thousands of acres of valuable timberland destroyed in Manitoba as that province experienced its worst outbreak in history. All that remains of pensioner George Saunder's farm cottage near Badger— in the path of one of the bush fires — is this heap of tangled, blackened wreckage. Later, snow and rain swept across Manitoba, northern Ontario and northern Quebec lessening the danger a little — (CP Photo.)

Strikers Given Immediate Raise Of 7½ Cents Hour

STRATFORD (CP)—Final settlement of the strike of Swift Canadian employees calls for an immediate pay increase of 7½ cents an hour, and an additional three cent increase Aug. 1.

The agreement is effective for one year from May 1.

Plant manager W. D. Sinclair said it might take a week to get the plant into full swing following the shut-down which has lasted since March 4.

The 81 striking employees are members of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL). Settlement followed three days of talks under chief conciliation officer Louis Fine.

Press Receives Instructions On Dress to Be Worn

LONDON (CP) — Newspaper men and radio commentators have received their invitations "commanding" them to attend the Coronation in Westminster Abbey June 2. The invitation consists of a large gilt-edged card bearing the Royal coat of arms.

Along with it, the press received special instructions from the Earl Marshal and six pages of instructions on dress regulations. These conclude with a terse note saying highland plaids and powder horn are to be worn.

Correspondents are told they may wear any of the forms of court dress specified in the lord chamberlain's regulation for dress at court, evening dress with knee breeches or trousers, morning dress or dark lounge suits.

The earl marshal's office, which issued the invitations, said it is expected 240 men and women will represent press and radio in the Abbey. The total attendance on Coronation Day, including peers and members of the Royal Family will be about 7,500.

Predict Surplus of Butter When Govt. Dropped Support For Canadian Cheddar Cheese

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian consumers may get a bargain in cheese with the resumption of open market selling in Ontario Friday. But the shift may bring ballooning surpluses of butter in government warehouses next winter.

Historically, dairy men have found that as a rule of thumb, the price of cheddar must be about one-half the price of butter to keep a well-balanced movement of milk flowing into the two dairy products.

Knock that price ratio out of line and a shift in the flow follows. Reduce the price of cheese without reducing the price of butter and the ñ owof milk is attracted more to butter, dairy men say. Cut the price of butter and maintain a high price on cheese and the milk flow is reversed.

Ontario is Canada's big cheese-producing province. Under a producer-government program, cheddar was virtually supported at 30 cents a pound wholesale. The federal government is supporting creamery butter at 58 cents a pound wholesale.

Now the picture has changed. Charles Heath, secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, emerged from a Belleville meeting Tuesday that the 30-cent-a-pound price support on cheese has been removed.

Cheddar will go on public auction next Friday without the strength of a floor price. A Belleville cheese buyer predicted retail cheese prices will drop five or six cents a pound.

In Ottawa, Wood St. John, secretary-manager of the National Dairy Council, emphasized that if cheese prices drop, there will be a "substantial" diversion of milk to butter factories.

A spokesman for the Ontario department of agriculture said "there is no doubt" the price support removal will bring retail prices down, but he said he could not predict how much.

"There is little chance of shipping more Canadian cheese out of the country because Britain shows no interest in it and United States quotas are filled," he said.

Prince Charles Will See Portion Of Coronation Service at Abbey

LONDON (CP)—Prince Charles will go to Westminster Abbey "for a period" during the coronation service June 2, it was announced today.

The earl marshal, the Duke of Norfolk, made the announcement at a press conference. He said he has no details as to what the four-year-old son of the Queen will wear, or how long he will be present.

Previous reports suggested that the Prince would not go to the abbey for even a part of the coronation ceremony. A Buckingham Palace spokesman said last week it seemed not likely the prince would be present in the abbey. No reason was given for the apparent change of plan.

"I do not know whether the Prince will be dressed in any special manner, or just where in the abbey he will get his glimpse of the event," the earl marshal who is in charge of the ceremonial aspects of the Corpnation said.

Preparations Nearly Complete

Preparations for the Coronation are coming to a swift conclusion, the earl marshal said, and he expected that within the next three weeks the nation will be gripped by what he called a "Coronation fever."

"Let it be a great day of freedom and rejoicing," he said. "But also let us remember the spiritual significance of this great occasion. Let us think of the Queen, and on the night of June 1 when we retire, ask, as she has requested us to do, that God may support her, and bless us all."

The duke said that, beginning next Thursday, there will be rehearsals almost daily of various aspects of the ceremony. Then, May 29, many of the 7,500 persons who will crowd into the abbey on Coronation Day, will take part in an elaborate final rehearsal.

The Queen who does her rehearsing privately with the Archbishop of Canterbury, will not be at this final rehearsal. Asked who will take her part in the final practice run the duke answered with a smile:

"My wife."

Three Generations

The duke disclosed that there will be three generations of the Churchill family at the Coronation service within the abbey.

Prime Minister Churchill will be in the abbey procession and take a place among Commonwealth prime ministers. His son, Randolph Churchill, is a gold staff officer, having some of the responsibilities of an usher. The prime minister's grandson, Winston Spencer-Churchill, will be a page to marshal of the RAF Viscount Portal of Hungerford.

The marshal revealed precise details of the ceremonial procession into the abbey from the large annex which has been built at the west doors. Peers and the great officers of the state and Churchill will arrange themselves there in a rigid order prescribed by protocol. There will be about 260 persons, representing the most exalted degrees of British aristocracy, in this march, known as theQueen's procession.

Slow Walk

The Queen will require eight to 10 minutes to walk the 100 yards from the west doors to her Chair of Estate in the Coronation theatre. The procession will last about 15 minutes. The Queen's husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, will march in a section of his own immediately ahead of officers bearing the Queen's Coronation regalia. He will be escorted by an officer and three gentlemen-at-arms. In the official order of ceremony he is identified as "Admiral of the Fleet, His Royal Highness, the Duke of Edinburgh."

The Duke's position in the procession was regulated by a tradition established at the Coronation of 1902, when Queen Anne was crowned. She was the last sovereign Queen to be crowned while she had a husband living. Her husband, Prince George of Denmark, did not receive a crown, as do Queen consorts. The Duke of Edinburgh's chief role in the Coronation will be to lead the peers doing homage to the Queen. Later as her husband, he will kneel beside her in the communion service.

MARMORA

Bears on Rampage In Allan Mills, Tiffin Districts

Marmora — Bears have been on the rampage of late in the Tiffin and Allan Mills district. On a Saturday night recently Joseph Herman, who is looking after some bees on the farm of Dr. H. G. Parkin at Tiffin, had four hives smashed and contents upset by a bear or bears.

This prompted Mr. Herman to watch with his single-barrelled shotgun. No bear showed up on Sunday, but after dark on Monday evening, the watcher sensed a bear within 30 yards of him.

He had never been so close to one before and tried to use his flashlight to get the outline of the target but somehow or other it would not work.

Mimes Bear

He fired a shot which missed the animal but caused it to advance on its hind legs in threatening attitude. The next shot wounded the bear and it decided to retire, being hit a second time in its flight. The next morning a trail of blood was plainly seen. That same morning another bear visited a nearby apiary to the first one. It disregarded a lighted lantern within eight feet of it and carried off a hive for a distance of 50 yards before smashing it and devouring its contents.

Things were now getting interesting and a local hunter, James Gordenier, was contacted with a view to having some traps set for the marauders. It was, however, Friday before Gordenier laid them. That Tuesday evening, however, a local farmer killed two cubs which were up a tree, leaving their carcasses in a fork of the tree to be removed Wednesday morning. As he went for them he found they had vanished. He was left with the theory that the mother bear had carried off her twg dead offspring to her den, the situation of which has not been located.

Interesting Developments

When Gordenier turned up at his traps on Saturday morning he found an interesting development in the situation. He found that one trap had been dragged off by a bear. It had knocked down four panels of the fence to which the trap had been attached as it had become entangled. Gordenier caught up with the bear about 800 yards away. He estimated it to be about 400 pounds in weight. It soon showed the inclination to charge despite its handicap but was killed before it could do further damage.

This was the second bear to be shot in that district last week.

Accounts for Another

About two miles away in Seymour township, as the crow flies, Harold Simpson accounted for one about 6.30 p.m. last Tuesday. He shot it while it was traversing his wheat field. Said Simpson: "I judge it to have weighed 300 lbs. at least, as I and my partner were dragging its carcass. I have three more to shoot yet, a female and two cubs, which I saw in the same field."

Children Miss Coronation?

It is not yet known what role the Royal Children will play at the Coronation. Indications are neither will be in Westminster Abbey. Princess Anne is much too young. As for Charles, though it was originally thought he would be, expectations have been revised. Some say it would be an added strain on the young Queen if her son happened to cry out "Mummy" at a critical moment. — (CP Photo.)

Prince Charles, five in November, loves animals. When not playing with his white rabbit, "Harvey," he can often be found with a glove puppet shaped like a rabbit. To Charles it matters little that his mother will be crowned Queen of the United Kingdom and Commonwealth. What interests him, chiefly, is the prospect of mounted soldiers, gilded coaches and marching bandsmen. — (CP Photo.)

Yankees Defeat Cleveland 7-0 To Extend League Lead To Two Games

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

CHANGE OF MIND:

Well, well, what goes on. With the "battle of the century" looming over the hoofight experts south of the border are re-hashing opinions and weighing every little thing which they think may have some bearing on the decision.

Our favorite columnist, "Uncle" Dan Parker, of the New York Mirror, a bloke who is reputed to keep his bearing, wrestling and hockey, appears to have a change of heart, or opinion. A few weeks ago Dan'l penned the statement that Rocky would blockbust the hoary scrapper from Camden, New Jersey, and send him sleepy bye-bye midway through the brawl.

Now look who happen. Dan'l in his latest effusion on the big scrap comes out flatfooted with the prognostication that Jersey Joe will regain the title via the decision route.

Dan'l, it appears, has been visiting the various training camps. He agrees with oldtime fighters that Jersey has a good chance of winning if he can stand up for 15 rounds. They argue that if Louis had to chase Walcott for 26 rounds before catching up with him, Rocky, who is no ball of fire shooting at a moving target, would have a tough job on his hands, not to mention feet, if Jersey led him the same merry chase.

Parker points out that Jersey Joe is at his best when he is the underdog and he has unlimited confidence in his manager, Felix Bocchichio.

He believes the key to the outcome is Walcott's physical condition with emphasis on the legs and reflexes. He points out that Rocky bears the onus of being the champion saddled by such a burden a fighter can get awfully discouraged if he finds himself getting nowhere against a crafty veteran who knows every trick in the business. If Walcott could be aggressive enough to pile up points but cautious enough not to fight Rocky's way, which is toe-to-toe slugging, he could very well make the champion feel so futile as to lose faith in himself.

And it would appear that Jersey is planning on a hit-and-run fight. He has been emphasizing his training with plenty of attention to the legs. He has "done" ten miles of roadwork every day since he started readying for the most important fight in his career.

There isn't any doubt about it. Jersey is the sentimental favorite. An aging old man tabbed anywhere from 29 to 47 years of age, who knows he is risking his all to achieve something never before accomplished by a heavyweight champion.

Boxing fans in this village are divided in opinion. Some claim the Rock will blockbust Jersey into fistic oblivion midway through the bout, while others are the sentimental kind and are pulling for "Joisey" to come through. With a lot of them it is a case of "me heart is with Jersey but me money is on Rocky."

Not being much of a sentimentalist at heart as far as box fights are concerned, we believe youth will be served on Friday night and that Rocky will retain his title. And that means, if former predictions can be judged a criterion, Jersey Joe will retain the crown.

THE SALVATION ARMY

They go into the homes where's there's suffering and heartbreak. And when they do, it's you who have sent them. And where a young life is threatened by bad companions and evil environment they provide a way out. But wherever they go and whatever they do, these quiet, hard working men and women in Salvation Army blue, it's you who have sent them for, without your help in the Red Shield Appeal, they could not continue. Our modern society is often cruel and heartless because you and I haven't time to share another's troubles. We're too busy with our own lives to worry about others. When you meet the current Red Shield Appeal for the Salvation Army, you help others . . . men, women and children who, but for that help, might be condemned to despair. When the uniformed Salvation Army canvasser calls at your door, please be generous.

ALL OVER!

The Men's Commercial "B" Bowling League rang down the curtain on a highly successful season at the Shrine Club last night. The boys gorged themselves with an excellent dinner and said adieu to the season's activities in a blaze of friendly glory. Trophies were paid to the champions and a new slate of officers elected. Barney Parsons, that "Labatt" man, presented the handsome championship trophy donated by his company to the title-winning Station Bakeries team, as well as other prizes. It was a grand party, easily one of the best "Knife and Fork League' fixtures of the season. Popular Elmer Scott, last year's secretary, was elevated to the presidency and the loop will be in good hands next year.

Whitey Ford Baffles Indians With One-Hit Mound Effort; Phils Take Lead in National

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Whitey Ford, a cocky New York Yankee lefthander, and Bob Buhl, a Milwaukee rookie making his first major league start, have joined the growing list of young pitchers who are out to prove that today's baseball isn't as lively as some folks claim.

Last month home runs were flying in all directions at such distances that travelling secretaries with the ball clubs were carrying tape measures as standard equipment.

But in the last week it's been a different story.

A week ago Bobo Holloman of the St. Louis Browns tossed a no-hitter. Sunday Don Liddle of Philadelphia Athletics came darn near with a two-hitter. And Bob Porterfield of Washington threw a one-hitter.

Tuesday night Ford baffled Cleveland Indians on one hit—a slow rolling grounder that never got as far as third base. Buhl, another Braves' first-year man, mastered New York Giants on two hits.

Was Masterpiece

Ford won his game 7-0, giving the Yankees a comfortable two-game bulge on top of the American league over the second-place Indians. Buhl lost his shutout in the ninth, but still triumphed easily 5-1.

The Yankee victory was a masterpiece by Ford, who refused to sign his contract this spring until he got paid what he thought a Yankee was worth. Whitey, back in the big leagues after a two-year army hitch, has a phenomenal record—12 major league starts and 12 major league victories. The only time he has been beaten was in relief against Philadelphia in 1950.

"I've never pitched a one-hitter before," he said after Tuesday night's game.

"That was my best one. As long as the hit had to come I'm glad it came that early. I don't know if I would have been able to stand the tension."

Early Wynn, who was opposing Ford on the mound, just got his bat on a 3-and-2 pitch in the sixth inning and dribbled it between the mound and third base. Ford charged in along with third baseman Gil McDougald. When he saw Ford couldn't make it, McDougald made a stab for the ball but couldn't find the handle.

The official scorer called it a hit on the theory that Wynn would have beaten any throw McDougald could have made, even if he came up with the ball.

Buhl, working in 40-degree temperature with a brisk wind, gave up a breeze-blown Texas league single to Don Mueller in the fourth inning and a double by Bobby Thompson at the start of the ninth.

Dodgers Beaten

Philadelphia Phillies took over the lead in the National league by edging St. Louis Cardinals 6-5, after Brooklyn Dodgers lost the only daylight contest 6-4 to Chicago Cubs on Dee Fondy's 11th-inning home run. Pittsburgh and Cincinnati were rained out at Cincinnati after 2½ innings with the Pirates leading 5-1.

Holloman, making his first appearance since tossing his no-hitter, gave up two runs and lasted less than three innings at Philadelphia before he retired with a blistered finger on his pitching hand.

Don Larsen took over for the Browns and they went on to whip the Athletics 7-4. Washington won its fifth in a row 10-1 over Detroit and Chicago won an uphill battle at Boston 9-7 in 10 innings.

Fifteen Bouts In Prelims

TORONTO (CP)—Fifteen bouts were held Tuesday night in preliminary rounds of the Canadian amateur wrestling championships. Finals will be held tonight.

In the 174-pound division, Jim Christie of Toronto pinned both his opponents. He disposed of Gerry Tardi of Winnipeg in 7:08, then scored a fall from Serge Suchoki of Montreal at 8:17.

Results included:

160½ pounds—Ray Ricci, Montreal, split-decisioned Kurt Boss; Bruno Ochman, Sault Ste. Marie, 160 pounds — Bernadin Hornbower, Montreal, decisioned Bob Blackmore, Toronto; George Cutajar, St. Catharines, decisioned Blackmore at 1:46.

Heavyweight—Vern Plett, Montreal, decisioned Ken Wickens, London.

Ezzard Charles Rallies To Whip Gilliam

TOLEDO, O. (AP)—Ezzard Charles, former world heavyweight champion, came back strongly in the last five rounds Tuesday night to gain a unanimous decision over Bill Gilliam. Charles weighed 189½, Gilliam 210½.

Charles, finding the range, closed his bigger opponent's left eye in the ninth round and floored Gilliam with a short right to the jaw in the 10th. It was the only knockdown in the fight.

Gilliam took the lead in the early rounds, and threw left jabs that kept the Cincinnati fighter off balance. In the third round, the Orange, N.J., heavy landed a solid right to the head which shook Charles. Again in the fourth round Gilliam kept his left in Charles' face with no retaliation.

Cockell Wins British Title

LONDON (AP)—Don Cockell, one-time British light heavyweight champion, gained the British and Empire heavyweight titles Tuesday night by outpointing Johnny Williams of Rugby in a 15-rounder. It was an unsurprising bout.

Cockell weighed 207 pounds and it showed, but at least he tried to make it a fight while Williams kept back-pedalling. Cockell finished with his left eye closed, his other swollen, his mouth and nose battered from left jabs—but ringsiders said he deserved the victory.

Galen Hanover Wins Pace Race

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Galen Hanover, taking the lead at the half-mile pole, went on to score an easy three-length victory Tuesday night in the Kensico Pace at Yonkers Raceway's Grand Circuit meeting.

Warner Bull brought Galen Hanover into the lead without trouble. Jerry's Pride closed well for second with Ginger Tass third. The 8-5 favorite, Margaret Abbedale, was a poor fourth.

Quebec League Back in CAHA Fold; Arbitration Suggestion Turned Down

By W. R. Wheatley
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association wants something done to hobble teams that toss the puck when short handed and to silence players who protest with lurid profanity when they are tossed into the penalty box.

At its opening general meeting Tuesday, the association accepted proposals that would embody both changes, but turned thumbs down on several others.

It threw out a proposal by the Saskatchewan branch that the slap shot be banned as a dangerous part of hockey and thereby allowed the embryo Boom Boom Geoffrions to continue blasting away to their hearts' content.

A footnote was appended to the rules telling referees to deal strictly with players for booting a puck to hand out major penalties "when warranted."

A proposal that time keepers call attention to referees of swearing by outraged players, also was rejected. It was felt the time keeper should not become an active official in the game.

Go Before Committee

Small matters for rule changes will go before the rules committee of the National Hockey League in accordance with a mutual agreement between the two bodies. Each knows what the other would like to can act accordingly so that both wind up with essentially the same rules.

Soon after opening its first plenary session, but the 36th annual convention, the association welcomed back the reinstated Quebec Amateur Hockey Association—one of the parent body's biggest branches—which had been suspended for defying the national organization's edict over a player's status.

Scarcely were the five Quebec delegates seated when Commissioner Martin Conway of the CAHA arose and proposed that future disputes between CAHA branches be settled by arbitration, the arbitrator to have no connection whatever with the CAHA or its branches.

The vote was a surprising 11-to-7 count by half a dozen of the Quebec resolution, but it was lost because a two-thirds majority was necessary.

The resolutions committee continued its deliberations on many subjects today as a prelude to another general meeting tonight.

The arbitration suggestion was the only resolution proposed by the Quebec delegates which did not get prompt passage on to the committee.

One of the most important provides that a committee consider future rules governing playoff series leagues and the CAHA. It says the only official recognition the convention has taken so far of the decision by the Quebec Senior League to turn professional. The Maritime Major League is the only other circuit concerned.

The Quebec delegates also put across for consideration a proposal that officers of branches involved in a dispute shall have no vote at conventions when questions are put to a vote by branches.

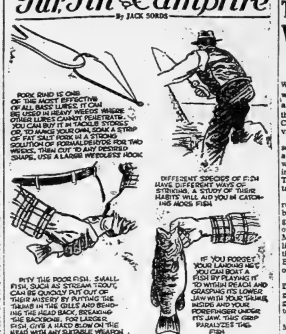
The rules committee left it up to the general meeting to deal with the proposal of the Ontario Hockey Association about putting a check rein on teams for icing the puck. It was agreed that the present rule forbidding icing be rewritten to make provision against this practice for short handed teams.

Another proposed rule change, which would call for automatic penalties for boarding. It incorporated in it everything except points to a banner year for lawn bowling in Belleville.

Plans are underway to have a week declared as 'Lawn Bowling Week' in that city and a special effort will be made to have many visitors from other parts of the province during this period. It was also agreed by the Council that the club would run a mixed jitney on Coronation Day, June 2nd, the proceeds from which would be turned over to The Ontario Society for Crippled Children through the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association of Ontario, who have asked each club in Ontario to sponsor a similar event. Coronation Day. Any citizens of Belleville and district who would like to try out the grand old game of lawn bowling are cordially invited to come to the green for free instruction anytime after Monday next. All that you are required to bring is a pair of flat shoes or running shoes.

Lawn Bowling Season to Open Next Monday

Play for the 1953 season at the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club will be officially commenced on Monday, Club president, Jerry Hyde, announced today.



Play will commence at 2 p.m. with a mixed jitney under the direction of Club Chairman of Jitneys, Orio Smith. The executive of the club met recently and the following will serve for this season in the positions noted: Jerry Hyde, President; Orio Smith, tournament secretary, "Skip" Vandervoort; Club Games secretary, Percy Graham; Corbin Gold tournament chairman, Cliff Argue and secretary - treasurer, Howard Hanton. Membership chairman, Leo Colling and the joint chairmen of greens will be "Mac" McLean and Garn Dobbs.

The greenskeeper, Jack Smith, advises that the greens this year are in the best condition that he has ever seen them in the spring and with favorable weather the club heartily agree. Considerable work has been done in levelling the greens particularly at the ends and many new rinks will be laid out when installed. The light shades have been all repaired or re-painted and everything in preparation for a banner year for lawn bowling in Belleville.

Plans are underway to have a week declared as 'Lawn Bowling Week' in that city and a special effort will be made to have many visitors from other parts of the province during this period. Dom DiMaggio Retires From Baseball Scene

NEW YORK (AP)—This is morning day for 18 players on 10 major league baseball clubs at the teams trim their rosters to the 25-man limit called for at midnight tonight.

There was a flurry of shifting Tuesday as team managers approached the deadline, and some say there will be still more today's games before making final decisions.

The voluntary retirement of Dom DiMaggio, Boston Red Sox outfielder and last of the three DiMaggio brothers to play in the big leagues, helped manager Lou Boudreau make up his mind.

The Red Sox sent southpaw relief hurler Bill Wight to the Boston farm at Louisville on option. Two more must be trimmed by tonight.

John Schmitz, 32-year-old New York Yankee lefthander, was sent to Washington Senators for the $10,000 waivier price.

The Senators, in turn, sold pitcher Sandalio Consuegra to Chicago White Sox a few hours after the Pale Hose had obtained outfielder Allie Clark from Philadelphia Athletics.

Chicago and the Athletics must trim away two players, the Senators one,the Yankees three, St. Louis Browns two, Cleveland and Detroit one each.

Four teams in the National League are without a trim, but Brooklyn Dodgers, Cincinnati Reds and St. Louis Cardinals each must drop one player. Pittsburgh Pirates must cut away three players.

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP)—A two-year-old colt named Black Monday is making it "bright Monday" for the hutch players. He won his first race Monday at Wolverhampton Monday, April 20, paying 10s. He raced again last Monday, winning at 7-4 odds. His next race? At Wolverhampton next Monday.

Ottawa Edges Toronto Leafs; Wings Defeated

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The front-running Rochester Red Wings were defeated Tuesday night when Vern Fear, recovering from a wild streak in the second and third innings, pitched Springfield Cubs to a 4-2 International League victory over the Wings.

Montreal Royals and Buffalo Bisons, tied for second place with a .571 average, were blanked out when the tilts failed in the fifth inning with Montreal ahead 4-0. The game was suspended and will take up where it left off tonight.

In other league games, a two-run rally in the ninth touched off by Lou Limmer's one-run homer gave Ottawa Athletics a 6-5 edge over the fourth-place Toronto Maple Leafs; and Howie Fox, relieving starter Charley Marshall in the fourth, pitched and batted Baltimore Orioles to a 9-3 victory over Syracuse Chiefs.

At Springfield, the loser was Denny Reeder. Rochester tied the game in the fourth but the Cubs got two runs in the fifth to regain the quarter-mile CNE track here with subjects from every province.

Tuesday's meeting is the first held on the same track.

Officials announced an initial contribution of $20,000 has been received from anonymous "angels". This has not been touched. The money will be used to help competitors and subscribers from the provinces here and to receive coaching from a leading British or American coach one week prior to the initial meet.

George Duthie, manager of the CNE sports department, will start a country-wide tour May 21 to help organize provincial championships. He will confer with AAU and provincial recreation and health department officials and possibly representatives of service clubs.

Duthie's first stop will be Vancouver May 22.

It is believed likely the September Dominion meet will be recognized by the AAU, track and field's sports governing body, as the official Canadian championships of 1953.

In recent years Canadian track championships conducted by the AAU have been of a "provincial" nature. Only three or four provinces have been represented, mainly because athletes could not afford the transportation and lodgings cost and the AAU could not give them financial assistance.

It is possible, too, that the trials for the 1954 British Empire Games may be held here with the support of this country's announced program. The meet probably would be held next spring, a few months before the games open at Vancouver.

A. Sidney Dawes of Montreal, past president of the Canadian Olympic Association, gave his whole-hearted support to the plan. "Track and field needs more help than any other sport in Canada and the COA and British Empire Games committee are 100 per cent behind this idea," he said.

Jim Worrall of Toronto, president of the AAU, said that "if the CNE can overcome the difficulty of encouraging track and field in Canada the AAU is behind it."

Canadian Olympic Training Plan Launched by National Sportsmen

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—An ambitious track and field plan to encourage and promote the sport in all provinces from Newfoundland to British Columbia was created here Tuesday. It could herald a return to the lush days of the '20s and '30s when the country's athletes competed on even terms with the world's best.

The scheme—called the "Canadian Olympic Training Plan"—was launched at a press luncheon by Canadian National Exhibition, provincial, civic, and national amateur sports leaders. It received the blessing of the Canadian Olympic Association, British Empire Games committee and the Amateur Athletic Unions.

Meet in September

The plan, proposed a year ago by CNE president J. A. Northey, entails annual provincial championships and a Dominion meet. The first Canada-wide meet will be held next Sept. 12 on the regulation quarter-mile CNE track here with

Blue Bombers Start Training Grind Fifty-Eight Candidates Turn Out

WINNIPEG (CP)—Genial George Trafton is up to his hips in football talent and up to his fedora brim in beef.

The Winnipeg Blue Bomber coach opened the club's spring training grind Monday and on the second night, 58 candidates jammed practice facilities. There were 44 men out the first night.

This location of the new-born football season, only days after the Winnipeg rammed its last Memorial Cup game of the dying hockey season, constitutes only part of the Bomber potentials. All the candidates are from junior, intermediate, high school and university teams.

Bomber regulars Gar Baxter, Leone Benson, Len Mellzer, Steve Patrick, Keith Pearce, Ron Vachon, Roger Savoie and Bud Kochak were out for the early workouts.

Trafton barely returned from a player hunt in Michigan in time for the first session at his plane was grounded and he finished the trip by bus and taxi.

Pick Out Prospects

The early grind, which continues until the end of May, is designed to pick out the likely prospects for regular berths with the Bombers. These are invited to the regular practices which begin July 15.

There is a lot of beef in the early line-up. The estimated average weight is more than 190 pounds and many of the huskies weigh over 200-pounds. This had Trafton smiling although he said he wouldn't not able to estimate the value of the school for a week or so.

The grind, which will go five nights a week, has drawn the cream of Manitoba talent including members of the St. Boniface-Norwood Legionnaires, Canadian intermediate champions last season, and the now-defunct Winnipeg Light Infantry juniors.

Five out-of-towners joined the ranks, four from the East. Harry Wolfe of Montreal, Don Peart, last year with University of Toronto, John de Paulo of Port Arthur and Lloyd Atkinson of Barrie, Ont., all made the jump westward.

Hans Firken, with four years experience in junior football at Edmonton, is the other out-of-town prospect.

Frigid Manitoba weather kept the boys inside for the first night as each underwent a careful medical check and filled out a questionnaire to help club officials estimate his experience.

The club uses a definite routine to assess native ability in a player as opposed to the acquired variety. The men go through a series of tests called the Rhodes system. Besides the questionnaire, there include a 30-yard dash, standing broad jump, a 10-yard start, a zigzag course and a pass-out. The latter is the movement of a lineman when he leaves the line to run interference for the ball carriers.

Glamorgan Scores Dramatic Win

LONDON (Reuters)—Glamorgan scored a dramatic victory by one run Tuesday over Worcestershire in a county cricket match.

The game ended in a tie until a draw when Worcestershire injected new life into it by capturing the last five Glamorgan wickets of the second innings for 19 runs. Bowler Dave Davies took four of the wickets at a personal cost of 18. But Worcestershire could not quite score the winning runs.

Final scores of Tuesday's first-class matches:

Somerset 127 and 185. Sussex 402 for six declared. Sussex won by an innings and 90 runs.

Northamptonshire 409 for eight declared and 92 for no wicket declared. RAF 255 and 223. Northampton won by 132 runs.

Leicestershire 243 and 256 for eight declared. Gloucestershire 198 and 304 for four. Gloucestershire won by six wickets.

Glamorgan 278 for five declared and 180. Worcestershire 374 and 102. Glamorgan won by one run.

Kent 507 for six declared. Northamptonshire 313 and 240 for two. Match drawn.

Yorkshire 295 for seven declared and 196 for eight declared. Essex 379 for six declared and 179 for nine. Match drawn.

Warwickshire 402 and 178 for five declared, Lancashire 338 and 158 for eight. Match drawn.

Cambridge University 359 and 266 for five declared. Free Foresters 201 and 125. Cambridge won by 199 runs.

Hampshire 153 and 324. Middlesex 416 for eight declared and 62 for two. Middlesex won by eight wickets.

Harry Matthews Draws With Freddie Beshore

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Favored Harry Matthews, 181½, Seattle, had to fight from behind to get a 10-round draw with Freddie Beshore, 180, Los Angeles, here Tuesday night.

It was a split decision, referee Ralph Gruman voting 60-to-50 for Matthews; judge Freddie Steele, 58½ to 53½ for Beshore, and judge Bobby Richards calling it even.

There were no knockdowns.

Matthews, showing the effects of a recent illness and a long layoff, absorbed some damaging body punishment but took the most ringside scorecards until the ninth round.

Then the Seattle veteran staggered Beshore with a right to the jaw and lagged him with three more vicious punches, and the Los Angeles man was in trouble at the bell.

Matthews tried hard for a knockout in the final but Beshore avoided further serious punishment.

A crowd of 4,752 paid $23,272 to see the fight.

OLDTIME PITCHER DIES

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Oren Eddie Summers, who had a notable career as a major league baseball pitcher more than two score years ago, died Tuesday at the age of 78.

The 18 innings he pitched for Detroit Tigers in their 0-0 game with Washington July 4, 1909, still stands as a record.

Meet Cancelled For Second Time

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Hollywood Turf Club officials Tuesday cancelled racing for the second straight day and announced that they will call off the entire Hollywood Park meeting unless a settlement is reached by Friday with horsemen demanding more purse money.

The $12,400,000 showplace failed to open on schedule Tuesday for the first time in its 14-year history, and today's card was blacked out when the horsemen again refused to relax their all-out boycott.

The Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association is demanding 40 per cent of the track's share of the pari-mutuel handle.

Marciano 3-1 Favorite Over Walcott; Hopes to End Battle 'About Midway'

By JACK HAND

CHICAGO (AP) — Champion Rocky Marciano said Tuesday his 15-round title bout Friday with ex-champion Jersey Joe Walcott will end "about midway" and Marciano will remain the heavyweight king.

Marciano, who ended more than eight weeks of training for the bout with a two-punch stint Tuesday, told newspaper men he thought Walcott could last the route. But he added: "I hope not."

Asked if he thought Walcott could produce any surprise during the title bout in Chicago Stadium he replied:

"I don't see what he could produce that would be new to me." Newspaper men recalled last September's title bout when Marciano dethroned Walcott, and quoted Jersey Joe's manager, Felix Bocchicio, as saying he thought Rocky had taken a beating then and had not fully recovered.

Eyes Were Clouded

Marciano scoffed at the statement. He said he thought that he had Walcott in a position to end the fight earlier than in the 12th round. The big factor which prevented the earlier ending, Marciano said, was that his eyes had clouded a little from blood and Walcott's blows.

Marciano weighed 187 before the sparring session Tuesday, and expects to hit 185 for the title bout.

Walcott boxed his customary six rounds Tuesday, tapering off his heavy drills. He appeared a little tired. Bocchicio said Jersey Joe is to drill today in a session closed to the public.

Walcott held a press conference before his workout. In it he circled as well as he does in the ring. First he said he hoped to knock out Marciano as soon as possible and then he declared his attack would depend on the way the battle goes.

Nobody has been breaking down any doors trying to buy $50 tickets but interest in the match seems to be picking up. The customers' early indifference was attributed to the high ringside tab and the severe letdown when the Chuck Davey balloon burst against Kid Gavilan.

Tommy King of the International Boxing Club's publicity department reported $500,000 in cash already "in." On Sunday Truman Gibson, IBC secretary estimated "close to $400,000 in cash and commitments." They probably will settle for a $500,000 gate by Friday, plus the $300,000 extra for radio-TV with the Chicago area blacked out on TV.

Despite the 3 to 1 odds favoring Marciano, there was solid optimism in the camp of the 28-year-old Walcott who is trying to become the first man ever to win back the heavyweight title.

Noted Orchestra Will Make One-Night Stand

Woody Herman and his orchestra will make a one-night stand at the Kingston Community Centre May 20. Fresh from a string of one-nighters with the "Big Show of 1953," the Third Herd, as his aggregation is known will make its lone appearance in Ontario. Featured along with the leader, one of the music world's top clarinetists, will be Dolly Houston, Carl Fontana, Arno Marsh and Nat Pierce.

Currently fronting one of the greatest musical aggregations of the age, Herman points out that his band is "striving to be versatile and play music that is accepted as great, but still endeavors to make it danceable."

Dancing at the Kingston Community Centre will last from nine in the evening until one a.m.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, MAY 14, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Outlook may tempt you to feel lackadaisical, take a manana (tomorrow) attitude. Easy-going manner isn't conducive to progress or wise perception now.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Keep close tabs on possibilities, prospects of putting over your favorite hobby as well as work. Willingness to try is really more than half the battle.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Generous day for you who are looking for work that will bring results from honest endeavor well performed.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—Most trades, manufacturing, mining, electric and steel work have fine prospects. News can stimulate; sift it well.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Might find going a bit trying, even disappointing at first. But keep striving and the will to win will be rewarded.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Difficult things should not stump you. Say you will and you can bring things to desirable achievement. Don't expect quick returns.

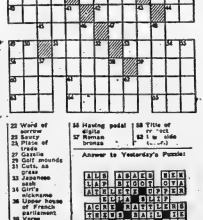
September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Take things quietly as they come; act smoothly with true Libra confidence. Domestic affairs may seem mixed but will straighten out if you remain calm.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Your usual brilliant ideas may not click at first but you have what it takes; so go forth with this in mind and come out on top.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Take time to study opportunities before acting. Stars say to look first before you leap, and if you do leap, do it very carefully.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Fresh activity in building, contracts. Meet associates, lay future plans in important matters. Keep a par pace, don't over-force nor lag.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Hold routine in order first; then strive for the unusual while still handling the necessary adequately. Don't reach for more than you can absorb.



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Your planet now warns against unwise speculation, taking chances with income. The conservative attitude best.

YOU BORN TODAY: Venus rules Taurus and Libra. She represents many productive possibilities when you do your best. Those ruled by Venus are pleasant, sociable, appreciate the intellectual. Can achieve in business, public speaking, politics, sports, teaching. You Taureans can be awkward expressing personality though you are kindly. Birthdate of: Hall Caine, novelist; Albert Einstein, celebrated physicist; G. D. Fahrenheit, introduced thermometer scale.

BASED ON TORONTO

TORONTO (CP)—Two Bangor-class Canadian minesweepers will be based at Toronto harbor this summer. They will be used to run radar trials on Lake Ontario. The two ships, HMCS Digby and HMCS Granby, are Canadian designed and built and are 162 feet long and carry a complement of 60 officers and men.

PICTON

Motorists Stop to Admire Cherry Orchards in Bloom

PICTON — In the cherry orchard districts of Prince Edward County it is impossible for and passing motorists find it wise to stop and admire the great mass of pink and white blooms. One of the largest cherry orchards in Canada, owned by Howard Leavens, is located just off the highway between Picton and Belleville, north of Bloomfield. The Orser orchards on the highway, in Hillier township, are also a colorful sight, the bloom being heavier this year than for some time.

Hundreds of motorists are seen each evening driving through the country where trees have sprung into lacy leaf, and where wild plum trees in full bloom contrast with the new greenness of spring. Daffodils and tulips stand out against green lawns and in several places peach and magnolia trees in bloom are to be seen.

An abundance of moisture, followed by several days of very warm weather, have contributed to rapid growth and the hay crop and fall and spring grains look very promising. Many cattle are now on pasture. Farmers are engaged in late seeding and preparing land for tomatoes and corn.

While the bounty of nature is seen on every hand, the picture for the farmer is not as bright. This week, the prices of milk and cream took a drop. This is believed due to the fact that the flush of milk for cheese has not yet been set. Farmers are disappointed with the demand for cattle for export. The recent increase following the lifting of the embargo having failed to materialize. Reduced acreage of tomatoes, due to a surplus of canned goods, is also affecting those engaged in agriculture. But except for the optimist, Prince Edward farmers are proceeding with work on the land and preparation for the crop which they will need to help them recover a less favored than they have been experiencing.

Churches Plan Joint Service For Coronation

PICTON —While no plans have been made for a civic observance of the Coronation, the municipal occasion will not go unmarked here. All protestant churches of the town are planning a joint service in Picton United Church on Sunday night, May 31. Crosby and Athol charges of the United Church will take part. Representatives of the Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Brownies, Cubs, Canadian Girls in Training and others will also attend. Picton I.O.O.F. Band will assist in the special music being planned.

More than 500 pupils of Picton public schools will take part in a special programme in which included will be special music and a pageant.

Boy Scouts are planning a great rally with a bugs fiery beacon at night.

The village of Wellington will likely be the scene of the county's general celebration. Elaborate plans to mark the occasion are being made there. The village Board of Trade is purchasing two seats which will be placed in the lakeside park with a suitable Coronation plaque.

To Lay Stone

The corner stone of the new Prince Edward District Collegiate will be laid at a special ceremony being held next Monday afternoon. Chairman of the Board Gerald Norman will have the honor of laying the stone. Dr. W. B. Lane will speak briefly and school children will provide special music. The brick work of the new school is being done and work has progressed rapidly. It is expected the building will be ready for occupancy this fall.

11-Hour Service

Commencing on Friday, there will be a 24-hour service at the Glenora - Adolphustown ferry crossing on Highway 33, Norris Whitney, MPP, stated yesterday. He pointed out that though there would be only one ferry operating there this year, the next year will see two 12-car ferries in operation at this busy point. Work of building approaches and docks for the new ferry is proceeding apace.

Appoint Architect

Appointment of an architect so that preliminary sketch plans of the proposed new Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital may be placed before the public, it was announced made at a meeting of the hospital committee, Friday night.

Though the general canvass to raise $400,000 does not get under way until June, there has already been a magnificent response, with a large organization pledged to furnish rooms.

The drive will be opened by a Coronation dance in Picton armouries on June 1st. Permission for use of the armouries, from military authorities, was delayed and cancellation of the dance was threatened, knowing that necessary permission had not been received, but arrangements have been made and are now giving fullest co-operation.

The hospital committee has visited hospitals at Winchester, Brockville, Kingston General and Hotel Dieu, Campbellford, Hunter Memorial at Weston and Northwestern, Toronto, in order to secure ideas.

The fifty members of Picton Rotary Club yesterday pledged $100 each to the fund.

Pageant

Nearly three hundred ladies attended a tea and fashion show held in Mecdonald's afternoon. Sponsored by the Order of Royal Purple, auxiliary to the B.P.O. Elks, all proceeds are for the Prince Edward Memorial Hospital building fund.

The Salvation Army Red Shield campaign in under way in Picton and Prince Edward County, Publicity Monday night in Picton saw nearly $1,000 collected with the canvass being complete in town.

Ross Parks, prominent Holstein breeder, at Bloomfield, has just sold a fine bull calf to MacFarlane Bros., of Red Deer, Alberta.

Picton Boy Scouts netted $232 from their recent sale of oranges. They are planning a paper drive on May 20 to raise further funds for summer camp.

Picton and Bloomfield Girl Guides are preparing to take part in a Guide Coronation gala at Deseronto on May 23. They are also holding Cookie day next Saturday.

Rev. W. G. H. Swayne is in Kingston this week, attending the Synod of the Diocese of Ontario.

Waco Death Toll Over 100-Mark; Still Seek Bodies

WACO, Tex. (AP)—The known death tally mounted today as searchers dug deep into the tornado ruins of downtown Waco.

The 100-mark was passed early today as the 101st body was found from the debris.

Meanwhile, city officials studied these grim figures: damages estimated at $40,000,000; 2,000 business and manufacturing buildings destroyed; 1,026 other buildings and homes damaged or destroyed. The report was made Wednesday night at a hastily-called emergency meeting. The figures were compiled by an army engineers survey team.

In San Angelo, Tex., where a tornado struck Monday shortly before the Waco storm, the toll stood at 10 dead—making a total of 111 tornado-dead in Texas.

Coronation Will Cost Canada About Million

OTTAWA (CP)—The Coronation of Queen Elizabeth next month is going to cost Canada $1,000,000—maybe more.

State Secretary Bradley told the Commons Wednesday that this estimated amount will be spent on events overseas:

Decorations for public buildings in the capital and elsewhere in Canada—$242,500.

Sending another 800 service men and women to London and providing a combined service band for Canadian ceremonies—$468,000.

Travelling expenses of Canada's official delegation, salaries and office expenses of Mr. Bradley's department—$75,000.

Striking a special medallion by the mint for distribution to school children—$126,000.

Sending an RCMP troop for the Coronation parade—$75,200.

Decorations and other expenses at Canada House in London—$14,400.

Several affairs department expenses—$25,000.

Those were the major items mentioned by Mr. Bradley in reply to Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton).

Top German Red Victim of Purge

BERLIN (AP)—The U. S. high commission newspaper, Neue Zeitung, said today Franz Dahlem, one of the big five of East Germany's Communist politburo, has been arrested in a new purge.

Party boss Walter Ulbricht fired Dahlem on Tuesday as chief of the party's cadres system. Dahlem was sharply criticized in public meetings for failure to oust bourgeois and Social Democrat spies in the district and county machines.

The Berlin radio said Dahlem was a top German Communist for 30 years. He held a front line job as commissar in the Spanish war and was the leader of the alien Communist colony in France after Hitler came to power.

SUPERSONIC BANG ONLY BEGINNING SAYS EXPERT

Planes of Future May Shatter Eardrum

LONDON (AP)—A British flight expert said today the super-jet planes of the near future will travel in windows, unroof houses and shatter the human eardrum.

This preview was given by A. H. Yale, senior lecturer in aeronautics at the Hatchley College of Aeronautics, in a letter to the London Times.

Yale said the supersonic "bang" now heard on the ground when a plane breaks through the so-called sound barrier is only the beginning.

"Whenever an aircraft flies at a speed greater than that of sound in air (it is 760 miles an hour, depending on its height) it creates shock waves in the air which move away from it as do the bow waves from a ship travelling full-ahead through water.

"The waves travel on, losing strength only slowly until they strike the car on the ground below (or break upon the beach).

"At present aircraft can fly supersonically only in dives at high altitudes and over the sea, but as the subsonic speeds, at which no shock waves are formed, before getting within three miles of our ears.

World Create Waves

"For this reason the bangs we hear do not cause aural disconfort. The ground-pump has been calculated and measured and found to be off only a fraction of only one pound to a square foot.

"Within a few years aircraft will be designed for cruising at speed of sound in level flight"—and then look out.

"An aircraft flying low at supersonic speeds, perhaps only 100 feet above the water and about a mile out, would create havoc not only in the canal zone but in lesser degree damage to our homes.

"Calculations of the pressure rise across the shock wave from an aircraft flying supersonically through the 'sound barrier' a level sudden change of about 19 pounds a square foot when the shock wave passes.

Could Break Windows

"Such a change is damaging to the ear this is sufficient to break most windows. Since the shock wave is moving forward with the aircraft it is merely during the acceleration through the 'sound barrier' a level flying aircraft could devastate a large area during a low, fast flight.

"It is clear that supersonic flying can be permitted only over the sea or at great heights, and disciplinary actions against low flying will have to be much stricter than it is today.

"The danger of an enemy, or a thoughtless friend, raising the roof of a city by flying past is a very real one."

Daring Experiment on Hearts of Five Doctors Opens Way for Gravity Suit

By REDDIE TAYLOR

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A daring experiment on the hearts of five United States Air Force doctors has opened the way for development of a more comfortable kind of gravity suit to prevent pilot blackout.

The tests, conducted by Capt. Owen L. Slaughter of Evansville, Ind., were reported to the closing meeting of the Aero Medical Association here today.

Two long, flexible tubes called catheters were inserted through blood vessels in the neck and into the heart of each doctor. Before the tests were being compressed as in a gravity or blackout suit.

Catheters are used frequently on one side or the other of the heart, but never before have they been used simultaneously on both sides, Dr. Slaughter said. The one-sided operation is only slightly dangerous, but the hazard is increased when both sides are catheterized.

However, no bad effects appeared, Dr. Slaughter reported.

Flight surgeons long had believed that tight-appearing gravity suits worked by preventing the blood from crowding into the lower part of the body during high speed dives or turns, leaving little or none for the brain and causing momentary unconsciousness.

The tests showed, Dr. Slaughter said, that the gravity suit does not work that way. Instead it causes the arteries in the legs and the abdomen to increase their resistance, thereby artificially with the idea of compressing arteries in the lower part of the body, so the first aid worker might do the baking the "pressure points" to stop hemorrhage.

It should be necessary no longer to inflate suits that will compress the flesh, he said.

British Government's Apology For Attlee's 'Insulting' Words Is Called For by McCarthy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy said today Britain should apologize for what he termed a "cheap attack" by former prime minister Attlee on President Eisenhower and the American people.

Conservative party members of Parliament, McCarthy said, sat silently last Tuesday while Attlee made "one of the most insulting speeches ever made in the legislative body of any country" against an ally which has been pouring out her economic life blood for practically every other nation on earth."

Wants Explanation

In a speech prepared for Senate delivery, the Wisconsin Republican said:

"The American people are entitled to an apology for this cheap, uncalled for, fantastic attack upon the president and people of the United States.

"We are entitled to an explanation as to whether the majority party in Britain agrees with Mr. Attlee, who was rejected by the British people.

McCarthy's prepared text contained no mention of Attlee's statement that "one outstanding failure Eisenhower or McCarthy wields the greater power in U. S. foreign policy."

"What shocked me," McCarthy said, "was that no member of the majority party arose to contest ever heard of," Attlee said.

what he had said."

"Unfair" Attlee

Several times the text of McCarthy's speech mentioned Attlee as "Clement Attlee."

McCarthy said Attlee welcomed Churchill's proposal for a big power meeting "after he had the pressure of my American would only hinder talks."

McCarthy said that was a "libel" against Eisenhower and "slander on the American people."

"Perhaps Mr. Attlee forgets that the U. S. has around 136,000 casualties in Korea, while the British figure is roughly 3,700," the Senator said. He went on:

"In connection with his statement that there are elements in the U.S. who do not want a truce in Korea, I challenge Mr. Attlee to find evidence this nation which has contributed so much in agony, blood and treasure to the cause of peace in Korea and peace throughout the world, but peace with honor—peace without surrender."

Attlee's Answer

LONDON (Reuters)—Labor party leader Clement Attlee today denied that he made "insulting" Attlee's charges that he has Communist sympathies.

"The British Labor party and I myself have been vigorously opposed to Communism in this country ever since its formation—always," Attlee said.

Eisenhower Wants to See Red Evidence of Good Faith

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he has no objection to a conference of top leaders of the Communist bloc if that he would first like to see some evidence of good faith from the Soviet Union.

And yet, he declared, he has seen no evidence of good faith on the part of the Russian in their talk of ending war peace.

Eisenhower made his remarks at a press conference in reply to a request for comment on Prime Minister Churchill's proposal made this week urging a high-level conference without great delay.

Eisenhower also declared:

"I have met no one in the United States who does not want peace."

The president permitted direct quotation of that remark in his reply to a request for comment on statements made by former prime minister Attlee.

Attlee said in the House of Commons Wednesday that the Eisenhower administration's hands were tied in seeking peace in Korea by "elements in the U.S.A. that do not want a settlement."

As for Churchill's call for a conference of the leaders of the major powers, Eisenhower said the United State department suggested Wednesday that a meeting of foreign ministers await proof of the Soviet Union's sincerity in talking about peace.

Eisenhower said the department's statement was issued with his approval.

Crew Prevented From Battening Down Hatches

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — Capt. Stanley Stelnbrenner and one freighter Henry Steinbrenner sailed Wednesday that high seas in Monday's storm prevented the crew from battening down the ship's hatches.

Stiglin was the first witness before a U.S. board of inquiry, a At midnight Sunday, he said, winds of from 70 to 80 miles an hour whipped Lake Superior seas to 20 feet high.

Before dawn, he said, he noticed a hatch cover was "working loose and leaking."

He said he put out a life line from stern to prow for the crew to hang on to as they attempted to batten down the hatches, but that the angry seas prevented the men from getting to the hatches.

The Kinsman Transit Co., of Cleveland, operator of the 11-listed carrier, said eight members of the Kinsman crew still are unaccounted for.

HOUSE PLUNGES INTO FINAL BATCH OF ESTIMATES

Prorogation Expected Some Time Today

OTTAWA (CP)—The House of Commons today plunged into the final batch of departmental estimates in the dregs of before prorogation of Parliament.

In the hope of closing out the session today, the House sat extralong hours Wednesday, winding up an hour and 20 minutes beyond the regular adjournment hour of 11 p.m. After working through estimates of five departments.

It completed the 1953-54 spending proposals of the mines, fisheries, state and post-office departments and most of those of the resources department.

Resources Minister Winters told the House last night session the government has hopes of seeing the $400,000,000 T r a n s-Canada Highway completed on schedule in 1956. This could be done if the provinces "do their part."

Mr. Winters also announced that the government has 2,000 words of construction on the highway have been let to contract and $9,000,000 let to let out another $30,000,000 this year.

Debate Is Missing

In a debate on mining matters, members from mine areas called for assistance of various kinds for Canada's coal industry and for base metal mines.

Coal-area members asked for a national policy that would enable coal industry to find greater markets within Canada, Particular attention was asked for the slumping Alberta coal industry. Base metal mines are being closed down.

Miners Minister Prudham replied there has been a national coal policy in effect since 1947. While the industry may have difficulties, he thought these would be worked out.

He blamed the development of oil and gas in Alberta for most of the province's troubles with the coal field. In Nova Scotia, he said the industry is going through a period of change. Mechanization would reduce operating efficiency but would be which held promise of improvement.

Asked to Help

H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) urged the government to cooperate with British Columbia authorities in finding a market mines in that province, hit by low base metal prices and higher smelting costs.

Fisheries Minister Sinclair announced plans for government insurance for fishing vessels in the seaboard provinces and said it is a choice of the fishermen to join a land fishery. The plan will provide insurance on vessels up to $7,500 in value, a type for whom owners now find it difficult to get adequate insurance.

Another aspect of the plan is that it would encourage fishermen to lobster traps, which are unsuitable for use on vessels operating out of Maritimes. Mr. Sinclair said the success of this experiment will depend on the number who join. It enlarged to take in other forms of fishing gear.

Moscow Papers Give Churchill Speech Big Play

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—From reading their newspapers today the Russian people would get the impression that one of the last things Joseph Stalin predicted before his death was that serious differences are going to develop between Britain and the United States.

Last October Stalin criticized certain Communist leaders severely for taking the view that wars between the capitalistic countries are not inevitable.

See Stalin Prediction

Today it would only be a matter of time before such countries as Japan, West Germany, Italy, France and Italy would break away from their close ties with the United States and set out on independent policies of their own.

A Russian reading the morning paper today could not help but see Stalin's hand in it. Stalin's predictions are beginning to come true.

Moscow's two biggest papers, Pravda and Izvestia, devoted hundreds of words to the prime minister Churchill and Labor Leader Attlee in the British House of Commons.

Extensive Coverage

Wednesday's papers gave a 800-word summary of Churchill's speech, but today's papers let loose the wordage, giving more space to his remarks than to anything any Englishman has said for several years.

It was certainly the fullest coverage of any parliamentary debate since the war and, in fact, the commenting on the speeches, said they were evidence of "growing differences with various aspects of United States policy."

The highly critical remark made by some congressional leaders in Washington about the Churchill and Attlee speeches have not been reported here yet. The press will probably get around to these remarks. They will certainly be of interest to Russians. They are especially to those who recall Stalin's words.

CHIEF AT CORONATION

VANCOUVER (CP)—Chief William Scow, official representative of British Columbia Indians to the Coronation, received confirmation Wednesday of his seat in Westminster Abbey. Chief Scow's passage is being paid by the Native Brotherhood of British Columbia. He will fly to and from the Coronation, spending two weeks in England.

Take Down Tents Used to Exchange Sick, Wounded

Allies Charge Reds Took Prisoners Across Yalu River

By GEORGE A McARTHUR

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Communists today said no to the latest Allied plan for exchanging war prisoners and neither side gave any indication of pledging on that last major barrier to an armistice in Korea.

Nearby, the Reds tore down tents used for exchanging sick and wounded war prisoners, indicating they're through trading. At today's truce meeting, the Reds called the Allied counter-proposal to their eight-point May 7 offer "absolutely unacceptable."

The chief Allied negotiator, Lt.-Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., answered with charges that the Reds illegally took Allied prisoners across the Yalu River into Manchuria and used others for labor battalions.

He charged the Reds with reducing warfare to a "new viciousness" by launching massive artillery attacks into the Communist armed forces, further thus rotating them at the front as the Reds have maintained.

Counter-Offer

The Allied counter-offer would free 34,000 North Korean prisoners who refuse repatriation and, under certain conditions, would put 12,000 Chinese in temporary custody of a five-country commission made up of Sweden, Switzerland, India, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

If two months of Red "explanations" fail to sway the Chinese, the Allies would release them outright. The Red plan would leave their fate to a high-level, post-armistice political conference.

The UN command carefully worded out of the Red letter if "proposal any provision that could force prisoners home against their will and contrary to that facts be the only country on the communist supply troops.

Defends Allied Proposal

North Korean Gen. Nam Il called the Allied plan "unreasonable and absurd" and said it was simply a "disguise" to hold prisoners forcibly.

Harrison defended the Allied counter-proposal, recounting the negotiations since they were renewed April 26 after being broken off last fall. He said the main issue is still the question of releasing all prisoners-of-war before the armistice or leaving their fate hanging for the political conference to decide. The Allies have insisted that the Red plan would give the prisoners a choice of going home or remaining or indefinite imprisonment.

Harrison charged that the Communist opposition to release of the 34,000 North Koreans immediately after an armistice is pointing out that the Reds said early in the war they released prisoners-of-war peoples at the front.

"The majority of these were actually impressed into the Communist army, disregarding the wishes of the Geneva Red Cross Convention and reducing warfare to "a new viciousness."

Doctor Awarded $7,000 Damages In Libel Action

SASKATOON (CP)—A Court of Queen's Bench jury Wednesday night awarded $7,500 damages to Dr. David H. Arnott of London, Ont., in his libel suit against the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Saskatchewan.

Dr. Arnott, Canadian manufacturer of the Koch cure for cancer which involves injection of a chemical compound, based his suit on charges filed early by the College in December, 1951. The publication thereafter the treatment.

Dr. Arnott had asked unstated damages. The jury found the college's report was defamatory but not published maliciously.

Because the question of privilege was involved in the jury's ruling, defence counsel G. H. Yule asked that the case be interpreted. Chief Justice J. T. Brown said he will deliver his judgment in a few days.

Pope Assails Red Materialism

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Pope today assailed Communist materialism as "the same old enemy" which has existed in the ages to divert men's eyes from God. The pontiff spoke to some 15,000 pilgrims from many countries, most of them members of workmen's organization.

The audience—one of the biggest held this year—was called in celebration of the 62nd anniversary of the encyclical "Rerum Novarum" issued by Pope Leo XIII on May 15, 1891. It still is a basic document of the Roman Catholic Church's attitude on labor and social economy.

"This is the same old enemy," he said. The enemy that "changes tongue to deceive but is the same. It says 'to men, "Why look to God? Look to earth."

The pontiff conceded that the old enemy is winning a measure of success.

"Today," he said, "many worldly men look towards heaven and think only of earth."

Influence of Air-Minded Duke Seen in Coronation Fly-Past

LONDON (CP)—The influence of the air-minded Duke of Edinburgh was read today into plans for the 160-plane fly-past Coronation Day afternoon by RCAF and RAF jet fighters.

The fly-past will break with tradition by sending planes back to north across London instead of east to west—cutting across the front of Buckingham Palace.

A spokesman for the air ministry suggested that the Queen's husband, a competent and enthusiastic pilot, may have had something to do with it. The new direction will allow the crowned Queen on her balcony to look for the 345-mile-an-hour ceremonial with her eyes, instead of having to twist her neck to watch the jets fly from front to back of the castle.

The fly-past is one of the most intricate ever attempted in Britain.

Twenty-four Canadian-built Sabre jets from RCAF No. 1 fighter wing at North Luffenham, Rutland, will head south for London and pick up one of six 24-plane British formations.

The whole ensemble will move into London over Canterbury, make a half circle out over the English Channel and then turn over London —two broad spearheads of RAF Meteors with the Canadian planes linking them, throttled back to keep in line with the slower British jets.

Contributing planes and pilots will be Squadrons 66 and 421, Leading the jets over will be Wing Cmdr. Doug Lindsay of Arnprior, Ont., Korean veteran who is chief operations officer for the wing.

Sqdn. Ldr. Cal Bricker of Grenfell, Sask., will lead planes from 421 and Flt. Lt. F. C. Walker of Ottawa is expected to lead planes from 441. The third squadron, 410, will be at the rear of the group of 24.

FEAR DANDELIONS WILL GO TO SEED

One of the best crops of dandelions seen in recent years is threatening the owners of well-kept lawns in the city these days, as many of whom are casting anxious glances toward the unexpected front lawns of neighbors in fear that the dandelions will go to seed from the latter's lawns.

"If people would just mow their lawns before the dandelions go to seed and blow all over the neighborhood, they could at least hold our own," commented one home owner yesterday, "but the dandelions are left to go to seed then we are beat."

'Marina' Service Station Last Word in Appointments

You could define it as an "oasis" in a boating desert. Actually it is the only "marina" service station in this part of nautical Ontario.

To say that it fills a long-felt want on the part of yachtsmen and power-boat owners not only of the city and immediate district of Lake Ontario, is to put it mildly.

No longer does the visiting yachtsman have to tramp "uptown" to get fuel, or other nautical supplies. Now he has practically everything from a lubricant to a quarter-inch screw at his fingertips.

The Wilk Marina takes care of that.

Owned and managed by "Peter" Wilk, the Marina is a waterfront subsidiary of the Canada Wire & Cable Co. Ltd. Its well-appointed compact buildings contain practically everything from a bait to sailor needs. He can ask for diesel engine fuel or a sandwich with equal facility and have his requests granted. Telephone and toilet facilities are immediately available.

And the Marina is located in an ideal spot. It is situated south of the Wharf Street Debating Club and directly opposite Victoria Park.

The sheerest landlubber could not be more than a mile from "going sailor" by merely bowing-in between the well-stocked store rooms of the Marina. As a matter of fact Captain Lee Crowne, of Northport, ex-sailor, explorer, prospector, who is the manager of the Wilk Marina, can rig you out in a jiffy. He'll supply your grub, your fuel, your sails, nage in fact anything that your nautical heart desires.

The sailor is not the only everything at his fingertips. He points of to private moorings and repair facilities. Locally speaking, he knows the whole lake shore, other day, and because he had a 'borrowing' neighbor returned and bought it. Section."

Map Waters of District

The charts map the waters of the district for a radius of 100 miles.

If it is a boat you want, "Cap" will accommodate you. You can get a rugged seaworthy craft that will shrug off the foam-capped waves of Lake Ontario, an outboard motor, in varying degrees of horsepower, or a "twenty-four hour" service. In fact the "Cap" has a comfortable well-appointed apartment in the Marina's office building. He is available at all hours.

Quinte Radio Club Discusses Field Day

The Quinte Amateur Radio Club held its monthly meeting on Wednesday at the R.C.E.M.E. depot with a good attendance of members present.

A final consultation concerning the coming field day meet early in June to be held north of Brighton, the only discussion taking up most of the time.

The club will run an entire 24 hour tryout under emergency conditions for any and all calls which the amateur may receive or if called on when needed for civil defence.

Two films from the R.C.A.F., Trenton, were shown and light refreshments provided. Several new mobile stations were present and were viewed with envy by non-mobilers.

Coleman Street Will be Repaired Next Year

The rainwater trough on Coleman St., which keeps pedestrians clear of sidewalks after each rain, will not be repaired this year.

A report by the city engineering department presented to the council some weeks ago, estimated the cost of repairing a narrow strip of the Coleman St. pavement in eliminating the trouble at over $2,000 and the matter was laid over until such time if sufficient money was available in the budget.

But the public works committee has found its budget to be already strained to the work on Coleman Street has been referred to the 1954 budget committee.

The "trough" condition on Coleman Street developed some years ago when the east curb was removed to make the street wider. The erection of the finished pavement was not continued with the result that a shallow trough two or three feet out from the curb collected water after each rainfall. Being on a "down-hill" street the water into the sidewalk resulting in frequent driveways for the unwary pedestrian.

Seven-Year-Old Chinese Boy Arrives by Air to Meet Family

Shy, nervous, he huddled in his seat on the huge trans-oceanic liner as it roared over the blue Pacific.

To the pilot and most of the passengers it was a routine flight.

But to seven-year-old Kwan Wah from the ideal aerial cruiser was carrying him to a new life, new people and a new environment.

He was alone. The jargon of strange tongues came to him above the roar of the plane's motors. He could not speak a word of English.

Young "Tommy" was bound from Hong Kong to Belleville. His air destination was Toronto, where a proud father, F. Kwan "Tommy" was anxiously awaiting his arrival. Dad had yet to glimpse his youngest offspring.

"Tommy" senior is a member of the staff of the Chinese Cafe here. He was formerly associated with the Perfect Cafe, a Front Street restaurant. His wife came to Canada last January via the Lucky Lady Orchid boys, Mon, Don and Yvee Kwan. All three boys, aged 11, 10 and 9, respectively, are pupils at Queen Alexandra School.

"Tommy" junior was placed aboard the aircraft at Hong Kong by relatives. He negotiated the trip to Toronto in three days. His father met him in the Queen City and Monday was a joyful reunion day for the family.

He did came to Canada in 1919, returning to China and his family in 1939 on periodic intervals. Government "regulations and wartime exigencies did not permit of his moving his family here. On one occasion he returned in China for eight years, but the lure of Canada was too strong and he returned to his adopted country.

Young Cyclist Critically Hurt In Collision

TRENTON (Special) — A young Trenton cyclist critically injured in a traffic accident here late yesterday afternoon has a 50-50 chance of recovery, Dr. Duncan Campbell reported this morning. The youth suffered a fractured skull, concussion and bruises about the head. He was unconscious when admitted to the Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Taking a ride on his bicycle after school Charles Bugg, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bugg, of Henry Street, became involved in a collision with a delivery truck driven by Clive Amacy, 21, of R.R. 4, Trenton. The accident occurred at the King and Caldarine Street intersection in view of the hospital.

The truck driver told police he saw the boy coming and stop pedalling his bicycle. "Then he looked down King Street and started pedalling again out into the intersection," the driver related.

The truck driver applied his brakes and swerved left but the wheels skidded on loose stones on the pavement, causing the truck to turn half around and face in the opposite direction. As the truck was sliding the rear end apparently struck the boy on the bicycle, knocking him hard to the shoulder of the roadway on the south side of King Street. Dr. Campbell happened along a few minutes after the accident, giving aid at the scene before the boy was moved to the hospital.

Preceding the mishap the truck was travelling west on King St., the cyclist south on Catherine St.

The swing span of the bridge crossing the Trent River will be painted in aluminum, matching the town section recently completed. It will be finished in time for the Centennial celebration.

Marion Mofina trailed Stoliker in the third spot and was followed by Jack Mathews and Don Harris.

Petrie was presented with the Ken Colling Memorial Trophy by Mr. Cleo Colling, brother of the late young athlete and the Ontario Intelligencer immediately following the race. Mr. Colling donor of the trophy, paid special tribute to not only the winner but to those who participated in the race.

CARS DAMAGED IN COLLISION

Damage amounting to over $300 was caused to two vehicles Wednesday night when one motorist swerved into the side of an oncoming vehicle when his way was cut off as the motorist ahead suddenly turned to the left.

Harold Radnor, Crookston, said he was northbound on North Front Street, when the car ahead suddenly slowed to turn left. To avoid striking the vehicle he also swung left and collided with a car bound in the opposite direction driven by John E. Stephens, 30 Bonwill St.

SOMETHING IN THE AIR

It is heartening to hear the British lion growling again.

Perhaps it's a happy by-product of the exhilarating Coronation atmosphere but there appears to be some strangely stimulating tonic in the British air these days. Whatever it is, it has produced a refreshing and sanguine vigor in Westminster which has seized alike Her Majesty's Government and the Loyal Opposition.

There is no doubt that Prime Minister Churchill has taken issue with the fully stated peace aims of President Eisenhower in his approach to Moscow. He did not make his overture, however, until enough time had elapsed to indicate that the new hosses in Kremlin—however conciliatory they wish to appear in principle are not prepared to accept anything without bargaining. In calling for a top level cold war conference, Sir Winston summed up his proposal in these words:

"It would, I think, be a mistake to assume that nothing can be settled with Soviet Russia unless and until everything is settled. A piecemeal solution of problems should not be disdained."

In this stand the Prime Minister had the instant and unqualified support of the Opposition spokesman, Mr. Clement Attlee. From his position in Opposition Mr. Attlee was prepared to be more forthright and outspoken in his views than any minister of the Crown would be even if he felt as Mr. Attlee does, that there are some interests in the United States "that do not want a settlement in Korea."

There was a mixed reception in the United States to the Churchill proposal. There was, of course, the inevitable congressman rising to exclaim that he was "getting tired of talking with nations who won't keep faith." But a number of senators saw merit in the suggestion. Outside of the United States there appeared to be universal approval of Churchill's more optimistic outlook. His belief that there is a changed attitude in Moscow since Stalin's death naturally prompts some move to take advantage of whatever change may have taken place. Every section of the British press joined with the Prime Minister's address.

The London Times was high in its praise. But at the same time it struck a tone which should be brought home to those who would be over indignant about Mr. Attlee's remarks. While describing the speech as "magnificent in its broad survey" the Times pointed out that it was "necessarily somewhat general because of the difficulty of appraising Soviet policy exactly."

It is that particular difficulty which marks the difference between the contending approaches suggested by Eisenhower and by Churchill. We cannot see that anything has been lost in the first instance by the presentation of the President's so-called "peace package" calling for a settlement of world issues including disarmament. In this, the points at issue were plainly set out at a time when, we think, they needed to be set out if the Soviet leaders are genuinely interested in their peace overtures. Nor can it be said that there is anything to be lost by the Prime Minister's approach in the second instance when it is clear that the Soviet Foreign Office and company are still going to be very careful before any agreements are reached. Even if we could give them credit for the best of intentions in the world it would be something more than optimistic to expect anything less than realistic bargaining on Russia's part.

Now it would appear very plainly up to Moscow to be a little less coy and show some genuine signs of eagerness to talk business in a formal way.

But apart from the issues which are involved in this new development in the international situation under Churchill's sponsorship, and the coincident breach in Anglo-Egyptian relations with grave implications, it is a satisfying thing from the Commonwealth standpoint at a time of authority and voice of experience which had seemed to be almost drowned out of late in the forum of world affairs.

THE HAPPY MEDIUM

It probably occurs very seldom to the inhabitants of Southern Ontario that an accident of geography makes them just about the most fortunate group of people on the face of the earth.

It is brought home to us time and again in the news of dire events, far and near, in which the elements have played havoc, leaving death and devastation in their wake. The recent tornadoes in the mid-western States are shocking examples of disasters in which man himself has had no hand and which he can only regard with fatalism.

We have seen it so many times and in so many places before. In California it is the earth itself thrown into convulsions of destruction. In Florida it is the tidal wave of disaster from the sea. In other lands far worse is the lot of mankind in an unrelenting struggle with forces of nature.

In Canada as a whole we are less subject to the vagaries of the elements than probably any other part of the world, but nowhere in our country is there an area so free from the extremes or the lesser discomforts of climate as Southern Ontario. Drought and dust storms of the west, hurricanes and fogs of the coasts, severe temperatures of the north, all these are foreign to us. Only rarely do we witness a storm of tornadic proportions or feel a slight earth tremor.

Ours is the happy medium.

JUST FOLKS

MYSTERY

The garden is a busy place.
The coolness of the spring
From dawn to dusk at furious pace
Are hiding everything.
With colors beautiful, once more
They've started — none too soon —
To have the roses ready for
The fast approaching June.

Some specialists review the stocks
And some the columbines.
Some paint the pansies, some the phlox,
And some the climbing vine.

But all with equal artistry
Are laboring, showers or shower,
That lovely will each blossom be
When it is time to flower.

No oily rags, no empty cans
Are left to mar the scene,
To show the work has all been man's
When he has painting been.
But just that touch of beauty
You
By skill no man has earned,
That one great mystery—how It's done.
No mortal yet has learned.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There have been a couple of sensational murder stories in the world news lately in which the victim was expensively beautiful young character whose victims were women. And in the course of the stories, the reporters used the antique reference to the "strange attraction" the villain had for women. Throughout one full-term, both cases were covered, runs this legend of ugly, homely untidy and generally disheveled men who have a "curious fascination" for women.

It does not occur to us to enquire what sort of women these characters have in mind. Certainly not the home town there is one of these amiable gorillas who has the reputation of having had such a lady's man. For years I have heard it said of this and always with a tone of wonder on the part of the speakers, that there is in view of these recently celebrated murders, I did the obvious thing: I sought about the set of women our local gorilla attracted. And the result is he's car been ten. Without a single exception, the ladies with whom our former Lothario is reputed to have been associated over the years have been as dowdy and unattractive as Lothario himself. The three of four newspapermen and women I invited into the research were amused to discover our amorous orangutang's list of friends over the years were a woebegone company. One of the newspaper girls indignantly declared that not one of them was evented horse-stealing.

"interesting."

So much for the romance of crime. All around the edges of communities is a fringe of misfits and not-quiters, criminals, grafters, liars, cowards, and the biological or biological accidents. Sometimes they are rich. Our sociology is not yet prepared to accept these as freaks. We are innately trying to encompass them within the frame of social reform. But by no stretch of the imagination are they to be considered worthy of a sensible employment of romantic phrases such as "total attraction" and "curious fascination." May merely consort with their own breed.

Eliminating an Evil

(Moose Jaw Times-Herald)

The automobile's principal claim to being a moral force, is because it has practically eliminated and at the same time held their own in the sparkling conversation.

Changing conditions have divided the nation into two camps than their addiction to entertaining one another and to table-talking at it. Shelley grumbled at dinners convivial and political, suppers of epic poets, teas where small talk dies in agonies and lively intellectuals are critical. But his more genial contemporaries — and their descendants for two or three generations—seem to have faced, with alacrity and appetite, enormous meals as soon as they got out of bed. There was no such sense about their toast, coffee and grapefruit juice. The main table groaned under the burden of re-lid cold food, and the side tables had sizzling dishes of eggs and bacon, chops and kidneys. Tea and coffee urns were on parade and so, in the more hospitable houses, were various dancers.

The nostalgic though it is ever gourmandizing, does not breed fine men and women who could face that ordeal

New Capital Of Yukon

(Edmonton Journal)

Little more than half a century ago, Dawson City was "jumping" with 25,000 people who flocked from the barren tundra to that emporium within two short years of the discovery of the Klondike gold.

Now gone from it, it has been the capital of the Yukon, but the other day it officially lost that title with the transfer of the seat of government to Whitehorse.

Whitehorse is 320 miles farther south, and has the advantage of being connected by railway and highway with the outside world, and it is linked to the rest of Canada by telephone and telegraph. Dawson has been the final examinations at the School of Practical Science, Toronto.

Vanishing Woodpecker

(Sydney Post-Record)

Anyone who spots an ivory-billed woodpecker these days will made a sensational discovery from the point of view of bird lovers or anyone concerned with the preservation of the varieties of nature. Long listed as the rarest bird in the United States the ivory-bill disappeared from the last two years, according to the National Audubon Society.

The sanctuary established for the bird in the Singer Tract in northwestern Florida, has been given up. Big as a crow and with a wing spread of 30 inches, it never was common. Indians hunted the male bird for his red topknot and white men shot it too, but the bird's coup de grace was the disappearance of its native southern forests.

The utter disappearance of more than one kind of bird-life in the North American is always sad to record and reflects discredit on those who acted too late for the bird's survival.

Memorable Speech

(Toronto Telegram)

Opening of the trout fishing season was always a portentous occasion in the life of Sir William Mulock, who died at the age of 101 Saturday. Sir William — 101 when he died — was a man of many interesting and prized memories were "the thrill of the first trout and the first speech." Guest of honor at a Toronto gathering when he was in his 90s, Sir William was called upon to response:

"I have lived from the forties of one century to the thirties of the next, have had a varied field of work and have learned many things, and have warmed both hands before the fire of life. But the testimony I bear is this: that the best thing to remember is not yet behind me; it is before me still, and daily I catch glimpses of its beckoning and its promise.

"The rich spoils of memory are mine; mine are the permanent things of today — books, flowers, pictures, nature, sport. The first day in May is the best day in the year. But of course the chief wealth of life I have not named. Possessing true and tried friends no man can be wholly poor. Among them the richest are in penury."

It Happens Every Spring

(Windsor Star)

The weather may be backward, but human nature behaves much as usual this spring. We're all in a hurry to get down to work, regardless of man's planning, and here and there win impatient spells.

One of the latest of these incidents occurred on Front Road, where a robin sat down to hatch out her brood in the hod and tray within a construction project. Either the robin knew that she would be necessary to halt the work near her. With the explanation that a robin is a land protector, the construction firm's boss let the bird have the run of the job until the robin hatches her brood.

A few years ago a nondescript wild duck laid her eggs on a traffic island in the middle of busy Ouellette Avenue and raised a family there. Motorists rallied to the rescue of a mother hen that made its nest on a pipe or other precarious spot.

There is a reward for this persevering trait, of course. It comes in the form of a new interest in life when the young hatch. Action that comes from an intimate glimpse of a wonderful world can be assumed the affairs of that robin's nest are a daily absorbing subject for hundreds of thousands of residents.

Children Call It Choo-choo!

(Christian Science Monitor)

You think you know what a railroad is?

Before you try a definition of your own, read the one that Mrs. Ruth Sherman Shoemaker (Federal Court) came up several years ago when she was required to write a composition for the fourth grade.

According to that high court of the former territory, Dutch, the German state-owned railway is the locomotive used for moving and transportation of persons and goods over not quite important distances, and is related to electricity, which through its nature, is instrumental in the power to meant to make possible the transportation of persons and well as the attainment of a relatively great speed, and is distinguished in connection with the natural forces used for locomotion, as the steam locomotive, or human muscular activity in case of a downhill stretch over the own weight of the transport receptacles or their load, and so on) is able, with its operation, to produce a tremendous—depending on the circumstances useful only in a limited way and sometimes also human life destroying or health impairing — result.

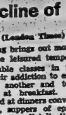
Mr. Green: "I believe that our research council has done a fine job. I have read all of the last monthly bulletin, one of the reports on is research into the prevention of the formation of sea ice.

The other report is on doughnut frying tests. That matter may be equally important and perhaps of more interest to some Canadians.

Mr. Green: That is to make the hole more edible.



Mr. Green: I am not sure. Perhaps I expected that is what it was for.

Mr. Knowles: And we are a committee of the whole.

NO RESPECT FOR AGE

Dr. Brady

Some correspondent, probably nauseaumbered by dealing with tradesmen and ordinary doctors, chides me for making a facetious reply to a query. I will not or cannot give help or advice might at least have some respect for age. It appears that I am a bad surgeon, a feeble-minded sycophant, a dreamsmile first thing every morning, and the lady hopes I will be not disconbobulated to learn that she was sixty-five last May, too.

Not noticeable, Ma'am. On the contrary, I'm irked at your presumption and that of thousands of other readers and correspondents who should, by now, know better.

The trouble with so many casual readers is that they confuse dignity with pomposity. They can't abide a doctor unless he is as solemn as an owl. All right, all right, if I must preserve at all times a funeral demeanour I'll call it a day and let some one with the proper attitude take over. As long as I'm here I'm going to have a little fun.

Sixty-five, shy Shanne, shame, on any one who feels old so young. I might chide you, Ma'am, but I'm not disconbobulated.

I seldom fail to take a daily ration of vitamins and minerals in supplement, my diet, but, as readers of this column know, I believe in the efficacy of few medicines. Sometimes are different. I believe regular morning movement results are good medicine for what ails most sedentary folk.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Thank You, But Which Article?

I want to tell you how fine I think your advice to parents was — I wish more doctors would speak out on that vital subject — happy to note that you have changed so much in your recent writings. C. S., Ont.

Answer — Oh, now I see — you like what another reader called "this sweetness and light stuff." I must plead not guilty. The change that has occurred recently is merely that of my editorial mentor, instead of submitting just the ideas for articles has recently been submitting finished articles.

Honey Is Good Food

I have been assured by table specialist of honey every day for energy. But am now gaining weight. Is that much honey the cause? Will one banana a day cause gain in weight? I am trying to lose more. Mrs. C. S., E.)

Answer — Honey yields about 75 calories per tablespoonful. A banana about 75 calories. Neither can make any appreciable difference in weight.

HORROR TALES

I am against all censorship—except in cases where the taste and decency are dragged in the mud and insulted. And this applies to the so-called comic books that are poison to the mind of a child, and which are now being sold by the million in cheap stores. And they are being told upon the radio and TV.

A classic story is that one by W. J. Locke, called "The Monkey's Paw"—but when I viewed it on TV it was a horror story in its effect upon the mind than when told rather gently in the written form. I prefer such a story as that marvelous tale by Christopher Morley, "Thunder on the Right"—but was superbly done on TV and which left one a delightful mood.

Excitement in a comic or book is to be commended, but when it descends to the horrible, as often tragic ends, it's something else. Much of it should be censored—or prohibited by law. The old-time"dime novels" were things of virtue compared to these modern horror creations. They serve no purpose.

Newspapers are to be commended for their care in the selection of comic art. Most of it is as it should be, to amuse and cause laughter and innocent fun, and in many cases to point a good moral lesson. There are, however, exceptions. The "funnies" wrecks in the world without adding to the murder trade. Indecent and lewd tales, however.

Where do these teen-age gangs get their ideas and their guns and killing? It's something that should be looked into. Many Youth needs its outlets for excessive energy and ambition, but there is a heavy penalty to pay when this outlet is one of crime. Much of the crime wave that is scattered in comic magazines and paper backs, which are filled with murder and unlawful adventure, makes ready reading for young minds and perverted appetites. Why is such material allowed?

SEED AND FLOWER

Plant a seed and get a flower. Yet who would ever believe as he looks at the little seed in the palm of his hand that it would produce a petunia, a zinnia, or a marigold? St. Paul, in the fifteenth chapter of I Corinthians, uses the figure of the seed and the harvest to explain the resurrection of the body. But as something beautiful and unpredictable is raised in the seed and finally emerges in the flower, so the body of the flesh sown in corruption is raised in incorruption, sown a natural (or physical) body it is raised a spiritual body. The seed has to decay and disintegrate before it becomes the flower. Our natural body has to disintegrate also before the emergence of the spiritual body can take place.

All through the Bible the point is made that although the heavenly life will be utterly different from the earthly life, it will have its roots in the earthly life and will depend upon it, as the flower depends for its origin upon the seed. It does not do discouraged over the fact that life here on earth is unsatisfactory, but it does conclude its ultimate and heavenly greatness from the beauty and attractiveness of the seed is any indication as to what the flower will be like in the end.

Seed and flower, earthly body and heavenly body, it is the order and this the progression.

Recreational Activities Aim Of No 6 Repair Depot Personnel

A variety of well-organized recreational activities is the aim of No. 6 Repair Depot personnel.

Sports and hobby enthusiasts have combined their talents and resources to make for greater efficiency and a well balanced recreation program throughout the entire year.

Under the chairmanship of S/L A. Cheroboy, the 1953 Sports' Committee has adopted a scheme to ensure that money will be spent with a view to obtaining maximum benefits from all recreational facilities.

The new program of summer sports includes softball, soccer, rifle shooting, golf, tennis, fishing, swimming and horseshoes. Sportsmen will find competitions with prizes offered in many of their favorite sports.

An organization chart and an estimated program of events has been drawn up by S/L Cheroboy and his committee. The charts will enable the small committee to view at a glance the results of the many activities interesting at one time on the station. The progress of individual teams will be seen at a glance and an overall picture of the sporting scene will be evident to the leaders of the immense project.

Nine teams will participate in a Depot Softball League, under the chairmanship of LAC G. B. Stout. The diamonds have been prepared for the first game on May 20. Cpl. A. J. Ducharme was elected vice-president and Cpl. N. Bushell, secretary of the softball committee.

Teams Entered

An airwomen's softball team has been entered in the Lake shore Loop league which meets on May 24 for the first game in a 20-game series.

A golfing project, designed to sharpen the game of the depot's many amateurs, is underway under the supervision of WO2 R. G. Grant and F/S J. O. Smith. A 300-yard driving range and a putting green is under construction on the station. An attendant will be in charge of the station range which will be opened shortly. Clubs and balls of golf balls will be available on a rental basis.

Three tennis courts are being reconditioned and the addition of new nets should please ardent fans. Here, racquets which have been re-strung and restrung will be available and tennis balls may be purchased.

The outdoor swimming pool will be opened shortly with guards in attendance at all times.

A long horse rifle club is planned with regulation shooting meets at Colborne. F/O R. McCallum and WO2 R. G. Grant are in charge of arrangements. Also, the rifle club organizers are investigating the possibilities of a fishing club. It is anticipated that prizes will be awarded for the largest fish in various classes. A sports' distributor from Toronto will meet with the two committee members, shortly, to discuss plans for the latest venture.

A soccer pitch is being laid down and soccer enthusiasts will meet in exhibition games when the project is completed.

New Hobby Centre

A new Hobby Centre is being instituted on the depot. The building has been assigned to the Recreational Committee by Group Captain D. H. MacCaul, Commanding Officer No. 6 Repair Depot and by next fall it is expected that all hobbies will come under one roof. Today, hobby enthusiasts are working in temporary quarters provided by various buildings throughout the depot. They will soon be moving over to the new centre, shortly.

The new location will provide facilities for wood workers, metal workers, leather craftsmen, automobile engineers, and model aeroplane builders. An attendant will be on hand to take care for the needs of personnel and their wives.

Ontario Synod Votes to Ban Holdings of Funerals on Sunday

The 97th session of the Incorporated Synod of the Diocese of Ontario which concluded its activities yesterday at St. George's Hall, Kingston, unanimously supported a motion, to the effect that no funerals be conducted on Sunday, except under extraordinary circumstances.

The Rev. Kenneth Coleman, rector of North Augusta, said that this affected the rural church in particular.

Canon J. M. Brownlie, of Manmore, asked how many clergy had had requests for such funerals during the past year and a large number signified that they had. Rev. A. C. Fenwick of Tyendinaga, said, "A good churchman would never ask for a funeral on Sunday." It was pointed out that Sunday funerals often interrupt the regular worship program of parishes. The bishop of the diocese, felt that under exceptional circumstances a move. This motion carried unanimously. It was pointed also that a copy of this resolution be sent to all the undertakers in the diocese.

Claude Wright, of Gananoque was appointed for the outstanding leadership he had given in the financial set-up of the new House. Parishes were urged to meet remaining quotas as soon as possible.

The Rev. E. R. McLean, Toronto, representative of the Ontario Council, of Christian Education spoke to the synod on the work of that organization mentioning its worthwhile part, the work of the present and the challenge of the future. "Many tasks still remain," he said, "but by working together we learn to appreciate and enrich each other."

The Rev. S. McConnell, rural dean of Hastings presented the report of the diocesan board of religious education and stated, "This part of the church's work is of vital importance." He commended the work of the Sunday School by our secretary, Miss Ethel Hawley, of Napanee. The Archdeacon Cobbe Cup was won by St. Mark's Church, Barrifield, for the greatest increase in Sunday school enrolment.

A Kingston layman appealed urgently for proper facilities in Sunday School halls for religious instruction. There was a marked increase in Sunday School missionary giving.

The following motion was made by Dean Brierly Browne and seconded by the Ven. Archdeacon F. A. Sadlier, of Belleville.

"We, the Bishop of Ontario and members of the eighty-seventh annual meeting of the Synod of the Diocese of Ontario now assembled in session this twelfth day of May, 1953, humbly offer our grounded expression of loyalty and affection to our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth in the year of her Coronation. We pray that Her Majesty may long reign over us, happy and glorious, with God's richest blessing upon all her undertakings."

The mission givings and stipend report was presented by Archdeacon N. R. Stout, of Gananoque. This report showed that definite progress is being made in the missionary work of the church.

A motion to increase the minimum stipend of travelling clergymen of all clergy to $2,400 a year was made by Rev. A. S. McConnell, of Trenton. This passed unanimously. Several laymen, in speaking upon this motion, were emphatic in saying that this minimum should be considered a maximum and efforts should be made soon to increase the need for the clergy to a larger figure.

It was pointed out by a lay delegate that inexperienced help is paid $1.10 an hour in his community which is more than most clergymen receive at the present time. The motion was adopted by the 1953 Synod upon the action taken will become effective July 1, 1953.

Dean Browne reported upon the Coronation festival evensong which is to be held in the Kingston Community Stadium May 31 at 7.30 p.m. Provision has been made to accommodate 7,000 people, he said.

Rev. Canon H. E. Coleman gave the report of the committee on evangelism. Rural Dean W. L. Simmons of Alberg, presented a motion urging parishes to challenge their young men to consider the priesthood as a vocation.

A great deal of discussion took place with reference to the church's responsibility toward Anglican families in the armed services. One delegate's priest said: "This army church worries me." He went on to point out (as did others) that registrations of baptisms of children in army camps should be reported to parish clergy concerned. Many felt that there should be better co-ordination between the chaplain service and the parish church. Another priest said: "If we do not take steps to link children of army personnel with parish churches in ten years' time these children will have a vague idea of Christianity and a vaguer idea of church membership."

The Ven. Archdeacon L. E. Davis was installed as Archdeacon in an impressive ceremony Tuesday morning, conducted by the bishop assisted by the dean and chancellor of the diocese. At the service the bishop's charge was given.

Among the reports given was the financial statement presented by Prof. F. G. C. Campbell. "We are pleased to report," said Dr. Campbell, "as far as our investments are concerned we have declared a higher dividend than any other Diocese in Canada."

Officers elected during the day were.

Hon. clerical secretary, Rev. A. J. Anderson; hon. lay secretary, Col. A. Kidd; and hon. lay treasurer, Prof. P. G. C. Campbell.

After the afternoon session the clergy and lay delegates were hospitably entertained on the lawn at Bishop's Court.

St. Thomas' Parish Guild Sponsors Afternoon Tea

Graceful sprays of white Van Houti spirea intermingled with lovely yellow blooms of the tulip, pink, yellow tipped with orange, white, and rose, deep, dark purple and red added a dramatic note with their fragrance and color to the spacious rooms of St. Thomas' parish house for the spring tea of the Parish Guild, held yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Arthur Smith, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Lewis, president of the Guild, received the guests and welcomed them into the gracious atmosphere where cheering smiles and firm hand clasps predicted the tone.

At any time during the evening a crowd might be found perusing the soft drink booth.

Another contributing factor to the pleasure of the evening was the music conveyed throughout the school by means of the public address system specially installed for the occasion.

The evening culminated the announcement that the winners of the prizes contributed for the grand draw were to be decided. Activity in the various booths ceased as the eager crowd gathered in the auditorium. 33 winners were announced.

A Picnic for Victoria Day

By Mary Moore

Since the 24th falls on the 18th this year (and I'm sure Queen Victoria won't mind if Queen Elizabeth doesn't mind moving her birthday up a month or so for state reasons) and since it is raining pitchforks or I type this, regardless of the indemency of the weather, I'm going to go on a big picnic on the "24th" (even though it's the 18th) and even if it's raining and I have to sit on a rock in a slicker under an umbrella.

If you like picnics that well, my friends, read on.

Just a year ago this time all of Canada was in the clutch of a heat wave. It could be repeated for Monday May 18th, 1953. If so, we picnickers, who crave fresh air and eats, will be ready.

Picnic With A Fire (the best kind)

Tomato Juice with lemon
Marinated Herring
Parkerhouse Rolls or Hamburg Buns
Russian Salad with Devilled Eggs
Fresh Pineapple Sticks
Banana Cake
Baumert Cheese
Quarts of Coffee

You know as well as I that picnics are thirsty affairs, especially if you travel on foot, so take along, besides the tomato juice and coffee some extra water, and of course, milk for the children.

Marinated Steakabobs

To add interest and to reduce the total cost, I am going to marinate some baby beef liver with the steak. The day before the picnic marinate some choice steak, cut into 2-inch pieces, in some olive or cooking oil with ½ teaspoon freshly ground pepper, a dash of salt and a tablespoon lemon juice and let it. Rub the steak lightly with a cut clove of garlic, then place it in this oil marinade and let it soak about 12 hours, turning it over just before you go to bed. Take baby beef liver soaks up these flavors like a sponge. When you are ready to pack the picnic hamper, drain the steak and liver and carefully wrap it in several sheets of wax paper. Using a long skewer to impale them, thread onto it alternately a piece of steak, a slice of bacon, a piece of onion, a slice of raw potato and if desired a mushroom. Repeat. Each picnicker is on his own grilling this and will know enough to pop the whole thing into a Parkerhouse roll or buttered hamburg bun when it begins to drip and is golden and sizzling. Salt and pepper should be handy.

Russian Salad

This salad is not tossed together. One cup each finely shredded cabbage, sliced radishes, watercress sprigs, coarsely grated carrots, cut-up scored cucumber slices are marinated in a little French dressing-each separately. Pile each vegetable in a heaped up triangle in a large wooden bowl. Separate the different vegetable with quarters of deviled or plain hard-cooked egg and long strips of green pepper and stuffed olives. Another compact container used is anchovy fillets. Pass French Dressing.

Banana Cake

Cream one-half cup best quality shortening (or half shortening and butter) until very light then beat into it 1 ½ cups sugar, until fluffy, beat in 2 eggs, 3 if they are pullets). Sift together 2¼ cups sifted cake flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ¾ teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt, and stir in, alternately in thirds with ¾ cup sour or buttermilk, 1 cup mashed ripe bananas, and, if desired, ½ cup chopped nuts. Turn batter into pan about 13 x 9 inches which has been buttered and paper-lined and buttered again and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 35 to 40 minutes. If this batter is baked in layers they require about 25 to 30 minutes.

Here's hoping for a sunburn.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

LETTERS AND ANSWERS
Self-Pity Won't Get This Girl Any Where

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Although I'm 20 years old, I have never had a date with a boy. I don't have many friends, but the friends I do have go steady. I love to love and be loved, but you can't go places like that alone. I can't go to the movies alone. I need at least one friend. Perhaps the fact that one of my eyes is crossed-is why I can't seem to make a hit with any fellows, but otherwise I'm not bad-looking.

Sometimes I just sit and cry, thinking about the miserable life I lead. I get so depressed that sometimes I go to church and sit there all by myself and wonder why I had to be put into the world if I have to live like this.—Terry

Dear Terry:

There's no reason in the world why you-shouldn't have not only one friend, but lots of them. What you need is to do a little work on yourself, so that you change from being a self-pitying person, who thinks only about herself, into an interesting and cheerful girl who thinks about other people. And you can do this if you really want to.

First, you have ever discussed with an oculist the possibility of having a slight operation to correct your eye? In many cases, this can be done very successfully.

Do Where Friends Are Found

Next, why not forget about going through about joining some evening alleys alone, and go place where you can find friends? For instance, have you ever looked around to see what organizations you might join in your town or in the big city near which you live? Have you ever visited the YWCA and investigated the many activities they have there? Have you thought about joining some community organization where you could have a share, with other people, in helping some good work such as the Red Cross, serving as a nurse's aide in a hospital, working with children or young people in a community house or doing any other form of social service work? There's no better way to find friends than to do something to help others. As a starter, I suggest that you call the YWCA in that big city near you, find out all about what it offers, and then choose the activity that most interests you. One thing will lead to another, and before you know it, you'll be as happy as anybody else.

Also, as regards bowling, you might contact the city or state officers of the Women's International Bowling Congress in your area. To see if you could not find a place for yourself on one of their teams, sexes mixed or all-girl leagues. Your local YWCA may also know, or be able to find out the proper person to contact.

Forget how sorry you are for yourself, now and get busy. All of us have to work to get what we want, and you're no exception! You can change things if you care enough to make the effort, but nobody's going to come to you offering you a brand-new life on a tray.

Married Four Months, She Waits Out

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been married for four months, and I have found that I am not really in love with my husband. I am 20 years old and my husband is 25. I know now that what I felt for him was merely an infatuation.

Before I married him, I was engaged to another man, but I gave his ring back to him and married my present husband. My husband is very good to me, but I like the other man I really love, and I want a divorce. I haven't spoken to my husband about this yet, so please give me your advice.—"Undecided"

Dear "Undecided":

To my way of thinking, when a girl has married of her own free will the man she was in love with at the time that she wanted to marry, it's their wives, and will you please give me some suggestions as to what I should say in my speech?—Margaret

You might begin your speech "My dear friends of these happy ten years," and perhaps continue somewhat along this line: "I wish I had some shining words to tell you what I would so very much like to tell you. . . how wondrously happy you have made me by this beautiful occasion to celebrate my 'tenth anniversary' with your company. It is the perfect climax of the perfect ten years I have had as co-worker for per-Centinary. Always I shall treasure the thoughts of this memorable occasion. . . . In ways I shall be grateful for your goodness to me, proud always of your abiding friendship, praying to justify your faith in me. For everything you and your Company mean to me, and for the honor and tribute you have given me tonight, I thank you, thank you, most humbly and most sincerely."

Only When Her Divorce Is Final

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

If you write a discussion, please answer this question: Is it proper for a woman, when she applies for a marriage license, to change her name from "Mrs. John Smith" to Mrs. Katherine Smith" and must she wait until the divorce is final?—A and B

A woman changes the form of her name only after her divorce is final. And then she should not use the form "Mrs. Katherine Smith." Correctly a divorcee uses her maiden surname prefixed to her married surname . . . for example, Mrs. Robinson Smith" (Robinson her maiden surname). If it is important for some reason for her to indicate her first name, she may use the form "Mrs. Robinson Smith."

She Is Embarrassed When She Started To Rise

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am not very familiar with the

GOOD MANNERS

By CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

She Will Be Called On To Make A Speech

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In a short time I am going to be honored at a party, having had ten years' service with the firm where I am employed. I am also to be married a short while after that, and it is more or less a combined ten-year and wedding party, although more emphasis will be given to the ten-year side. There possibly will just be mention made of the latter. I propose to continue working after my marriage.

How should I address the guests . . . there will be only the executives and department heads and the only decent thing for her to do is to give the marriage a fair trial. I do not consider four months long enough for such a fair trial, and I wouldn't think his other man would have sufficient faith in you to wait to marry you after seeing you rush into one marriage and out again so fast. Besides this, have you any reason to believe he would have you now?

You ask how for my advice, so here it is: Stop cheating your husband by constantly thinking about another man, and begin concentrating your thought on making him happy. You say he's good to you, so why not try being good to him? It is quite likely that if you will devote yourself to doing so, before long you will find you are happy, and remember that you get out of anything, marriage included, exactly what we put into it.

proposing of toasts or the drinking of toasts. But on the new occasions I have observed, the one who proposed the toast/s rose, and all the others rose except the one to whom the toast was being proposed. But it's a small party to which my husband and I went last evening, the man who proposed the toast did not rise. But I did, or at least started to—until I saw my husband signaling me not to. Was my face red! What's the rule about this risig-business?

"Rising Or Not"

The idea is that those present don't rise if the person proposing the toast doesn't rise. Very often a toast is so informal and casual (as was apparently the small party to which you went) that toasts are informally proposed with no formality of rising.

A two-headed Thunderbird is the emblem of the Haida Indians and therefore the RCN tribal class destroyer of the same name serving in the Korean war theatre. The Thunderbird seems to have a doubling-up effect over the ship, as is shown in the above photos;

(1) The ship's main anti-aircraft battery is a two-barreled new 3-inch 50 cal. naval gun. (2) Does this thunderbird influence the destroyer? The Haida's first captain won two DSCs during the Second World War while in command and since then everything seems to go by twos on board. (3) When the Haida thunders into action, she fires from two main turrets, each containing two fourinch guns. They have fired thousands of rounds in the Korean war (her second) against the communists. (4) Among her officers, two black beards. Proud possessors are, left ,Ordnance Lieut. Ted E. Coffin, of Dartmouth, N. S., and Ottawa, and Lieut. William W. Palmer, of Toronto. (5) In the Haida's wardroom two parakeets give lifelike imitation of Thunderbirds. They are named "Port" and "Starboard." (6) These are two canine pets, both from Kure naval base, Japan, which are cared for by two collegiate grads of Toronto. Left to right are AB William S. Lethbridge with "Stoker" and AB John R. Former Lumber Town Being Sold To Pensioners

By JAMES HUTCHESON

RYDERWOOD, Wash. (AP) — This former lumber town is being sanitized back from the ghosts for an unusual experiment in business and living.

It has been sold, lock, stock and rain barrel, and the new owners plan a community of pensioners. The town's 69 homes will be sold only to elderly persons on pensions ranging from $130 to $220 a month.

Ryderwood, 75 miles from Portland, Ore., was laid out as a logging town by the Long-Bell Lumber Company in 1928. Company officials estimate their firm put $1,500,000 into the town. But as the timber was worked out of the surrounding hills, the community shrank. Last summer the town was put up for sale.

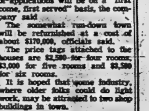
Purchase Complete

John N. Ritter, a Seattle real estate broker, told Harry H. Kern, a Beverly Hills, Calif., real estate operator, about it. Kern envisioned a community for pensioners, and the purchase was completed in April in the name of Senior Estates, Inc., for an undisclosed price.

The Ryderwood purchasers have provided for down payments of $200 to $300 and payment scales of $30, $25, and $20 a month. This, they say, puts the project in the reach of the pensioners while proving a sound financial investment for the sponsors.

Applications Accepted

Applications for reserving houses are now being accepted. Selection of applications will be on a "first come, first served" basis, the company said.



The somewhat run-down town will be refurnished at a cost of about $170,000, officials said.

The price tags attached to the houses are $2,500 for four rooms, $3,000 for five rooms and $3,500 for six rooms.

It is hoped that spruce industry, where older folks could do light work, may be attracted to two shop buildings in town.

Prince Charles Not Sure What It Is All About

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Prince Charles looks forward eagerly to the colorful parades he will see Coronation Day.

Charles speaks frequently of "Mummy's Coronation" but doesn't know what it really means. For this alert four-year-old, living in the shadow of the crown that will one day be his, kings and queens are just people he sees in picture books.

A Buckingham Palace spokesman says Charles knows his mother is called Queen, but accepts this as other children take for granted their mother's name.

Will Seem Long

Enlightenment may be forthcoming soon. The friendly, inquisitive Charles, five in November, is approaching the age when his mother first asked: "Why do the people want to see?"

Even in the last-minute Coronation whirl, the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh try to spend much time with the children. Charles and Princess Anne go downstairs daily after breakfast to romp and play games with their parents as long as possible. The Queen likes sharing her children's interests, and, with her husband, reads bedtime stories, teaches them nursery rhymes and is duly impressed when Charles shows with his plastic bricks that A stands for Anne and C for Charles!

Loves Animals

Their son loves animals. When not playing with his white rabbit, "Harvey," he can often be found with a glove puppet shaped like a rabbit.

This feeling for animals and creatures that move sometimes lands him in trouble. At Balmoral Castle he broke away and ran to the salmon fishing river that runs through the grounds. He wanted to "watch the fishes" and kicked and screamed when pulled back to safety.

He just missed a spanking. Charles is also fond of climbing. He scrambles in garden seats and through first-floor windows. Up to a point, the royal couple encourage this. They remember the long hours of standing he will endure. At the age of seven, the Queen used to remain standing for part of her studies, training herself for things to come.

MARMORA

Marmora — Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rocks, of Belleville, visited relatives here on Sunday.

Mrs. William Smith is quite ill at her home here.

Mr. John Cross is a patient in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, where he underwent an operation on Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gewley, of Belleville, visited relatives over the week-end.

Mr. Leslie Phillips is confined to his home through illness.

Thursday being Ascension Day there was a celebration of Holy Communion in St. Paul's Church at 10 a.m.

MURDER CHARGE LAID

VANCOUVER (CP)—A murder charge has been laid against Harold Ernest Graham, 41, following an inquest into the death of a fellow crew member of the Vancouver tugboat La Pointe.

The charge was laid Tuesday night by RCMP after a coroner's jury decided Sylvio Zanatta, 38, died an "unnatural death due to injuries received during an altercation" aboard the tug.

Zanatta's body was found early Sunday.

Chinese Communists Said Goodbye to Canadian Gunners And Infantrymen in April

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—Chinese Communists said goodbye to Canadian gunners and infantrymen in April before they left for Canada.

The messages were directed to the 1st Regiment, the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, and the 1st battalion, the Royal 22nd Regiment. They were broadcast over loudspeakers beamed across no man's land toward the Canadian front.

They were an aspect of a stepped-up propaganda drive on the Canadian sector in which the enemy has used loudspeakers and leaflets. So far none of the leaflets has dealt with specifically Canadian themes. The Communists have been using leaflets designed for American and British soldier consumption.

Professional Touch

Says Lieut. Bill Beeman of Portsmouth, Ont., intelligence officer at Canadian brigade headquarters:

"Such leaflets are ineffective against us because the Canadian soldier can't put himself into their picture. He couldn't. Later, for instance, about what the Communists allege about American conduct in Britain."

"But the broadcasts along the front are done by professionals and they obviously have kept up with their Canadian newspapers, he says.

Two nights before the Van Doos were to leave the front, and while the RCHA was handing over its area to the 2nd Royal Regiment, RCA, the Communists' loudspeakers boomed out:

"From Chinese to Van Doos!

"Why don't you go home? Your time is up. Artillery and Canadians—go home, time finished!"

The preceding night a woman's voice messaged:

"We are bringing some of your wounded down. Bring patrol to meet. We will not fire on you."

An hour later she changed the instructions:

"Go tomorrow morning at six o'clock to the left of your positions. You will find something."

The closest company sent out a patrol of two officers at 6:10 a.m. Van Search

For an hour they searched the indicated area with a stretcher. They were about 400 yards from the enemy positions and about to turn back when a Chinese stood up and shouted: "Are you going for a walk?"

One of the pair pointed to the stretcher, indicating they were searching for the advertised wounded. Nothing happened, and at 7:10 a.m. they returned to the UN lines.

The next night the loudspeaker said:

"We did not expect you to come this morning, therefore we were not ready. Go again tomorrow morning.

"Between six and eight o'clock you will find between five and 10 wounded prisoners on my left. Don't be afraid. Come out of your foxholes and get them."

A Chinese shouted out to soldiers about to leave in the morning something like "Hitler!... Heiter."

"Letters could mean only propaganda. So they waited for visual evidence of wounded in the valley before going out. None was seen.

Ignore Leaflets

The loudspeakers boom out other messages about leaflets they say have been left, and urge troops to go out for them. Orders now are firm against going out.

The Chinese sometimes put parcels of food ahead of the British positions. The labels read: "Have a good cup of tea and forgot this hellish war."

Last week they tried to work up a local "armistice" deal with the Canadians. One evening the loudspeakers said:

"We will not shoot tomorrow, if you do not shoot today."

The answer went over within seconds—a volley of three-inch mortar bombs.

Canadian Platoon Attacked From Rear But Held Position

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—Here are individual highlights of the Canadians' May 3-5 action when a two-battalion Chinese attack was successfully beaten off.

Main objective was a platoon position of 3rd battalion, the Royal Canadian Regiment, commanded by Lieut. Ed Mallory, of Toronto. It was briefly overrun but facing fire from the 41st field regiment, RCA, rendered it temporarily uninhabitable and it was reoccupied in daylight without trouble.

Early in the battle the enemy bombardment knocked Sgt. Peter Stone of New Westminster, B. C., down in a trench, his face in the dirt. Other explosions partly buried him. Stone stayed that way through most of the battle. All his radio and Chinese signallers, one with a radio set, used his back and head as a perch, while he sat still, managing their headquarters.

A patrol under Lieut. Robert H. Shilton, of Hamilton, went into the position during the battle's final stage to look for casualties. He reported dead or wounded RCR soldiers in almost every weapon pit. They had been attacked by grenades, grenaded from behind.

Stayed Till End

Lt.-Col. Kent Campbell of Peterborough, Ont., said: "They stayed there with everything they had, right to the end. There was no bugging out. You can't ask for anything more."

Korean Army soldiers attached to the platoon are considered, to have fought well. Pte. Ronald Bard, of Brantford, Ont., No. 1 man on a 3-inch gun, said his Katusa (Korean Army troops attached to the Commonwealth Division) stayed with him throughout and kept the weapon replenished with full magazines.

Lieut. Laurie Cote of Aylmer, Que., said his Katusa also kept his automatic rifle constantly charged "until we run out of ammunition."

The Chinese cared for several wounded Canadians during the battle. One was Pte. John Jenkins of Ottawa. Wounded on a patrol, he was carried back into Canadian positions, where a medical assistant tended him. The battle was too pitched to allow evacuation. Then the Chinese over-ran the position. He told interrogators that a Chinese medical assistant checked his dressings and gave him some water.

Five Wounds in Stomach

Pte. Clayton Morningstar of Niagara Falls, Ont., suffered five bullet wounds in the stomach. He was not most of the night with his wounds. He told officers later "I'm all right—me darn Chinese is going to kill me."

Pte. Russell Leon Gardiner of Cochrane, Ont., was killed while accompanying Hollyer on rounds of the position during a lull. Gardiner volunteered to accompany the platoon commander. A Chinese who feigned death at their approach came to "life." Just as Gardiner was about to fell him the Chinese whipped around his burp gun and shot the Canadian through the chest.

Pte. V. E. Colyer of Maidman Creek, Sask., Hollyer's signaller, also was a steadying influence in the platoon command post. Reports vaunts such as "aren't we getting just a little excited around here" at the height of the battle, to keep the atmosphere stable.

Brought in Casualties

Cpl. Ronald J. Brayton of Halifax, a medical assistant, calmly tended casualties during the battle, administered morphia and bandaged wounds. He also went out alone after casualties and brought them into the lines.

More than 40 wounded soldiers passed through the regimental aid post operated by Capt. Robert A. Duncan, whose team included Sgt. A. J. Turner of Montreal and Cpl. Henry Collison of Brockville. No casualty was more than 10 minutes in the efficient set-up before being on his way down the line.

Duncan said: "We had all the help in the world. Neighboring units sent us extra stretchers, jeep ambulances, and one small British unit nearby even sent us 1,000 shell dressings."

Capt. Jack Jenkins of Brockville was dispatched by Col. Campbell to the company area to organize casualty evacuation along the narrow jeep road that runs in full view of the enemy. He not only kept the ambulances moving but went out to help bring in casualties as well.

One of the final shocks of the battle was from a reporter who flown by Capt. Peter Tees of Vancouver. He dropped into enemy gunfire collecting their dead in no man's land one next day. One volley alone killed 12.

Brig. Bogert Will Assume Senior Headquarters Post After Leaving Korea Command

OTTAWA (CP)—Brig. M. P. Bogert, a cultivated soldiering gentleman who both a quality brigade and pot ginger in a static front in his year in Korea, is going to take over a senior position at army headquarters in Ottawa now that he is back.

He will be deputy adjutant-general's post being revived to bring help to the static wrestling with the administrative, human and personnel problems of a 20,000 land army with commitments in three countries.

To it he will bring a long army experience freshened by a year in command of the 25th Brigade on a Korean front which he says has proved Canadian Army training to be on the right road, has helped to protect the nucleus of a good future army, given a proving ground for new Canadian wrinkles and provided experience in cooperating as part of international armies.

He and his brigade also had to learn out there something the army had forgotten in 1918—how to fight a defensive war.

Stickler for Perfection

Bill Ross, Canadian Press correspondent in Korea, reported that the 45-year-old brigadier is a deceptively quiet-mannered commander who "gets his way" by suggestion. His staff and subordinate commanders know he is a stickler for perfection and so dish it up.

Neither colorful nor reserved, no seeker after easy popularity with his soldiers, he is very much the regular noncommissioned officer.

That's as he would want it, Ross reports. Officers of the 25th Brigade, Brig. Bogert says, marked "the first time we have gone to war with regular soldiers."

"They regard the army as a career, are more amenable to discipline (than the wartime volunteer) and therefore can be disciplined more easily. (He defines "discipline" as "alert response to orders.)

"They are more dependent on their officers. If an officer is good here he has more scope and gets more respect.

"We've learned a lot about handling men like that and should be perfecting the methods of a good regular army."

Launches New Policy

Korea, before he arrived, had become a "static, defensive theatre." But the word "static, disappeared from his area. He launched a policy of vigorous patrolling, designed to keep the enemy from encroaching on Canadian territory. The brigade hedged once or twice, but always retained mastery of its no man's land.

As enemy shelling increased, positions had to be improved. Lacking official army text books on defensive warfare—they were not only out of print but not even in army libraries—Brig. Bogert drew on his extensive military lore and recollection of First World War photographs for ideas.

"Korea," he says, "has helped us recapture some of the techniques of the defence which had been lost since no one had really practised them since the First World War.

"This is important since all modern wars have started off with the democracies on the defensive. In any future war we will be able to start with the freshly-regained techniques at our fingertips."

Weakness at Battle

A student of battle, he so precisely knew what the Chinese were up to last Oct. 31 when they made a major attempt to steal some of his real estate that 24 hours before they launched their two-battalion assault under cover of a 6,000-round-as-hour barrage, he ordered the reinforcement unit at Kure, Japan, to send every available soldier to the unit about to be attacked—the 1st battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment. Before the battle was joined, the reinforcements had begun their 850-mile journey from Japan to the front.

Lilias Gibraltar says the brigade lost and regained that night to an action whose course the brigadier had predicted in detail. He imperturbably followed its course at his headquarters, never "bogged" the RCR and only once voiced a suggestion when "it looked as though their counter-attack might be late getting in."

His had confidence in the officers on the spot. "If you haven't you shouldn't have them there," he says.

DRY STATE PROBLEM

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Alcoholism has become a acute problem in legally-dry Oklahoma, Dr. H. H. Donahue, state mental health director, said Wednesday. He told a legislative meeting liquor addicts are crowding the penalty fit out of hospitals in the state.

RED CHARGE AGAIN

TOKYO (AP)—The Communist Peiping radio again today accused the Allies of firing poison gas shells in Korea. The United Nations command repeatedly has denied using either poison gas or germ bombs against the Reds.

Two of Cameras Stolen Turn Up In Chicago Suburb

MIDLAND (CP)—Officials of the Ernest Leitz Canada Company here, where nearly $60,000 worth of Leica camera bodies and lenses were stolen Sunday, said Wednesday two of the cameras stolen are believed to have turned up in Oak Park, a Chicago suburb.

Officials said the two cameras, bearing missing serial numbers, were offered for sale at a camera shop in Oak Park. They said, however, that when the proprietor tried to check the serial numbers with police, the man who offered the cameras fled.

One company official said that both the R.C.M.P. and the F.B.I. are working on the robbery.

Charged With Murder

PEMBROKE (CP)—Kenneth Wilson, 32, of Arnprior, was charged with murder Wednesday in connection with the death of his wife after a party in their home.

Mrs. Lois Wilson, 28-year-old mother of five children, died in hospital at Arnprior May 7, four days after she allegedly suffered a severe beating. At that time Wilson, a steam-shovel operator, was arrested and charged with assault and causing grievous bodily harm.

The more serious charge was laid Wednesday by crown attorney Al Neville.

The party was a family affair May 3 that also included two neighbors, Leo Piche and Albert Schaack. It lasted until 3 a.m. Sunday morning, but those present said it was a quiet affair with no show of bad feelings.

Gamma Globulin Will Not Be Sold in Canada

TORONTO (CP)—Gamma globulin, the by-product of whole blood used in the prevention of polio, will not be sold in Canada but will be made available through a central allocating committee.

Dr. A. J. Rhodes of the University of Toronto's Connaught research laboratories told the annual convention of the Ontario Medical Association Wednesday that existing stocks of this by-product are exhausted; but that new doses are being prepared.

He said more than 54,000 doses were given children in the polio epidemic regions of the United States in 1951 and 1952. The results showed the gamma globulin protected against paralysis in the second week and through to the fifth week after inoculation.

Dr. M. E. Hobbs of Millbrook said the economic—the mortality rate of croup has been almost reduced to zero. Some 30 years ago, it was about 30 per cent. He said the public should be educated to the fact that inserting a tube in the windpipe and circulating a mixture of air and pure oxygen offers the key to saving the child's life.

Must Obtain Knowledge

Greater knowledge on the cobalt beam method of cancer treatment must be gained before positive statements can be made, Dr. Ivan H. Smith of London, Ont., told the association.

Dr. Smith, director of the cancer clinic at Victoria Hospital, London, reported on the 321 cancer patients who have undergone cobalt beam therapy at the London clinic.

In the study at Victoria Hospital, Dr. Smith stressed that much of the clinic's work had been research. He held out hope that important advances are being made.

Dr. H. T. Ewart, 47, the superintendent of Mountain Sanatorium at Hamilton, was elected president of the association.

Dr. Ewart, a graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, is both economics and medicine, began practising as a doctor in 1931.

Passenger Train Hits Abandoned Truck on Tracks

THAMESVILLE, Ont. (CP)—A westbound Canadian National Railways passenger train was delayed five hours early Wednesday after it crashed into a pickup truck abandoned on tracks near here. No one was injured.

Provincial police from Chatham said train was travelling 40 miles an hour at the time of the crash which wrecked the vehicle.

The truck, owned by Edmund Lovell of Thamesville, had been driven to nearby Dresden Tuesday night by his son, Lyle, who parked it.

Police said some one apparently stole the truck and abandoned it on the tracks when it stalled or ran out of gas. The locomotive's cowcatcher was damaged.

UTTER CONFUSION

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—State police receiver in the Fayette county patrol radio office was pouring forth calls when a hillbilly trio on a commercial station cut in with a song.

"You'll Never Get Away" was the title of the song.

A radio engineer said the breakin could have been caused either by the weather or the patrol's receiver being out of alignment.

British Press Greets With Alarm Or Bitterness United States' Uproar Over Attlee Speech

LONDON (AP) — The United States congressional uproar over former prime minister Clement Attlee's assertion that some elements in the U. S. oppose a Korean peace was greeted with alarm or bitterness in much of the British press today.

Moscow radio, meanwhile, poured oil on the flames with a lengthy review of the "ever-growing dissatisfaction with various Elpects of United States policy" in the British House of Commons.

Attlee, leader of the Opposition Labor party, made his assertion Tuesday during a Commons foreign policy debate that won the biggest play in Soviet newspapers given a British parliamentary discussion in many years.

Heroine Worship

Moscow's two principal newspapers, Pravda and Izvestia, devoted nearly a page to summaries and quotations from the speeches by Attlee, Prime Minister Churchill and other leading members of the half a page was devoted to Churchill's speech in which he called for a top-level meeting of the principal powers to settle world issues.

Attlee's position was hotly defended today by the Daily Herald in one of its rare front page editorials. The Labor paper sharply denounced U. S. congressional critics of the former prime minister.

"Is it not a fact," the Herald said, "that in the lobbies of Congress' Chiang Kai-shek, so strengthened by American arms that he can invade the Chinese mainland?

"And can it be pretended for a moment that the men who urge this policy are simultaneously and sincerely anxious for a settlement with Communist China?"

Herald Quits Hitler

The Herald declared that "senator McCarthy's reaction to Attlee's speech was unsurprisingly typical," adding:

"He tried to smear Attlee as a Hitler appeaser, although that he (Attlee) gave the 'clenched fist' sign to Spanish republican troops when he reviewed in the (Spanish) civil war.

"That was their regulation salute whether they were socialists, liberals, anarchists or Communists."

The independent Daily Express said British shood swear off accepting dollar aid from America immediately and "stand independent and unsupported." The Beaverbrook paper asserted:

"She cannot lean on America and at the same time aspire to lead America."

The Conservative Daily Mail destructive comment by Senator William Knowland (Rep.-Calif.) on Churchill's proposal for world peace talks. Knowland denounced this proposal—which Attlee seconded—as a "Far Eastern Munich."

The Washington correspondent of The Times called it "unfortunate" that Attlee's speech "should give all southern elements here an excuse to swamp the sober debate across the Atlantic with violent recrimination."

Substantial Saving

CHICAGO (AP)—A new all-water system of coal transportation, which its developers say will result in "substantial freight costs savings" to Great Lakes industries, has been inaugurated in Illinois.

Five barges carrying 1,200 tons each of coal moved up the Illinois river May 7 from Liverpool, Ill. The coal was unloaded to a dock at South Chicago, then transferred to a self-unloading steamship for movement to Ludington, Mich.

J. M. Morris of the United Electric Coal companies, a developer of the new system, said "the next shipment, within two weeks, will eliminate the transferral of coal to the docks before loading on boats."

FRANKFORD
Band Serenades Frankford Man

FRANKFORD — Perhaps the most surprised man in Frankford on Sunday, and undoubtedly the happiest, was Arthur Southworth. Sunday afternoon, 'Southie' was most surprised to see a large bus drive up to his home on Victoria Street, and over thirty of the Peterborough Salvation Army Band pile out, carrying instruments. For over half an hour, Art was serenaded by the band. Along with the band, Lieut. Phillip Gardner, of Trenton, joined the group for the afternoon.

Refreshments were prepared by friends, and served to the bandsmen and other guests.

The band members all of whom Art knows personally, heard of his recent illness, and decided to make the trip to Frankford. It was a very fine gesture by the Salvation Army, and was greatly appreciated not only by Art, but by his many, many friends in Frankford.

Young Adult Club

The 2nd Young Adult Club of Frankford United Church held their regular meeting in the church hall on Monday evening, with a fair turnout. Harold and Ethel Vosborough were in charge of the programme.

Myrtle Poland spoke a few words on how everyone might make his prayer for "protection" come true for mothers, and placed a bouquet of flowers on a table in tribute to all mothers. Eileen spoke on "Joy" for mother, and Ruth Beach spoke on "rewards" for mother, each placing a bouquet of flowers.

President Gene Lohnes took charge of the business portion of the meeting. The 2M Clubbers will be purchasing a supply of hymn books for the church this week. An executive meeting is to be held at the home of Bill and Evelyn Martin on May 21.

A reading was given by Ruth Beach on "Mother's Day". Following this Mr. Sam Caskey entertained the group for some time showing pictures which he took in the Rocky Mountains and across the prairies last year.

Two readings, "Mother Tells Her Story" and "Father Gives His Version" were given by Jack and Ruth Beach, and a reading was given by Gene Lohnes.

A bountiful lunch was served by the Vosborough's group, and a period of fellowship enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Rose, of Frankford, attended the Oddfellows' and Rebekah service and parade in Picton on May 3, and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Stubbs.

Music have been attracted to the window of Rowe's Furniture Store as the trophies for the 1952-53 bowling winners have been on display for the past few days and will remain for approximately two weeks.

A special meeting of Branch 327 was held Monday night to complete plans for the Coronation celebration. The meeting opened with a minute of silence in tribute to the fallen comrades of the two wars.

A report from the zone rally was read by Comrade President Madill. Comrade Arthur Southworth was welcomed back after his sickness. Comrade Southworth thanked everyone for their visits and remembrances while he was in the hospital, and ill at his home.

Plans for a Coronation day parade were discussed, and are going ahead as planned.

It is hoped that Frankford branch will be hosts to several other branches this year if it is possible to swing the dinner-head service to Frankford.

Comrade Bill Rose, proprietor of Frankford Radio-Electric, has volunteered to supply three television sets for the Coronation Day. All citizens of the village will be welcome to come to the Legion hall to see the Coronation on TV. It is expected that a Coronation banquet will be held in the evening.

Donations from the Bata Ushows were gratefully acknowledged.

Congratulations to Miss Marilyn Spencer, who was chosen "Queen of the May" in the annual Belleville Collegiate Institute annual celebration. Frankford is indeed proud of its young "Queen."

Saturday was an important night in the Frankford Black Knight Lodge, as four new candidates were received into the lodge. Visitors were present from Belleville, Brighton, Little Lake and Frankford districts, adding greatly to the degree. A bountiful lunch was served. (Geo. Brown, W.P.; H. W. Rose, Reg.)

Mrs. H. W. Rose spent three days in Guelph last week attending the Women's Institute convention.

St. Paul's, Carmel, Observes Mother's Day Services

RAWDON — On Sunday morning St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, was resplendent with bouquets of wild plum blossoms and various spring blooms for the special Mother's Day service. The senior choir were provided with red and white carnations to be worn as a tribute or in memory of mother. These were the gift of Mrs. Walter Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Kernahan.

Special programs were printed on lithographed folders with a bouquet of carnations and the Holy Bible as a cover illustration.

The minister, Rev. A. E. Baker, U.E. presided and several babies were baptized.

He based his sermon message on the theme "Calling the roll of Mothers" and the children's message, "Remember."

Mrs. A. E. Baker, A.R.C.T. church organist, rendered as prelude, "Mothers" from Wabi's Medal 1797, for interlude, Shubert's "Cradle Song," and as a postlude, "Songs My Mother Taught Me," by Dvorak.

The junior royal choir rendered a chorus, "Mother" and "A Spring Prayer."

The senior choir contributed "The Lord is My Shepherd," and Mr. Edward Reynolds rendered a vocal solo, "Mother O' Mine."

A period of silence was observed in memory of all mothers who rest from their labors, followed by a memorial hymn, "We Cannot think of Them as Dead."

The service closed with "Faith of our Mothers," and the whole service as a fitting tribute to motherhood.

Baptismal Service

On Sunday afternoon, Carmel United Church in Rawdon was filled in capacity for their special Mother's Day Service. The pastor, Rev. A. E. Baker, U.E., was in charge and the small children of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hart and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Stapley were baptized.

Mrs. Arthur Fryer presided at the piano and in place of a choir selection, the new song sheets were used with the group joining in assembly singing of three old-time hymns.

Beautiful flowers were in evidence and several visitors were in attendance for the service.

During the service a copy of "The New Edition of the revised Bible" was presented to the church in memory of the late Mrs. William Carlisle, by her sons, Ernest, John and George Carlisle. This was dedicated and placed on the communion table.

Starving Horses Found on Farms In Northern Bush

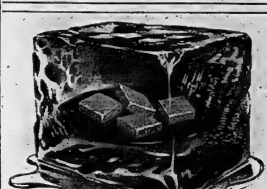
SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — R. Hunter, Sault Society inspector said yesterday that four horses he found on a lonely bush farm near here recently were so hungry they were tearing tarpaper from the walls of a barn.

Harold Allard said it took him six hours to travel over a 3 1-2-mile bush road in a jeep to bring two bales of hay.

The horses were so hungry they had to be restrained from eating the covers off the bales.

Mr. Allard said many horses on backwoods farms and in bush camps have gone hungry, this spring because bad road conditions would not allow provisions to be brought to them.

Some bush-camp owners have been hiring their horses loose to forage for themselves.



Mr. Allard told of another case in Prince township, west of here. He found two horses locked in an old house. They had been there for two days.

NEW FRUIT SOURCE

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Peach trees are difficult to grow in this part of eastern Ontario, so citizens watched with interest as blossoms appeared on the tree at the home of former magistrate George Wright. The sturdy tree is five or six inches thick at the base.

Dept. Lops $90,000 Off Sudbury Budget, Reduces Rate

SUDBURY (CP)—Sudbury is running against the tide of increases in Ontario municipal tax rates this year. The firm rein in hand of the Ontario department of municipal affairs lopped $90,000 off the budget prepared by city council and reduced the rate by three mills.

To most of the city's 8,000 taxpayers the cut was welcome. Public school supporters will pay on a rate of 71.5 mills this year and Roman Catholic separate school supporters 68. In 1952 the rates were 75.5 and 71.

However, city officials are in the background a more rigid application of the supervisory powers of the department. Sudbury first came under department supervision in 1934, when it got into financial trouble in the depression like many other Ontario municipalities. Since then, the city had been given a progressively freer hand in administering its affairs.

Have to Account

Mayor Dan Jessup, 63-year-old retired grocer, said: "I guess we've never really been out of supervision. We have to tell them were we spend our money and why."

Actually, the new supervision came about because the Ontario legislature in 1952 approved legislation requiring municipalities getting a provincial grant in lieu of a mines profit tax to submit to the department for approval their annual estimates, assessments, tax reports, audit reports, municipal licence fees, sale and disposition of property and debenture by-laws. Although Sudbury is the only city affected, there are six towns, 18 townships and six improvement districts in the same boat. Two of the townships are McKim and Neelon-Garson in the Sudbury area.

Sudbury, which has a $355,000 mine grant this year, sent its 1953 budget estimates and its 1952 audit report to the department for approval.

Turned up Surplus

The department's study turned up a $130,000 surplus in the secondary schools budget. The amount was for anticipated government schools grants which are usually paid at the end of the year, instead of borrowing money from the bank to carry the schools, the city council planned to collect it from taxpayers. The department rejected the scheme, said the grant would be paid at the start of the year and lopped the $130,000 off the budget.

On Sudbury's $30,138,000 assessment, the $139,000 equaled 4½ mills on the last rate. The entire saving wasn't passed along because some other budget items were increased. It wound up at about $80,000, or three mills.

Study Methods

The department control also brought a study of Sudbury's financing and accounting methods. The department said there were some discrepancies and let it be known that if provincial statutes are not followed, city council members can be held liable for illegalities. Since then, all important civic financial matters are passed with the provision that they are subject to department approval.

Both city and department are keeping a sharp eye on debenture debt which stood at $5,136,728 at the end of 1952, well within the safety margin of 25 per cent of assessment or $7,500,000.

The city's budget this year runs about $4,252,000 of which $1,641,936 is in government grants.

Fifty-six members of Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 311 journeyed to Thomasburg on Monday evening, May 11. Some travelled by car and 33 went by chartered bus. The group paid a fraternal visit to Crescent Lodge, Thomasburg, and during the evening, Mrs. Percy Gibson, captain of Laurel degree team and her group conferred the degree on one candidate.

Brief addresses were given by the Noble Grands in attendance and the hostess lodge served refreshments. Other guests were in attendance from Belleville and Tweed.

The Williams public school pupils, under the leadership of their teacher, Miss Russell Pryor, have entered the festival of sacred praise competition.

Mrs. Mary Thrasher visited relatives at Wellman's last week.

The Ontario Intelligencer silver cup which is now in the Mr. R. A. Patterson's store window. This cup will be the best one-room rural school choir and has been suitably engraved.

Rawdon friends have received word of the death of Mr. William McGrigal, of Sundre, Alberta. His wife was formerly Miss Bertha Tucker, fourth concession Rawdon.

Several Rawdon relatives and friends attended the 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Rodgers.

Rev. R. R. Bonsteel, pastor of Rawdon circuit, will be the Bible adjudicator for the four public schools under the jurisdiction of Rev. A. E. Baker, pastor of St. Paul's, Carmel. The 1952 pennant will be awarded to the winner from the four schools which are River Valley, Riversdale, Glen Rea and Ridge Road.

St. Paul's Wednesday evening cottage prayer meeting was held at the home of Mrs. C. I. Hatton, Elder John L. Good, presided and Rev. W. S. Irwin gave the special message and sang a gospel hymn. Elder Fred Bateman read the Bible lesson and Rev. A. E. Baker offered prayer.

Misses Janet Ann Good and Janet Reynolds sang "God Will Take Care of You."

Mrs. Ivah Thain and Mr. Edward Reynolds contributed "Whispering Hope."

Canadians Wrestling Back Control of No Man's Land

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—Slowly the Canadians are wrestling back from the Chinese control of no man's land in their sector.

For more than a year they were its masters. Several times the Chinese contested the title, but each challenge was hotly fought back. The last attempt, last Oct. 23, resulted in the victory of Little Gibraltar spur for the 1st battalion, the Royal Canadian Regiment.

The United Nations lost that control during February and March when the Canadians, with the rest of the Commonwealth division, went into reserve. By the time they moved back April 6 the Chinese owned the territory, were stepping off outposts almost at will, and possibly lived on the UN side, and the relieving formation in those two months had lost 240 killed, wounded and missing—more than the entire Commonwealth division had suffered during the whole preceding year.

Aimed Takes Over

Maj.-Gen. Michael West and his brigade commanders' assignment in early April was nothing less than to make the no man's land no man's land.

Initial responsibility in the Canadian sector was Brig. M. P. Bogert's. It also has gone to Brig. Jean Allard, who succeeded Bogert April 27. Bogert now is home on deburdening leave.

Bogert's policy was the twofold one of restoring the defenses' own security—securing them safer in case of attack—and of getting the pattern of the enemy's activity.

He plotted where they were, what they had and what they did, how they came in onto his positions, and what they tried to do. Slowly, bit by bit, he wrested back control.

His first battalion in was the 3rd Patricias and the 1st Van Doos. They resisted the weapon positions, deepened their trenches and strengthened their walls. They sank and improved their bunkers.

Slow and Steady

Minefields were raised ahead of the positions, barbed-wire entanglements and barricades were restrung.

It was a slow, steady job—night-work on the forward slopes, around the clock on the reverse slopes. Enemy shelling and mortar fire didn't make it easier.

And all the while the observation posts, and later the forge-and-four-man patrols were going out, adding to the background of the over-all picture.

Gradually the patrol depth increased. Now Canadian patrols regularly reach half-way over to the Chinese positions. One of them spoiled the surprise of the Chinese attack May 3 which caused at least 62 Canadian casualties.

The Van Doos, now on route home, were relieved by the 3rd battalion, the Royal Canadian Regiment, who entered, the line with zest.

Chauffeur Soldiers

Says Lt-Col. Ken Campbell of Fortuneau, Que., CO of the newly-arrived RCR:

"I'm still being amazed at the cheerfulness of the patrols. They show no signs of strain at all, even though we're here at it."

"They're bombed, too. They sit out there on the valley floor, pulling down mortar fire all over the place. You've got to be sure in the dark that you know where you are and that the mortars also know where you are, to do that. Two or three patrols have called for fire within 150 yards of themselves—which is close."

Not entirely successful yet are Canadian attempts to "muck in and seal off" Chinese groups. The enemy still get away. One enemy party actually took down 75 yards of Canadian wire to show that it had "twigged" before making off without a Canadian being the wiser until a returning patrol luckily discovered it.

Ghoulish Tactics

The Patricias on successive nights came across decayed UN bodies, dead for months. Each three had been discovered on ground thoroughly covered previously by patrols. Mai. Charles Mayfield of Victoria, acting commanding officer, decided the Chinese were planning an ambush.

He reasoned that the Chinese were exhuming the bodies and "planting" them, hoping in condition the patrols into coming upon them. They would then lay an ambush for the patrol at his position. Three nights later Royal Patricia patrols were ambushed.

Bogert's and Allard's policy is paying off in quantity.

Their plots built up information of Chinese fight tactics and enemy border positions. Now when the enemy opens up with those new weapons the retaliation procedure enables the 2nd RCR, for instance, to reply with long-on fire within minutes.

Slowly, steadily and solidly, that process is

The PREDECESSORS of ELIZABETH II

No. 39: Henry VIII Ruled England and Ireland 1508-1547

Born: 1491, second son of Henry VII. A fortnight before his coronation, he wed Catherine of Aragon, widow of his elder brother Arthur. She was the daughter of Ferdinand and Isabella, sponsors of Columbus' voyages. Two decades later, Henry's determination to replace Catherine with the younger Anne Boleyn through divorce, culminated events which separated the Church of England from the authority of Rome. Then, having thrown off restraints, he married five more times (six in all). He had two of his wives executed.

Henry VIII was a staunch observer of the custom of keeping professional fools and jesters in his palaces. The court fool was a slapstick clown, the jester a wit.

Allan Francis Talks On 'Beautifying Farm Homestead'

MADOC — The May meeting of the Junior Farmers and Institute was held at Queensboro hall on Thursday evening. Forty-two members were present including several new members from the Ivanhoe district.

The meeting opened with a sing-song led by Isabelle Burnside. A complete report was given by the delegates, Isabelle Burnside, Glenn Blackburn, Betty Ketchenson and Rose Moorcroft. The club paper was read by Joan Chapman. The clubs were fortunate in having for the evening Mr. Allan Francis, assistant agricultural representative, who gave an interesting discourse on "Beautifying the Farm Homestead."

In his talk, Mr. Francis pointed out that the improvement of farm entrances would greatly add to the sale of the farm. He also mentioned that landscaping such as flowers, well-kept lawn and shrubbery did greatly to the beautification of the homes.

Mr. Francis was thanked by Carol Fox after which refreshments were served.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Martin and children of Kingston, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Belcher.

Miss Lenoine West of Niagara Falls, Ont., spent the week-end with her father, Mr. George West.

Moscow Sees Speech Widening Anglo-American Relations

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet press today reported on Prime Minister Churchill's foreign policy speech Monday to the British House of Commons. There is plenty of reason to believe Moscow is interpreting the mixed reception to the speech as an indication of widening differences between the United States and Britain.

The approval of Churchill's ideas in certain sections of French politics apparently also is not lost upon the Russians. The development of conflict of opinion between the United States and its European partners often has been predicted here, and reactions in England, the United States and France to the Churchill speech may be looked upon by the Russians as the beginning of a series of such conflicts.

(A joint study by the American Council on Foreign Relations and the British Royal Institute of International Affairs says a Soviet peace offensive could intensify differences between the American and British. The study, released Tuesday night, was prepared before George Malenkov succeeded Stalin as Soviet premier. It says that if the U.S.S.R. refrained for a time from muddying international waters, perhaps in expectation of such conflicts among Western powers, "disagreements that would otherwise have been suppressed may be allowed to come to the surface." Stalin, in his last essay before his death, predicted the development of such conflicts.)

The Soviet press, while devoting about 600 words to the Churchill speech, by no means embraced his ideas. The account raised the issue of Western support for the rearming of Western Germany and made clear that the U.S.S.R. objected to this. The Soviet press asked:

"Are words of the prime minister to be understood to mean the English government intends to continue the policy of remilitarization of Western Germany, the policy of partition of Germany?"

Fascinating History Of the Caribbean Islands

Dr. W. Evans, in London Calling.)

Whenever I hear the expression "The New World," or if I happen to see the words in print, I think at once of the continent of America, and particularly North America, rather than the West Indies.

Yet historically speaking the West Indies were in every way the newest part of the new world.

Not that they were discovered at a different period from the rest of the American continent, but they were transformed into something quite new by their European discoverers and invaders as quickly as any part of the neighboring continent and a great deal more quickly than the mine-lands of it. This was because European invaders in the West Indies had a easier task than their brethren on the continent. They were almost the invading forces, bent on transforming a newly discovered world into a new world of their own making, found themselves up against an old world.

When I say that the West Indies were quickly turned to profitable use by invaders Oliver Cromwell will admit that this is only partially true of the Spanish, who were the first on the scene in any numbers.

Outside San Domingo, which became the principal springboard for their mainland conquests, and outside Cuba, the Spaniards failed to make good their title to exclusive dominion in the Caribbean. After Columbus had landed in one of the Bahamas in 1492 and revealed to his royal patron in Spain that a new world to appropriate lay open, Spain paid little attention to the islands of the Caribbean. She found the gold-mines and silver-mines of Mexico and Peru, too absorbing a prize. The lure of precious metals fascinated Spanish cupidity.

Jamaica was so lightly held that it fell to the first serious attack, which was when Oliver Cromwell sent out a British fleet to the Caribbean on an expedition of conquest. Trinidad was left almost completely neglected except as a naval base until the latter part of the eighteenth century, when it was thrown open to settlement by Catholics of any nationality.

The Age of Discovery quickly gave the West Indies to Europe, and at the end of the seventeenth century the West Indies, mainly under British impulse, had given the new world their own peculiar pattern of colonization. Incidentally the pattern was not peculiar to the Western Hemisphere. Either later it was reproduced in much the same latitudes in the Indian Ocean in the colonies of Mauritius and Seychelles and in the still French colony of Reunion. But colonization was not practised in the West Indies; at least not as generally understood by governments, or overseas settlers, or colonizing agencies. Or rather, such colonization, having been tried out in the early days of the European enterprise in the West Indies, was quickly abandoned.

There were early efforts to colonize in the usual way in Antigua, in Barbados and in Jamaica after Cromwell had dispossessed the Spaniards of that island. There were efforts to settle those islands with immigrants of British stock and to build up an all-British colonial society. But it soon became apparent that a semi-tropical climate was no climate for such experiments. And before the end of the seventeenth century King Sugar had been enthroned, and his advent ushered in a new kind of colonial society.

The picture is familiar enough: large plantations; the slave trade; a multitude of Negro slaves, a small, white "planocracy" consisting as much of the agents of absentee proprietors as of permanent colonial landlords. Their economic theory and current international practice gave these slave-owning plantation colonies a high value in the national economy.

Economic nationalism in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries was imbued with the belief that a metropolitan state and its colonies should be welded together into a self-sufficient and exclusive trading area and that the area should include such colonies capable of producing indispensable tropical products like sugar.

And now the wheel has turned full circle. In the contemporary world, circumstances dictate closer intimacy and capacity for mutual service. It is as if a collection of individuals who had grown up as strangers were now called on to set up house together as a family group.

The prevailing economic belief of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries was not peculiar to Britain; it was shared by other countries. It sufficed to set the seal on the separation and alienation of the West Indies. It also made the Caribbean so eventful in the long struggle between Britain and France for maritime and colonial supremacy. It made West Indian waters the scene of epic naval combats.

In the long struggle between Britain and France there is one very significant incident worth mentioning. It came at the end of the war known as the Seven Years' War. In 1763 there was an antithetic and a projected settlement that left Britain the choice of depriving France of her dominions in Canada or of one of her best West Indian possessions. It was Canada and go whether Canada was preferred to a fat sugar island in the Caribbean or vice versa. This gives us some idea how highly statesmen in the eighteenth century prized the nation's West Indian interests. It also shows how great, in the Western Hemisphere, is the gulf of history that separates the eighteenth from the twentieth century.

It was in the nineteenth century that the gulf suddenly widened. The story is again a familiar one; the abolition of the slave trade; the abolition of slavery as an institution throughout the British Empire; the conversion of Britain to the principles and practice of free trade. It is worth recalling that slavery came under attack not only as morally wrong but as economically inefficient. There has been a lot of argument on how far the West Indian "planocracy" was to blame for the impoverishment which followed emancipation.

A more shattering blow than emancipation was the loss of a privileged position for West Indian sugar in what had been its only market. This, combined with a social revolution like the one that plunged the West Indies into a prolonged period of

Plucked From Certain Death

Thirty-year-old Mrs. Lois Hutchings was plucked from certain death by a fireman as she was within inches of reaching the high-voltage line of a trackless trolley guidewire in mid-San Francisco. Riding aloft a swinging tower ladder, the would-be rescuer grasped the screaming woman in mid-air after she had come out of her third floor hotel window and dropped to the guide wire running from the building to the trolley. She was later taken to a hospital for psychiatric observation. — Central Press Canadian.

Milwaukee, 'Home Of The Braves And Brew' Works Wonders For Club

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

WON'T BE LONG NOW!

"In the spring the hardest heavy lightly turns to thoughts of shovel, rusk, grass and grime."

The telegrams in the sports composition of this newspaper have been jangling a discordant tune the past few weeks, or at least, since the curtain was rung down on hockey and the winter's anti-climactic bouts of curling.

"When does the rasslin' start?" has been the impetuous demand. And the slight majority of requests for information have come from the feminine ranks of those who love the sport.

Don't look now, but in all probability the wrinkle, wrestling and wiener fraternity will usher in the season a week from tomorrow night. Manager Walter Gerow is making preparations and negotiating for a topflight main bout that should have the faithful gargle-eyed, battered and balmoral on the edge of their wallets.

'Tis reported that a flock of new graduates have been sent out into the world from the College of Applied Puchydency. And tuned with the ring-scarred veterans of many a whoose wing-ding should make for one of the best seasons the sport has enjoyed in this village. Last season, the arena broke all previous records for attendance, thrills, brawls, and general entertainment.

A number of the stars of last season will likely be seen in action this year. Among them is Lord Alfred Layton, the bespectacled Britisher whose ancestral home is said to be in "Surrah", and who has taken unto himself another valet, named, "Dora the smoke-robed hunk of pomi-royalty who put the Pride of Enid York, the popular "Whipper" into hospital following a devastating attack on the Wolverine fighter with the judo chop method.

"It Wins," we are informed, has taken unto his wrestling bosom another child to have semi-rural chest surging in his veins. It could be burgundy from Brooklyn. He is Lord Blear, pronounced Blench, who sports a monocle which he places gently in a plush-lined case while performing his wriddjess histrionics. They claim "It Wins" Samuel's predisposition to wear one in for the season, but he is much after the type of "Gerald", who makeshifts Lord Alfred for a season or two, before furnishing the reluctant gentleman the wherewithal to return to his native heath, breaks and finished cottages at the Cobweb Hills district.

Another probable newcomer to Belleville will be the squat Togo, huge Nipponese twister from the shadow of Fujiyama and its cherry-blossomed vales. Togo, who carries, besides a few hatchet-men, and a half-dozen valets, Jap style, an interpreter, goes through solemn ritual prior to unbending his built before the curious gaze of the foreign devils.

His robed attendant, under the ring, does prayer mats on the canvas and proceed to burn a half-dozen different brands of incense. The referee's instructions are inserted to him via a wrist-bowing interpreter as the peaceful Togo looks on. We saw him on one occasion via television when the decision went against him. Brother, this boys likes of Madame Butterfly's Clark Cable fairly meltseach of when the usual hapless opponent. The Mako learned English in exactly four seconds.

Likewise hovering somewhere in the background are those small economy size half-pints of the game, the midgets. We understand the troupe has been augmented by such "Iron Ore Terrible," a mowrlike Russky from the Siberian steppes, who towers to the prodigious height of four feet, no inches and who escaped from the salt mines by disguising himself as a shaker.

This quartet of wrestledom's ilea of "Sleepy, Dopey, Grouchy and Happy" brought the house down on two occasions here last season as they wiggled, toned, flopped and flipped all over the ring before lining up on the ropes like a flock of swallows on a telephone line.

The popular "Wishy" and his "rassilin' twin, Pat Flanagan, will be back, no doubt, lining themselves against an assorted array of pouicyerouis villainy. And please, gentlemen, won't you bring back the popular "Bunny" Sunkin. If only for the laughs. "Bunny," they tell us, has upholstered his equatorial region in the pelt of where he has to look to be a full blooded Sioux. He had a brief fling at it, in this corner's humble opinion "Ye Olde Bunne" was one of the best showmen in "Hockey" in a Belleville wrestling ring. Never a dull moment was there when Bunny cavorted in the squared circle either as a participant or a referee.

Then, too, there should be a "Masked Marvel" or a "Red Devil" somewhere in the offing to round out the "Hale" brigade. Many of these draped villains have seen action in the past and have finally become the principal in unveiling ceremonies. Perhaps the most colorful of these was the late Jerry Monaghan. Jerry carried the role to perfection and out of character was one of the finest chaps we have had the privilege to meet. When not tossing foemen around the ring to the accompaniment of snarls, jeers, and hate hullabaloos Jerry was to be found at his favorite pastime, fishing. And the Bay of Quinte district was one of his favorite spots.

Ah, well, it won't be long now until the arena is re-sounding to the cheers, jeers and sneers of the faithful as the "rassle" fraternity resumes another season. A lot may not care for it, but to he addicts it is the finest entertainment extant.

Smother Giants by 11-1 Score As Fans 'So Proudly We Hail'; Yanks Take Third from Tribe

By KEN FELDGAIR
Associated Press Sport Writer

It's about those travel agents paid a special tribute to Milwaukee Braves. Where could they find a better example of the benefits to be obtained by a change of scenery.

The 1,593-mile westward shift from the beanpots of Boston to the brewing centre of Milwaukee has worked wonders for the club that finished a dismal seventh in the National League last year.

Today's standings show the Braves only half a game out of first place. They have seven more games in their present home stand at their new $7,000,000 stadium where they have won seven out of eight.

Fans are flocking to watch their new heroes perform. In seven home dates the club has drawn 172,781 customers. Last year's total attendance at Boston was 281,778.

Football Weather

Wednesday at 39 Degrees, 9,043 of the faithful turned out to watch the Braves pound the New York Giants, 11-1. This brought the total crowd for the game Giant series to 39,018, only 1,749 less than saw the New Yorkers play in Boston all last season.

The Braves had only one pitcher—Ernie Johnson—defeated last year with an average as high as .250. Yet nine of their 13 victories this season have been registered by last year's second-stringers.

Lou Sleater, Wednesday's winner, has shown remarkable improvement. Victim of a long distance relief man, Burdette has pitched 17 1-3 innings in three games, has a 3-0 record and 1.13 earned run average.

Milwaukee moved into second place over Brooklyn which was frozen out of its scheduled game at Chicago. Rain and wet grounds also caused postponement of the other two National League contests —Pittsburgh at Cincinnati and Philadelphia at St. Louis.

In the American League, New York Yankees won their third straight over Cleveland, 5-4, dropping the Indians into third place. Yankees defeated Chicago, 9-5, and Philadelphia broke its seven-game losing streak by the score of St. Louis Browns, 3-1. A night game at Washington between the Senators and the Detroit Tigers was rained out.

Shut out on one hit the previous night, Cleveland came up with four runs in the first four innings against the Yanks Wednesday. Then its pitching folded and by the end of seven the Yanks were ahead to stay. Mike Garcia was the loser as Eddie Lopat held the Indians for the 36th time in his career. He has lost to them in nine games.

Mary Grissom handcuffed the White Sox for despite the loss Chicago moved over Cleveland into second place. The Sox have played three less games and won three more than the Indians.

Eddie Joost homered in the eighth to give Philadelphia its victory.

Scots Teams Lose at Soccer

LONDON (CP)—Manchester United defeated Glasgow Rangers 2-1 and Newcastle United defeated Aberdeen 4-0 Wednesday—the winners advancing to the semi-finals of Coronation Cup play, an off-season international soccer series. Wednesday's two winners and Hibernians and Glasgow Celtic will be the four semi-finalists May 16. The draw for the semi-finals has not been made yet.

Ottawa Blanks Toronto 3-0; Orioles Lose

(By the Canadian Press)

Maybe it was just coincidence, but the 13th, was a bad day for Inflenational Baseball League.

Of the four night contests scheduled, one was postponed because of rain, another called after the sixth inning for the same reason and a third cancelled due to power failure.

Ottawa and Toronto Maple Leafs played the only complete game, which drew 2,337 Athletic fans in chilly weather.

Rookie Art Ditmar threw a masterful four-hitter in blanking the Leafs 3-0. The right-hander walked only three for his first victory in three starts.

Starter Bobby Overmire, 3 lefty with St. Louis Browns and the Leafs last season, went down in his second loss without a win. He was pulled for a pinch-hitter in the eighth.

Ottawa's win put them in a fourth-place tie with Toronto, one behind Baltimore Orioles who lost an abbreviated contest 9-2 to the surprising Syracuse Chiefs, when rain cut the game short during the fifth.

The clubs are a full game behind the leaders, Montreal and Buffalo.

At Baltimore Wednesday night, Syracuse's Orioles limited the Orioles to five hits, while the Chiefs collected 10, safeties off Clifton Starr and Vern Taylor. All are righthanders.

Syracuse's trippers gave Lowenguth a big hand. Charley Bell hit his third, Bobby Hofman his 4ges and Hank Workman each blasted one.

Kent 'Dismissed' By Glamorgan

LONDON (Reuters)—Kent met an unexpected setback Wednesday when Glamorgan dismissed them for 91 first-innings runs on a good wicket.

Kent has been doing well in county championship cricket during the first month of the season, but could not handle the slow bowling of Glamorgan captain Wilf Wooller, who took six wickets for 39 runs in 14 overs.

Glamorgan passed Kent's total for the loss of only four wickets before rain stopped play for the five.

Close-of-play scores in Wednesday's first-class cricket:

Australian tourists 283, Cambridge University 49 for two.

Middlesex 367 for seven, Derbyshire 17 for no wicket.

Oxford University 422 for nine against Yorkshire.

Lancashire 378, Sussex one for no wicket.

Surrey 91, Glamorgan 207 for five.

Northamptonshire 445 for eight against Leicester.

Nottinghamshire 265, Warwickshire 24 for no wicket.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Stars in Eyes and Lead in Boots Argos Youngsters Start Training

TORONTO (CP)—Fifty-eight kids with stars in their eyes and a bit of lead in their boots gave the 1953 football campaign a muscle aching kick-off in these parts Wednesday night.

It was the opening of the Dominion champion Toronto Argonauts' spring training school, the first time in history that the Double Blues have conducted a clinic for youngsters.

They'll keep it up nightly for three weeks or a month and there maybe a tryout next fall with the champions for two or three, or Argonaut Coach Lou Eisenstat and a "come back next year, kid," for many others.

Argonauts, who have been accused of having only back beam at them in Big Four Football Union play, had the breaks with them Wednesday night. The weekend was held in ideal football weather, about 39 degrees with enough nip in the air to make it comfortable for the padded youngsters.

The two-hour workout ended with sprints and the youngsters, who probably have run only for cars all their lives, were seen noticeably slow. "They'll get the lead out of their boots with a few nights of this," one coach commented.

Many of the available big-timers from 17 to 20 years old—were scouted last fall in high school and junior games and invited to the clinic.

The clinic is another stage in the Stan Leonard, Vancouver, Bill Kerr Montreal, and Pat Fletcher, CPGA champion from Saskatoon.

Major Loops Send 18 Players To Minors in Drastic Slash

NEW YORK (AP)—Eighteen players who started the campaign with major league teams were back in the minors today, victims of the 25-player limit in big time, and the shifters were all veteran outfielders.

From now until Sept. 1, each major league club is permitted only 25 players, plus up to five who are back from the armed forces after serving in the armed forces.

Last year's pennant winners, New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers—both had 25 men on their rosters. The world champion Yanks optioned outfielder Bob Cerv to Kansas City of the American Association and infielders Jim Brideweser and Frank Verdi to Syracuse of the International League.

The Brooks sent Dixie Howell, their bullpen catcher, to St. First of the Association and optioned outfielder Dick Williams to Montreal of the International League. They also restored to active service first baseman Wayne Belardi, who left the club at the season because of an elbow operation.

Pittsburgh Pirates sold catcher Eddie Fitzgerald to Washington Senators for an undisclosed amount of cash and a couple of pitchers to be named later. Cincinnati Redlegs sold catcher Hank Folles to Cleveland in a straight cash deal. The amount wasn't announced.

Boston Red Sox put pitchers Ben Flowers and Bob Porterfield on waivers and optioned outfielder Hank Foiles to Cleveland in a straight cash deal. The amount wasn't announced.

Fire Destroys $15,000 House

HAMILTON (CP)—Fire Wednesday destroyed the 100-year-old farmhouse of James Marshall, 81, and his wife, 76, in Mount Hamilton, two miles south of here. The elderly couple's loss was estimated at more than $15,000.

Firemen said they believe Mr. Hamilton dropped his pipe on the floor when he fell asleep on a downstairs couch and a carpet ignited.

The 13-room home was without electricity or plumbing. Mr. Marshall said he was determined the house would stay as it was as long as he lived.

The upstairs rooms contained 19th century furniture and irreplacable deeds and other papers showing the growth of the area.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, MAY 15, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Most planets attest to benevolent feeling now. Among many favored: Domesticity, gardening, handling foods, other business and bond labor.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Venus rays stimulating; so are Jupiter's and Sun's, boosting charity and co-operation. Bright outlook for business gains, worthy friendships.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—No ifs or buts! Useful indoor and outdoor work; family interests, partly married on with courage and due humility highly honored.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Similar good prospects to Taurus and Gemini now if you co-operate with brain and conscience. You can double returns with right effort.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Outdoor activities preferred, and those with underprivileged's interests at heart especially encouraged. Fine period for achievement.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—One of your best planetary days this liberal, yet at times practical month. Keep mind free from worry, heart hopeful. Forward!

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Stimulating! Useful field—especially in education, legislation, anything aiding the people as a whole—should be supported.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—New projects, ideas, equipment and materials highly favored. Should be productive, responsive day for the creative, intuitive, imaginative.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Stars (including your Jupiter) are benefic to you. Many opportunities, fresh advantages to be captured and profitably used by you.

December 22 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Generous and lucrative indications. But too much force or pressure is not advisable. Amendable and co-operative attitude will bring quicker, bigger results.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Very promising for your undertakings today. Industry, trades, mechanics, engineering, electronics, working tasks move forward under right endeavor.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Not wholly your way perhaps, but a day to inspire healthy assistance, instructive conferences, getogethers for better understanding, to adopt new ideas.

YOU BORN TODAY: Usually deliberate, dependable, practical. Also have great artistry and finesse; will do a task cleverly, thoroughly. But there is a tendency to have troubles and worries to yourself. Talk these over with family, some honorable friend and have faith in God's love. Birthdate: Florence Nightingale, noted nurse; Constance Cummings, actress.

Decorated by U.S.

Group Capt. Edward R. Hale, 36, of Toronto, Ont., commanding officer of the RCAF's No. 1 fighter wing in England, has been formally decorated with the United States Distinguished Flying Cross. The purple and white decoration was presented in a ceremony in the U.S. embassy in London. It was in recognition of Group Capt. Hale's service in command of the U.S. 31st fighter missions in 22 flying days last August while attached to the U.S. Air Force. — (CP from National Defence.)

Police Comb Block for Three Missing Boys

TORONTO (CP)—Police Wednesday night combed a block of boarding houses downtown Toronto for traces of the three Quigley brothers, missing for 24 hours.

The search was centred on a vacant lot behind Dufferin Street. Neighborhood residents told police that two boys, both answering the general description of the two older Quigleys, had been living in the district.

Mrs. Jannette Shand, a recent Dutch immigrant who lives next door to the building, said she entered the building and saw two boys who ducked down in mid-stream alley.

"I chased them," she said. "I was sure they were the Quigley boys. I saw their pictures in the paper. But they got away."

GIFT TO PAKISTAN

KARACHI (CP)—The government of Pakistan has accepted an offer of £500,000 from New Zealand, under the Colombo Plan, to be used in the next two years for construction of a giant cement factory in Hyderabad.

RICH DEPOSITS

NEW DELHI, India (CP)—Huge deposits of glass sand, china clay and fullers earth have been discovered in the Rikaner district of Rajasthan by the geological survey of India. The clay is mostly kaolinite, a special type used for manufacturing china.

'Nick the Greek' Leaves Souvenirs Of Fabulous Reign

By BERNARD EKSHOUT

PARIS (Reuters)—Flying from the mast of a luxurious yacht in the harbor at Cannes is a mysterious flag bearing a replica of the nine of diamonds.

This emblem, the yacht, a few legends and several million dollars are the visible souvenirs of the fabulous reign of the professional gambler known as "Nick the Greek," Elias Nicholas Zographos, Zagraphos and Xagropulos.

Nick died recently at Lausanne, Switzerland, aged 67.

For 15 years between the two world wars, Nick was the star of the gaming tables at Deauville and Cannes. Unlike many other gamblers, Nick died rich. He left many friends and few enemies within what he called his "profession."

French tourist officials privately admit he attracted more pleasure travellers to the playgrounds of France than the Folies Bergere and the Louvre combined.

A short, dapper brown-haired man with a small moustache, Nick carried an aura of mystery around with him. Little is known of his early life beyond the fact that he was from a good family which lost its money in the revolution following the First World War.

Stated by Friend

A friend is reported to have stated him for his first bet. An obscure figure at first, he gained notoriety after the conclusion of the Deauville casino in 1922 with the then unheard-of bet "All's in the knife" policy.

Nick installed himself at Deauville with a 13,000,000 franc bankroll—then worth $2,500,000—issued by a wealthy friend, and "broke" ten. He proposed to act as banker at two tables, playing simultaneously, a feat which Nick's early engineering training told him would give him a 1.56 per-cent edge.

One of his first opponents, an American millionaire, wagered 1,000,000 francs at the tables. At about $170,000, on the turn of the card, "Agreed," said Nick, "on condition you play Serse Jones." The Greek lost the first million, was back on the second card and won again on the third.

Asked his profession, he always replied simply "gambler."

Nick explained he began gambling young, watching others. "Soon I was my friends' mentor. Between hypodermics. And He was addict. I increased the dose each time."

One day he decided to stop, going to the casino only occasionally to dine. He lived quietly in a hotel or aboard his yacht with his pretty wife and a nephew. He went to Switzerland three years ago.

3 Quigley Boys Are Found Dead In Toronto Bay

Discovery Ends Intensive Search of Two Weeks

TORONTO (CP) — Three Toronto children missing two weeks were found dead today. The three boys, Howard Quigley, 10, Henry, 7, and Paul, 5, were found in the water at the foot of Sherbourne street on the Toronto waterfront.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Quigley, they had been sought for two weeks since they left their home in east-central Toronto to buy candy.

An army of police and interested citizens had combed the downtown area and other parts of the city. Thursday this board of police commissioners doubled a reward from $500 to $1,000 for information leading to their discovery, dead, or alive.

Truce Officials Fail to Budge POW Deadlock

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Korean truce negotiations got nowhere today as both sides remained to badger from their separate proposals for exchanging war prisoners.

The Allies have threatened to break off negotiations again if the Reds won't bargain on the last major barrier to a truce.

Today's hour and 20-minute session brought only restatements that neither side accepts the other's views on what to do with the 30,000 Red prisoners who refuse to go back to communism.

Another meeting is scheduled for 11 a. m. Saturday (10 p. m. EDT Friday).

Bombed Sharply

LA-Gen. William K. Harrison, chief Allied delegate, said the Communists either "misunderstood or deliberately misinterpreted" the latest Allied plan, offered two days ago and snubbed sharply by the Reds Thursday.

The Allies say they are not negotiating inside the conference hall.

The Allies proposed May 7 that a five-country neutral commission — Sweden, Switzerland, Poland, Czechoslovakia — take custody for four months of all prisoners who won't go home. During this time, the Reds would make "explanations" to persuade them still refusing would be left to a post-armistice political conference.

The Allies suggested that India head the commission and supply all troops in control of prisoners. They also proposed that 34,000 North Koreans and Chinese first be freed when an armistice is signed. The remaining 14,500 Chinese would be put in custody of the commission for two months. Any then still refusing repatriation would be freed.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP)—Synopsis: Cool polar air met warm tropical air above a low pressure area north of Lake Ontario to the Gulf of Mexico causing a band of showers and thunderstorms which is pushing slowly eastward across eastern United States.

Rain spread northeast of a disturbance in Lake Ontario Friday night. The disturbance will move slowly northeastward bringing rain to eastern Ontario and parts of Quebec. Saturday there will be clear in northern regions behind the disturbance and Saturday will be cool and warmer. Cloud is expected to move in from the west by Saturday evening.

Cold air has pushed southward across Manitoba and will move across southwestern Ontario today. Sud-freezing temperatures and snowflurries are forecast for the cold air. By Saturday this cold air mass is expected to advance into Northern Ontario.

Nathan Leopold Denied Freedom By Parole Board

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Nathan Leopold, notorious "thrill killer" of the 1920s who became a model prisoner and medical guinea pig, lost his bid for freedom Thursday.

The Illinois parole and pardon board denied his application for a parole from Stateville penitentiary in an action that could keep him behind bars at least until 1985.

Victor I. Knowles, chairman of the board, told newspaper reporters that "the board doesn't think he's the right type of man to go back into society." He said that the unanimous finding was Clarence Darrow, Leopold's own lawyer, had recommended that he never be paroled.

Leopold, 48, is serving life and a 45-year prison term—reduced from 99 years for special prison services he rendered—for the brutal 1924 slaying of 14-year-old Bobby Franks.

Leopold permitted himself to be fascinated with malaria to test a new drug now used by U. S. troops in Korea.

He has served 28 years of his term.

Leopold with the late Richard Loeb committed what they thought was the perfect crime in murdering the Franks boy.

Leopold and Loeb, both then 19, and members of wealthy families, kidnapped strangled and bashed the head of the fair-haired boy, a neighbor. Then they tried to collect ransom from his distraught parents under the pretence he was alive and well.

Loeb, who received the same sentence as Leopold, was slashed to death by a convict in a brawl in 1936.

Cutoff Food Sales In Egyptian Towns

CAIRO (CP)—Egyptians in towns in the Suez canal zone have been ordered not to sell food to British troops, the government said today.

A spokesman said the garrison would continue to receive its food stuffs under allocated quotas from authorized contracters. British forces, however, would not be allowed in future to buy in the towns foodstuffs allocated to civilian population of the Canal Zone.

Traditional Race for Best Lobster Fishing Grounds Now Under Way

LOUISBOURG, N. S. (CP)—More than 300 Cape Breton lobster fishermen were ready to launch their boats at dawn today for the traditional race to the best fishing grounds.

They'll launch their seasonally and the speed of their boats under the command of Neptune from the harbor-mouth to set their traps 12 hours before the season officially opens Saturday.

Take Main-a-Dieu where most of the boats will be based for the game. Forty-seven jaunty snapper boats are ready to race from the harbor, pier into the harbor-mouth swells and head two to eight miles for the choice lobster beds.

Donald Holmes, fisheries officer here, estimates 45,000 traps will be set along his coastal area. He predicts a bumper year, poor crop of lobsters elsewhere and the scarcity of inshore fish sending more men in search of lobster.

Preparations have been going on for the parish priest.

TURKISH TROOPS THROW BACK BIG GROUND ATTACK

2,000-Man Chinese Force Chopped Up

By MILO FARNETI

SEOUL (AP)—Turkish infantry backed up by heavy tanks and artillery fire early today chopped up a 2,000-man Chinese force which hit three Allied outposts in the biggest assault since the Korean truce talks resumed April 26.

The Turkish commander estimated 400 Reds were killed or wounded.

An army spokesman said many Turks were missing in action but added: "Reports didn't get close enough for them to use their favorite expression—the bayonet."

The Chinese struck outposts Vegas, Berlin and East Berlin on the western end of the battle line, mortars and artillery.

U. S. Sabre jets bagged two MiGs and damaged three others in the third straight day of aerial battles over North Korea. The deadly sabres have shot down seven MiGs, probably destroyed one and damaged five in three days.

The air force also reported 140 fighter-bombers battered a Communist military training center near Chinnampo, north of the west-ern front.

Bitter fighting continued for the fourth straight day in the Capitol Hill-Outpost Vegas sector in the central front, about 180 miles east of the Outpost Vegas area.

10,000 Rounds Hurled

The Chinese hurled about 10,000 rounds of mortar and artillery fire at Outposts Vegas, Berlin and East Berlin before and during Friday's attack, which lasted four hours and tanks fired several times that number.

Chinese attackers overran six South Korean positions, including Outpost Vegas for 16 grinding hour to-and battles. But counter-attacks drove the Reds off three outposts by daylight and fighting still was under way at the other three, the 8th army reported.

Army officials estimate that at least 2,000 Reds have been killed or wounded in the last two days. Communist artillery fired 30,000 rounds at Allied lines during the 24-hour period ending at 8 p. m. (7 a. m. EST) today, a heavy barrage in months.

Two New Divisions

The South Korean Army made active two new divisions Friday, boosting its strength to 16 divisions which man two-thirds of the 155-mile battle line.

The new 22nd and 25th divisions were made active in ceremonies at Kyongju on Korea's east coast. South Korean president Syngman Rhee and Gen. Maxwell Taylor, 8th army commander, attended.

Eight-firing B-26 bombers destroyed 113 Communist trucks on North Korea highways Thursday night, the 5th air force said.

Thirteen Sabre jets also dropped 26 tons of bombs on a Red troop supply centre 14 miles southeast of the Iron Triangle capital of Pyongyang early Friday.

'No Apology' Declares Mirror As British Headlines Support Attlee Against Sen. McCarthy

LONDON (AP) — The trans-Atlantic shouting match between Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.-Wis.) and former British prime minister Clement Attlee sparked a rash of fresh headlines in the British press today.

Two pro - Labor newspapers printed front-page editorials upholding Attlee's right to say there are "elements" in American politics to oppose a Korean settlement. Other newspapers with varying political viewpoints plainly indicated their sympathies lay with the Labor party's leader.

Setter Words Forgotten

President Eisenhower's conciliatory remarks at his weekly press conference were all but lost in the shuffle. The president said he did not like the fuss between Britain and the U. S. over dealings with Russia, and he thought it was a side as it might appear.

Although there was little attention in London, Moscow's two principal newspapers—Pravda and Izvestia—carried identical 136-word summaries of the Eisenhower statements in today's editions. Neither paper, however, offered any comment.

Up to Thursday night Soviet newspapers had carried nothing about the Attlee-Berlin-Eisenhower comments on McCarthy and Barnes or the Attlee-Bevan resignations, but Moscow dispatches made it plain that Russian citizens were being told in no uncertain fashion that Stalin's prediction about serious trouble between the U. S. and Britain was coming true.

In London today both the independent Daily Mirror and the pro-Labor Daily Herald lambasted McCarthy for his effort demanding that Britain apologize for Attlee's remarks.

In addition to his charge that certain U. S. elements did not want a Korean armistice, Attlee said that "sometimes one wonders who is the more dangerous, the Communist (Eisenhower) or Senator McCarthy."

Declaring McCarthy will "get no apology," the Daily Mirror said: "Britain's not apologizing to him or anybody else in America because there has been plain speaking. We think it is long overdue. If America is looking for a blind, gagged, obsequious ally we warn the president that Mr. McCarthy in Britain is the wrong country to choose."

The Daily Herald said McCarthy is using his authority in the Senate to "spread poison throughout the free world and his methods are as reckless and inhuman as those of (Nazi propaganda boss Joseph) Goebbels at the height of Hitler's power."

Setter Words Forgotten

The Herald said that he and his colleagues "are exposing the British communist party "long before anyone McCarthy was ever heard of."

Mau Wide Support

In Britain, newspapers which normally oppose the Labor party in British politics came to Attlee's defense. The Independent Daily Express said Attlee was being "accused of treason" by Republican Senator McCarthy.

Attlee explained the freedom of speech enjoyed by high American officials when he told reporters he reclaims the British public," the Express continued. "In these respects Mr. Attlee did a public service to relations between the two countries."

The Russian summaries of Eisenhower's press conference remarks quoted the president as saying that he had no objection to Prime Minister Winston Churchill's call for "all peace talks but that he first wanted to see proof of goodwill from all sides.

Outlook for Peace Brighter Than it Has Been for Long Time —Nehru

NEW DELHI (CP)—Prime Minister Nehru of India said today "the outlook (for peace) is brighter than it has been for a long time."

The remark came in a major foreign policy statement made before the Indian parliament. Nehru was more likely to be found on the basis of the United Nations resolution and Communist China's point proposal than on the latest Soviet Union proposal, he continued.

The UN negotiators' proposals "diverge considerably from theirs (Indian-authored) general assembly resolution to which the United Nations stands committed."

Mother Drowns Two Children, Commits Suicide

DOUGLASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—An ill and despondent woman threw her three small children into a deep well Thursday and drowned them in after them, Sheriff Joe Harding said.

The mother, Mrs. R. E. Foran, about 35, and two sons, Michael and David, two and four years old, were drowned in six feet of water. Six-year-old Patricia managed to cling to a pipe in the 30-foot well and was rescued by a neighbor.

Foran, about 35, a farmer, wrapped a long chain around a pipe and the lid covered himself into the 18-inch wide well to save Patricia.

21ST PARLIAMENT ENDS ITS WORK: EARLY ELECTION

Throne Speech Longest in Years

By H. L. Jones
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The 21st Parliament has ended its work and a general election is in the offing.

The election seems set for August. The speech from the throne at the prorogation of Parliament early today added weight to the belief an early election.

Speculation has centred on an August election date, either Aug. 10 or Aug. 17.

There was nothing either to confirm or deny election dates in the throne speech delivered at the close of the session. There was the considerable election fodder in the speech, however.

It stated definitely—for the first time—that this has been the last session of the current Parliament. Also it gave a review of liberal and conservative accomplishments over the last four years.

The heavy emphasis on the government's record pointed to heavy some emphasis to the idea that it would be directed toward the voters as well as to members of the Senate and House of Commons.

Nonetheless, the throne speech emanates from the governor-general and usually reflects what the cabinet wants said.

Longest in Years

The 3,000-word speech—longest in years—was read in the Senate by Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin of the Supreme Court of Canada, acting in the absence of Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, governor-general.

Most of the speech was devoted to a review of the last four years, and included not only legislation which has been passed but also the Canadian development at home and her foreign affairs.

The speech looked ahead on two particular points, however.

1. A start on the St. Lawrence seaway project can be made as soon as an agency is authorized in Ottawa to deal with the province with Ontario in the power development.

2. A hope that renewal of Korean truce negotiations will lead to peace.

With members taking advantage of their last chance in this parliament to get things off their chests, the debate in the Commons Thursday reveal a number of new company directors who contribute to broaden out the debate.

CHILD DROWNS AT BEACH

HAMILTON (CP)—Mrs. Article Stewart Thursday found the body of her two-year-old son, Article, floating face-up in a little creek at Van Wagner's beach. The child had been missing for 15 minutes. Despite efforts to revive him, he was pronounced dead from drowning within 50 minutes.

Judge Regrets Ruling Upholding 'Ungrateful' Daughter, Son-in-Law

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice Wilfred Judson of the Ontario supreme court Thursday defended his action brought by a retired West Virginia coal miner against the miner's daughter and son-in-law and added he would not make an order of the same kind in the case of ungrateful defendants."

Mr. Justice Judson said he regretted having to rule in favor of Jan Dougan and his wife Mary, who own a farm at Waindeet in Welland county.

They were sued by her father, John Pillai, for recovery of $6,175, money he said sent the couple to help buy the farm in which he was to have a half-interest.

Pillai wanted to stay with his daughter. He said he intended leaving the farm to her when he died. A quit claim was drawn up and signed April 27, 1946, turning the property over to the couple.

Mr. Justice Judson said: "It may well be that in fact Pillai is quite convinced he did not intend to part with his interest in the farm without a consideration of any sort."

Pillai became ill, stayed at the farm, but later moved to a Toledo, O., hospital from where he wrote for financial help. He received a "nasty, leering, offensive letter" from his son-in-law, making it plain he would get no help from them.

Mr. Justice Judson said he could see no way of giving Pillai relief. The case was on grounds for setting aside the quit deed because of undue influence, fraud or mistake.

Blaze in Trenton Home Takes Life Of Paul Beaupre, 5

Two Other Children Saved By Stranger and Small Boy

TRENTON — (Special) — An unknown hitchhiker and a four-year-old boy were the heroes in a tragic fire which this morning swept through the basement of a home at 30 Heber Street, Trenton, and took the life of a five-year-old child.

Held in Paul Beaupre, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Beaupre. Rescued by the hitchhiker who threw a raincoat over his head and dashed into the burning basement, was three-year-old Peter Beaupre.

Earlier four-year-old Michael had taken his little sister Susan, age 18 months, by the hand and led her to safety.

Recovering in Hospital

Peter is recovering at Trenton Memorial Hospital, but Mrs. Beaupre who attempted to make her way to the basement to rescue her children, was forced back by smoke and flames. She suffered facial burns and her hair was singed. She is in a state of shock.

Graphic of the fire that claimed the life of the small boy is unknown, but it is believed to have started in the basement from the furnace.

Early this morning Mrs. Beaupre had got her husband's breakfast before he left for work as construction foreman with the Tatham Company Ltd., and been busily engaged in getting from a cold bed gone back to bed.

Later the father said the four children must have gone to the basement to play and it is believed they had opened the door to the furnace to stuff paper in. Paul's clothes had got afire.

Leads Sister to Neighbors

Frightened by the flames Michael had taken his small sister by the hand and led her out of the basement and to the next door's.

Lyle Hartman, of the RCAF, saw the smoke blowing down the street and called to a hitchhiker to investigate. The hitchhiker grabbed the raincoat and dashed into the basement where he found Peter lying unconscious at the foot of the ceiling stairway.

Fireman later found Paul's body in the coal bin where he apparently had run after his mother left the basement.

Hartman had to restrain Mrs. Beaupre from going into the burning basement.

First indication that anything was amiss was when Michael led his little sister to the neighbors. Mrs. and Mrs. J. Goodman. The man that "Paul is burning." Mrs. Goodman immediately phoned the fire department.

Damage Estimated

The basement of the home was gutted by the fire and heavy damage was done to the upper floors caused to the ground floor living quarters largely by firemen's axes able to extinguish the blaze.

RECORD CANAL TRAFFIC

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—Welland canal officials said Thursday a record 2,009,271 tons passed through the canal in the first month of the season, ended April 30. This compares with 1,635,872 tons in April, 1952, and 1,391,152 in April 1951. Nearly 1,000 vessels have passed through this year.

W. Germany First Nation to Enter European Army

BONN (AP)—West Germany today became the first country to approve the treaty to form a combined six-nation 2,000,000 man European defence army.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government pushed this pact—which also includes a German peace contract—through to final parliamentary approval in the reluctant Bundesrat upper house with a comparative formality.

Under this formula the Bundesrat voted approval of two lesser sections of the treaties, which indisputably require its ratification, and voiced no objections to the two major sections.

The vote, which followed only brief debate in a special session, was 33 to 15.

Argued Over Car, Mother Is Killed

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Police said Thursday night an 18-year-old youth told them he fatally shot his mother in the family car during the family car—even though his eyes were so blurred with tears he couldn't aim very well.

Still crying, Barkley Bracey told police the death of his mother in their suburban home culminated an argument of several months duration. They argued over whether he should drive the car.

The youth told Bracey sitting in the family home, sobbing bitterly, his gun dropped to his hands.

In a closet, covered with a sheet was the body of Mrs. Ruth Dove, 40, the mother whose second husband is Bracey's father, a sergeant stationed in Germany.

B-29 Crash Kills 9; Survivors Walk Away

SARGENT, Neb. (AP)—Nine persons were killed Thursday when a B-29 bomber crashed in a field five miles northwest of here, Police Chief Harley Hughes reported.

Hughes said there were three survivors.

The three survivors, all riding in the tail section of the plane, were able to walk away from the craft.

Cheque Artist Given 4 Years By Magistrate

Four years in the penitentiary was the sentence handed out today by Magistrate T. Y. Wills to Donald Thomas Gibbons, 43, of Toronto, on 14 charges of passing bogus cheques in the city two weeks ago.

The four-year sentence was given on one charge, with the sentences on the other 13 charges to run concurrently.

Gibbons pleaded guilty to all 14 charges of obtaining the bogus cheques when he appeared in magistrate's court here a week ago and was remanded for sentence. Total of the cheques passed was just over $900.

Gibbons was arrested in Kingston the day after the cheques had been passed in Belleville as the result of his description and that of his female partner being forwarded by local police.

Miss Lucy Poitras, 24, Toronto, the woman arrested with Gibbons, was also charged with uttering a bogus cheque but the case was dismissed when the Crown offered no evidence.

PREHISTORIC FOREST?

BRANTFORD (CP)—A crew drilling for iron in Norfolk county say they have found what might have been a forest hundreds of feet below the sands. The crew first reported that a rock with the clear imprint of a butterfly on it had been found 3,700 feet down. Rocks on which leaf impressions were plainly visible have been brought up in the drilling cores.

FINDS WOMAN'S BODY

Bourget (CP) — The decomposed body of a woman was found Thursday night in an unoccupied house in the village 30 miles east of Ottawa. Ontario provincial police began an immediate investigation.

C of C Directors Want More Parking Space

The Chamber of Commerce directorate is going to begin an investigation to obtain parking space in the city. At the meeting on Thursday, the directors voted to approach the city council with a request that the amount derived from the parking meters each year be used for purchasing property to provide parking space for city shoppers. A plan of action was decided upon by the directors which will begin almost immediately.

A further item of business at the meeting concerned the advisability of printing a combination map and information folder restricted solely to the city of Belleville for the use of tourists. There is already a booklet out which contains information on Hastings County and the city of Belleville. However the directors have decided there should be a folder exclusive to Belleville.

Merchants will be sold advertising in the folder and the receipts will be use for financing the cost of the folder.

Traffic Lights In Operation On North Front St.

The new traffic lights at the intersection of North Front and Moira Streets went into operation today and Police Inspector J. C. Hayes has asked for the co-operation of the motoring public in governing their driving in accordance with the traffic signals.

Traffic congestion at the above four corners has been heavy during the past few years, especially at rush hours after factory workers finish their day. At peak periods cars would line up along all four streets leading into the intersection. The new lights are synchronized with the traffic lights across the upper bridge on Front St.

"If motorists will just be guided by the traffic lights there should be a big improvement in traffic movement at North Front and Moira Streets," the inspector noted.

POLICE COURT

Pleading guilty to a charge of assaulting Mrs. Hanna Tschela at the Diana Grill, and also of assaulting Kenneth Brown, of the RCAF, J. Sharpe, formerly of this city and now of Toronto, was given a suspended sentence today in magistrate's court and ordered to pay costs and restitution amounting to $65.10.

The case was told the assault had taken place outside the local restaurant on Saturday night when Sharpe sought entrance to the premises and was turned away because the restaurant was already full.

George Van Allen, 40, was given one year's suspended sentence by magistrate T. Y. Wills on a morals charge. He was assessed $19 costs and $13 each on two L.C.A. charges.

Quinte Mixed Bowling League Enjoys Party

"There were sounds of revelry by night" at Tobe's County Gardens last night when the Quinte Mixed Bowling League bade relentant farewell to another highly successful season.

Upwards of ninety keglers of both sexes and their friends enjoyed a succulent turkey dinner served by the ladies of the Centenary Ladies' Aid under the supervision of Mrs. Wood.

President George Dymock was in the chair and paid verbal tribute to not only the league champions but to league as a whole. "It has been a very pleasant season," he said, "one that was marked by fine sportsmanship and close competition. There was only two points difference between the first and second teams and 42 points between the first and eighth teams."

He paid special tribute to secretary Marg Cousins and treasurer Dolly Diamond. In a tangible gesture President Dymock presented his feminine staff with beautiful corsages.

Nor was the prexy and his efforts forgotten. Later he was presented with a handsome leather-bound travelling clock by Marg Lennox on behalf of the league as a whole.

It was a grand party, a fitting enjoyable climax to a season of alley activities. There was a bit of good-natured raillery among the various teams, with Fred Culkin, well known baseball and softball player getting the needy aplenty on the occasion of his first "fatherhood."

Unfortunately trophies for the champions and individual top-scoring players were unavailable.

The "Blowouts," captained by Ray Lennox, with the league championship and received a fine ovation from the enthusiastic throng.

The "Oldtimers" were second and other teams followed in the order named: Champs, Zombies, Bailey's Barbers, Head Pins, Saints, Tack Heads, Eager Beavers, Rear Ends, Punks and Misfits.

Madeline James won the ladies' high average with a score of 210. Jim McKenzie copped the men's nod with a 227. Mrs. Teresa Wardhaugh won the ladies' high triple with a score of 767 with Ron Sgrignoli taking the men's honors with an 853. High single prize was won by Helen Reddick with a 376 and Vince Sagrift took the men's honors with a 381.

Ray Lennox was the league's unanimous choice for the presidency next year with Jean Mulvihill and Florence Lennox being named secretary and treasurer respectively.

Incoming president Lennox in brief address asked for the same co-operation as was given President Dymock last year. "If we have as successful a year next time as we had in the season past, I will be very happy," he said. Cec Hardwick was presented with a fat cigar by secretary Marg Cousins in tribute for his work as a public relations officer.

Later the incoming president was officially "roasted" by "Tools" Holway, while Mrs. Cousins in a musical gesture presented Captain Ray Lennox of the champion Blowouts with a gift that should be a decided asset to the team.

The evening was rounded out with round and square dancing to the music of Hugo Diggins and his orchestra. Among the door prize winners were: Mr. and Mrs. Bill Reburn, Bill Farr and Florence and Ray Lennox (how those boys get around) and Grace Davis.

Miss Florence Walden, delighted the crowd with an outstanding exhibition of "helping the crippled" on the dance floor.

Council of Women Apposes Any Tariff Reduction

ORILLIA (CP) — The Ontario Council of Women passed a resolution Thursday opposing any tariff reduction which would weaken the Canadian economy.

The resolution, put forward at the annual meeting by the Windsor council, said the average city or town in Canada would have developed little or nothing in the way of manufacturing industry without such tariff protection.

It stated that the lowering or wiping out of already low tariffs would finish or curtail most industries because Canadian plants would be unable to compete with either United States mass production or low-wage foreign competition.

The meeting also approved a resolution protesting the proposed drive by steel and automobile workers for a guaranteed annual wage.

P.E. County Boy Given High Post by OPP

CHATHAM (CP) — Sgt. Robert Clark, 44, a native of Prince Edward County, has been appointed senior officer of the Ontario provincial police for Essex County.

Sgt. J. A. McQueen, who had been stationed in Essex, replaces Sgt. Clark at district headquarters in Chatham. The appointments, effective Thursday, were announced by District Inspector W. A. Scott.

Trapped by Train Child Is Killed, Brother Escapes

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A three-year-old boy was killed and his brother escaped death by clinging to the side of a bridge Thursday when a freight train passed them on a trestle spanning the Thames river.

Robert Powers was tossed from the bridge by the Canadian Pacific Railway train while startled playmates screamed warnings.

Robert's brother, David, 4½, who was playing with him on the centre of the bridge, escaped by crouching outside the rails on a narrow ledge of projecting ties about 30 feet above the river.

Two boys at the scene, in the west end of London, said the children were playing on the bridge and didn't see the train approaching.

Michael O'Dwyer, 14, and Tony McDonnell, 15, said Robert and David were walking along the bridge with their backs to the train.

"I yelled get off the bridge, here comes the train," Tony said, "but they didn't pay any attention." Both lads waved frantically to the engineer but it was too late.

Montreal Airmen Will Fly Films Of Coronation

OTTAWA (CP)—Two Montreal district airmen will fly the CF-100 bringing the first television recordings of the Coronation to North American audiences, the air force announced Thursday.

A "standby" plane will participate in case any trouble develops with the first plane.

The speedy all-weather jets will go from their North Bay base to Goose Bay, Labrador, several days before Coronation day to await delivery of the first TV Coronation films by RAF Canberra aircraft.

The plane scheduled to carry the films June 2 will be piloted by Flt.-Lt. Phil Etienne, DFC, 30, of Montreal. An Alternate CF-100 will be piloted by FO. William Begy, DFC, 22, of St. Catharines.

Member Objects

OTTAWA (CP)—W. R. Aylesworth (PC—Frontenac-Addington) objected Thursday to government "snoopers" haunting farmers and about their income tax but he got little sympathy from Revenue Minister Adscam.

Dr. McCann said he's "sure it pays" to have 220 officials engaged in assessing farm incomes.

Mr. Aylesworth said the "snoopers"—he repeatedly called them that—hound farmers and put them under a strain which cuts production and causes discouragement when the government should be trying to encourage production.

He said there has been a fourfold increase in numbers since 1946.

Premier Solid Basis

The Red proposals, he continued, are a "very close approximation" of the UN resolution and "seemed to afford a promising, solid basis for a solution of the immediate problem."

"It should be possible to amplify them or vary them by agreement where necessary."

Mr. Hargreaves got Nehru's statement included the following summation of situations in various parts of the world:

Africa—"No solution of the Afr. can problem can be based on racial discrimination or suppression of the African people."

Pakistan—During recent weeks there has been a marked improvement in relations between India and Pakistan and many friendly overtures made to us which we welcome and reciprocate."

Soviet peace gestures—"The cold war has somewhat toned down. Many evidences of this new approach have come from the Soviet Union and, however some people might view them, they must be welcomed as a lessening of the tension of the world."

Briefs From Britain

WORTHING, England (CP)—Nearly 5,000 children will be taken to the football field in this Sussex Community June 3 for an open-air Coronation service and hymn-singing. Alderman J. A. Mason said it should be "something to remember as long as we live."

Man Who Made Thousands Out of Uranium, Back Home

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

KEEVIL, Xmp. (CP)—Weatherbeaten Augustus (Gus) Hawker—"folks call me Mr. Uranium because of the million I've made out of that black gold"—relaxed today in the bosom of the awe-struck family he left 27 years ago for northern Canada.

The 50-year-old farmer-trapper-storekeeper struck it rich at booming Uranium City in northern Saskatchewan last summer.

Today, his four young wide-eyed children—more used to the rock and sparse trees of northern Saskatchewan and Alberta than the soft Wiltshire countryside—were begging him to sell out his uranium interests and stay.

"I don't think Canada would like me to go," said Hawker, a quiet, philosophical man who persevered for 26 years against the adversities of the Canadian north.

He says in a voice still tinged with Wiltshire accent he's sold $12,000 worth of claims and holds nine other groups, one of which is to be exploited by a New York company. He will try to interest British money in more development while here.

The big thing, though, is visiting his five brothers and five sisters, all settled in this area near Bath, who thought he was a "crazy dreamer" when he left for Canada at 23.

He and the four children, born of an Indian wife now dead, will also see the Coronation. They have bookings for a return flight to Canada June 14.

Hawker homesteaded four years in Fraser River district near Whitelaw, Alta., cleared 80 acres of timber, sowed four crops and took off now.

"Frost, hail and other things licked me," said Hawker. "I sold the land for taxes."

He went trapping in the Pagan mountain area of northern Alberta, 120 miles up the Athabasca river from Athabasca. The bottom fell out of the market and he headed north by boat. The boat sank in the rapids and he walked on to McMurray where an Indian fed him.

Treated With Indians

He traded with the hard-up Indians in stores at McMurray and at Goldfields, Sask. Then, when the uranium rush flared up 18 miles away at Uranium City, 500 miles north of Prince Albert, Sask., on Lake Athabasca, he set up a store there.

"I prospected at night," says Hawker. "The kids looked after the store a lot of the time." That was last July. Then his claims started

A PROGRESSIVE STEP

The decision taken by City Council on Monday to make a study of the present executive set-up in the civic administration is a sensible one and in keeping with a trend of the times in municipal management.

To a greater extent than in private business there is a tendency in the conduct of any public administration to become high-handed, routine and obsolete methods of operation. Municipal administrations are even less prone to change than higher levels of government because long-established systems have met the needs for generations past in handling municipal affairs and have seldom been subject to the sort of overhauling which accompanies a change in government from one political party to another. Then, too, enduring tenure of senior officers in the municipalities has made for enduring conformity to the long-established practices.

This is in no case a criticism either of the long-term men in office or of the long-accepted practices. In private business the necessity for change is forced constantly upon everyone who is engaged in progress. In affairs of government this factor is absent and only such unusual conditions as the growth which has been experienced in Belleville in the past few years will result in expanding administrative branch, which in itself demands progressive changes in municipal management.

There has been the precedence of many other Ontario cities. It is some years ago now that Toronto undertook a comprehensive survey of "job evaluation" that embraced every phase of civic employment. Recently the city of Hamilton followed suit after the advantages gained by Toronto through its survey had been studied.

Belleville's situation is probably one that calls for something less than an over-all study of its municipal administration but the scope of the study approved by council should result in some measure for stream-lining the executive set-up to keep pace with the obvious expansion which has taken place and is continuing.

To the men who have served some years on council the need for some such step is apparent, and their suggestions are to be commended. There is no doubt that in the long run the better interests of the taxpayers are being served when progress in the form of planning moves of this kind in the management of the city's business.

ONE MORE DISILLUSIONMENT

The only example of socialism at work to be observed under Canadian conditions is in Saskatchewan where a CCF administration has been in power since 1944. The experiment in socialism there has been a thorough one and admittedly disillusioning to socialists. Perhaps as much as anything else the Saskatchewan experiment has served Mackenzie King to thank conditions that they no longer envisage a national economy in which there is no place for capitalism.

In the main we are far enough removed from the everyday affairs of the western province that it is only occasionally we learn of some new development. The most recent is the news of socialism in the province of Alberta, the announcement that the province will close down the fourth of its socialist ventures.

The Saskatoon Star Phoenix Press reviews some of the more striking aspects of the CCF experiment in its neighboring province. It notes that the CCF woollen mill at Moose Jaw will close down on June 1 after a loss of $144,614 in 1952, and cumulative losses over the years of $323,216.

The official announcement stated that the close down is due to "unfavorable conditions in the textile industry," increased imports from abroad, etc., etc. The Free Press, however, points out that the woollen mill will follow the famous fur farm which, in 1945, was the only board and lodging plants which lost $364,264, and the Provincial Housing Corporation whose deficit was $42,000!

All this was recorded during the years when most private-owned businesses were flourishing. All the losses have been borne by the taxpayers of Saskatchewan who would have no part in the management or operation of these business ventures. Under socialism they were committed willy-nilly to the experiment and the money was taken from them in taxes to meet the losses.

A HOLIDAY REMINDER FOR SOME

Unless the weatherman is in a nasty mood the first long week-end in summer at hand will see an exodus from town and city. Perhaps a special reminder to those who plan to spend the holiday or part of it outdoors is not untimely.

Earlier this week there were over 100 forest fires burning in Ontario, by mid-week scattered rains and intensive efforts of forest fire fighters had increased them under control but not before great damage had been done. One fire burned across more than 5,000 acres and another swept over a 3,000 acre area.

Most of these fires were caused by sheer carelessness on the part of someone and probably in most cases by the carelessness of a traveller, a passerby or a fisherman. People in this and in other Canadian countries and the heavily wooded lands of the province are seldom guilty of starting a fire. They know the price of carelessness.

The precautions against forest fires are simple enough. In town or city a fire might start from one of many causes. In the woods a fire is invariably due to thoughtlessness. A cigaret that should have been butted out is tossed slightly out of the car window. The fire made during a fishing-camping or picnic trip is left smouldering when the simple precaution is to douse it thoroughly with water. The traveller or the fisherman in a wooded area throws away his cigaret as casually as he would discard it on a paved street when it is such a simple matter to stamp it out.

Think of the harm of forest fires. It takes so little thoughtfulness to prevent them.

APOLOGY TO WORK

I must apologize to work
For what I've done
When I'd the mad desire to shirk
And stay in bed.
I often called the road too long,
The load too great—when I was strong.

Then, I was well!
Now, change of heart and mind
I'd show
If back to work they'd let me go
Like I did!

Life, you can have your daily nap,
Your hours of rest.
I have become a wiser chap
Who thinks work best.
And since I'm getting well again,
Or work I'll never more complain.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Some paint manufacturer can make himself about a million dollars by taking a full page in the newspapers to announce a big ad in which he will announce: "OLD! OLD! OLD!

"Our celebrated new in our paint! No new ideas, no plastics, no rubber, not a new thing in it! Not one cent has been spent on laboratory research. Our paint contains nothing but what your grandfather used, white lead, oil of color and a little ordinary, non-synthetic, common, cat-chasing turpentine. Come and get it!"

With maybe he wouldn't make a million dollars. But he would at least sell a couple of gallons to me for my summer cottage verandahs (I've painted it here just some back from my first visit) and the paint pot on the verandah floor a year ago last autumn is the cutest little sheeslegs like celophane, while the other paint on the tin screens has gone a queer chalky or what the girls call "mousy" color. I've not cheap paints but I do recall the dealer telling me they were the newest thing last spring.

I got a paint man to look the job over. In my opinion, he said, you painted the job while the wood was still damp. Or, he suggested, there is new, hurricane-up kiln-dried stuff that won't take paint like the good old-fashioned timber our fathers used. I told the paint man my floor was twenty years old, and that I had painted after a hot spell in which the planks would be thoroughly dry.

"If," he said, "you could get hold of some old-fashioned, common sort of paint, and give it two thin coats . . ."

He begged me, however, not to think ill of the paint I had used. He said they were done wonders in developing 'all manner of specialized paints which have revolutionized indoor painting as well as paints for use in industry and other particular needs which have provided of immense importance. Maybe they have all be a little pre-occupied, he mused, with the new chemistry and physics of paint. Now if you could just get a hold of some old-fashioned stuff for this verandah. . .

More Reading Despite TV

(Buffalo Evening News)

The Battle Against Print is the title of an article by Flora Rita Schreiber in the new Freeman magazine, and the bubble is to appraise the effect of TV, radio, picture magazines and comic books on our educational and cultural foundations, which used to rest on the printed word.

The cultural revolution taking place is so fundamental, the article begins, that "which for almost 500 years was the chief means of communication" is no longer so. Today a battle rages for men's minds, and print has powerful rivals." After finishing the piece—the sort of discussion any experienced ball-assistant on such subjects would expect from this beginning—we happened, by coincidence, to be leafing through the 1952 annual report of the Erie County Public Library.

"During the last five years," it noted, "the high employment levels, the spread of television, and the high cost of living cut the time devoted to reading. there has been a constant increase in the number of books borrowed. This has culminated in a total of 1,033,000 books borrowed in 1951, an increase over 1947 of 40 per cent."

The statistics—on how "the battle against print" is not being won among Buffalo and Erie readers—called to mind the many other statistical items which show the steady increase in circulation, of the nation's newspapers and the TV set sales boom, also the ever-rising circulations most of the big magazines like to brag about in their advertisements.

All of which set us to wondering if there really is much truth in the popular lament about how we're getting all our culture canned and spindled through TV. We wouldn't want to be Pollyanna about this, but the superficial evidence seems to be that reliance on the whole are doing about as much reading, and as good reading, as ever. We don't know when they first took time, but people in these parts are busy, hurrying and presumably reading more than ever. The magazine and newspapers than before they were—and print has been, likewise, in this TV age, moreover, that such movements as the great books discussions classes have flourished, and there are as many signs of a cultural yearning as of cultural shillstification, due to the pressure of competing attention-getters.

We wouldn't doubt the desirability of high employment and prosperity, televisioning or an overdose of comic books would be on the mind. But what the critics are so prone to overlook is the stimulation to reading which reduced

Work Delayed on Playgrounds Due to Weather Conditions

Due to weather conditions work on two large playgrounds in Middleton Park has been delayed, it was reported at the regular monthly meeting of the Middleton Park Council held recently in Air Marshal Breadner School.

Crews are now working overtime with bulldozers and scrapers to level the first of two playgrounds, each of which will be divided into four sections. The sectionalized plan will provide equipment for children in four different age groups, thereby reducing the danger involved when smaller children are exposed to playground equipment beyond their age limit. The grounds will be seeded, this summer with teeter-totters, jungle-gyms, swings, slides, horizontal bars, pitches and ball diamonds. Eventually, there will be a wading pool installed for the younger set.

Progress of the playground south of Lawrence Drive is advancing rapidly. Fifty per cent of the work has been done and because of an urgent need for the grounds a request was granted to have volunteer bulldozer crews work at night.

A second site has been chosen at the north end of a vacant lot between McGill and Bell Irving Drives, where, to the south, a new six-room school with space for 300 children is under construction. A request will be made by the council to No. 6 Repair Depot for a bulldozer to scrape and level the McGill-Bell Irving playground.

Invited To Meetings

Following a motion by the April meeting to invite representative of Middleton Park social and welfare organizations to the council meetings, Rfn. K. Sharp, chairman, welcomed the group on behalf of the council membership. The non-voting representatives will sit in on all council meetings, where their help will be sought in co-ordinating Middleton Park activities.

The new representatives are Mrs. F. W. MacLean, Girl Guide Association; Mrs. C. S. Maitland, RCAF Women's Auxiliary; Sgt. F. J. Blair, Home and School Association; and Pfl./St. A. R. Lynch, Boy Scout Association.

Business arising out of the minutes, read by Sgt. F. J. Blair, secretary, included a report that part of the $40 allocated by the council for filling 27 sandboxes, $20 has been spent. The remainder of the money will be used towards the purchase of sand for boxes in new playgrounds.

It was reported that the dog situation had improved considerably since the inauguration of a licensing system on May 1. Four violations were noted and offenders have been sent letters asking them to explain reasons for ignoring the new regulations.

Prior to the meeting the council received a complaint that rats had been seen in the park. The complaint was passed to medical authorities who investigated but found no trace of rats in the area. Residents seeing rats have been asked to report the facts to their ward representatives. Should the need arise, exterminator action will be taken by the Housing Officer.

A query was raised, regarding the proposed date of painting the remainder of the interiors of coal-burning houses. A new contract has to be let for this work, therefore council was not in a position to advise residents in this area. Also, the question was raised as to whether tenants may paint the interiors of their homes. Sfn. Sharp reported that tenants desirous of redecorating must obtain permission in person from the Housing Officer.

Request Made

A request was made for the erection of suitable fencing in front of homes bordering Curtis Road. It is anticipated that when the paving of the road is completed that it will be a hazard to small children. The council will turn the matter over to the proper authorities.

Accepting express delivery in Middleton Park, a letter was received from the Express Traffic Association of Canada. The letter advises that express free carriage can not be granted at this time because Middleton Park is located more than one-quarter of a mile from the nearest express free carriage limits. Council commented on the matter and expressed the opinion that paving of Curtis and Bell Irving Roads would invalidate the reasons given by the association for its refusal. As the roads will bring the park closer to the express delivery limits, perhaps a new request will be made when the road is completed.

It was moved by WO2 R. J. Grant and seconded by Sfn. A. H. H. Muir that an effort be made through official channels to obtain power for the use of hall in Middleton Park. At present, residents must go to RCAF Station Trenton or No. 6 Repair Depot to use the hall. If and if general delivery is granted by postal authorities, residents will be able to pick up mail from a centrally located office in the park.

The council granted a hearing to Mrs. W. Welser, who attended the meeting on behalf of local residents. Speaking for the parents of many children, she requested that the council sponsor a Children's Day to be held at the end of the school year in honor of departing children. Since the council is an administrative body only, a motion regarding the matter was made by Sfn. A. H. H. Muir and seconded by F/S J. P. Maroney. It was moved that the Home and School Association be advised of a suggestion made to council that a Children's Day be held on the termination of the school term.

Hall Used

Less than twenty-four hours after complaints were reported in the ward, the mosquito spraying Dakota made its third trip of the year over the park.

Speeding of automobiles on Johnson Drive was reported to council, who advised that a periodic patrol is being made of the area by a member of the service police.

Several street lights were reported burned out. Residents were advised that as soon as the weather turns warmer and the ground hardens that the lights will also be replaced. At present the high level crane truck is too heavy for the soggy grass.

Princess Ragnhild Weds Commoner In Oslo, Sweden

OSLO (AP)—A sky, young princess leaves the sheltered life of the Norwegian royal court today to become the wife of a commoner.

The bride is Princess Ragnhild, 23, petite, brunette elder daughter of Crown Prince Olav and Crown Princess Martha. The groom is handsome Erling Svend Lorentzen, 30, who takes a big hand in running his father's thriving shipping business in Oslo.

Their simple wedding — the climax of a fairy tale romance come true—was planned for a brick village church at Asker, near Oslo, in sight of Crown Prince Olav's 500-ton Skaugum residence.

Heading the list of guests will be 82-year-old King Haakon VII, rumored to regard with mixed emotions the eight-year-old romance of his favorite granddaughter with a commoner.

Other Royal guests were Denmark's King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid; Britain's Princess Margaret, representing the Queen and Prince Bertil, representing Sweden's King Gustaf Adolf.

Arrangements were made for villagers to hear the services over loudspeakers in the churchyard and for thousands of others to hear the bride say "I do" in a nationwide radio broadcast.

Ragnhild went to the United States with her mother, brother and sister in 1940 when the Nazi invasion of Norway sent the royal family into exile. The princess first met Lorentzen on her return home in 1945 when he, a merchant-ship commando captain, served as an aide to her father.

They were separated when he went abroad, first to the Harvard University graduate school in Cambridge, Mass., and then for a two-year stint in his father's shipping business in Brazil.

In have the large one half acre corner lots mowed regularly.

A request that suitable fencing be erected between Regina Crescent and the railroad tracks will be brought to the attention of the authorities.

The next meeting of the council will be held on Tuesday, June 9 in the Air Marshal Breadner school.

Canadian Legion President Wants Higher Pensions

SIR AGATHE DES MONTS, Que. (CP)—Dr. C. B. Lomasson, president of the Dominion convention of the Canadian Legion, said Thursday efforts to obtain higher pensions for dependents of soldiers killed during the Second World War should be increased.

Addressing a luncheon at the annual convention of the National Council of Silver Cross Women, Dr. Lomasson said:

"The work done by both organizations (the legion and the council) should be multiplied, despite the fact that some concessions have already been gained."

The organization, founded in 1926, is made up of mothers and widows, who lost a son or husband during the war.

Heading the list, Lt. Ludlow, Brantford, was re-elected national council president, along with vice-presidents Mrs. V. W. Harvey, Peterborough and Mrs. James Stewart, Winnipeg.

Mrs. C. E. Hayes, Preston, Ont., was one of three new vice-presidents.

UK Conservatives Crow Over Win In By-election

SUNDERLAND, Eng. (Reuters)—Britain's Conservative party today crowed over the "remarkable" victory it won Wednesday in a by-election in the industrial town wresting a parliamentary seat from the Labor party.

The vote was made necessary by the death of Ralph Ewart, Socialist who held the seat in a straight fight with the Conservatives in 1951, winning by the narrow margin of 306.

Wednesday's winner, F. G. Williams, 39, also stood in 1951. This time he faced Liberal as well as Labor opposition, A. G. S. Whipp, the Socialist candidate, polled 21,598 votes and R. J. Leslie, Liberal, 2,534. Williams had 23,114. The total vote cast was 72.3 per cent of those eligible compared with 84.2 in the general election.

The result boosted Prime Minister Churchill's over-all majority in the House of Commons to 19. The Conservatives now hold 322 of the 625 seats compared with 303 for the combined opposition, not the Speaker of the House, a Conservative, is neutral. The 62 Liberals frequently vote with the Conservatives.

It was the first time the Conservatives had won a seat from the Socialists in Sunderland in 22 years. The Conservative party said there were two main reasons for "this remarkable result."

Jean Adair, 80, Broadway Star For 30 Yrs., Dies

NEW YORK (CP)—Jean Adair, one of Canada's finest character actresses, died this week at Beth Israel hospital.

A native of Hamilton, Ont., she appeared in more than 25 Broadway productions in the last 30 years.

Illness forced her to leave the cast of "The Crucible," a drama now playing on Broadway, 10 weeks ago.

She and Josephine Hull were the sweet and puritanical old ladies in "Arsenic and Old Lace," and they repeated the roles in the screen version of the play.

As Martha, one of the weird sisters, helped piston 12 old gentlemen nightly, much to the amusement of the millions who saw her on Broadway, on the road, and in the movie.

She starred in such other hits as "Ah, Wilderness," "On Borrowed Time," "Little Women," "Dear Old Summer," and more lately "Bell, Book and Candle," "I've Got Sixpence" and "Candle." Miss Adair played opposite Rex Harrison as the make-want-of a full-fledged witch.

Lampshade Hat Is Back Again

By KATHERINE FINKBAM

PARIS (AP)—The lampshade hat is back again. It appeared in more than a dozen costumes at the Jacques Fath mid-season fashion collection.

It looks rather heavy, too, after such a long spell of airy perched-on-top models, with its deeper crown and the big brim sloping downward at a direct slant. It is worn straight on the head and the brim shades the eyes flatteringly. Some of the hats are quite large, like one of white openwork, stiffened and crisp-looking, with a brim softening half the face. It is worn well, too, on a tall mannequin in a molded black summer dress cut wide and shallow at the neckline, with sleeves slightly puffed from shoulder to a narrow cuff well above the elbow.

Suitcoats were more cordelably cut at the waistline than those currently worn by smart Parisiennes. Many of the coats were belted only slightly at the waist.

Besides the lampshade hats, there were almost as many pill-boxes, but with a difference. These new ones are turned forward, coming down in some models almost to the eyebrows. Others are worn straight and rather severe-looking. Some of the ones worn recently were mink-trimmed, and some of Persian lamb.

Quinte W. I. Visits Hospital Departments

The May meeting of the Quinte Branch of the Women's Institute was held in the parlors of the Shannonville Church with an attendance of 28. The rooms were looked very well, too, with spring flowers decorating every table.

Mrs. Lancaster, the new president, called the meeting to order.

After the business, Mrs. Stanley McDonald took charge of the meeting and read a very excellent talk on the motto. Mrs. Archie Prentice read a paper on "Flowers and Their Influence," which was most appreciated.

As this was "Hospital Day" the members went together in a chartered bus to Belleville to view all the departments of the hospital.

On their return, the hostesses, Mrs. K. Vivian, Mrs. Stanley McDonald, Mrs. A. Dendrick and Mrs. E. Vivian, served bountiful refreshments which were much enjoyed.

'Canada's Enemy, Is Alcohol', States Speaker at W.M.S.

The May meeting of Tabernacle W. M. S. was held in the Ladies Parlors of the church. Mrs. May, the president, presided, and Mrs. M. P. Daft was at the piano.

Mrs. May opened the meeting by reading a poem entitled "A Prayer in the Garden," a beautiful poem found in the Missionary Monthly for May, which is well worth reading.

Mrs. Nelson had charge of the devotional, the theme being "Study to be Quiet," Mrs. Nelson spoke on how one should learn to be quiet in the rush and turmoil of life. To be quiet and listen. Listening is one of life's graces. The Pharisees thought they would be heard for their much speaking, but Christ used to depart to a mountain to be alone with God, to pray and listen. She read a poem, part of which was, "Give me a calm, a quiet prayer and let me live for Thee."

Mrs. Nelson introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Bram Humphreys, who spoke of his work among the incarcerated. "Canada," he said, "contains many enemies, but our worst enemy is alcohol as a beverage. It is undermining our country more than any other. Ninety per cent of men and women in our prison here are there through the use or result of alcohol."

He told of many who have been reclaimed, but so many who never have and who are living a life of sin. It all starts with perhaps one drink or one cocktail socially, but the habit grows so fast.

Mrs. May expressed thanks for the fine address.

A poem was read by Mrs. Fisher, "The Busy to Pray."

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. May with reports from some of the secretaries.

Several calls had been made.

Some advice for hats for Xeen were brought in, also money paid the lads which is being packed on May 18.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By HEATHER FARSWAN

LETTERS AND ANSWERS Young Blushers, Thou Art Not Burden

Miss Fidelce:

I am 16 years old, and I carry my lunches. My mother says while in grade 7 and 8 I should ask my brother to take care of me and a boarder. I think it is time I was doing this for three years. Last year I was only once a week with my friends.

I'm engaged to a wonderful boy, but because of my age and the fact that I'm in high school our mother we can rarely get together. What I would like to know is should I break my engagement until he's 21 or should I marry him now? I'm madly in love with him and I can't regret your advice. Thank you. Sincerely yours, members of the family.

I don't believe, however, that one of the sacrifices necessarily involved in being a boarder is premarital marriage. If the right man to whom you are engaged is not to be considered, then he would far rather wait for you and be the means of evening things he can to help you, than give you up. Remember that a boarder may easily have adult responsibilities disagreeably and uncomfortable for the boarder's parents. He could possibly have that in marrying you, you'll get a wife with exceptional character, and unselfishly be fully realizing this. Besides, you're still young, and your had so much responsibilities. I would feel that you would be happier to marry yet; so perhaps it is just as well that your circumstances are forcing you to wait for marriage. Remember that in one or two years from now, you may be able to make some arrangement about the younger children, or even have them with you if you should marry. Why not start thinking about this matter seriously and gradually make plans that will be all the sweeter because they have had time to put a lot of thought into them?

Off Enough To Lend Her Own Ide, Her Answer Wants to Run to Mother Miss Fidelce:

My parents and I do not agree on the hours I should keep.

Throughout all my college years my mother was most reasonable and insisted in giving her written permission to all my requests for over night and weekend visits. Now that I have graduated from college and am living at home again, however, she has suddenly become quite unreasonable and unyielding about such things. When I was only a sophomore in college I had more privileges in this respect than she is willing to give me now, at the age of 22. It seems that I must always be home by 12:30, which means a considerable hour for one of my age, and as a result quite a bit of fripping has arisen between us.

Do you think I am being unreasonable in expecting more freedom, or is my mother unreasonable in her attitude?

Dear L.W.J.:

While it wouldn't seem to me necessary for you to be out much later than 12.30 very often, I agree that, having graduated from college, you should have the opportunity to make your own decisions at this point, so long as they are wise decisions. For example, I think it would be neither wise nor desirable for a girl of 22 to be out after the early hours of the morning frequently, for no better reason than that she just happened to feel like it. But if there is some definite event that would not be over by 12.30, such as a dance, or if she occasionally wanted to go somewhere to eat or dance after some other engagement, that seems perfectly reasonable.

If you are a working girl, as I assume you are since you are out of school perhaps you might even consider leaving home to live with some friend, if home conditions continue to develop friction between your mother and yourself. You might make this suggestion to her and see if it has a beneficial effect on her attitude.

Question: Thank you for your help at Christmas. . . I love the cure of pineapple and an fig sauce for preserves 12. I would like to know the approximate number of calories in each meal? I drink 2 large ones most of tea. . . a magazine article said this encourages a reducing diet. . . I was wondering if that is true. . . I'd like a recipe for hard sauce to serve on fig pudding. . . how do you preserve your pineapple? I'd like to know. I've been doing it in sealers. Last year I used the food conveyor instead of grating. They turned out nice but I just guessed at the amount of sugar and it wasn't quite enough. . . my Banana Cream Pie always has lovely when I make it without a meringue, but when I put a meringue on I'm filling all runny watery. What causes this?

I'm the proud owner of (an) electric beater but I'm afraid I make some mistake sometimes. My recipe doesn't make them stiff enough. . . I make Fig Bars which are like better than the bought ones. I use the recipe of four fig cookies. I divide my dough evenly in 6 amounts. . . and roll it out ¼" but long and about 2½" wide. I put the "fig" boiling in hot syrup - which is 1 or 1¼ cups sugar to each 4 cups boiling water. Boil to either "fig" or "ball" stage. Process in hot water bath both and spread on 30 minutes. Cool after boiling begins. Cool as quickly as practical. Tighten seal - never loosen it.

Open kettle: Never reconsidered. Boiling is to much.

For your meringue pies, spread the meringue first to the sides of the crust to make a seal between crust and meringue before baking, as the filling will not shrink together.

Marshmallows: Soak 1 tablespoon gelatin in ¼ cup cold water 5 minutes. Boil 1 cup sugar with ½ cup each water and corn syrup to 260 deg. Fahr. Stir in soaked gelatin. Beat 1 egg white with ½ cup sugar. Beat with rotary or electric beater at fill thick and creamy. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and ½ teaspoon salt. Pour in dept. of 1 inch into buttered pan, generously sprinkled with icing sugar. Sprinkle top with icing sugar, and let stand overnight. Cut into squares with scissors, constantly dipping it in hot water. Roll squares in powdered sugar.

GOOD MANNERS

By CORNELIUS BECKMAN

"The" Two Rings of The Same Kind

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

My engagement ring, which is a diamond solitaire, is platinum. I have to be married soon and I would like to have a gold wedding band. But the jeweler says that is not the right thing to do, to combine platinum and gold. Is it?

Marie S.

It is considered more harmonious to have the two rings, the engagement ring and the wedding ring, of the same metal. Have you thought this over before you make your final choice, although of course it is your own preference that is the real answer.

Send Invitations to Pre-Army Relatives, Friends

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

My fiance's many relatives and friends who would find it impossible to attend our wedding. Would invitations be sent to them anyway?

I. If there are fifty guests, are ushers necessary?

M.V.

If you are sending formal invitations, they should be sent to all relatives and intimate friends, whether they are able to come to the wedding or not. The idea is that an invitation means that you and your bridegroom would like to have the person to whom you send the invitation, present at your wedding.

Even if the chances are that they will be impossible, you should have made them happy and proud of your remembrance of them.

2. For the seating of fifty guests, it would be an excellent idea, and most comfortable way to arrange it, to have two ushers. It's discouraging for wedding guests to arrive and not have anyone to direct them to their places.

Teddy Cats Are Removed

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

We are to be married in June, and the ceremony and reception are to be held in my home. We live in a large, old-fashioned house, with big rooms, and I would like to plan to show the guests the wedding presents in our large upstairs sitting-room. Should I leave the cards on the presents, or remove them? Also several of my relatives are planning to give us checks. How should these be displayed? — Hesitate-to-be-a-bride

It's better taste, I think, to remove the cards from the presents . . . this takes away the possibility of too much "comparison." Today cards usually are removed. To indicate a check-gift, write or print a large white card (check $100, or whatever amount. The check itself is not shown, and the name of the donor is not written on the card.

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

Are birth announcement cards sent to friends living in the same town in which the parents live, or is it correct to send them only to those living out-of-town?

Vera C.

Although it isn't necessary to send birth-announcement cards to friends who have been living already ready been informed of the baby's birth, it is appropriate to do this, whether they live in town or out-of-town. For, usually, relatives live quite far from the town in which these cards "among their treasures," and to remember the baby's birthday.

Pork Tenderloin

Are you wondering what you are going to serve when you entertain special company for dinner this week? The home economist of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture suggests that your number pork tenderloin. You may think that it is too expensive and that there is no depth that it is one of the highest priced of all the tender pork cuts—but when you consider that there is no fat, no waste and can be extended with a bread stuffing to give additional servings, it is found to be worth the money.

Pork tenderloin is a long, tapering piece of lean meat from the under side of the loin. It is about two inches in diameter at the thickest part gradually decreasing in thickness. Tenderloins vary in length from seven to ten inches and weigh from one-half to three-quarters of a pound each. When buying tenderloin pork, look for fresh, light, pink colored meat with a moderate amount of fat covering. Pork tenderloin may be bought either whole or cut into small pieces and Frenched, that is flattened to make the pieces larger and thinner. Whole pork tenderloin may be stuffed with a bread or fruit stuffing and roasted. Frenched tenderloin may be panfried and served with a sauce made from tomato juice, sour cream or canned mushroom soup.

Stuffed Pork Tenderloin.

When roasting stuffed pork tenderloin, split the tenderloin lengthwise and spread it open. Have economical meat-man help filling the tenderloin with a bread stuffing or since apple goes well with pork, a fruit stuffing may be added to the stuffing. Spread the stuffing between the split halves and then fasten them together with skewers. Lay on a roasting pan on a rack in the centre of the oven. Roast in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F. for about one hour or until the meat is tender and the slight pink has disappeared. If the tenderloin seems rather lean, put two or three bacon strips across the top. The bacon will give the extra fat necessary to prevent the top and sides of the roast from drying out. Provided by Pork Tenderloin

One pound of Frenched pork tenderloin will serve three to four, that is allowing two thin slices per person. Home economists like to use tenderloin this way because it makes a delicious main course and can be prepared in a short time. Dredge the pieces in seasoned flour, if desired. Brown in a hot frying pan in about two tablespoons of fat for each pound of tenderloin. Brown the tenderloin quickly over one hundred inch dish, then reduce the heat, cover the pan and cook over low heat for an additional ten minutes or until the thickest piece is tender and the meat has just disappeared. This tasty mean like a very short time to prepare. Serve with these pieces of meat, the best pan-drippings, quickly and shorten the cooking time.

Debutante Says She Brought Mouse to Party

LONDON (Reuters) — A little white mouse came out on a supper ball for 200 debutantes Tuesday night and the terrified girls handed up their billowing skirts without a thought for party manners.

An Argentine debutante saved the day by scooping up the mouse and hiding it in the bow of her pink dress. But the affair of the mouse had just begun.

Just before the Argentinian, 18-year-old Gillian Eddy, curtsied demurely before the Duchess of Gloucester, her prisoner scooted to the top of her hairdo and sat there solemnly washing its face.

The Duchess, the Queen's aunt, gazed down sweetly on the curtsying girl, copied the mouse on her head, and, after momentary panic, regained her royal calm.

Miss Eddy, a lover of animals, wanted to go on dancing with the mouse on her head but officials handed the creature to a newspaper man to get rid of quickly.

Caroline Cavalho, another debutante, confessed she brought the mouse in a white box to the ball because "I wanted to liven things up a bit."

County Taxes For Municipality Will be $7,085

STIRLING — Stirling taxpayers will be required to pay $7,085.63 in county taxes for 1953 according to a requisition tabled from E. Denyes, county clerk, at Monday night's regular meeting of the village council. Reeve H. K. West presided, and councillors G. Bradshaw, H. Philp, E. G. Bailey and C. A. Wells were in attendance. This amount is made up of an expenditure of $3,031 for county roads, $3,789.20 for general purposes, and $265.23 for the County Home debentures.

Tar Day

The Hon. J. R. Cooke Chapter of the I.O.D.E. wrote council seeking permission to hold a tag day June 29, in the interests of the Navy League. The request was granted on motions of Councillors Wells and Bradshaw.

A communication from R. W. Mellelejohn, secretary of the Public School Board, conveyed the information that the board's requisition to council was $8,750 $2,500 Cut

A letter from the Ontario Department of Highways pointed out that the department had approved an expenditure of only $4,500 on village streets in 1953, whereupon council had passed a by-law for $7,000 expenditure. No reason was given for the cut.

Reeve West reported on a meeting of the reeves and deputy reeves of the Centre Hastings High School Area held at Madoc last Friday at which the matter of assessment was again discussed. Failure to reach a decision on the matter resulted in a motion that the former equalized assessment be used for 1953. However, it is understood that some of the municipalities are considering an appeal before the Ontario Municipal Board.

Billiard Room Licence Granted

Bert Jones made application to council for a licence to operate a billiard room in conjunction with a general farm supply business he proposes to operate in the Empire Block in the premises formerly occupied by Elliott Farm Equipment. Council agreed to grant the licence.

Reeve West introduced the matter of painting the roof of the Public Library, and after discussion, the property committee was authorized to have the work done.

Street Repairs Discussed

A general discussion ensued on needed repairs to village streets and the installation of culverts. Reeve West was authorized to have the county engineer inspect the various spots needing repairs.

An enquiry from Councillor Wells obtained the information that the Department of Highways had gravelled a portion of the parking lot on the corner of Church and Bailey Streets.

Untidy Park

Councillor Bailey spoke of the untidy condition of the park on the south side of Mill Street opposite the Presbyterian Church and action will be taken to have the poles, trees, and debris removed.

Several accounts were passed for payment.

7 YEARS IN PEN

TORONTO (CP)—Roy Penner, 21, an inmate of Mimico reformatory, was sentenced Wednesday to seven years in Kingston penitentiary on a charge of assault causing actual bodily harm. He was convicted last week. Evidence indicated that Penner wounded two guards in an attempted escape from the reformatory May 1, one suffering a fractured skull.

BANCROFT

Dept. of Highways Employees Hear Safety Address

Bancroft — A gathering of Department of Highways engineers, operators and garage staff of the Bancroft district assembled here today to hear a safety campaign address by Mr. George Gibson, of Toronto, who is in charge of maintenance and operation of all highway department vehicles.

Representatives were present from Pembroke, Eganville, Barry's Bay, Whitney, Kaladar and Madoc.

Mr. Gibson said that the department's accident rate and costs had been halved since the campaign began some eighteen months ago and he urged all employees to take all precautions in their work to reduce the risk of accident to the general public and themselves.

Two films, one on road construction and equipment in the Red Lake district and another on driving safety produced by the National Trucking Association of America, were shown.

An enjoyable meal was served in the assembly by the local Canadian Legion Ladies' Auxiliary.

Frederician Enjoyed

This year's Lakefield Players' production "Dead of Night," was presented to a Bancroft audience of around 220 in the community hall last Friday. This is the fourth year in which the Lakefield Players have staged a show in Bancroft.

As the title suggests "Dead of Night" is a mystery thriller which abounds in hair raising scenes and keeps the audience guessing until the last of its three acts.

The action of the play takes place on the U.S.-Canadian border in prohibition days and uses the activities of a rum-running gang as the basis of the plot.

A polished performance was given by Mayone Grylls as cook to the rather sinister household and the difficult part of a crippled half-wit was well played by Dave Spence. The Rev. Walter Tonge played the villainous county constable and supporting parts were played by Lois Keliar, Jean Miller, Alf Millage, Archie Stewart, Betty Millage and Guy Poole. Production was by the Rev. Walter Tonge.

RAPID GROWTH

RED DEER, Alta. (CP)—A new civic census here indicated a large population increase since the Dominion census of 1951. The federal census figure was 7,575 but postal authorities estimate more than 10,000 persons now live in the immediate area.

CAMPBELLFORD

Rotary Speaker Advocates More Immigration

Campbellford — Dr. Richard D. Jones, chief of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, addressed the Rotary Club on Monday. Dr. Jones, a native of Elizabeth, N.J., is a former Wesleyan Methodist minister and a graduate of Wesleyan College, Boston University and Northwestern University. He is a renowned world traveller, student and teacher.

"It is only common sense that we should give everyone the privileges we want for ourselves" was the theme on which Dr. Jones premised his remarks to the club.

Why do people from so many lands seek entrance into Canada? the speaker asked. Firstly, he said it is because it is the land of opportunity. From Newfoundland through to British Columbia it has become the modern land of promise. "We, as Canadians, do not appreciate this but the rest of the world does."

People come to a land where they can meet those who have a somewhat similar background to their own. "In Canada we have all nationalities and this in itself attracts immigrants of the stranger degrees company of his own tongue. It is regrettable that the barriers of immigration are not further lowered.

Land of Freedom

"Canada is a land of freedom and good government. We do not have to submit to political controls as is the rule in most European countries. We have decent, honest, cultured and refined men in our parliaments. Let us keep it so. Let us stand on our own feet and not imitate anyone. John Fisher is a notable Canadian because he is doing the greatest and one of the most needed jobs in Canada today—selling Canada to Canadians.

The U.S.A. talks about the great melting pot which makes Americans of all the comers. We cannot and would not be a melting pot for all nations, but rather would foster a cultural pluralism and working together, side by side, burying prejudice and building understanding." The speaker complimented Rotary upon its work toward international understanding.

Past presidents of the club were in charge of the meeting: Harold Carr presiding. Art Loucks introduced the speaker and A. D. Bennett thanking him.

Dr. Jones spoke to the pupils of the high school in the afternoon.

Blames Govt. For Not Developing Uranium Deposits

OTTAWA (CP)—An Independent eastern Ontario member, C. W. Hodgson accused the government Wednesday of blocking development of uranium deposits "right at the back door of the Chalk River atomic project."

C. W. Hodgson (PC—Victoria, Ont.) said it is common knowledge that there is plenty of uranium in the Haliburton area but the mines department, instead of helping develop it, had been blocking development since 1939. Haliburton is about 75 air miles south of Chalk River.

Mr. Hodgson said he has asked questions about the deposits but has been told such matters are secret. The only secrecy was that of the government. It was general knowledge that there was plenty of uranium in that area but the mines department wouldn't even give him a map or report on samples sent there.

Mines Minister Prudham said he would investigate and send Mr. Hodgson a report.

Sunday School Lesson:

An Ancient Church Quarrel

By ROY L. SMITH

There was a fiery belief among the first century Christians that Jesus would return to the earth, take up His life where it had been interrupted by the crucifixion, and go on with it from that point to even greater works than he had achieved on the occasion of his first appearance.

This belief was shared in this belief, and appears to have generated, in this great Apostle to the young church at Thessalonica which grew up as a result of his missionary effort. But when persecution and opposition made it necessary for Paul to leave the city, and the young and inexperienced Christians were left to their own devices, this doctrine began to bedevil the church and wreak havoc with the faith of the congregation. It was to restore order that the great Apostle wrote what most scholars believed to have been his first letter—First Thessalonians.

A Disturbing Doctrine

In spite of the fact that Paul had preached the doctrine of a second coming to the Thessalonian church he was quick to see that it had become such a disturbing element in the life of the people that it was about to wreck the enterprise and make the whole Christian movement appear ridiculous in the eyes of the pagan world. Something had to be done about it, and no one could do it as well as Paul could. He had started the trouble; now let him restore order.

Paul's Prescription

In thoroughly courteous words, which were none the less forthright, the missionary told his converts quite frankly that — whether the second coming was to occur quickly or at some remote date—there was something to be done before that event might come to pass. They were to develop a quality of life, conform to a certain code of conduct, and otherwise depict themselves as reasonable and trustworthy people.

the second coming. They may never get the question settled. But for the plain man—John Q. Churchman—his duty was plain. He must arise above the spirit of controversy. He must dedicate his entire life—every faculty and interest—to the highest type of Christian living. He must prove by the graciousness and the dependability of his life that something superior to paganism had taken root within him.

That Generation Died

In the course of time the controversialists all died. Those who had argued that Jesus might return the next week, the next day,

> The Uniform Sunday School lessons for May 17, "Living As Christians," I and II Thessalonians.

Let the controversialists argue as they please about the date of the next homecoming; all passed away, and the divine event for which they looked and prayed did not occur. At least it did not occur in the form they so fondly expected. And many generations since have followed in their train, and still that "divine event" has not occurred, as the Thessalonians so confidently expected.

But Paul's advice continues to be effective and wise. The proof of our faith is not in the fluency with which we defend our doctrine, but the integrity of the lives we live as evidence of the truthfulness of the principles we have inherited through Jesus Christ.

Anyone sitting down to read all of the letters of Paul as they appear in the New Testament (there are 13 of them generally credited to him, though one or two may be a bit doubtful in that respect), cannot fail to be impressed by the number of times he warned the first century church against contentions and controversies.

That generation died, but the advice is still good.

Some Answers to Problem Of What to Take to Britain

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Convention-bound Canadians now are busy with the problem of what to take over as gifts for relatives and friends.

Most travellers waver between the practical and the "can no," according to advices reaching the United Ingdom trade commission office in Toronto, which includes reports from the British Travel Association.

Authorities say that butter, meat and sugar are high on the list of "most welcome gifts."

However, a young British girl who has been in this country for two months says food would not be at the top of her gift list. Her older women friends would receive nylons; younger women would get cotton dresses of unusual design, or novelty jewelry. Canadian or United States sport shorts would be given to her menfolk.

"Men in the old country, particularly the younger ones, are turning more to American styles," she says.

Weight Limits

Airline tickets stipulate a maximum of 66 pounds of baggage, although excess weight charges are applied.

Visitors may take into the United Kingdom a total of 50 pounds of food, made up of not more than 10 pounds of any one commodity. This means, for example, 10 pounds of meat, which must be cooked meat.

Candy is no longer rationed in Britain but chocolates are still welcome.

And now, the things that Canadians might like to bring back to Canada.

With passports to prove they are tourists, Canadians may buy without ration coupons. Also, they may wear things when they get there, unlike a few years ago when purchase was only on the basis of delivery to ship or plane.

Or you may still order them shipped to Canada.

Bargains

Prices are said to be especially low on good clothing, shoes and tweed materials.

Incidentally, women don't have to worry too much about running out of cosmetics in England. The supply is said to be varied and reasonably priced. Soap is also quite plentiful now.

A recent travel advice article says, "those planning a visit to Paris are urged to look at perfumes, handbags, shoes and gowns." But who needs urging?

ATTACKED SHOT

NEW YORK (AP)—An off-duty policeman fatally shot a man in a Manhattan subway station early today after the man had gone berserk on a train and assaulted several passengers. Police said patrolman Stephen McCabe shot Raymond Jacobs in the stomach after trying in vain to subdue him.

TO REPAIR CASA LOMA

TORONTO (CP)—Old and stately Casa Loma will not be left to crumble after all. Board of control said Wednesday it will set aside $30,000 for repairing the stone castle in the next two years. A yearly trust fund of about $25,000 will take care of it after that. The turreted mansion was built in 1911 by the late Sir Henry Pellatt. It was turned over to the city in 1937 for taxes.

STEAL TULIP BLOSSOMS

HAMILTON (CP)—Thieves Wednesday night stole 2,000 tulip blooms from a garden plot owned by John Reter. They were valued at more than $300.

FRANKFORD

Bishop K.C. Evans Gives Message At Diocesan W.A.

Frankford—The 67th annual meeting of the Asiatic Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary opened with a service of Holy Communion in St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, Bishop K. C. Evans spoke from the text, "Thy Commandment is Exceeding Broad", dwelling first on the breadth of God's com-mandment and secondary on the breadth of Christ's promise. The celebrant was Dean Brierly assisted by Rev. R. H. Brown, Rev. A. Staples and Rev. W. Simonon. The boys' choir was in attendance.

The afternoon meeting was attended by over 300 members. The annual address was given by Mrs. Leroy Boyd, diocesan president. Special speaker for the afternoon was the Rev. L. Geary of Toronto. At the close of the meeting, a reception was held at Bishop's court, where the guests were welcomed by the bishop and Mrs. Evans, and the visiting missionary, Dr. Florence Haslam, of Kaigan, India.

Mrs. C. E. Farrer and Miss Dench were the Frankford dele-gates in attendance.

Ladies' Guild

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Guild of the Full Gospel Tabernacle was held at the home of Mrs. Carl Andrews, Tuesday evening. President, Mrs. Mac Wilson welcomed everyone, and opened the meeting.

Several missionary letters were read of "Revival in Tokyo, Japan", "God's Blessing on Con-ventions" and "The Man Man trouble in British East Africa." These were read by Mrs. Elgin Payne, Mrs. Jack Wilson and Miss Connie Wood.

Mrs. Mac Wilson brought the message from St. Mathew's Gos-pel, Chapter 10, Luke 10 and John 15, speaking on "Spirit filled Daily Living and Faithful-ness in Prayer Life," and Wit-nessing for Christ." The mission-ary prayer bulletin was read by Mrs. Mel Grills, Mrs. L. Nichol-son, Mrs. Gordon Grant.

The Review was read by Mrs. George Chapman. Needs were mentioned. A work night will be held on May 19 at the home of Mrs. Gordon Grant. Next meet-ing will be held at the home of Mrs. Jack Wilson on June 2.

Special Mother's Day services were held in the Frankford United Church Sunday School, with each mother present receiv-ing a flower. The two eldest mem-bers of the school, Mr. Windover and Mrs. Read were presented with red tallies, by little Susan Chase, one of the youngest mem-bers of the school. A new attend-ance record was established, with a total of 233 present. Several of the younger members of the Sunday School took part in the worship service, including the Junior Girls' Choir.

The enlargement program for the United Church Sunday School is in full swing. This week, a bull dozer has excavated a large portion of ground south and west of the Sunday School hall, for the basement and found-ation which will be started shortly. The hall is to be length-ened by some 30 feet, and a large, modern kitchen erected along the west side. The increased attend-ance of the Sunday school has necessitated the enlargement of the premises. The annual Christ-mas concerts have drawn such large crowds of late years, that it has been necessary to take them to a larger hall. Plays, and other entertainments have been limiting in production, due to the small size of the present hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Curry and family spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cooney in Long Branch.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Willshire, Mrs. Jack Willshire and children, of Belleville, were Thursday guests with Mr. and Mrs. Dick Acton.

Miss Mary Lee Appleby, of New Toronto, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Appleby.

Mr. Bob Castille, of Oshawa, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carlisle. Bob was most fortunate in being able to attend the bowl-ing banquet Thursday evening and bowlers welcomed him back again, having left the league after playing four years of bowling.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Elliott and family were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Sine, at Minto.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford Wood and family, of Trenton, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carlisle.

Rev. and Mrs. Gordon Pierce were Thursday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Keegan, in Stir-ling.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Smith, of Kirkland Lake, were Friday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wood and family.

Mr. Joe McFarland, of Oshawa spent the week-end with his family in Frankford.

Miss Lillian Wood, of Toronto, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wood.

A member from the Full Gos-pel Tabernacle attended the na-tional rally in Brighton Monday afternoon and evening. Rev. G. Upton, of Toronto, was the spe-cial speaker at the evening ser-vice.

FOXBORO

Foxboro — Mother's Day ser-vice was fittingly observed on Sunday morning in the Sunday School rooms which were well decorated with spring flowers and a plant in memory of Mrs. J. G. Sills, which had been do-nated by her daughters, Mrs. F. Parks and Mrs. E. Denyes.

Mr. C. Wilson gave the call to worship. This was followed by the invocation; the hymns on the leaflet were used, and the Scripture texts were given by Irene Atkins, Ronnie Bamber, Nancy Ellen Reynolds and Billie Seymour.

A solo, "Mother", was render-ed by Miss Marion Prindle, and the story, "They Stopped Quar-relling", was read by Lenore Lar-ue. Carol Jamieson illustrated it by flannelgraph pictures.

The prayers were read by Mr. E. Tunmon and several songs were given by the children un-der the direction of Mrs. H. Gil-lin. The story, "David Finds Home is Best", was read by Don-ald Priest and the offering was received by Wilmot Jamieson and Raymond Stephens. Mrs. H. Gillin then gave a most interest-ing address on "Home," which she illustrated by the use of flannel-graph pictures, in which she told what "Home" should be — and what an influence it can have on one's life, as each has a part to play in making it a Christian home. There was a large num-ber present at this service.

At the evening service the Rev. H. Gillin gave an appro-priate message on "Mothers."

Mrs. S. Hayton and her school pupils enjoyed a bus trip to Tor-onto on Friday, where they view-ed several places of interest.

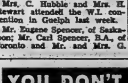
Mr. and Mrs. Allan Gay, Ken-frew, spent Mother's Day with Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Gay.

Miss Marion Daniels, of Orillia, visited her parents on Sunday.

Mother's Day guests at Mr. Fred Prindle's home included their children, Mr. and Mrs. M. Parks and daughters, Massasaga; Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Prindle and family, Belleville; Miss Mar-ion Prindle, Stirling, and Miss Hazel Prindle, Wellington.

Mrs. C. Hubble and Mrs. H. Stewart attended the W.I. con-vention in Cecilph last week.

Mr. Eugene Spencer, of Saska-toon; Mr. Carl Spencer, B.A., of Toronto and Mr. and Mrs. G. Priest, Shoniker were Sunday guests of their mother, Mrs. F. Spencer.



A W.A. group meeting was held on Wednesday at Mrs. J. Rald's and on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Reynolds.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hollinger were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reynolds and fam-ily.

During the service on Sunday evening the Rev. H. Giffin bap-tized Sharon Elizabeth, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Rombough, and Jean Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Priest.

Hint of President Admitting Red China to U.N. Brings Protests from Some Senators

WASHINGTON (AP)—Several senators declared Mrs. Hobby today for President Eisenhower's stated position on possible admission of Red China into the United Nations in the event a truce is reached in Korea.

The president told his press conference Thursday he would not now say that admission of the Peiping Communist regime to the UN should follow an armistice. He did not add that he would oppose such admission under any circumstances.

Some lawmakers said they see a possibility the president may have left the gate ajar for future compromise.

Among these, Senator Styles Bridges (Rep.-N.H.) said he is fundamentally opposed either to U. S. recognition of Communist China or to UN admission under any circumstances.

Senator H. Alexander Smith (Rep.-N. J.), a foreign relations committee member, said if Red China got into the UN "all Asia is lost and that includes Korea, Burma, Indo-China and Indonesia and I don't like to think what would happen to Japan."

Segregation by British Labor leader Clement Attlee that Red China be admitted, even if there is a Korean armistice have touched off a storm in the Senate which could result in some drastic cuts in foreign aid allotments to British ally.

Bridges, who heads the Senate appropriations committee, said the controversy is "bound to affect action on foreign aid items" and Senator Homer Capehart of Ohio, Republican leader, observed that the Attlee visit is "a slap in the face" to God on that score.

Senator Everett Dirksen (Rep.-Ill.) told the Senate the time to reply effectively to Attlee's critic'sisms of American foreign policy personalities will come when the Senate considers foreign aid bills.

Senator John Cooper (Rep.-Ky.) who tried to get through the Senate s's ruffled feelings, said he was disturbed by fear that Attlee's speech would encourage anti-Korean truce talks.

He said that while Churchill had been criticized for not responding to Attlee, "we in Congress have some responsibility, too, if we sit here and seem to acquiesce in rash and unwise statements."

McCarthy said in a Senate speech Thursday Attlee was a "stymy" who ought to apologize to Eisenhower for what McCarthy said was Attlee's suggestion the president not attend any future high-level conferences.

Attlee replied that he and his Labor party had been opposing the British Communists "long before Senator McCarthy was ever heard of."

Attlee said he never suggested that Eisenhower would avoid meeting hinder peace talks, but that he "should do this in the name of the same authority as a British prime minister."

McCarthy, who declared Thursday that a "sizeable number of ships" flying the British flag in trade with China were actually owned by Chinese Communists, said in an interview he thinks American public opinion would stand behind a "complete block ade" of Red China.

"I believe that any ship that goes to carry materials to our enemy should be destroyed or confiscated," he said.

House Speaker Says Goodbye At Prorogation

OTTAWA (CP)—Speaker Rene Macdonald said farewell Thursday night as the first commoner in the land and the House of Commons said goodbys and good luck to him also.

The 61-year-old Liberal member for Branford—chosen after the 1949 election to speak over the 20th session of the 21st parliament—told members for four years in adjudicator of their sometimes-tempestuous debates would be cherished by him for the rest of his life.

Spokesmen for all parties replied in kind, remarking on the speaker's fairness, kindness and his sense of humor in rulings he was asked to give, rulings which sometimes were challenged by a vote of the House.

The speaker's goodbyes were given on the generally-accepted belief that Thursday night's prorogation of Parliament is the last of the seventh session before the calling of an election sometime in August. Technically he remains as speaker until Parliament is dissolved.

Witnesses Say Freighter Not Seaworthy

CLEVELAND, O. (AP)—A coast guard board of inquiry moved here today from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to question two additional crew members of the ill-fated freighter Henry Steinbrenner which sank in Superior October Monday with the loss of 17 lives.

Those to face questioning are Bernard Quesnell, Port Tyrnouth, Pa., second cook, and Kenneth L. Edwards, Duquesne, N. Y., deck-hand. They were put ashore by rescue craft in Duluth, Minn., and brought here.

Fourteen of the ship's crew of 31 survived the storm-driven foundering of the 23-year-old ship, which sank in 1920 after a collision and was raised.

Watchman Norman M. Bragg, Huntington, W. Va., who was particularly outspoken en route to Cleveland at Detroit Thursday night, said "Nothing," he said, "worked as it should aboard the ship. We were taking water somewhere, we'd use pumps 12 hours before' she went down.

"For my money, she just wasn't seaworthy."

Bragg said that the threads were stripped on the latches of the No. 11 hatch which let water in the turbulent seas off Isle Royal Monday night.

Watchman Frank J. Josapatis, Manticker, Pa., and Thomas Wells, Charleston, W. Va., also criticized the ship's sea worthiness.

Capt. Albert Stigtin did not comment.

Thursday at Sault Ste. Marie, one survivor testified the ship blew up as it sank into Lake Superior. The witness, David C. Astle of Grand Rapids, a porter, and two fellow crew members had high praise for the Steigbremer's third mate, Arthur Moran of Michigan City, Ind.

They told of watching Moran help launch a lifeboat as the ship sank. They said he might have been saved had he heeded the pleas of the crew who shouted at him to jump.

Nurses Working In Field Dressing Stations in Korea

[illegible] verse ray KI WDSTK 12k

OTTAWA (CP)—Three Canadian nurses in Korea have carried the petticoat penetration of a man's world to the field dressing station, hitherto an exclusively-male preserve in the army.

Army headquarters said Thursday the nurses—Capt. Elizabeth Ann Kingston and Lieuts. Marjorie Hornell of Fredericton, N.B., and Helen McIntyre of Inglewood, Ont.—now are entrenched at the 25th Canadian Field Dressing Station in Korea.

They had a tough time breaking down official opposition to women working at field dressing stations but generally are close to the front lines. However, Capt. Irene Reilly made capital of the fact that this station is farther than usual from the front.

Controversial Spring Floor Gets Airing

OTTAWA (CP)—An angry Commons Thursday figuratively bounced off its most controversial floor the government has built in years—the $7,500 spring floor that can be used by employees of the federal housing agency.

Progressive Conservatives cried extravagance and accused the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation of "building palaces for illiterates" instead of building homes for the people." Resources Minister Winters defended the right of CMHC to build a $40,000 auditorium with the controversial floor in its new $1,800,000 headquarters on the outskirts of Ottawa.

Civil servants, he said, are entitled to be treated as well as employees of industry. CHMC's Raymond Cloverdell, Barry Tyrwhitt, Pa., second cook, and Kenneth L. Edwards, Duquesne, N. Y., deck-hand. They were put ashore by rescue craft in Duluth, Minn., and brought here.

Fourteen of the ship's crew of 31 survived the storm-driven foundering of the 23-year-old ship, which sank in 1920 after a collision and was raised.

Garson Answers Question Raised By Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Garson said in the Commons Thursday in answers discussing at the next federal-provincial conference the question of compensation for persons wrongfully convicted who serve prison terms.

The question was raised by John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) who said he was pleased Mr. Garson has reconsidered his former opposition to paying compensation in view of the reaction of the people and press of Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he hopes Mr. Garson is ready to give consideration to compensation of the kind that is paid in Britain for persons who wrongfully serve prison terms.

Mr. Garson said if Mr. Diefenbaker suggests that the federal government establish machinery to pay compensation to persons convicted and sentenced in provincial courts he is opposed.

However, if Mr. Diefenbaker suggests the matter be discussed at the forthcoming conference with the provinces "I'm all for it."

TRIPE CORONATION FUNCH

LONDON (Reuters) — London's lord mayor, Sir Rupert de Hare, Wednesday night sampled and approved the Coronation punch that will be brewed in the city's taverns for the big event on June 2.

Here's how to make it: 2½ quarts Jamaica rum, a half-pint of Madeira wine, 2½ quarts of water in which tea has been steeped, sugar to taste, lemon juice, add dash of Curacao.

Justice Minister Promises Matter Will be Probed

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Garson gave Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC—MacLeod) solemn assurances Thursday that the Mounted Police merit stands four square against falling trousers and belts that let them fall.

"He even bit what may have been the first fire ever to blaze on the floor of Parliament to prove the sincerity of his interest in the matter.

Mr. Hansell started the case of a man who bought a belt represented as being made of genuine cowhide only to find out, when it broke, that it really was made of brown paper and not cowhide at all.

The member hinted that some embarrassment was likely to result for the gentleman in question in the breaking of the belt. What he did say outright was that such incidents can have catastrophic consequences.

He wanted to know whether there was some law under which the manufacturer of such belts could be prosecuted.

At the height of his peroration, Mr. Hansell sent the belt in question—it had a pre-war look to it—soaring took out a match and lit the end of it. A flame flared brightly.

Mr. Garson smiled sagely and observed: "It's paper right."

Thereupon he arose and told Mr. Hansell he couldn't say either whether there is a law that would specifically cover misrepresentation of a cowhide belt but he thought there would be and if there wasn't he thought there should be.

He would look of the statute and see because "we certainly want to keep up the trusters of the nation."

Impact of Last Year's Shutdown Hitting Now

OTTAWA (CP)—The impact of last year's shutdown of Canada's first uranium mine is hitting now, the government-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd. said Thursday in its annual report.

The report, tabled in Parliament, said the uranium refinery at Port Hope did not feel the effects of the shutdown caused by a fire—until this year because there is a normal lag between production at Port Radium, in the Northwest Territories, and its arrival at the refinery.

The full impact would be felt in the first eight months of 1953 and the refinery would operate at reduced capacity in that time.

The report, signed by president W. J. Bennett, indicated that the company's second mine, at Beaverlodge lake in northern Saskatchewan, will employ 400 people contributed to the 240 on the staff at Port Radium.

LEAVES FAST

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP)—Fire chief A. McArthur reported to board of education that nearly 500 children can be removed from city schools in one minute, in case of fire. Tests at seven schools showed the largest group, 430, evacuated in 60 seconds. The smallest, 175, were evacuated from another school in 25 seconds.

Highlights Throne Speech

OTTAWA (CP)—Highlights of the last four years, legislative and otherwise, as seen by the government in the speech from the throne read at the end of the seventh session of the 21st Parliament early today:

The Supreme Court of Canada became supreme in fact as well as in name.

Canada entered the Korean war, sent the third largest UN contingent into action.

Parliament approved dispatch of army and air units to Europe.

Canada resumed peaceful relations with Germany and Japan, former enemies.

Trade has reached record proportions, inflation has been controlled, production and national income have risen substantially that a record defence effort could be financed and taxes cut at the same time.

Parliament ended the rail strike in 1950.

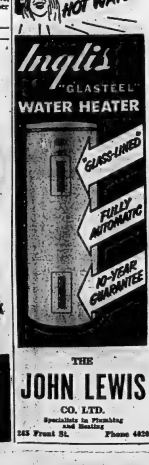
Parliament enacted a universal pension for persons 70 and over, extended the health plan and provided for a Trans-Canada Highway

It authorized a St. Lawrence seaway authority to carry that vital project into reality.

Two Private Detectives Given Prison Terms

WELLAND (CP)—Two Toronto private detectives were sentenced Thursday to terms of 12 months each in jail for their part in fraudulent plans for theft from a house in Stamford township, near Niagara Falls.

Frederick Foder, 46, and George Craig, 49, were arrested Feb. 8 after they had been recognized by Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Jenfer.



The couple testified they drove home the night of Feb. 7. They backed away from their driveway to allow another car containing two men to get clear. This car went off at great speed. When they went indoors, the Jenfers said, they found the house ransacked and about $1,000 worth of goods missing.

They remembered the car number which police traced.

Both men had previously been employed, as police constables.

TROOPER COMMENDED

IN KOREA (CP)—The Canadian Army today announced that Trooper Douglas Easter of Mesford, Ont., has won the Queen's commendation for saving the life of Trooper K. Fraser of Kelowna, B.C., during a fire last Feb. 11. Fazan had 70 per cent of his body covered with burns in the fire which started in his tent. Easter rescued him from the flames.

PC Urges Jail For Officials If Firms Break Law

OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) suggested in the Commons Thursday consideration be given to an application for remission of part of a prisoner's sentence was handled by the Justice department.

George Nowlan (PC — Toronto Broadview) outlined the case of an unidentified prisoner sentenced to eight months at Lindsay, Ont., for uttering a forged cheque. He said the man applied for remission of part of his sentence but his application lay around the remission branch of the justice department for 3½ months.

Finally the man was released on remission, apparently by jail authorities. On the day he was released his solicitor was notified that the solicitor-general (Mr. Garson) would not interfere with the sentence.

Mr. Hees said that as far as the solicitor-general was concerned apparently the man could stay in jail.

Mr. Garson said of 40,000 remission cases handled since he became minister, this was the first instance of its kind. It obviously was due to some clerical error in the department.

Mr. Hees, he said, "like some of the other statesmen of his party, made his political appeals by making a great hullabaloo when some clerk in the government secretariat was handled by the Justice department.

Justice Dept. Put Under Fire By PC Member

OTTAWA (CP)—An outburst of verbal cross-fire erupted in the House of Commons Thursday evening as the war appropriation for remission of part of a prisoner's sentence was handled by the Justice department.

Government Officials Predict Prosperous Twelve Months

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's 14 provinces have stitched their financial resources into high gear for the 1953-54 fiscal year. And government officials predict a prosperous 12 months.

"The greatest budget . . . in history," said Newfoundland's Finance Minister Gregory Power, "A construction and development budget," said Premier Frost of Ontario. "Unprecedented," said Quebec's Finance Minister Onesime Gagnon.

These were some of the optimistic comments as provincial budgets were brought down in recent months.

Totals show the 10 provinces plan gross expenditures of $1,139,312,814 and expect gross revenues of $1,236,699,977, the highest in history.

Big Ontario Budget

The expanding financial picture of the country was reflected in the Ontario budget presented by Premier Frost who is also provincial treasurer. He estimated gross ordinary expenditures of $850,000,000 and revenues of $939,904,000, more than triple the actual figures for 1946. The estimated revenues for the province are $23,284,000 greater than the actual revenues of the federal government in 1952.

Ontario's 1953 expenditures were $103,158,000 and revenues $103,-$183,506,816. In 1951-52 the federal government's ordinary expenditures were $378,700,000 and revenues, $427,700,000.

In all provinces but Quebec the 1953-54 payment under the federal-provincial tax agreement was considered. Total payments were estimated at $300,500,000.

Review by Provinces

A province - by - province breakdown shows the following:

British Columbia—Expenditures, $174,882,836; revenues, $178,389,213; tax-rental agreement, $42,-800,000. Finance Minister Einar Gunderson said that for the first time "in years" the province will not borrow to finance capital expenditures, this year planned at $21,284,180.

Alberta—Expenditures, $137,958,-130; revenues, $130,363,182; tax-rental agreement, $32,900,000. Premier Manning, also provincial treasurer, said Alberta's expenditures will be $50,000,000 more than last year. The sum includes a $25,-000,000 revolving fund from which loans to municipalities will be made at 2½-per-cent interest. The fund will be financed from the province's accumulated reserves. A total of $23,625,000 will be spent on highway construction and improvement.

Saskatchewan — Expenditures, $70,425,000; revenues, $70,515,810; tax-rental agreement, $24,500,000. Provincial Treasurer R. D. Turner said the expenditure total does not include $24,000,000 to be spent on capital account for self-sustaining utilities and financed by non-current revenues. Public works expenditures were seen at $20,000,000.

Ontario—Expenditures, $930,809,-000; revenues, $930,994,000; tax-rental agreement, $131,000,000. Premier Frost announced a $133,000,-000 highway construction program. The province also plans to spend $78,504,000 on education and $65,-000,000 for public buildings and works.

Quebec—Expenditures, $237,980,-000; revenues, $236,464,000. Finance Minister Gagnon estimated capital expenditures of $60,000,000 for up of government investments in permanent works such as public buildings, highways and bridges.

New Brunswick—Expenditures, $60,221,000; revenues, $49,254,500; tax-rental agreement, $13,700,000. Provincial Secretary - Treasurer Donald D. Patterson said that all medicines and drugs will be added to the items exempted from the four-per-cent provincial sales tax. He estimated a saving of $250,000.

Nova Scotia—Expenditures, $42,-218,284; revenues, $47,435,112; tax-rental agreement, $18,800,000. Premier Macdonald, also provincial treasurer, said $15,503,000 estimated for highways and public works was the greatest in the history of the province.

Prince Edward Island—Expenditures, $7,149,600; revenues, $7,855,-402; tax-rental agreement, $3,500,-000. Provincial Treasurer Walter E. Darby said that with careful planning of public funds and with the probability of revenues exceeding the minimum basis of forecast, "we can at least have a reasonable hope of attaining this year's achievement—the payment of both ordinary and capital expenditure out of current income."

Newfoundland — Expenditures, $32,042,000; revenues, $36,065,300; tax-rental agreement, $11,400,000. Finance Minister Power's budget called for a five-cent tax on admission to all places of entertainment. The estimated yield of $250,-000 will be used for cancer control.

Girl Injured Riding Bicycle Into Truck's Side

Campbellford — Joan Finley, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Finley, Brighton township, received a possible fractured skull and other injuries late Monday afternoon when she rode her bicycle into the side of a panel truck on Highway 30, four miles east of Warkworth.

She was treated by Dr. R. F. Jolliffe of Warkworth and taken to Trenton hospital. After X-rays were taken she was taken by ambulance to Toronto General Hospital.

Joan is a pupil at White School in Percy and was bicycling home with a school companion when she came to the junction of the Warkworth road and Highway 30. She observed a car coming north but failed to see a south-bound truck approach and she started up across the highway.

The Department of Agriculture truck was driven by C. E. Koehn, 37, of 16 Singleton Road, Toronto. He saw Joan start across the highway and tried to miss her by applying his brakes and turning the direction of the truck. However, the bicyclist plowed into the right side of the vehicle and she was thrown heavily to the pavement.

The full extent of Joan's injuries are not yet known.

OPP Constable Archie Eadie of Campbellford is investigating.

Three Physicians Honored by OMA

TORONTO (CP) — Three doctors Wednesday received the highest honor bestowed by the Ontario Medical Association when they were presented with life membership in the association. In the history of the OMA only 45 doctors have been so honored.

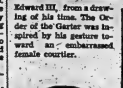
Presentations were made to: Dr. Harris McPhedran, of Toronto; Dr. George E. Eakins, of Port Arthur, and Dr. H. W. Kerfoot of Smiths Falls.

The T. C. Routley shield for the best medical society in Ontario was presented to the Thunder Bay Association.

Expresses Impatience

NEW YORK (CP)—The New York Times expressed impatience today with delay in issuance of a licence to New York state to join Ontario in the St. Lawrence power project.

In an editorial noting that although the presiding examiner of the U.S. federal power commission recommended New York take part, 30 days now must be allowed for exceptions to be taken by those who wish to protest.



"The conclusion is foregone and has been for months, which makes our Canadian friends, not to mention American supporters, impatient and a little exasperated."

No. 13: Edward III, United England 1327-1377

Born: 1312, first son of Edward II and Isabella of France. Upon the forced abdication of his father, he was proclaimed king under the regency of his mother and her lover, Mortimer. They married him off at 15 to Philippa, a German princess. When Edward was able to assert his powers at 19, he sent his mother from court and had Mortimer executed. He resumed the warfare with Scotland and when the French intervened he attacked France, beginning what's known as the Hundred Years' War. The battle of Crecy, in 1346, proved one of the most decisive battles in history, for it established England as a continental military power. The longbow acquired from the Welsh and tactics similarly learned from fighting the Scots made the English the victors. They were unable to assert their new power for seven years, owing to the Black Death. The plague killed one-third of the English population.

Edward III, from a drawing of his time. The Order of the Garter was inspired by his gesture toward an embarrassed female courtier.

A gold noble, dated 1344, commemorating Edward's victory over the French naval forces at the battle of Sluys. The smaller English fleet completely destroyed the French armada.

The first major English literary figure, Geoffrey Chaucer, appeared in Edward III's reign. (From an early manuscript of his Canterbury Tales). Another literary landmark of the time was the initial appearance of The Vision of Piers Plowman, a 13,000-verse satiric poem.

Says Costs Prohibit Two Deliveries of Mail

OTTAWA (CP) — The post office grossed more money in the last fiscal year than ever but the time still isn't ready for return of the two-deliveries-a-day system, Postmaster General Cote said Wednesday.

With regret, he told G. K. Fraser (PC-Hastings-Peterborough) that he wouldn't feel justified in incurring the additional costs that two deliveries for residential city areas would bring. Further, he thought improvements in the one-delivery system have taken off some of the pressure.

Mr. Cote said postal revenues hit $130,000,000 last fiscal year, an increase of about $8,000,000 over the previous year. But soaring costs cut the profit to $6,000,000 from $4,500,000.

JOE OR ROCKY!

"Tor pays yer money and yer takes yer chahce!"

According to a lot of the habitues of Bonk-Bunt Boulevard hereabouts, that about sums up their impressions of the Rocky Marciano-Jersey Joe Walcott heavyweight championship fight in Chicago tonight. And this despite the fact that the Brockton Blockbuster is quoted a 6-1 favorite.

It will be a case of a cunning, crafty, ringwise Jersey Joe, who claims he learned a lesson in the last fight between the pair, and a hard-hitting youngster who carries dynamite in either fist. It was a solid sock to Walcott's jaw in the thirteenth round that settled the matter when Rocky won the title last September.

Jersey will stay away from that lethal right, and likewise will keep an eye cocked on Rocky's fantastic exploits. He has been training, reports say, with emphasis on his aging undergarning and he may take to the "bicycle" for the first few rounds. Just how long he will be able to keep up the pedalling tootles remains to be seen.

Walcott swears that the same thing that cost him the title before won't happen again, ascribing his action to youthful carelessness. "After all," he said, "I was only thirty-eight then, and had a lot to learn." Stories about Walcott's age have grown to the point where some ring historians insist that he is ten years older than the age he claims now.

But there are those who claim that it both fighters are on their feet at the end of the fifteen rounds Jersey Joe will have regained his title by a wide margin. He was, you remember, away ahead of Rocky on points in the last meeting when the Brockton boy's right exploded on the Walcott jaw in that fateful thirteenth round.

And Joe hasn't forgotten that. No matter his age or the condition of his legs he is going to be mighty crafty in this joust. He intends, he says, to punch Rocky on the nose as often as he can in the early and step out of the way pronto.

And speaking of points, the state of Illinois is one of the places south of the border where fights are decided by matchmatics. A New York sports writer points out that those in the game call the system "point" state, meaning that maximum of ten points may be distributed to each fighter that goes the distance. What makes this system a bit ludicrous is that a fighter who loses a round no matter by how wide a margin, must receive exactly the same number.

Massachusetts, the writer points out is another "ten-point" state. The silliness of this point system was pointed out on the night of April 24th, when Tommy Collins, a native of Boston, was awarded a ten-round decision over champion Jimmy Carter. In the third round of the fight Carter floored Collins seven times and beat him so badly that the entire country was aroused.

And yet, with all the beating he received in that round, Collins received the points for one judge, six from the referee and seven from another judge.

So, as the writer points out, it could be that Felix Bocchicchio, Walcott's manager, who is a wizard at figures anyway, may be seen at the ringside armed with a calculator. But Joe won't be bothered with such a contraption. According to his plan he will let Jersey Joe and Felix and their countenoster worry about all the points they like and then the champion will scramble all the figures with a one-punch solution—a right to the jaw.

Marciano finished his training the other day with the remark: "I'm glad that's over." He had just finished 235 rounds of sparring and there was no recurrence of the nasal injury that caused the postponement of the fight last week. He was a mask the most of the time but nevertheless he received several hard hits on the proboscis which did no damage.

WHAT THEY SAY!

By JERSEY JOE WALCOTT: "I'm in fine condition and think I can win tonight. I have trained hard and faithfully for this fight. I trained longer and harder for it than any fight I ever had. I am in shape for a one-round fight or for 15 rounds. I would like to win by a knockout. And if I get the chance at any time I will try for a knockout punch. I have no set style for this fight. I will change my plans as it goes along at the need be. I'm so well trained that I can change my style to offence or defence in any one round. I'm not a one-punch fighter. I have no set style for this fight. I will change my plans as it goes along at the need be. I'm so well trained that I can change my style to offence or defence in any one round

ROCKY MARCIANO

Will Rocky repeat his brave victory of last fall?

JERSEY JOE WALCOTT

At long last, after considerable negotiating and then a postponement, the heavyweight title match between Champion Rocky Marciano and former champ Jersey Joe Walcott is up for decision at the Chicago Stadium tonight. Marciano, left, won the title when he knocked out Walcott in the thirteenth round of their scheduled 15-rounder last September. — Central Press Canadian Photos.

Lehman Wins Fifth Straight For Montreal

— BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

One of the main topics of conversation in Montreal baseball circles these days is how long lefty Ken Lehman will be around the International League.

Judging by his performance with the Royals this season—he threw a no-hitter Thursday in downing Buffalo Bisons 9-2 for his fifth win against no defeats—the parent Baltimore Orioles of the National League are almost sure to call on the Korean veteran.

Lehman's performance to date is by far the best. The two years he spent with the American Army in Korea apparently hasn't affected his pitching. He was with Brooklyn and St. Paul of the American Association last season after his discharge.

His victory was the second of the night for Montreal. The double win gave the Royals sole possession of first place 1½ games ahead of their nearest rivals, Buffalo and Montreal's first victory of the night completed a game called at the end of the fifth inning in Monday night's rain. Montreal's first defeat came last Tuesday because of rain.

Jim Johnson, is losing to Lehman, suffered his second setback in five starts. He gave up eight hits.

Toronto Maple Leafs snapped Ottawa Athletics' winning streak by defeating the A's 6-5 in the second game of a four-night stand at the Canadian capital.

Jim Post, who had a one-hitter until the seventh, when Ottawa banged in two runs on a home run, was the winner. The loser was Ed Hrabchak.

Bob Greenwood and Howie Fox teamed to limit Syracuse Chiefs to three hits, while Baltimore Orioles shutout a 4-0 shutout. Duke Markell, allowing six of the Orioles' seven hits, suffered his first setback in five starts.

Springfield Cubs and Rochester divided a doubleheader at Springfield, the Cubs winning the opener 3-2 and the Red Wings the nightcap 2-1.

George Conkright pitched three-hit ball to give Rochester the first game. The Wings collected four safeties off two Springfield pitchers.

Don Kleton, shaky at times, gave up only five hits in his opener for Springfield's win. Floyd Mallier, the first of two Rochester pitchers used, was the loser.

Player Rules Not Eligible

GUELPH (CP)—Administrator John Gillies of the Senior Intercounty Baseball League ruled Thursday that southpaw Leslie Bowes of Guelph Maple Leafs is not eligible to play intercounty ball this season.

Gillies said Bowes had earlier signed a financial agreement with Spartanburg of the class B Tri-State League.

Officials of the Maple Leafs said Gillies' decision was a severe blow to the club. They had counted on the New Brunswick lefty to be the mainstay of their hurling corps. Bowes pitched for the Leafs two years ago.

Young Pro Sets Golf Mark

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—Dave Douglas fired a four-under-par 66, a course competitive record, Thursday to take a whopping-five-round lead in the $17,500 Meadow Brook round-robin golf tournament.

Then all the mathematics had been figured in the unique pluck-as-you-count, the lefty-swinging pro had a 14-point hedge over a quartet of rivals, his nearest purser.

Second to Douglas was Lloyd Mangrum, the year's leading money-winner whose 68 was the day's second best score. Three others shot 69—Bobby Locke, South African who holds the British Open title, Dan Rexford and Jimmy Demaret.

SERIES SIGN BILL ROCK

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton's baseball Eskimos announced Thursday the signing of veteran infielder Bill Rock of Toronto for 1953. Thirty - three - year - old Rock, formerly of Toronto Argonauts, had a fine season last year as Eskimos advanced to the Grey Cup final.

Glamorgan Wins Over Kent

LONDON (Reuters)—Glamorgan defeated Kent by an innings and 32 runs in a county championship cricket game Thursday.

Glamorgan hero was captain Wilf Wooller, who scored 38 and took 11 Kent wickets for 81 runs. He took the final Kent wicket seconds before a heavy storm broke over the ground.

Meanwhile, the Australian tourists continued their state-cricket tour with another innings victory, this time over Cambridge University.

Close-of-play scores Thursday in first-class matches:

Australians 383, Cambridge University 130 and 167. Australians won by an innings and 106 runs.

Lancashire 378, Sussex 136 and three for no wicket. Rain interfered play.

Nottinghamshire 365, Warwickshire 326 for three. Rain restricted play.

Middlesex 367 for seven declared and 12 for two. Derbyshire 301.

Oxford University 422 for nine declared, Yorkshire 75 for two. Rain restricted play.

Kent 81 and 143, Glamorgan 260 for nine declared. Glamorgan won by an innings and 32 runs.

Northamptonshire 344 for eight declared. Somerset 214 for three. Rain restricted play.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching: Jim Wilson, Milwaukee Braves, allowed only three hits, struck out six and walked no one in beating Pittsburgh 3-2.

Batting: Sherman Lollar, Chicago White Sox, hit a home run and two singles in four times up, drove in three runs and scored two as Chicago defeated New York 7-4.

And In The Morning

CHICAGO (AP)—The big guy sat there with fight writers swirling around him, ignoring him, leaving him looking lonesome in their midst.

He sat quietly, sipping refreshments, watching and waiting for a handshake, a pat on the back some kind of recognition.

Meanwhile, talk of tonight's Rocky Marciano-Jersey Joe Walcott showdown boomed throughout the room—a box biyz of more than 400 International Boxing Club guests.

Someone brushed against the big guy, looked down, and muttered: "Sorry, pal."

It set an onlooker to wondering. Some old fight champions enjoy fleeting fame, or it looked that way at this moment.

Then Herman Taylor, a Philadelphia promoter, reached over and pumped the ponderous guest's hand. Al Weill, Marciano's manager, also shook hands.

Felix Bocchicchio, Walcott's little pilot, piped: "Hello, there."

The spell was broken. Jim Braddock began to smile.

Vancouver Host To Jap Players

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver has been officially asked to be host to the Japan-United States Davis Cup team's tie July 9-11, it was announced Thursday.

Official confirmation of Vancouver as the site of the matches came in a telegram from Ahrich Nain, chairman of the U.S. Davis Cup committee, to Victor Denny, president of the Pacific Northwest Tennis Association.

The Japanese team decided to play on Vancouver grass courts rather than asphalt courts in Seattle, Wash.

Maritimes, Quebec Problems Tossed to Joint Committee

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The problem of the player who hadn't a hockey home was discussed Thursday by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association before it adjourned its 36th annual meeting.

The convention worried over these situations (1) players who are under contract to professional teams; (2) players who have signed only CAHA forms.

The problems concern the Maritime Major League, still a member of the parent body, and the Quebec Senior League, which has just decided to turn professional.

The whole thing was tossed over like a hot potato to the joint committee of the National Hockey League and the CAHA for settlement.

The final open meeting of the CAHA also made these decisions: British Columbia may re-enter the junior A series and Alberta cannot draw on its teams for three-run strengthening of its contenders in the national junior series.

Make Others Deathless

The matter of televising games was handed over to the parent body's executive for decision themselves. The meeting went on record with a suggestion that the CBC should put the national final game on the radio.

The question of the homeless player arose over the suspension last winter of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association. The branch and its clubs were reinstated at the annual meeting. The branch is apologizing for having defied the ruling of a junior player, Ron Aitwell.

Before it closed its deliberations, the players' point through president W. R. Georges of Kemptville, Ont., administered a verbal spanking to Frank Selke, managing director of the Montreal Forum and its professional and amateur teams.

Insisting that Selke had a hand in the Aitwell case, George said Selke hasn't been able to manipulate the CAHA to his liking. In a statement to Canadian Press last week in Montreal, Selke said he had never opposed any governing body in hockey and, in direct reference to the Aitwell case, "we won't recognize any special legislation aimed at disqualification of a certain player."

The financial statement of secretary-manager George Dudley of Midland, Ont., showed that the senior series—for the Allan Cup—netted more than $71,000 last season. Each club benefitted by $335 for each game it played. The junior series—for the Memorial Cup— netted more than $63,000 and the team participation was $425 for each game.

In accordance with established practice, officers were re-elected for a second one-year term.

Player Is Suspended

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Bionda, Toronto Marlboros' defenceman, has been suspended indefinitely by the Ontario Hockey Association for his part in a fight with Bill Sutherland of Oshawa Generals in the last game of the Memorial Cup series.

Bionda was ejected from the game by referee Bill Chadwick after he had been involved in a fight with Sutherland. Bionda refused to leave the penalty box and Chadwick had to call on the assistance of a policeman to get him off the ice.

Melchior Will Give Concert In Kingston

Lauritz Melchior, world's greatest heroic tenor, the first of the great names in music to enter the popular entertainment media of pictures, radio and television, has now created another "first-of-its-kind"....."The Lauritz Melchior Show," which will be heard and seen at the Kingston Community Centre the evening of May 21. This will mark the only appearance of this troupe in Ontario and it has created a tremendous amount of interest amongst music lovers, especially those in the singing field. Headlined by the popular leader, the entire company caters to a diversified appeal as their songs range from such operatic numbers as "Vesti La Giubba" to light opera and right down the scale into the popular tunes of the day.

Melchior, himself, appears as singer (both in full dress and in costume — as the ill-fated 'Pagliacci'), as actor, as bon vivant (in Maxim's from the 'Merry Widow'), and throughout the show, acts as Master of Ceremonies. The members of the company come stage front to sing singly, or in duets, quartets, trios and ensembles in the show that has been described as a "musical dinner," mixing as it does the heavy with the light.

The rest of the company, besides Melchior, contains such outstanding artists as soprano Augeline Collins; tenors Alan Wentzy and Dennis Lowe; bass Edward Williams and the duo-pianists, George Roth and Ted Saxon were the 1952 winners of the Federowicz Foundation Award.

Curtain time for the show has been set for eight-thirty o'clock.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, MAY 16, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—May be in for surging, perhaps troublesome, instances that could snowball into serious ones if you don't go easy, slow and calm.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Have no misgivings about how far you can go if you put your all into this splendid, encouraging period. Your intelligence should put you over the top.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Can any of us say, "We owe no one anything"? Wouldn't it be a wonderful world to live in—maybe! We must befriend the weak; take selfishness.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—Look, act hopeful and you will be more successful. Avoid impatient, too forceful aggression, if can be your undoing today. Romance rates in its turn.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—If you discharge duties with responsibility, and side-step emotions or self-centred attitude, you can make appreciable gains.

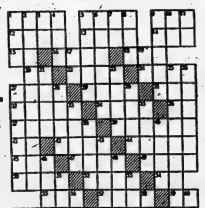
August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — First-ranking: Constructive undertakings, agriculture, economic needs, building, religious and labor-management conferences. Aim at harmony.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Avoid unwise speculation. Domestic interests ask alertness, and this does not mean "the other fellow"; it means all. Guard health needs.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—The unusual in business or personal affairs can be stimulating or just so-so. Get behind truly urgent causes, and you'll come out okay.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Best planetary period in the afternoon. Heart interests, domestic problems need more astute handling.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — May be new angles, better connections for increasing prestige. Disregard reports that "I'm told", or "it is said." They generally mean little.



January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Sort of day that will bring plenty of inner urge from you, plus smart thinking. Be accurate in word and deed and you can expect gains.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Using intuition well and taking advantage of useful, progressive circumstances, will assist in developing greater success. Personal gains highly favored now.

YOU BORN TODAY: A multitude of talents, likewise a few faults: unyielding disposition, too much greed, or disregard tend to spoil you. However steadfast you are grand achievement Taurus can make. Mind companionships; trust in God.

Birthdate of: Wm. H. Seward, statesman; Marg. Sullivan actress.

Discovery May Boost Life Of Lubricating Oil

OTTAWA (CP)—A new national research council discovery may boost the life of your car's lubricating oil many times—and prolong the life of the engine, too.

Brainchild of two NRC scientists, the discovery may help cut driving expenses. Instead of changing oil every 1,000 miles, you may be able to keep the old oil in the crankcase for 10,000 miles or more.

The same two scientists are also responsible for developing a new sand - based, high - temperature water-repelling grease that may be of particular value to military trucks and jet planes and high-speed factory machines. Both discoveries were announced Thursday.

The council said the secret of the oil discovery is in the insertion of the right amount of certain chemicals or metals into the oil stream, thus breaking up molecules that gradually destroys the properties of ordinary hydro-carbon oil.

Scientists said organic acids which increase this oxidation also harm the villain that oil robs the engine's parts, corroding piston, crankcase and other metallic parts.

After years of research, the two scientists—Dr. I. E. Puddington and Dr. J. F. Strilaeul—found that the chemical villains can be hit hard by adding lithium, sodium, potassium, magnesium, or their salts and oxides.

In this the required metal could be attached inside the oil plug, or the protective material could be built into the oil filter, they said. Previous tests have solved a double problem—grease which can stand up to heat but not water, and grease which can stand up to water but not heat.

The two scientists decided to concentrate on sand or silica gel which stood up to high temperatures but was water-vulnerable. To make the grease water-repellant, they added silicone oil, one of Canada's big exports. When the mixture is heated, the drying oil forms a water-repelling protective cover over the grease particles.

Better Stay Away From Shibuya District

TOKYO (AP)—Unless you're an expert at Judo or have millionaire dollars to spending spree, you'd better shy away from Shibuya, the stronghold of Tokyo's gay nineties girls.

About 200 cabarets cluster within a few narrow blocks in the Shibuya district. These establishments hire about 1,000 girls to go out in the streets and pick up guests—for-eign and native.

Each of the girls has a manual of field tactics giving instructions on how to get customers. It's not a gentle art. A sample text from the field manual:

"When you pick him up, crowd him from the rear, seize his right arm, then yell and pull the stunned man up without allowing him to make the least resistance."

The captive "guests" usually are relieved after being separated of all their money. Sometimes, watches, coats, hats and other valuables are held—supposedly to pay for their bills.

The bills are fantastic and are quickly swollen by the hungry and thirsty girls. It's not unusual for a "guest's" bill to reach $100 after an hour or so of this sort of thing.

COURTESY VISIT

ISTANBUL (Reuters)—Lord Ismay, secretary - general of the North - Atlantic Treaty Organization, arrived here from Athens Thursday on a courtesy visit to Turkey. Diplomatic observers believed he might also discuss aspects of the country's defence, including the possibility of including Italy in the treaty of friendship between Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia, due to be ratified here May 18.

Principal Thinks Empire Day 'Lot of Baloney'

WINNIPEG (CP)— A Winnipeg school principal, who said in a history letter to the editor, thinks Empire Day is "a lot of baloney."

He is J. W. Chafe, 55-year-old principal of Alexander School and author of several Canadian text-books on history.

Mr. Chafe felt so strongly on the subject that in a speech Friday to the Canadian Club observed to celebrate Empire Day, he took pot shots at the present conceptions of the Empire and talked instead of Canada.

"Empire Day is "as dated as the penny-farthing bicycle and the bustle," said Mr. Chafe, who, along with Dr. A. R. M. Lower of Queen's University, wrote "Canada, a Nation," which is used by most provinces.

He also is the author of "Canada, Your Country," used at the grade 6 and 7 level, and "Early Life in Canada," for grade 8 students.

In his address to the some 250 students in the school, Mr. Chafe said:

Set Up Own Heaven

"There upon a time there was a fat: jolly man named John Bull, who had seven fine children and also a number of small ones.

"When the children grew up, their father said to the half-dozen oldest children: 'You are men now, set up your own homes.'

"And Canada, that is, Canada's leaders, had the war and can be proud of what has been done since becoming a nation.

He said "Canadians have no pride in their country . . . and it's time they did."

Asked for comment, W. G. Coventry, United Kingdom trade commissioner in Winnipeg, agreed Mr. Chafe was "quite right in some ways" but that the Empire is almost non-existent.

Angry Charges At New Recess In Peace Talks

MUNSAN (AP)—The Korean armistice talks recessed until Wednesday at 11 o'clock (Belleville today) after another stormy exchange over UN-Red Cross prisoner plans to end the long prisoner exchange deadlock.

The Communists angrily accused UN negotiators of destroying the "basis" of the talks. Chief delegate called on them to "withdraw this absurd proposal."

Maj.-Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., charged the Reds with trying "to coerce us into accepting your return to unwanted masters."

Harrison called for a recess for the three-day recess for "administrative reasons." He declined to elaborate.

Observers pointed out the recess would provide an opportunity for top-level conferences at a time when criticism of the U. S. position is building up in the free world countries.

The U. S. state department Friday night took the unusual step of issuing a formal statement declaring the "fundamental, humanitarian principle" of letting prisoners of the Korean war choose whether they will go home.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Areas of rain and showers from Ohio southward to the Gulf of Mexico and is slowly spreading northeastward. Most of Ontario will be sunny today but weak-end tonight will be spoiled by rain which threatens to cover all of southern Ontario by tomorrow. However a spell of sunshine is expected Sunday.

A disturbance moving southward across Northern Ontario will bring showers to the north country today. However, skies will rapidly clear behind the disturbance and Sunday is expected to be a fine day.

Temperatures will be near normal throughout the province today, Saturday and Sunday reaching the high 60s in the south and the low 60s in the north.

By MILO FARNETH

SEOUL (AP)—Allied Sabre jets blasted at least 11 Communist MiGs from the North Korean sky and damaged six others today in one of their greatest victories over the ever-growing Red fleet.

Each of the three top United States aces flying in Korea scored at least one.

Today's bag was the biggest since Sept. 23, September when the Sabres destroyed 13 MiGs and damaged four. The record was set last July 4 when Allied pilots shot down 13 MiGs, probably destroyed one and damaged seven.

Capt. Manuel Fernandez of Miami, Fla., downed his 14th MiG today to regain his position as the world's top ranking jet ace. Only a few hours earlier Capt. Joseph McConnell of Apple Valley, Calif., had destroyed his 15th MiG to tie Fernandez temporarily.

Capt. James Jabara of Wichita, Kan., the first U.S. ace in the Korean war, bagged his first MiG since returning to Korea for his second tour of duty. Jabara now has seven MiGs.

Battle is On

The suddenly stepped-up tempo of the aerial war was matched on the ground where Communist and Chinese slammed into Allied lines in three sectors and were driven off by tough South Korean infantry, U.S. Marines and Australian fighting. Allied troops backed by heavy tank artillery fire, cut up a force of Reds trying to infiltrate.

Front-line reports said 1,300 Reds were killed or wounded in the fighting on the sector east of Seoul, where Greek troops of the United Nations force in the sector east of Seoul, where Greek troops of the United Nations force in the same general area, but were beaten off in two hours of fighting by forces of the U.S. 3rd division.

The Americans counted 152 Reds killed or wounded.

Another 206 Communist casualties were inflicted by South Korean troops when three companies of Chinese—some 500 men—assaulted Sniper Ridge in the Kumsong area on Triangle hill.

Allied officers said there was nothing to indicate the attacks were co-ordinated. Some said they probably were made by troops assigned to kill UN troops. Allied officers said the Communists are trying to get the front-line troops to end the long prisoner exchange deadlock.

The Communists angrily accused UN negotiators of destroying the "basis" of the truce talks and recessed peace talks for three days, a recess welcomed by some Allied troops by loudspeakers.

"Come on over. We're having a big dance tonight."

Attacks by 'Invisible Werewolf' On Girl Baffle Doctors, Judges

MANILA (Reuters)—A sharp-toothed, invisible "werewolf" which has been plaguing a 20-year-old taxi dancer for the last week put on its act Friday before an audience of doctors and judges, police reported.

The girl was asked to sketch a likeness of the black-colored, winged-human she claims to see when the attacks are on her. She began to draw, toothmarks appeared on her fingers and blood flowed. Police said they found fresh marks on her arm and fingernail imprints on her throat. The chief police surgeon, however, still remained unconvinced her case as epilepsy, said he would reverse a previous statement that the bites were self-inflicted.

Police women spiritualists present went into a trance to make contact with "the devil inside her," but the "werewolf" refused to talk.

A Manila judge acquitted the girl of murdering her sister, but released—on the charge of vagrancy and against her will—on Aug. 26, 1952. She was freed from the prison hospital until investigators have time to study the mysterious bite attacks.

The first screamed out four nights ago that she was being bitten. Next day she was carried from the jail to hospital shrieking that a "Pontila" was attacking her. Tooth marks covered both her arms.

Police said they saw eight new bite marks appear on her arm and appeared to be saliva. As the girl cried out in pain and fear, more marks appeared.

CZECHS RELEASE U.S. NEWSMAN JAILED AS SPY

Held Over Two Years, Release Is Surprise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A poignant appeal from his wife led Czechoslovak authorities to release AP correspondent William N. Oatis from his prison sentence, Moscow announced today.

The U.S. state department confirmed it was officially advised of plans for Oatis' release from the Prague prison cell he entered in July, 1951, to serve a 10-year sentence on espionage charges Washington denounced as a frameup.

Ambassador Gerhard A. Gesell, U.S. high commission official announced Oatis left Prague today on his way to Western freedom.

The official said the U.S. Embassy in Prague telephoned him that Oatis left the Czech capital by auto about 10:30 a.m. (5:30 a.m. EDT).

Wife's Appeal

Mrs. Oatis sent the appeal last December to Klement Gottwald, then president of Czechoslovakia, and Vaclav Kopecky, who had been a simple plea for mercy and sent an end to his bitterly unhappy situation in which neither she, William and I are entrapped.

"Nothing more than we wanted to spend our lives together. Yet the fact is that I am alone then and seems to me now," he added, "that the analysis which leading American statesmen made at the end of war in the world was shallow and superficial and that it was quite correct to say that revolutionary upheavals which have harassed for our lifetime and certainly place the end of the last war are a direct consequence of the unjust and pitiful ripping of the Kremlin."

Other Letter Known

Gottwald's letter also criticized U. S. foreign policy and took passing potshots at McCarthy.

John Foster Dulles, U.S. secretary of state, explained the decision to release Oatis when Ambassador Belle Oatis observed:

"I'm so deeply grateful."

Moscow's announcement was broadcast in foreign news page of Pravda. It said:

"The Czechoslovak news agency is informed that the chairman of the Czechoslovak republic William Siroky has granted a petition by Oatis, a citizen of the United States and a former correspondent of The Associated Press in Prague. William Oatis on July 4, 1951, was exposed by the state court in Prague for espionage and other anti-state activities and was sentenced to deprival of freedom for 10 years.

"In November, 1952, the wife of William Oatis appealed to him through the Czechoslovak embassy in Washington, and a letter to the president of the Czechoslovak republic with a request for pardoning. On the basis of this letter the chairman of the Czechoslovak news agency for the president of the republic has granted pardon."

Commonwealth in War to End With Over 31,000 in Action

Is Assurance of Commander

By STAN CARTER

TOKYO (AP)—The commander of the 1st Commonwealth Division in Korea said today he was sure Commonwealth soldiers would continue to do their part in Korea as long as he stayed.

Asked at a press conference to comment on United States Senator Joseph McCarthy's, asserting that Britain was threatening to withdraw from the Korean war, Lt. Gen. Henry Wells said:

No Threats

"I shouldn't think there was the slightest substance to it.

"While the decision is on in Korea I shouldn't think there would be any question of it at all.

"I think you'll find us pulling our weight in the line."

Wells said 31,250 Commonwealth troops are fighting in Korea and Commonwealth supply lines in Japan. Among them is the 25th Canadian Brigade of almost 6,000 men.

He said Commonwealth soldiers are making preparations for next winter's campaign and he is sure they would not let up until a truce is actually signed. He said mere stability.

indications that a Korean armistice is being prepared on the Allied side to call a halt to the preparations. All Greased Troops

Wells also does not include navy or air forces.

He declined to comment on speculation that British would ask to be represented on the Allied truce team at Panmunjon.

He said Britain and the 37 other countries fighting on the Allied side in Korea have delegated the United Nations command to lead them, just as Australia—because of its geographical nearness—is the Commonwealth's effort in Korea.

He said the UN command is ready to "go on fighting" if called upon gladly".

Wells, just returned from a visit to Korea, said the Commonwealth Division is in fine shape and that morale is high.

He said plans for withdrawal of Commonwealth forces from Korea in the event of an armistice had not been made. But he said the various countries of the Commonwealth are discussing the pos-

Row Heals Labor Party Rift As Left-Wingers Back Attlee, UK Press Tones Down Attacks

By REYNOLDS TOPPING

Spearheaded by fiery Aneurin Bevan, the leftist faction took the floor in Parliament and in meetings throughout England to swipe at U. S. foreign policy.

Labor MP Tom Driberg lambasted McCarthy and backed both Attlee's stand and Prime Minister-East-West conference. He spoke during a debate in Commons over a left-wing Socialist demand that Britain permit penicillin and other drugs in Red China, repeating Churchill government spurned the demand.
